The concert opened with a short address by Mr. Hampden Burnham, in which the life of Verdi, and the characteristics of his compositions, were pleasantly set forth, and put the audience in a receptive mood. The programme included six numbers, covering the entire gamut of motive and emotion of Verdi's works. It is impracticable to deal with each in detail. The unstinted recalls, and the demand for encores, showed that the people were delighted, as they had every reason to be. The first selection was from Ernani, followed by the "Anvil Chorus" from Il Travatore. The trio and chorus from "Attila" was delightful in the way the finished balance and smooth work of the band brought out its rich harmonies. If one were forced to elect the choice for excellence in the way of executive treatment would rest between the introduction to La Traviata and the "Reminiscences." In the former the solo work of the emphonium and the accompaniments by the band of the "Ah che la Morte" movement, was beautifully tasteful, tuneful and artistic, though this same movement recurring in the "Reminiscences," where the cornet took the solo, was perhaps more brilliant, but perhaps less in sympathy with the mournful motive of the passage. The two numbers referred to were the best work of the evening, though he would be hard to please who took exception, in respect of a single number.

The vocal section of the concert was also delightful. Miss Helen Davies made her debut in operatic music, and without exaggeration, she scored a very distinct triumph. Her selection was "Ernani, Ernani involami." Miss Davies is the possessor of a fresh young voice, elastic and sweet, and the ease and good effect with which she overcame the exacting vocal demands of the selection would have done credit to many an experienced operatic artist. Her striking success in this difficult number, the feeling and expression she infused into it, are all the more remarkable in that she was not assisted by costume, pantomine—so important an element in operatic singing — nor the scenic entourage and general aura which pervades the stage when grand opera is presented. Miss Davies has a future of great promise. When one recollects that she is a girl in her teens, only on the verge of vocal development, one can easily fancy the success she will achieve with the years of training that have gone to the making of our great artists. Miss Davies was enthusiastically encored, and sang with very fine taste an Irish lullaby. Mrs. K. Bardley Wilmot sang with such marked success "Forget and Forgive," as to be honoured with the rare recognition of a double encore, to which she responded with a very finished singing of "Sing me to Sleep," and "The Sweetest Flower that Grows." Mrs. Wilmot has a rich voice, admirably used; her general method is excellent, and she fully deserved the flattering reception she received last night. A word of very warm praise is due to the excellent and sympathetic accompaniments furnished by Miss Alice Roger, to the vocal selections.

Altogether the Fifty-Seventh's "Verdi Night" was a very gratifying success, and it is entitled to double recognition. Their performance throughout was a revelation to the public of the splendid work they can do in developing a taste and appreciation of music of a higher order. The band has done a distinct good work in contributing so largely to the elevation of the standard of musical taste. The band did not work so much for financial as artistic success, but their aims were, it is a pleasure to say, met in both cases. When one takes the trouble to understand the great amount of work and practice involved in the production of a programme like that of last night, in a most creditably artistic manner, one can but admire the enthusiasm and musical esprit of the organization, individually and collectively, whose possession promises greater things in the future, and places Mr. Gliddon and his band higher than ever in popular favour.

A LETTER FROM SANTA CLAUS.

My Dear Little Boys and Girls,—

I am back at the old Stand with my pack full of the most interesting Christmas gifts. You'll find me in the Children's section of the Peterborough Bookstore.

I made so many friends here that I wish to meet you all once more, just to give you a bow or a handshake, and to show you the great pile of gifts I have been making for you since last Christmas.. You ought to come and take one peep into my sack. Oh! it's a wonderful storehouse, this pack of mine. My workshop is away up at the North Pole where the explorers are trying to get. Up there the nights are long—as long as the months are here, but by the light of the stars I work at my bench with millions of little fairies and busy little elves to help me.

You ought to see my doll factory, girls! It is the greatest shop of all.

Come in and see me when you get a chance and bring your mamma and papa along—I have presents for them too. Good-bye till I see you. You'll find me on the main floor at the back, next to Chambers street. Your loving friend,

Santa Claus.

Now at the Peterborough Bookstore

PETERBOROUGH LOSES A POPULAR CLERGYMAN.

Rev. W. L. Armitage, Rector of All Saints', Going to Picton.

Leaves in January—Has Been Here for Seven Years—Short Sketch of a Bright Career.

Yesterday's Examiner contained a short article stating that Rev. W. L. Armitage leaves Peterborough in about one month's time to succeed Rev. Canon Loucks as vicar of Mary Magdalene's church, Picton, and it is thought that a short sketch of his career would not be out of place to-day.

The present rector of All Saints' Anglican church, was born in Kincardine, Bruce county, and was educated at the Kincardine High School, under the tuition of that well known English gentleman, the late Benjamin Freer, B.A., who was afterwards appointed principal of the Church School in Toronto. On graduating from school Rev. W. L. Armitage took a course at the Huron College and Western University, London, entering on January 24th, 1891. Although beginning his college course in the middle of the term, Rev. Mr. Armitage succeeded in carrying off the third scholarship in June, and on graduating stood first in his examinations, taking as high as 98 per cent., and coming within 86 marks of sweeping all the papers submitted. He was ordained deacon in June, 1894, and priest the following year. For more than two years he was curate of the Memorial church, London, and came to Peterborough in December, 1896, as curate; at which time All Saints' church, such as it was, was the "mission," in connection with St. John's. On January 22nd, 1902, Rev. W. L. Armitage was formally inducted by His Lordship, the Bishop of Toronto, as rector of the newly organized parish of All Saints.

During Mr. Armitage's regime, the Sunday school attendance has been increased by over 150 scholars, and overflows the basement, necessitating the use of the body of the church for the accommodation of the classes. The number of regular communicants has been considerably more than doubled, and some one hundred and twenty-six have been confirmed. Concerning the finances all that need be said is that they are in a very satisfactory state.

Rev. W. L. Armitage is at present the secretary of the Deanery of Northumberland, secretary of the Archdeaconry of Peterborough, and Past Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Canada, A.F and A.M.

Since coming to Peterborough seven years ago, Rev. Mr. Armitage has become extremely popular with the members of his congregation, as well as those of other denominations, with the professional and business men of the town, and with the younger men of the town, as evidenced in his having been chaplain of the hockey and curling clubs.

In conclusion there is no doubt that what is Peterborough's loss will be Picton's gain, and it is equally certain that in Peterborough Rev. W. L. Armitage has done a work among men which will ever continue to bear fruit.

MR. N. T. LaPLANTE WRITES OPEN LETTER

To Mayor Roger on the Street Lighting Contract.

A Statement in Reply Made by the Mayor—He Answers the Question.

G. M. Roger, Mayor of Peterborough:

Sir,—I notice that the by-law respecting the lighting of the streets of the town lately passed by the council has been set aside and quashed by Mr. Justice Meredith on the ground that it was an attempt to give the Peterborough Light and Power Company a bonus of $14,000 more for lighting the streets of the town than the Otonabee Power Company were willing to supply the same electric current for. I am advised that a number of the aldermen who voted for this by-law swore that the street railway by-law had no connection with the Peterborough Light and Power Company and that Mr. Robert Stuart and the American Cereal Company nor any of its members had not one dollar's worth of interest in the Radial Railway Company. These statements are not in accordance with the statements made by you and your fellow councillors in the council at the time of the passing of these by-laws. In fact, one of the Aldermen expressly stated in the council that this extra price of $14,000 was being given to the Peterborough Light and Power Company in which the members of the Cereal Company or some of them have the great majority of the stock, in order that Mr. Robert Stuart would be induced to build and operate the street railway. The ratepayers of the town would like a very clear statement from you before any action is taken in respect to this matter as to what you now claim are the facts.

Is it true that you are still secretary of the Radial Railway Company, and if not, when did you you resign that position?

I notice by the advertisement that was inserted in the newspaper that Mr. E. H. D. Hall was one of the solicitors who made the application to the Legislature for the charter of the Radial Railway Company in 1903. Is Mr. E. H. D. Hall still solicitor for the Radial Railway Company and if not when did he cease to be their solicitor?

Are you still the solicitor for the Dickson Company whose members are interested in selling their charter to Mr. Robert Stuart, and if not, when did you cease to be their solicitor?

Is it true that Mr. Robert Stuart or someone in his behalf put up the deposit of $5,000 in the hands of the town to insure the carrying out of the Radial Railway by-law, and if not, who made this deposit?

If this deposit of $5,000 was put up on behalf of the railway company to guarantee the carrying out of their contract, and there is no connection between these two companies on what grounds, may I ask, do you and the members of the council who voted for the lighting by-law, justify your attempt to give the Peterborough Light and Power Company $14,000 more for lighting the streets of the town than the Otonabee Power Company were willing to do it for?

I understand by your oath of office that you solemnly declare that you will well and faithfully administer the affairs of the town impartially. Why should you, as one of the sworn trustees of this town seek to pay $14,000 more for street lighting than it can be obtained for?

It would be interesting to the ratepayers who are paying for this light to have a full, candid and clear answer to these several questions before any further action is taken by a dying council?

I certainly feel that a very important bargain should not be entered into without the consent of those who are to pay.

If the ratepayers of Peterborough are anxious to give a bonus to obtain a street railway, why should not you and the members of your council take them into your confidence and submit a by-law to that effect? They will have to pay for it. Why should anyone's hands be allowed in an underhand way to take money out of the pockets of the ratepayers without their consent or without their knowledge, if it is possible to do it?

A member of the Radial Railway Co. swore on his examination that Mr. Robert Stuart had not one dollar's worth of interest in the Radial Railway Company, nor had any member of the Cereal Company any interest in it.

Is it true that the council have granted a thirty years' franchise to the same interests that ran the old street railway under the ground?

Yours truly,
N. T. LAPLANTE.
Peterborough, Dec. 18th, 1903.

On being shown the above letter by a contemporary, before publication, Mayor Roger stated to the Examiner in reply:—

"This is the first I have seen or heard of this letter, as the writer has failed to do me the courtesy of communicating with me before publication.

"Some of the statements are true, some are untrue, of some I have no knowledge, and others are the matters of argument and inference which have been urged on behalf of the Otonabee Power Company, whose letter it no doubt is.

"While willing enough to answer for myself, I cannot undertake, as is desired of me, to answer for eleven members of Council, and what each said or swore to, nor for all the other persons and interests involved.

"I have been acting as Solicitor for The Dickson Company, and at times for the Radial Railway Company, but though a holder of some trust stock in the latter, I have never at any time, had any personal financial interest either in it or in any of the other Companies in question.

"Before presentation to Council of the propositions as to the Street lighting and the resuscitation of the Street Railway, an option had been obtained at the instance of Mr. Robert Stuart, but in the name of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, from the Radial Railway Company for the purchase of the plant, franchise, charter, etc., of it, and the old street railway. That option has expired and been renewed and expired again and so stands, I believe, at the present moment, but is no doubt available when matters are ready for consummation.

"The $5,000 deposit was, I understand, put up by Mr. Stuart.

"I do not believe that satisfactory street lighting can be obtained for $1,400 per year less than our by-laws provided for, and the chances are that it will cost considerably more if that contract is allowed to drop.

"I was not present, and did not hear the argument upon motion to quash the bylaws, nor the judgment, but I understand the discussions turned on technical points and not on the merits, and that the Judge gave leave to amend on the only point which he considered objectionable in the street railway bylaw, and as to the street lighting bylaw, stated that while he felt obliged to quash it, he saw no legal obstacle to the council immediately re-passing it. What further course the council may be disposed to take, will no doubt be influenced by the report of their solicitor, which has not yet been presented."

WERE ENTERTAINED BY MRS. WHEELER.

Employees of Canadian Cordage Manufacturing Company Spent Pleasant Evening.

On Wednesday and Thursday nights Mrs Wm Wheeler, (nee Miss Gertie McCabe,) 29 Division street, entertained her former fellow employees in the Canadian Cordage and Manufacturing Company's Works, when two very pleasant evenings were spent.

At the time of severing her connection with the Cordage Works, prior to her marriage, the manager and employees of the Company presented Mrs. Wheeler with a beautiful chafing dish and silver spoon, accompanied by the following address:—

Miss Gertie McCabe,

Dear Friend,—It is with deep regret that we learn of your departure from among us and not to see your smiling countenance flitting through the mill, makes each one of us feel that we have lost one who was a friend and a help to us all.

Your place of employment was one of obscurity in one sense and then in another, it was a place of great importance, as in all lines of business and even in social life, the testing time comes. As a friend we will miss you, and as a help in time of accident we will doubly miss her, who was ever a kind and gentle nurse.

Still with our loss, is attached another gain. Your future has had a foundation well constructed and it is the hope of one and all that it may be to you a long and happy life.

Kindly on behalf of all, accept this small token of good will, friendship and good wishes for the future.

Yours sincerely,

PARK STREET MISSION BAND HOLD CONCERT,

Young People Give an Enjoyable Programme of Recitations, etc.

The members of Park street Baptist Mission Band presented to a crowded church last night a very enjoyable programme, consisting of recitations, dialogues, solos and choruses. Previous to the concert, the members of the Band were served tea in the Sunday school room. At the public entertainment held afterwards, Rev. A. H. Greco, the pastor, presided, and in addition to the programme presented by the children, addresses on the work accomplished by the Band were given by Miss Mann, President, and Miss Bertha Mowry, Vice-President. The report of the work of the year was presented by Miss Nellie Hudson, and was highly satisfactory. It showed that the Band had held monthly meetings and donations had been sent to the various Mission fields, and a valuable educational work is being prosecuted among the young people.

The members of the Band took great delight in presenting their portion of the evening's programme, and the proficiency attained gave evidence of careful preparation.

TO COOK A TASTY SUNDAY DINNER.

Cornelia C. Bedford, Former Principal of New York Cooking School, Tells How.

For many of our readers—women as well as men—Sunday is the one day in the week on which they can sit down to a cosy home dinner. Every now and then discussions are raised by philanthropic or religiously inclined people regarding the propriety of serving a hot dinner on that day because of the labour involved. While it may, with propriety, be omitted in families all of whose members dine at home daily, it seems unfair to the week-day office toilers to place before them a cold dinner. Planning and preparing ahead will ensure a hot meal which calls for but little labour on Sunday, as the following menu will show:

Clear Tomato Soup.
Crown of Pork. Brown Gravy.
Apple Sauce.
Mashed Potatoes and Turnips.
Moulded Spinach.
Celery Salad. Cheese Wafers.
Fig Corn Starch Pudding.
Coffee.

On Saturday purchase two entire ribs of pork from a young animal and have the butcher trim and put them together to form a crown, the cleaned rib bones turned outward and upward and a four-inch strip of the lacy intestinal fat laid around the outside before tying. Wrap and tie the end of each rib bone in greased paper and stand in the cold pantry.

In a saucepan put the thin portion of two cans of tomatoes—a full quart—add one cupful of boiling water, two cloves, one-quarter of an onion and a sprig of parsley, and simmer twenty minutes. Season well with salt and pepper, and strain without pressing through double cheese cloth. Return to the fire, add ten drops of kitchen bouquet and thicken slightly with one tablespoonful of arrowroot or cornstarch mixed with cold water. When it boils cool quickly and set away.

Make at least a quart of apple sauce, using tart apples, adding enough water to keep from burning, and when tender pass through a sieve. Do not make too sweet.

Trim and wash thoroughly one-half peck of spinach. Its low growth means sandy leaves and we have frequently found seven waters needed to thoroughly cleanse it. Have ready a large pot two-thirds full of rapidly boiling salted water. Put the drained spinach in this and boil for twenty minutes. Turn into a colander, press out every drop of water and chop fine. While still warm season with salt and pepper and work into it a large tablespoonful of butter, then press into a mould; if the if the latter is of metal turn out in about five minutes on an agate or earthen dish—if a bowl is used it need not be disturbed till next day. Put the unbeaten white of an egg (from the salad dressing) into a shallow buttered dish and steam until firm; this is to be used for garnishing.

Pick over and wash a half pound of figs. Put them into a saucepan with one cupful of water, cover and cook very slowly until the figs are plump and tender but unbroken. Lay aside six or eight of the largest and with a sharp knife cut the remainder in stripe. To the juice add one-third of a cupful of sugar, boil up for a moment, add a half teaspoonful of vanilla, pour over the reserved figs, cover and put in the pantry. Scald a pint of milk in a double boiler; mix together four level tablespoonfuls of corn-starch, one-third of a tablespoonful of salt, three tablespoonfuls of sugar and one-third of a cupful of cold milk. Turn out quickly into the hot milk, stir until thick and smooth, cover and cook for forty-five minutes. Have a mould filled with cold water. Drain but do not dry. Arrange some of the cut figs in the bottom. Add one teaspoonful of vanilla to the cooked corn-starch and pour into the mould, sprinkling in gradually the remainder of the figs, then set away.

There are many who do not like olive oil, yet like salads, and for such we suggest a cooked dressing. Put the yolks of two eggs into a bowl or small saucepan, beat and add four table-spoonfuls of water and two of plain or tarragon vinegar, one-half of a teaspoonful of salt, one-third of a teaspoonful of white pepper and a speck of dry mustard. Stand over hot water and stir until very thick; lift off frequently for a moment to lessen the danger of curdling. Add one large tablespoonful of butter cut into bits, stir until absorbed and strain into a bowl. When cold it should be almost solid. Order half a pint of heavy cream to be used for it and the pudding. Cut open the celery, wash all the tender white stalks, roll in a wet cloth, hold under the tap for a moment, then wrap in heavy paper and set away where it will not freeze. Salad greens kept in this manner will retain their crispness for two days or more. Order also a package of cheese wafers from the grocer.

At any convenient time during the day pare the potatoes and leave in cold water for the night. Unless a strongly flavoured dish is wanted, one large yellow turnip will be sufficient; if too, can be pared, but should be placed in a separate bowl of water.

With so much done on Saturday the Sunday work will be light. Rub the pork with salt, pepper and a very little powdered sage and place on a rack in the dripping pan. Allow twenty-five minutes to the pound, for pork should be thoroughly cooked. Have the oven hot and baste frequently with the fat in the pan mixed with a little boiling water. When done transfer to a hot platter, pour off part of the fat in the pan and place the latter on top of the range. Dredge in a tablespoonful or two of flour and stir until browned, add gradually sufficient boiling water to make a nice gravy and boil for three minutes, then strain into a boat.

While the meat is roasting boil the potatoes and turnips separately; the latter will cook more quickly and emit less odor if cut in slices or small dice. Place the spinach in a steamer where it will be piping hot by the time the dinner is ready. From the cooked white of egg stamp out stars, crescents or other fancy shapes; if you have no cutters use a knife and cut in diamonds or triangles. Whip the cream—it should be very rich and thick—to a solid froth and the other white of egg until stiff and dry. To the thick dressing add four tablespoonfuls of the whipped cream; reserve one-third of the mixture and slightly thin the remainder with lemon juice or vinegar. Mix with the dried and cut celery, arrange in the salad dish, spread with the reserved portion and garnish with some blanched leaf tufts.

To the remainder of the whipped cream add the beaten egg white and slowly whip with it the fig syrup. Turn out the pudding and garnish with the drained whole figs. Put the soup on to heat. Drain and mash together the potatoes and turnips, adding salt, pepper and butter. Carefully transfer the hot spinach to a serving dish and garnish with the cut white of egg. If at all soft place the cheese wafers in the open oven for a moment or so to crisp.

Coffee must be made at the last moment, and it should be strong, hot and clear. Allow one tablespoonful finely ground and one cupful of water for each person, place the coffee in the upper part of a drip coffee pot, and pour, a little at a time, the boiling water through it.

Blood Starvation

Blood that is starved because it has lost the capacity for absorbing oxygen; thin blood which has not been properly nourished; weak blood which has lost the power to repair waste and build new tissue; blood that is lacking in red corpuscles — all show that a reconstructor is urgently needed, and that without delay.

Ferrol is the most powerful regenerator of the blood known to medical science, because it contains the very constituents of rich, healthy blood, in a form so palatable and easily digested that even an infant can take and assimilate it without difficulty.

A GRAIN TRADE CRISIS.

A Western Trade Paper's Opinion of the Working of the Grain Act.

(Winnipeg Commercial, Nov. 28.)

Another crisis has been reached in the grain trade of Manitoba and the west. The difficulty is the direct outcome of the unwarranted legislative interference with commercial conditions. The present demoralized situation in the western grain trade is not a surprise to those at all familiar with the conditions under which the trade is conducted. Indeed it is the inevitable which has happened. The Commercial long ago pointed out exactly what would be the result of an attempt to enforce the unreasonable restrictions which were then proposed, and which have since been put into effect. It will be simply impossible to handle the grain crop of Western Canada in anything like reasonable time, if the enforcement of recent legislation in regard to the distribution of cars is continued in effect. The law is unfair to the grain shippers, unfair to the railway companies, and unfair to the large majority of farmers, who are compelled by force of circumstances to ship their grain through or sell to the elevators. It is utterly unreasonable to expect any railway company to promptly supply cars for handling the crops while labouring under the disadvantages imposed by this legislation. It is unreasonable to expect dealers to continue buying grain when they have been deprived of the means of shipping the stuff by legislative interference with natural trade conditions. Under the existing legislation the elevator owner is in the same position as each individual farmer. The elevator owner may require a full train of cars, but he must wait till possibly 150 farmers who have orders in, are each served with one car before he can get a car.

It can be readily shown how this regulation is accountable for the car shortage. Under the old system a train load of cars would be sent out of Winnipeg, say over one of the branch lines in the morning, and these cars would be distributed to the elevators along the line. By the time the locomotive had reached the end of the line these cars would be loaded with wheat. The engine could return almost immediately and pick up the loaded cars. Under the present system the cars would be distributed to individual farmers. Instead of having the cars loaded in a few minutes, as they could be if given to the elevators, the farmer is allowed 24 hours to load, after he is notified that the car is at his disposal. The railway company must notify the farmer that the car is ready for him, which, is in itself, an unreasonable obligation, and one which must cause great delays, as many of the farmers reside some distance from the railway. Then after this notification, the farmer can wait 24 hours, and then perhaps decide that he will not load the car at all. The next applicant on the list is then entitled to the car, and the same routine of notification and waiting for the loading is repeated. To expect the railway companies to handle the grain trade of the west on this basis at all expeditiously is altogether unreasonable. The result is that railway traffic has been greatly delayed, and the entire trade of the country has been made to suffer.

As regards the elevators, it seems unfair that the shipper who is prepared to handle expeditiously 5,000 or 10,000 or more bushels of wheat per day from each elevator, should be placed on the same basis as each individual farmer who decides to load a car and take on an average, say, two days to do it in. Taking into consideration the time lost in notifying the farmers, and the subsequent delays in loading the average time occupied in loading cars in this way will probably be about two days.

The law works a hardship to the majority of farmers, who are naturally compelled to use the elevators. Many reside too far from the railway station to be in a position to load a car, or they have not sufficient of one grade to make a car lot. As the elevator is practically put out of business by the restrictive legislation, the farmers who are depending on the elevator are obliged to suffer inconvenience and loss.

It may sound very nice in theory, to say that the farmers who wish to load their grain direct should be given cars. But it is a condition and not a theory we have to face. The effect of trying to enforce this theory by legislation has been to compel 75 per cent. of the farmers, who wish to use the elevators, to wait, while 25 per cent. ship their grain by the slow process of direct loading. Meanwhile trade is demoralized and the commercial interests are compelled to suffer. Occasionally legislation may be necessary to correct abuses in trade, but as a rule the less legislative interference we have with normal trade conditions the better. In the case under discussion legislative interference has only resulted in bringing about a very serious situation.

The grain handling system of Western Canada is undoubtedly not equalled anywhere else in the world. It is a sytem which is admirably adapted to the requirements of the country, and which provides for the rapid handling of a vast quantity of grain during the short period between the harvesting of the crop and the close of navigation. Legislation which will cripple this system and retard its natural development cannot but be regarded as unwise.

Comfort for the Aged.

PLUM PUDDING.

Plain Directions For Making This Christmas Luxury.

Place in a vessel one pound of beef kidney suet, very dry, free from fibers and chopped very fine; one pound of seeded Malaga raisins; one pound of currants, cleaned and washed in plenty of water; one pound of bread crumbs, sifted through a sieve; a quarter of a pound of lemon peel, chopped very fine; one pound of powdered sugar, four tablespoonfuls of flour, a quarter of an ounce of nutmeg and allspice, a pint of brandy and six eggs.

Mix the whole well together. Dip a strong cloth in cold water and wring it out to extract all the moisture. Spread it open on a table and butter it liberally with butter softened to the consistency of cream. Dredge over with sifted flour and shake the cloth to remove any excess of the flour that failed to adhere to the butter. Lay in the center of the cloth the prepared mixture. Form it in the shape of a ball and raise up the edges of the cloth, bringing the four ends together all around, so as to inclose the preparation well, then tighten and tie firmly.

Have on the fire a high saucepan three-quarters full of water. When this boils plunge in the plum pudding and let it cook for three hours. Then remove it and have it stand for five minutes before cutting the string. Untie the cloth carefully and invert the pudding on a hot dish. Sprinkle it with sugar. Pour over some brandy or rum and set it on fire. Serve immediately with hard sauce.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Sauce For Plum Pudding.

Four tablespoonfuls of butter, whites of two eggs, one cup powdered sugar, one gill of brandy and one gill of boiling water. Cream the butter, add gradually the sugar, and beat until white and light. Add the whites, one at a time, beating all the while. When ready to serve add the brandy and water. Stand in a basin of boiling water over the fire, stir until creamy, and it is ready for use.

A sauce without brandy is made as follows: One tablespoonful of cornstarch, one tablespoonful of butter, one pint of boiling water, one egg, one-half cup of sugar. Put cornstarch, egg and sugar in a bowl and mix them well. Pour over them the boiling water and stir over the fire until thick. Add any flavoring.

Cranberry and Apple Sauce.

Take one quart of cranberries, two cupfuls of sugar, two cupfuls of water. Pick over the berries carefully and wash in cold water. Put them into a porcelain lined saucepan, with enough water to cover, and cook until tender. Then add the sugar and remove from the stove just as soon as the sugar has been dissolved. Serve hot or cold. Select the berries carefully; boil them slowly without stirring. If treated in this way they will retain their shape and the sauce will be clear and transparent.

Apple sauce is for roast geese. Peel and core six tart apples. Put them into a saucepan and just cover with water. Boil until tender, then press through a colander. Add a teaspoonful of butter, a dash of nutmeg or cinnamon and sweeten to taste.

Presents For Men.

In silverware there are toilet articles such as talcum jars, cold cream jars, silver mounted brushes, combs, clothes brushes, whisk brooms, flasks and shaving brushes.

Bath robes come in the most attractive guise, and the man who has none will surely bless the sister or mother who gives him one.

Gorgeous heavy silk mufflers, embroidered suspenders, neckties of white silk, linen or silk handkerchiefs and chest protectors are some of the things men must expect, as they generally put off buying them until after Christmas.

Other decorations for a man's den are the hideous but picturesque Japanese masks, swords and bayonets. Panel decorations in oriental design will surely please if they are well selected. A wastebasket would not be amiss, and one of the new corkscrews, with a horn top, silver trimmed, would be highly acceptable.

Kind Old Man.

Ascum—What did that rich old uncle of yours give you for Christmas? Something useful, I'll bet.

Hauskeep—Yes; a little device for saving coal bills.

Ascum—Ah! An arrangement to attach to the heater.

Hauskeep—No; to keep on my desk. It's a bill file.—Philadelphia Press.

The Only One In Captivity.

Museum Patron—Well, what new freak have you for the holidays?

Manager—The rarest thing on earth—the man who doesn't buy more Christmas presents than he can afford.

Then He Took Another.

Comfort Brown—Don't you think it nonsensical—all this kissing under the mistletoe?

Thomas Tubbs—Sure thing! But a little nonsense now and then is relished by the best of men—and women!

A Synonym.

Spacer—Give me a synonym for the word Christmas.

Popper (moodily)—Broke!

At Gay Yuletide.

All hail the genial time of year
When every heart is kind,
When far and near there is good cheer
And care is left behind.

Old feuds forgot, old hates aside,
Now hearty clasps of hand,
While far and wide at Christmastide
Love reigns throughout the land.

Forgive, forget, a truce to pride;
Mankind are all friendship's rifts.
At gay Yuletide on every side
We're "worked" for Christmas gifts.

By FREDERIC S. ISHAM

Author of "Under the Rose."

Before the mist totally eclipsed his sight he determined to make one more supreme effort and again sprang forward, but was driven back with ease The knowledge that he was continuing a futile struggle smote him to the soul. Gladly would he have welcomed the fatal thrust if first he could have sent his blade through that breast which so far had been impervious to his efforts. Now the scene went round and round. The golden day became crimson, scarlet, then gray, leaden, somber. Incautiously he bent his arm to counter an imaginary lunge, and his antagonist thrust out his rapier like a thing of life, transfixing Manville's sword arm. He stood his ground bravely for a moment, playing feebly into space, expecting the fatal stroke. When would it come? Then the slate colored hues were swallowed in a black cloud. But while his mind passed into unconsciousness his breast was openly presented to his antagonist, and even the count shuddered.

With his blade at guard Saint-Prosper remained motionless. The land baron staggered feebly and then sank softly to the earth. That fatal look, the expression of a duelist, vanished from the soldier's face, and, allowing the point of his weapon to drop to the ground, he surveyed his prostrate antagonist.

"Done like a gentleman!" cried the count, breathing more freely. "You had him at your mercy, sir"—to Saint-Prosper—"and spared him."

A cold glance was the soldier's only response, as without a word he turned brusquely away. Meanwhile the doctor, hastening to Manville's side, opened his shirt.

"He is badly hurt?" asked Barnes anxiously of the surgeon.

"No; only fainted from loss of blood," replied that gentleman cheerfully. "He will be around again in a day or two."

The land baron soon regained consciousness and walked, with the assistance of the count, to his carriage. As they were about to drive away the sound of a vehicle was heard drawing near, and soon it appeared followed by another equipage. Both stopped at the confines of the Oaks and the friends of the thickset man, Susan's admirer, and the young lad on whom she had smiled alighted.

"Ha!" exclaimed the doctor, who had accompanied the count and his companion to the carriage. "No. 2!"

"Yes," laughed the count, as he leaned back against the soft cushions, "it promises to be a busy day at the Oaks! Really," as the equipage rolled on, "New Orleans is fast becoming a civilised center!"

CHAPTER XXI.

THE land baron's injuries did not long keep him indoors, for it was his pride rather than his body that had received deep and bitter wounds. He chafed and fumed when he thought how in all likelihood the details of his defeat could not be suppressed in the clubs and cafes.

"I played him too freely," he groaned to the Count de Propriac as the latter sat contemplatively nursing the ivory handle of his cane and offering the land baron such poor solace as his company afforded. "I misjudged the attack, besides exposing myself too much. If I could only meet him again!"

"It would be the same," retorted the count brutally. "When you lost your temper, you lost your cause. Your work was brilliant, but he is one of the best swordsmen I ever saw. Who is he, anyway?"

"All I know is, he served in Algiers," said Mauville moodily.

"An adventurer, probably!" exclaimed the other.

"I'd give a good deal to know his record," remarked the patroon contemplatively. "You should be pretty well acquainted with the personnel of the army!"

"It includes everybody nowadays," replied the diplomat. "But it seems to me I did know of a Saint-Prosper at the military college at Saumur; or was it at the Ecole d'application d'etat-major? Demmed scapegrace, if I am not mistaken; sent to Algiers; must be the same."

Here the count closed his eyes and seemed almost on the point of dropping off, but suddenly straightened himself, drawled a perfunctory farewell and departed in a brown study.

The count's company, of which he had enjoyed a good deal during the past forty-eight hours, did not improve Mauville's temper, and he bore his own reflections so grudgingly that inaction became intolerable. Besides, certain words of his caller concerning Saint-Prosper had stimulated his curiosity, and, in casting about for a way to confirm his suspicions, he had suddenly determined in what wise to proceed. Accordingly, the next day he left his rooms, his first visit being to a spacious, substantial residence of stone and lime with green veranda palings and windows that opened as doors, with a profusion of gauzy curtains hanging behind them. This house, the present home of the Marquis de Ligne, stood in the French quarter, contrasting architecturally with the newer brick buildings erected for the American population. The land baron was ushered into a large reception room, sending his card to the marquis by the neat appearing colored maid who answered the door.

Soon the marquis' servant, a stolid, sober man of virtuous deportment, came downstairs to inform the land baron his master had suffered a relapse and was unable to see any one.

"Last night his temperature was very high," said the valet. "My master is very ill, more so than I have known him to be in twenty years."

"You have served the marquis so long?" said the visitor, pausing as he was leaving the room. "Do you remember the Saint-Prosper family?"

"Well, monsieur. General Saint-Prosper and my master were distant kinsmen and had adjoining lands."

"Surely the marquis did not pass his time in the country?" observed Manville.

"He preferred it to Paris—when my lady was there," added Francois softly.

In spite of his ill humor the shadow of a smile gleamed in the land baron's gaze, and, encouraged by that questioning look, the man continued: "The marquis and General Saint-Prosper were always together. My lady had her own friends."

"So I've heard," commented the listener.

Francois' discreet eyes were downcast. Why did the visitor wish to learn about the Saint-Prosper family? Why, instead of going, did he linger and eye the man half dubiously? Francois had sold so many of his master's secrets he scented his opportunities with a sixth sense.

"The marquis and General Saint-Prosper were warm friends?" asked the land baron at length.

"Yes, monsieur; the death of the latter was a severe shock to the Marquis de Ligne; but, Mon Dieu"—lifting his eyes—"it was as well he did not live to witness the disgrace of his son!"

"His son's disgrace," repeated the land baron eagerly. "Oh, you mean running in debt—gaming—some such fashionable virtue?"

"If betraying his country is a fashionable virtue," replied the valet. "He is a traitor."

Incredulity overspread the land baron's features; then, coincident with the assertion, came remembrance of his conversation with the marquis.

"He certainly called him that," ruminated the visitor. Not only the words, but the expression of the old nobleman's face, recurred to him. What did it mean unless it confirmed the deliberate charge of the valet? The land baron forgot his disappointment over his inability to see the marquis and began to look with more favor on the man.

"He surrendered a French stronghold," continued the servant softly; "not through fear; oh, no; but for ambition, power, under Abd-el-Kader, the Moorish leader. My master has the report of the military board of inquiry."

"Why has the matter attracted no public attention if a board of inquiry was appointed?"

"The board was a secret one, and the report was suppressed. Few have seen it except the late king of France and my master."

"Since it has been inspected by such good company I confess curiosity to look at it myself. But your master is ill. I cannot speak with him. Perhaps you"—

"I, monsieur!" indignantly.

"For five hundred francs, Francois!"

"To oblige monsieur!" he answered softly, but his eyes gleamed like a lynx's.

"You have no compunctions about selling a reputation, Francois?"

"Reputation is that!" said the man, contemptuously snapping his fingers, emboldened by his compact with the caller. "Francs and sous are everything."

"Lord, how servants imbibe the ideas of their betters!" quoth the patroon as he left the house and strode down the graveled walk, decapitating the begonias with his cane.

Passing into the Rue Royale, the favorite promenade of the creole-French, the land baron went on through various thoroughfares with French-English nomenclature into St. Charles street, reaching his apartments, which adjoined a well known club. He was glad to stretch himself once more on his couch, feeling fatigued from his efforts and having rather overtaxed his strength.

But if his body was now inert his mind was active. His thoughts dwelt upon the soldier's reticence, his disinclination to make acquaintances and the coldness with which he had received his (Mauville's) advances in the Shadengo valley. Why, asked Mauville, lying there and putting the pieces of the tale together, did not Saint-Prosper remain with his new found friends, the enemies of his country? Because, came the answer, Abd-el-Kader, the patriot of Algerian independence, had been captured, and the subjection of the country had followed. Since Algeria had become a French colony, where could Saint-Prosper have found a safer asylum than in America? Where more secure from "that chosen curse" for the man who owes his weal to his country's woe?

In his impatience to possess the promised proof the day passed all too slowly. He even hoped the count would call, although that worthy brought with him all the "flattering devils, sweet poison and deadly sins" of inebriation. But the count, like a poor friend, was absent when wanted, and it was a distinct relief to the land baron when Francois appeared at his apartments in the evening with a buff colored envelope, which he handed to him.

"The suppressed report?" asked the latter, weighing it in his hand.

"No, monsieur; I could not find that. My master must have destroyed it."

The land baron made a gesture of disappointment and irritation.

"But this," Francois hastened to add, "is a letter from the Duc d'Aumale, governor of Algeria, to the Marquis de Ligne, describing the affair. Monsieur will find it equally as satisfactory, I am sure."

"How did you get it?" said the patroon thoughtfully.

"My master left the keys on the dresser."

"And if he misses this letter"—

"Oh, monsieur, I grieve my master is so ill he could not miss anything but his ailments. Those he would willingly dispense with. My poor master!"

"There! Take your long, hypocritical face out of my sight!" said Mauville curtly, at the same time handing him the promised reward, which Francois calmly accepted.

CHAPTER XXII.

THE city, bustling and animated by day, like an energetic housewife, was at night a gay demoiselle, awakening to new life and excitement. The clerk betook himself to his bowling or billiards and the mechanic to the circus, while beauty and fashion repaired to the concert room or to the Opera Francais to listen to Halevy or Donisetti. Restless Americans or Irishmen rubbed elbows with the hurrying Frenchman or Spaniard, and the dignified creole gentleman of leisure alone was wrapped in a plenitude of dignity, computing probably the interest he drew on money loaned these assiduous foreigners.

Soldiers who had been granted leave of absence or had slipped the guard at the camp on Andrew Jackson's battle ground swaggered through the streets. The change from a diet of pork and beans and army hard tack was so marked that Uncle Sam's young men threw restraint to the winds, took the mask balls by storm and gallantly assailed and made willing prisoners of the fair sex. Eager to exchange their irksome life in camp for the active campaign in Mexico, it was small wonder they relieved their impatience by many a valiant dash into the hospitable town.

Carriages drove by with a rumble and a clatter, revealing a fleeting glimpse of some beauty with full, dark eye. Venders of flowers importuned the passersby, doing a brisk business; the oyster and coffee stands reminded the spectator of a thoroughfare in London on a Saturday night, with the people congregating about the street stalls, but the brilliantly illumined places of amusement, with their careless patrons plainly apparent to all from without, resembled rather a boulevard scene in the metropolis of France. "Probably," says a skeptical chronicler, "here and there are quiet drawing rooms and tranquil firesides, where feminine love is a chaste, presiding goddess." But the writer merely presumes such might have been the case, and it is evident from his manner of expression he offers the suggestion or afterthought charitably, with some doubts in his mind. Certainly he never personally encountered the chaste goddess of the hearth or he would have qualified his words and made his statement more positive.

From the life of the streets the land baron turned into a well lighted entrance, passing into a large, luxuriously furnished saloon, at one end of which stood a table somewhat resembling a roulette board. Seated on one side was the phlegmatic cashier and opposite him the dealer, equally impassive. Unlike faro, the popular New Orleans game, no deal box was needed, the dealer holding the cards in his hand, while a cavity in the center of the table contained a basket, where the cards, once used, were thrown. A large chandelier cast a brilliant light upon the scene.

"Messieurs, faites vos jeux," drawled the monotonous voice of the dealer, and expectation was keenly written on the faces of the double circle of players. As the dealer began to shuffle together six packs of cards and place them in a row on the table he called out:

"Nothing more goes, gentlemen!"

The rapidity with which the cashier counted the winnings at a distance and shoved them here and there with the long rake was amazing and bewildering to the novice risking a few gold pieces for the first time on the altar of chance.

"Oh, dear!" said a light feminine voice as the rapacious rake unceremoniously drew in a poor, diminutive pile of gold. "Why did I play? Isn't it provoking?"

"You have my sympathy, Mistress Susan," breathed a voice near her.

Looking around, she had the grace to blush becomingly and approached Mauville with an expressive gesture, leaving Adonis and Kate at the table.

"Don't be shocked, Mr. Manville," she began hurriedly. "We were told it was among the sights, and, having natural curiosity"—

"I understand. Armed with righteousness, why should not one go anywhere?"

"Why, indeed?" she murmured.

"But I'm afraid I'm taking you from your play?"

"I'm not going to play any more tonight."

"Tired already?"

"No; but—but I haven't a cent. That miserable table has robbed me of everything. All I have left"—pitcously—"are the clothes on my back."

"Just so!" he agreed. "But it might have been worse."

"How?" in dismay. "Didn't that stony looking man rake in my last gold piece? He didn't even look sorry, either. But what is the matter with your arm?" The land baron's expression became ominous. "You shook hands with your left hand. Oh, I see; the duel!"

"How did you hear about it?" asked Mauville irritably.

"Oh, in a roundabout way. Murder will out! And Constance—she was so solicitous about Mr. Saint-Prosper, but rather proud, I believe, because he"—with a laugh—"came off victorious."

Susan's prattle, although accompanied by innocent glances from her blue eyes, was sometimes the most irritating thing in the world, and the land baron, goaded beyond endurance, now threw off his careless manner and swore in an undertone by "every devil in Satan's calendar."

"Can you not reserve your soliloquy until you leave me?" observed Susan sweetly. "Otherwise"—

"I regret to have shocked your ladyship," he murmured satirically.

"I forgive you," raising her guileless eyes. "When I think of the provocation I do not blame you so much."

"That is more than people do in your case," muttered the land baron savagely.

Susan's hand trembled. "What do you mean?" she asked, not without apprehension regarding his answer.

"Oh, that affair with the young officer, the lad who was killed in the duel, you know"—

A Nervous Woman

Will often feel compelled to stop the clock whose ticking seems unbearable to her. In such a nervous condition, the woman needs a building up of the entire system. It is useless to attempt the cure of the nerves while the cause of the nervousness remains uncured. A very common cause of nervousness in women is a diseased condition of the delicate womanly organism.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures womanly diseases and the nervousness which they cause. It changes irregularity to regularity, dries the drains which weaken women, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. It is a perfect tonic and nervine, tranquilizing the nerves, promoting the appetite and inducing refreshing sleep.

"I was so nervous I had to have some one by my side all the time, even in the daytime, and I could hardly eat anything," writes Mrs. Selma Erickson, of 496 Rice Street, St. Paul, Minn. "I quit all the doctors and began taking your medicines; I gained right along. I am as well and feel as good as ever."

$500 REWARD! FOR WOMEN WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

MUNYON Cures Mrs. O'Leary

"I have had Rheumatism for four years in my knees and feet. I tried all kinds of medicines and liniments, but at the changes in the weather my Rheumatism was particularly hurtful to me. I procured a bottle of Munyon's Rheumatism Cure, and I am now cured. Professor Munyon is a great doctor, and a good one. I would probably never have been cured if I had not heard of his free distribution."—Mrs. John O'Leary, 90 St. George street, Montreal.

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

Impairment of hearing robs one of many of the joys of life, exposes to danger, interfers with capacity for usefulness, limits ability to transact business and earn a living. Many annually abandon their plans, ambitious and hopes on account of loss of hearing.

In nearly every case of partial or complete deafness there is another feature that to many is more troublesome than the difficulty of hearing—the distracting head noises. These make such an impression on some as to almost drive them insane. The everlasting bussing, ringing, snapping, rumble or roar, distracts them by day and prevents rest at night.

Nine cases out of ten of head noises and progressive hardness of hearing are due to catarrh of the middle ear or of the tube leading from it to the throat.

It should be understood and constantly borne in mind that to restore the hearing and silence the distracting noises a treatment is required that will allay inflammation in the eustachian tubes, reduce the congestion and swelling and stop the secretion of mucus so that the tubes will be keep open for free passage of air into the middle ear. No locally applied medicine will effectually do this, only a searching constitutional alterative and resolvent will cure catarrh in the deep recesses of the head.

Two acquaintances of the writer were run down and killed by the cars in one year. Both had catarrh of the head, which had extended up the eustachian tubes, t eading from the throat to the middle ear, and were quite hard of hearing. In both cases the coroner's jury decided that they came to their death because of inability to hear and heed signals that were intended for them. What happened to them in of frequent occurrence and in three cases out of four might have been prevented by the use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets. These tablets cure all kinds of catarrh. They can be bought at any drug store for 50 cents a box.

That Stuart's Catarrh Tablets do effectually cure catarrh of the eustachian tubes and the head noises and deafness resulting therefrom is attested by the following:—

Mrs. Jane Barlow, the famous medium says: "I finally had to give up personal attention to my customers and in consequence many of them went elsewhere, I was in despair for specialists seemed powerless to help me. Stuart's Catarrh Tablets cured me in just a little while so completely that now I hear as well as ever."

Army Surgeon C. E. Beverly, became so deaf from catarrh that he was forced to resign his position, and abandon his profession. He says: "Of course my inherent professional prejudice was hard to overcome but knowing the great benefit you had received, my dear General, through the use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, I used them. The great and almost immediate relief I experienced was truly astonishing. I am now entirely cured and have no fear of the disease returning. I got back to my old post next month."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets have done it, do do it, will do it. Try them and be convinced. They are for sale at any drug store at 50 cents per box. They will put you to very little trouble or expense to prove what they will do for you. Send to F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., for their free book about catarrh. A postal card will bring it. ORIGIN OF XMAS GREENS.

They Were Used at Christmastide Five Centuries Ago.

The use of evergreens at Christmas time is older than the Christmas tree, the Christians seeming to have copied it from their pagan ancestors. In a very old book we find this reference to the use of evergreens at Christmas time: "Against the feast of Christmas every man's house, as also their parish churches, were decked with holme, ivie, bayes and whatsoever the season of the year afforded to be green. The conduits and standards of the streets were likewise garnished, among the which I read that in the year 1414, by tempest of thunder and lightning, toward the morning of Candlemas day, at the Leadenhall, in Cornhill, a standard of tree, being set up in the midst of the pavement, fast in the ground, nailed full of holme and ivie, for disport of Christmas to the people, was torn up and cast down by the malignant spirit, as was thought, and the stones of the pavement all about were cast in the streets and into divers houses, so that the people were sore aghast at the great tempest."—Leslie's Weekly.

On the Christmas Tree.

The old fashioned stockings and hearts and crosses and animals cut out of tartatan outlined with worsted and then filled with fat candies and tied on the tree are always popular ornaments. Sugar figures bought in the confectionery store will serve to break the monotony. The baker at Christmas time usually has his windows filled with horses, dogs, cats and men and women made of delectable cake dough and artistically ornamented with colored sugar curlycues. These are toothsome and attractive to the small boy and girl.

Candles in small candle holders are always scattered well over the tree. It is a wise precaution to keep a pan of water in which is a wet sponge in case of accidents. When a spark falls upon a bough, the sponge quickly applied to the spot will check the spread of the fire.—Washington Star.

What Bothered Our Fathers.

On Oct. 26, 1853, The Globe asked the question, "Shall the State teach professional men?" and proceeded:

"...but the chief object, we maintain, of a Canadian university is the training of professional men, to whom the highest branches of education are essentially necessary; and this object has been entirely ignored by the present Government, in the constitution which it gave to University College. . . . The result of the withdrawal of Government support from the means of medical education must then either be the half education of our doctors or the resort of Canadian students to the schools of the neighboring Union, both of which are evils to be seriously deprecated. As to the law school, the result of the withdrawal of Government support will simply be that our young barristers will learn their principles of law by haphazard; they will have no guides to their studies, no aids to the acquisition of their lore other than books can supply. No lawyer of talent and standing will devote the necessary time and labor to the preparation of lectures for which he would receive so inadequate a return as the mere fees of the students.

THREE ACCIDENTS ON GRAND TRUNK.

A Mixed Train Meets Mishap at Lindsay Yards.

Peterborough-Belleville Division Also the Scene of a Smash.

The mixed train which arrives here from Toronto every morning between 3 and 4 o'clock, in charge of Conductor Fred Russell and Engineer Wallace met with an accident this morning as it was pulling into the yard. When a short distance west of the roundhouse the train separated and the rear end bumped into the front section with terrific force. Two heavy coal cars, containing 40 tons each, were derailed, one of them lodging across the track, and a box car was badly damaged. The wrecking crew were at work all morning, but the track was not clear in time for the 10.40 express from Toronto, and it was delayed over an hour.

It is reported that a second mishap occurred last evening on the Northern division near Uthoff station, south of Coldwater, and was caused by the Midland-Blackwater way-freight meeting a freight bound for Lindsay. No details are available, the local railway officials professing to know nothing about it.

A third accident is said to have occurred on the Peterborough-Belleville section yesterday afternoon. The story leaked out through one of the crew having telephoned to his family here. It is understood that no one was injured. A local official admitted there had been a slight mishap, but would give no particulars.—Lindsay Post.

HOCKEY.

A meeting was held at Havelock last night for the purpose of organizing a hockey team.

* * * *

The Norwood rink was used last night for the first time this season. There is still doubt in that village as to whether a hockey team can be gotten together. The boys are very anxious to organize a team, and are using every effort, but with the depletion in the ranks of the players, it seems a hard proposition.

* * * *

Picton has formed a Ladies' Hockey Club, and is already casting defiant eyes on Peterborough. The probabilities are, however, that there will be an opportunity of seeing which is the better team, as Peterborough's fair puck-chasers hold a practice this afternoon

SUGGESTED CHANGE IN CIVIC GOVERNMENT.

Alternative Plans Which may be Adopted to Solve Problem—Proposition to Elect Board of Commissioners.

On the eve of a municipal election speculations are being made as to the probable personnel of next year's council. Very few names are being mentioned as candidates for seats on the Council Board, and unless the interest becomes more general, the crop of candidates for aldermanic honours, promises to be very small this election.

There is a feeling among men who have made a study of municipal conditions, particularly with regard to Peterborough, that with the addition of the fifth ward, and the incidental increase of municipal duties of the members of the council, some changes will have to be inaugurated in the municipal government of the town.

During the past year the aldermen have spent a very large amount of their time attending to civic matters. Every member of the council is also a member of some committee, some being members of several, and to any one in touch with affairs at the city hall, the fact must be apparent that to fill the position of Alderman in Peterborough, and fill it properly, under the present system, a considerable portion of the alderman's time must necessarily be devoted to the town's affairs. Hardly a night passes without a meeting of some one of the committees, and frequently two or three committee meetings are held on the same evening. Not only this, but during the day time there are many occasions when it is necessary to devote time and attention to civic affairs. The members of this year's council, it must be said to their credit, have given their time ungrudgingly, and a great deal has been accomplished.

As time progresses, however, and the duties become multiplied, if the present system is maintained, it will be impossible for men who are engaged in business, or professional pursuits, to accept seats on the council board.

There is a feeling among a number who have given the matter considerable thought, that something will have to be done to make the duties of the aldermen lighter, if the best men are to be retained on the board, and in the services of the town. Some of the present aldermen are not anxious to stand for re-election, if they will be obliged to give as much time as has been necessary in the past.

There are a number of alternative systems, any one of which would relieve the situation at present existing and the speedy adoption of some one of these seems a necessity. In Toronto council meetings are held every two weeks, but the details of the work are attended to by commissioners, who are high salaried and fully competent men, and the heavy matters of business are turned over to the Board of Control, each member of which, except the Mayor, receives a salary of $700 per year, the Mayor receiving $4,000. By this plan the members of the council are relieved of a great deal of the detail, which, if it had to come under the supervision of the members would consume a great deal of time.

A system which has been suggested for Peterborough, is that a board of three commissioners be elected at the annual municipal elections, the members to hold office for three years, one member retiring each year, these commissioners to be paid a salary commensurate to the duties performed by them. It is suggested that to these commissioners be assigned the details of administration of many matters which are now looked after by the committees. The council could decide on the general policy to be followed, and the matter could then be handed over to the commissioners. An example of this is found in Toronto, although the cases are only analogous in part, because there the commissioners are appointed by the council Board of Control. It is thought that the commissioners should be elected and be directly responsible to the people for their administration of the affairs coming under their jurisdiction.

An alternative plan to that suggested above is to constitute a Board of Control within the council, chosing men who would be in a position to give time to civic affairs, and entrust to these men the details of work, of which, there will be with the advent of the new year, an increasing number.

It is pointed out by the advocates of this plan that it is possible to get men who if they were paid for their time would accept positions on such a Board, and it is believed that it would be an improvement over the present system in use.

A third plan is one which finds favour with a great many and it is that each member of the Council be paid a salary to, in a measure reimburse them for the time spent and responsibilities incidental to the position of alderman. In Toronto where the individual members of the council perhaps do not spend any more time in the interest of the affairs of the city each alderman is paid, the amount, however, being a comparatively small one. Those who bring forward this plan as the solution argue that if the members of the council were paid a small salary it would be easier to induce men of large business interest to accept seats on the Board, and that they would feel more inclined to give their time to the administration of municipal affairs.

None of the above plans are given as the Examiner's solution. It simply gives public expression to the opinions of private citizens on the question. It is a fact patent to all who have followed the record of the municipal council during this and preceding years that the duties of alderman are increasing, and with the larger population which the New Year will bring, with but one extra member of the council to assist in doing the extra work, those duties will be still further increased. The members of the council should be in a position to devote time to laying plans for the up-building of the town, and for the consideration of making Peterborough continue the industrial pace which it has set, and, if possible accelerate the rate of progress, instead of devoting attention to petty matters of detail, such as has to be done now.

The solution of this problem will be welcome not only to the members of the council but to the citizens generally

AN ORDINATION TO PRIESTHOOD.

Patrick James Kelly Elevated to the Sacred Order.

AN IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY.

St. Peter's Cathedral Scene of Interesting Event Yesterday—18th Native of Diocese Ordained for Work in the Diocese.

At St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday morning before a large congregation, many of the members of which had known him from boyhood, Patrick J. Kelly, son of Thos. Kelly, of town, was ordained to the sacred office of priest, by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, assisted by members of the clergy. Father Kelly's elevation to the Priesthood makes the fifteenth young man, natives of this diocese, who have been similarly elevated to work in this diocese during the fourteen years in which Bishop O'Connor has had charge of the diocese and in addition ten others have been ordained and have taken orders in the the church or have gone to other dioceses to labour.

Few ordination services have been more largely attended, and certainly none have had greater significance than that of yesterday, because of the fact that he on whom the Sacredotal order was invested is a young man whom all who knew him, felt was worthy of the holy avocation to which he was admitted. It was a notable feature that a large majority of those within the sacred edifice yesterday were young persons, and the effect could not but be inspiring and impressive.

THE SACRED CEREMONY.

The ceremony of ordination was an incident of the Pontifical High Mass, which was celebrated by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, consecrating prelate, assisted by Rev. Father McColl, rector, archdeacon; Rev. Dr. O'Brien as master of ceremonies, and assistant to the postulant; Rev. Father John O'Brien deacon.

As mentioned, His Lordship celebrated the mass clad in full pontificals, amie, alb, cincture, cross, tunic, dalmatic, maniple and stole, emblematic of the sacred power he confers upon the supplicant for ordination.

Having previously received the minor orders, and also the sacred orders of sub-deaconship and deaconship, and after being duly examined concerning his conduct and morals, his knowledge of sacred scripture, theology, etc., the candidate, arrayed in the vestments of a deacon, was presented to His Lordship, and, it having been attested, that as far as it was possible to judge, he was worthy of the sublime office, His Lordship addressed the assembled clergy and people, charging them that "should anyone have anything to say against the promotion, let him before God and for the good of religion, come forward with all confidence and let him speak what he knows." There being no objection, his Lordship then addressed the candidate, charging him to receive the office of the priesthood worthily, and to perform, in manner worthy of praise, the duties of the office when received. It behooved the priest to offer sacrifice, to bless, to govern, to preach and to baptise, therefore with great fear must he assume such an office and take care that heavenly wisdom, exemplary conduct, and a continual observance of all virtue commend him to it.

On the singing of the litany of the saints, the Bishop blessed the prostrate candidate thrice. At the conclusion of the litany, the Bishop and attendant clergy performed the ceremony of the imposition of hands. After the recitation of certain prescribed prayers the Bishop, seated, removed the stole from the candidate's left shoulder, and crossing it over the breast, said:

"Receive thou the yoke of the Lord, for His Yoke is easy and His burden light."

The Bishop then invested him with the chasuble, folded on the shoulders, with the words:

"Receive the sacredotal vestment, by which charity is understood, for God is powerful to increase in thee charity and every perfect work."

After the Bishop had intoned the "Veni Creator," he anointed the hands of the candidate with holy oil, making the sign of the cross, and praying:

"That whatsoever these hands bless, shall be blessed, and whatsoever they consecrate shall be consecrated and sanctified in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ. Amen."

The hands of the candidate were then bound, and he was presented with a chalice containing wine and water, and patena with host, both of which were touched, as the Bishop said:

"Receive the power to offer sacrifice to God, to celebrate mass, as well for the living as for the dead, in the name of the Lord."

While the mass was proceeding to the offertory the candidate retired, accompanied by the masters of ceremonies, washed his hands, and returning to the middle of the altar, made the usual offering. Mass then continued, the candidate pronouncing the words after the Bishop. After he had received the holy communion he made profession of faith by reciting the creed, and, kneeling before the Bishop, the latter placed both hands on his head and said.

"Receive the Holy Ghost. Whose sins you shall forgive they are forgiven them and whose sins you shall retain they are retained."

Then the Bishop unfolded the chasuble and clothed the candidate entirely with it, and said:

"With the stole of innocence may the Lord clothe thee."

After the candidate had promised obedience to the Bishop and his successor, the Bishop gave him the kiss of peace, and admonished him in the prescribed form, and, after standing and blessing him, the newly-ordained priest, kneeling, received a concluding injunction.

ELOQUENT SERMON BY REV. FATHER McCOLL.

The rector, Rev. Father McColl, preached the ordination sermon, speaking from the words found in Hebrews, V., 1: "For every high priest taken from among men is ordained for men in things pertaining to God, that he may offer, truth, gifts and sacrifices for sins."

The reverend father, commenting on the beautiful and impressive ceremony which had just been performed, said that the elevation to the sacred order of Priesthood was a most solemn one, in view of the great work the priest was called upon to perform. The priest was taken from among men to work among men and to do God's work, the most essential duty being to offer sacrifice for sin. This was the work of Christ himself while on earth, and it had been committed through the line of Apostolic succession to the priests of to-day. Christ came to earth in the interests of the spiritual welfare of the people, and offered himself as a sacrifice on the cross for the sins of the world. He not only offered the sacrifice, but He, Himself was the victim. The office of priest, the speaker said, was a three-fold one. He was, first of all, a teacher to lead his people into the truth; he was also a governor, and the Holy Scriptures commanded the people to obey him, and in addition, and most essential of all, he was a priest, all of these duties had been communicated directly from

FORMER PASTOR OF PETERBOROUGH

Opened New Church in Montreal Sunday.

Rev. J. L. Gilmour, new Pastor of Olivet Church—New Church Edifice Opened.

The Montreal Herald tells of the opening on Sunday of the Olivet Baptist church, of which Rev. J. L. Gilmour, formerly of Peterborough, is pastor. The Herald says:

"The new Olivet Baptist church, Dorchester and Guy streets, was formally opened at Sunday's services. Rev. A. G. Upham, D.D., of Fall River, Mass., a former pastor, occupied the pulpit, and Rev. J. L. Gilmour, the present pastor, assisted. There was special music at each service. Dr. Upham also addressed the Sunday school at 3 o'clock. In introducing Dr. Upham at the morning service, Rev. Mr. Gilmour pointed out that he had been in charge of Olivet school longer than any other pastor, and for this reason had been chosen to conduct the opening services in the new church. Speaking of the church itself the pastor said that while it was the object of the builders to avoid display, the structure had been thoroughly made, and only the best materials used. Whatever looked like brick was brick, and good brick, too, and what looked like oak was oak, and good oak. There was reason for gladness in the fact that no one had been injured during the construction, and that no untoward events of any kind had occurred. He also made a statement of the financial condition of the congregation and made an appeal for liberal giving.

"It was announced that the enlarged and improved organ would be installed in a few weeks, and that it would be opened by Mr. John Hermann Loud of Boston.

"During the service the hymn written by the late Mr. Muir on the occasion of the opening of the old church building on May 23, 1879, was sung.

"The new church, including the land, building, organ and other necessary expenditure, cost $80,000. Of this the sum of $52,169 has been paid, and there is a balance of unpaid, and there is a balance of unpaid subscriptions amounting to $14,366. This leaves an unsubscribed balance of of nearly $14,000. The collections on Sunday were devoted to the building fund, and reduced the indebtedness considerably.

"The building committee was composed of the following gentlemen: John Kennedy, C.E., chairman; Chas. S. Phillips, Jas. Whitham, George Hodge, Jas. W. Tester, Daniel Stroud and John T. Towers. David R. Brown was the architect.

"Olivet church was first established in 1875. Temporary premises were occupied until March 23, 1879, when the new church at the corner of Osborne and Mountain streets was completed. During the period from 1875 to the present the church has had six pastors. They were Rev. John Gordon, 1875 to 1879; Rev. Dr. Clarke, 1880 to 1883; Dr. Upham, 1883 to 1892; Rev. W. B. Hinson, 1893 to 1896; Rev. Dr. Dodson, 1896 to 1900; and Rev. J. L. Gilmour, from 1901.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.

SEVEN FAT YEARS OF LIBERAL RULE.

Contrasted With Eighteen Years of Conservative Administration.

A Material Reduction of Taxation—The British Preferential Tariff and its Effects—The Conservative Attitude.

(Fourth Paper.)

What do the Conservatives think of it all? It is difficult indeed to know where to place them. When the Liberal Tariff was introduced in Parliament it was greeted with a wail of woe. Their then leader, Sir Charles Tupper, Bart., spoke as follows:—

"The result is that this Tariff goes into operation, and the hon. gentleman knows that the industries of this country are already paralyzed in consequence, while honourable members gloat over the destruction of Canadian industries. I was reading the wail, the sorrowful wail, of those industries in The Montreal Gazette, where one manufacturer after another declared that those industries were ruined, that their mills must close, and that they saw staring them in the face a return to the deplorable state of things that existed when the hon. gentleman who last addressed the House was in charge of the fiscal policy of this country. I say that a deeper wrong was never inflicted upon Canada.

"I feel that so far from rejoicing at it from a party standpoint, I deplore from the bottom of my heart the ruin that is going to be inflicted upon the best interests of Canada and upon its great industries. Still, I unhesitatingly say that, from a party point of view, the hon. gentlemen are doing our work; they are showing the people of this country that no reliance can be placed upon the most solemn declarations that they make either in the House or out of it; they are showing the people of this country that, having obtained power, which was all they wished for, they are now prepared to abuse that power at a cost of sacrifice of the industries of Canada."

In the light of results how absurd such a prophecy now appears. Since that speech was made the Conservatives have taken the most irreconcilable positions on the question. At one time they have declared that the National Policy was retained in its entirety, and in the next breath almost they have scolded the Government for reducing duties and thereby hurting the home manufacturers. They have, however, been consistent in their declarations that the Government was not entitled to a particle of credit for the prosperous state of the country. Sir Charles Tupper frequently spoke to this effect. He went further, and declared that the Liberals had not done one single act tending to produce prosperity. Mr. R. L. Borden, who now leads the party, has adopted the same tactics, and the same political cry. Recently, he said in effect, that the administration of the Liberal Government had not been of any benefit to the country, and —following closely in the footsteps of Sir Charles,—he asserted that the Government had done nothing to promote the welfare of the people. We had thought better of him. We know Sir Charles Tupper was not always too careful or accurate in his statements as to the policy of his opponents, but when Mr. Borden took charge of the party it was expected, at any rate, that more regard would be had to political veracity and to the logic of circumstances.

The Liberal Government do not claim that they are entitled to all the credit for the happy state of the country, but they do contend, and with justice, that their legislation and administration have been along the right lines; have stimulated and fostered the trade and commerce of the country, and have, in a very material way, promoted prosperity.

We believe it to be beyond question that a country like Canada, the policy of the Government is a determining factor in commercial and industrial life, and that progress can be attributed in a large measure to the wisdom of such policy. This, we think, will be apparent to you when you consider:—

1. That the fiscal laws have a direct bearing upon the prices of all commodities.

2. That many producing interests have to be State-assisted,—if not through the Tariff, then by means of expenditures.

3. That our Government is paternal in many of its features.

It follows from this, that the general policy of the Government of the Dominion cannot be passive. It must either tend to retard or to promote progress. Bearing this in mind, we think you will agree with us that the Liberal Government are fairly entitled to a reasonable measure of credit. A bad policy could not produce the beneficial results we have referred to.

In this progressive age when people are so absorbed in their own business affairs, they are apt to forget modern political history. We deem it advisable, therefore, to point out some of the many steps that have been taken by the Government in power to promote the general welfare. We think we will be able to prove conclusively to you that the Government has been a working one; and that it has made honest and sincere efforts to help us. However, let the facts speak for themselves, and be their own answer to the charges and assertions of "our friends the Enemy."

We will endeavour to be very brief, our object being simply to refresh the memory of the public.

REFORM AND REDUCTION OF THE TARIFF.

1. The first important act was the revision and reduction of the Tariff. An honest effort was made to give the people a Tariff law which would be fair to all classes. The interests of all industries were carefully considered, and particular attention was paid to the needs and wishes of the consumer. It was probably the first attempt that was ever made in Canada towards constructing a Tariff on sound scientific lines. The interdependence of industries was carefully thought out, and equitable adjustments were made when interests were found to conflict.

TAXATION WAS MATERIALLY REDUCED.

In 1896, under the Conservative Tariff, $18.38 was charged by the Customs, on the average, on every $100 of goods imported into the country. During 1903 only $15.88 was so charged. Although this is a reduction of 13 per cent. it may seem small, but apply it to the total importations of 1903, and you will find that if the Conservative rate had been charged, more duty to the amount of five and a half million dollars would have collected.

But Conservative politicians have argued in the House of Commons that in making the calculation Coin and Bullion and Indian Corn that comes into the country, but is not consumed here,—being afterwards exported,—should be deducted. Well, taking them on their own ground, we find that the average rate of duty imposed in 1896, after deducting coin and bullion, was $12.12, whereas it was only $16.60 in 1903—deducting coin and bullion and Indian corn imported, but not remaining in the country. If the Conservative average rate of 1896 on this basis had been in operation in 1903, nearly six million dollars more duty would have been collected.

The Conservatives think it is not fair to make a comparison with the year 1896. Well, we will take their full term of office. The average duty charged by them during their eighteen years of office was $19.10 on each $100 worth of goods imported. Since the Liberal Government came into power the average duty was $16.49. If the Conservative average rate had prevailed during the last seven years, 1896 to 1903, over 32 million dollars more duty would have been collected.

The farmer was especially benefitted by the changes, as was only fair. He got what he asked for, viz., the duty off binder twine, Indian corn, barbed and other fencing wire, cream separators, etc. Substantial reductions were also made on many agricultural implements, hardware, woollens, cottons, Linens, glassware, hats, caps, furs, and many other staple commodities.

Manufacturers were assisted by material reduction in the rates on Steel and Iron and other raw materials.

THE BRITISH PREFERENTIAL TARIFF.

(2) A Preferential Tariff in favour of British goods was adopted. This was probably the most popular step ever taken by any government in Canada, and it has been productive of beneficial results, alike to Canada and the Empire. It was the best advertisement the country ever received. The whole empire rang with it, and our national status was markedly increased. The material results have been as follows;

1. The duties on all the most important staple commodities were materially reduced, and the consumer was thereby benefitted. This is illustrated by the following figures:

Article.	Av. duty collected on imports from Gt. Britain, 1898.	Av. duty collected under preferential tariff, 1902.
Books	28.65	10.69
Cottons	28.20	20.74
Drugs	32.57	15.39
Earthenware	30.00	20.05
Flax & Manufactures	22.02	18.01
Furs	15.95	12.03
Glass	23.35	16.40
Gloves	35.00	28.33
Gutta percha	33.58	22.81
Hats and caps	30.00	20.00
Iron	21.02	9.67
Leather	19.03	12.31
Oil, except kerosene	20.00	16.00
Paints	10.08	7.59
Paper	28.75	19.10
Wool manufactures	32.00	22.92

Note.—Figures for 1902 are quoted, because at the time of writing this article details of importations for 1903 were not available. The rates for 1903 would, however, be practically the same as for 1902.

The low rate under the Preference also constitutes a factor in determining the price to the consumers of goods imported from countries not entitled to the Preferential Tariff. The foreign manufacturer in the Canadian market has to reduce his price to offset the reduction in duty in favour of Great Britain.

This reduction is a very material one. It works out in this way, viz., where we charge $3 on American goods, we only charge $2 on British goods.

2. The Preference stimulated British trade with us, and has largely increased British imports. Under the operation of the Conservative Tariff, imports from Great Britain steadily declined. For instance there was a falling off between the years 1893 to 1897, from 43 million dollars to 29 1-2 millions. Immediately the Preference was granted the sales commenced to increase, and they have jumped up steadily until last year, when they amounted to 59 million dollars. Dutiable imports alone increased from 20 million dollars in 1897 to 42 millions in 1903.

Although no law was passed by the Parliament of Great Britain giving our products preferential treatment over other countries, there is no doubt that a natural preference has been given to them by the British people. Our Preferential Tariff created a most friendly and cordial feeling in the Mother Land towards us. This coupled with the vigorous policy adopted by the Liberal Minister of Agriculture towards the development and perfection of cold storage facilities, has greatly stimulated our sales there. The increase in our exports to Great Britain has been so astonishingly large, that it could scarcely be due to natural and ordinary causes. Look at the figures: During the six years succeeding 1897, when the Preference was instituted, the aggregate exports of Canadian Produce to Great Britain, amounted to 902 million dollars. For the six years previous thereto, they were only 934 millions.

EARLY SHOPPING IN PETERBOROUGH

Is Much in Evidence This Holiday Season.

Merchants are Correspondingly Gratified and are Doing all in Their Power to Please Welcome Customers.

"Is woman nature changing in Peterborough?" asked a prominent merchant this morning. "It seems to be, because Peterborough women are doing their Christmas shopping earlier than ever before. In my opinion they are at last awakening to a realization of the fact that the only way to avoid the annoyance and delay that comes, with the rush of the holidays, is to make their purchases early, and with comparative comfort. It is by this means that they get that privilege which is so dear to the heart feminine, namely, the looking over of the entire stock when it is new and complete before making their purchases."

Merchants agree that sales are satisfactory. The truth of this is apparent to anyone that visits the stores and sees the crowds that are buying, and the bank deposits that the merchants are making daily also bear strong testimony to the same effect.

"It's a pleasure to shop nowadays," said a Christmas shopper, as a smile played over her face, "for the merchants do everything in their power to make shopping easy." This is true, for extra help is on duty at all the stores and there is every possible facility for the development of the joys of Christmas shopping.

An interesting feature of the holiday trading so far this season is that it is largely confined to articles that are useful and have a practical value. While the usual amount of ornamental and decorative articles and toys find ready sale, the drum for the boy and the doll for the girl, there has been a noticeable increase in the purchases of household goods, articles that will last and that possess a real economic value.

Bankers are able to point out one feature that is indicative of the prosperous condition of the people. They say many are drawing sums from their savings accounts with which to get presents, without which there would be no merry Christmas. The most important fact is that these people do not rob their treasure fund nor shrink their reserve to the danger point, but, counting their savings, and knowing just how much they can spare, they apportion a part to the development of Christmas cheer.

Babe Slept 24 Days.

New York, Dec. 19.—After having slept for 24 days, the 9-weeks-old daughter of Mrs. Louis Slatof of Third avenue awakened yesterday. The sleeping of this infant has proved a mystery to the medical profession. The sleep was natural, and the child is fat and apparently healthy.

Too Small a Steak.

"I'll match pennies with you," said the hungry man in the boarding house dining room, "to decide whether you take my share of beef or I take yours."

"No, thank you," replied the other hungry one. "I never play for small steaks."

Parties Hold Separate Meetings—The Conservatives Withdraw to the Town Hall—Mr. Gamey Says the Liberals Have Plotted His Murder—Expects to Be Under the Sod Soon—Liberal Speaks.

Pembroke, Dec. 21.—Nomination day was a memorable one in North Renfrew. From early morning electors continue to arrive from all parts of the riding, and at noon hotels and committee rooms were crowded and the streets were thronged. The great point of interest, as indeed it has been the chief topic of discussion during the campaign, was Mr. Gamey. He was regarded largely as a curiosity, whom all, of whatever shade of politics, wanted to see and hear. The respectable element in the party were strongly opposed to allowing him a part in the contest, but they have been squelched, and the motto of Renfrew Conservatives now is "Stand by Gamey." None of the humors of a first-class election were absent. The Conservatives had the advantage of possession of the Town Hall, which had been rented for nomination day whenever it should occur just after the death of the late member. The enthusiasm seemed with the Conservatives, but the Liberals had the air of confidence and determination begotten of good work and organization. The Court House was the scene of the official nomination, Sheriff Moffat being returning officer. The room was packed with electors, and each candidate, when he entered, was loudly cheered. Mr. Hale was nominated by Messrs. Thos. Mackie, M.P., and Bernard Leacy, both of Pembroke, and his financial agent was announced to be J. J. O'Meara. Mr. Dunlop was nominated by Messrs. James McAnulty of Point Alexander, and Joseph Bennett of Ross. The candidates made brief addresses and the proceedings closed.

The Liberal Meeting.

The Liberals had a splendid meeting in the Court House. Every seat in the chamber was occupied and many remained standing all afternoon. The chair was occupied by Mr. Charles Ross of Bromley Township. Prominent in front at a table taking notes was Mr. James Findlay, ex-M.P., who has been heralded as a Liberal unable to support the Ross Government any longer. His wavering record is of course well known in the riding. He began very early a process of "heckling" which might have embarrassed a less able speaker than Mr. A. G. MacKay, M. P.P., and thereafter was subjected to good-natured chaff from the back benches, which kept the whole audience in good humor.

"Take it down, Findlay," was the certain accompaniment of every point made by the speaker. Mr. Findlay, however, took it all very good-naturedly, and decided that he would not attempt to reply.

The speakers dealt to some extent with general issues, but all had a word to say about Gamey, whom the Conservatives have taken up as their chief support.

Mr. Thomas Mackie, M.P., protested that in all his experience he had never known such an election in North Renfrew, so full was it of slander and dirt from beginning to end.

The Liberal Candidate.

Mr. Hale, the Liberal candidate, got a splendid reception, the audience cheering enthusiastically. It was his first appearance on the platform here and he proved to be an easy and fluent speaker. Having referred to the death of Mr. Munro and thanked his friends for nominating him, he said that he had visited all parts of the riding and looked forward with confidence to the result. He had been accused by Mr. Dunlop of refusing to hold a joint meeting with Mr. Gamey, but he thought too much of himself to go on the platform with a man who had been found guilty of perjury by two of the highest Judges in the land. Mr. Hale was heartily cheered again on resuming his seat.

Mr. A. G. Mackay, M.P.P., dealt chiefly with the Gamey case.

The Conservative Meetings.

The Conservatives held two meetings in the Town Hall, afternoon and evening, and had the brass band to escort Mr. Gamey there. In the afternoon he spoke over two hours, and at night about one hour, explaining what he called "my case." The other speakers cut very little figure, either in the time or substance of their addresses. Mr. Gamey met with no interruption, and repeated, very often word for word, his other speeches on the subject. He was, however, very careful in his language, and showed none of the violence which characterized the earlier meetings. On both occasions the hall was packed and people stood in the aisles and at the back throughout the long presentation of "my case." It was a remarkable sign of the general interest taken, but afforded no clue to the political effect, for the audience included Liberals by the score who were attracted out of curiosity. Among his more striking utterances were these:

"I don't want to stay in public life any longer; life to me has not been worth living of late."

"I practically took my life in my hands when I came down here. Men have broken into my room late at nights. When I went to Muskoka I was safer than I am here, because the Government never anticipated defeat there. I tell you it was once decided to murder me, but the idea was dropped. They still have their knife into me, and I often think I will be under the sod before my time."

At the evening meeting among those who spoke with Mr. Gamey were the candidate, Mr. Dunlop; Hon. Peter White, J. P. Downey, M. P.P.; Dr. Beaume, M.P.P.; James F. Duff, M.P.P.; A. J. O'Meara of Ottawa; C. Weidenhammer of Waterloo; D. Murphy, M.P.P.; W. J. Hanna, M.P.P.

J. R. STRATTON.

THAT $7,000,000 STORY.

Alleged Wealth Entrusted to Cardinal Gotti a Myth.

Rome, Dec. 21.—At the Vatican yesterday the statement that Cardinal Gotti, Prefect of the Propaganda, had handed Pope Pius X. $7,000,000 in bank notes, said to have been confided to Cardinal Gotti by the late Pope Leo, with instructions to turn the money over to his successor after a period of four months had elapsed, was denied.

On the same authority the statement that an electrician, while removing the hangings of the late Pope, Leo's chamber in order to get at the electric light wires, found in a hole in the wall $1,850,000 in gold, or any other treasure, was also denied.

There was found in the apartment of Pope Leo, after his death, the sum of $160,000, which is being kept for emergencies.

The Tribune insists on the correctness of its story regarding the finding of the money, but says that it may have been mistaken as to the figures.

YOU WILL BE ALL SMILES AGAIN.

Forget Your Stomach and You'll Have a Santa Claus Face.

HOW TO DO IT.

If there is one thing more than all others that will give a man a forlorn and friendless appearance and and make him morbid and "cranky" and disagreeable, that thing is dyspepsia. It makes one forget his friends and become morose and irritable. He is so wrapped up in his own misery that he is inconsiderate of every one else. Relieved of this terrible and depressing ailment, he again becomes a good fellow and a man among men.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are beyond question the most effective and popular remedy ever offered to the sufferers of this terrible disease. The thousands and thousands of cures they have brought about and the enormous increase of their sales fully attest the truth of this statement.

They are, above all, a natural remedy. They possess exactly the same properties that the gastric juices and other digestive fluids of the stomach possess and they actually do the digestive work of the stomach and enable that organ to rest and recuperate and become sound and well. They act in a mild, natural manner and cause no disturbance in the digestive organs. They prevent any fermentation of the food which causes sour stomach. In fact, under their influence the subject forgets that he has a stomach and his resulting cheerfulness presents a great contrast to his former dejection.

Millions of boxes of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold annually and they are but in the dawn of their popularity. Every mail brings letters of thanksgiving from grateful ones who have been cured of this terrible disease. The following is one of hundreds received each week:

Rev. J. R. Hoag of Wymore, Neb., writes: "For six years I have been troubled with dyspepsia. Last fall I became very much alarmed at some symptoms of heart trouble and came to believe there was a sympathetic relation between the two diseases, rather, that the stomach trouble was the cause of the heart disturbances. I hit upon Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets for a remedy and invested a dollar and a half for three boxes which lasted me three months and I can eat any kind of food I want and have a good, vigorous appetite. Although I am 77 years old, I now feel perfectly well and without being requested by any one I make this statement as a compliment to the virtues of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets."

This Flying Machine Flew.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 19.—The trial of a flying machine by Wilbur and Orville Wright of Dayton, Ohio, was a complete success. The machine flew for three miles, in the face of a wind blowing at the registered velocity of 21 miles an hour, and then gracefully descended to earth at the spot selected by the man in the navigators' car.

New South Wales Wheat Yield.

Sydney, N.S.W., Dec. 19.—The official estimate of the wheat yield of New South Wales is 28,570,000 bushels, an increase of 12,500,000 bushels compared with the record of the year 1901. About 18,500,000 bushels are available for export.

Punished, Though Innocent.

Kingston, Dec. 19.—John Mitchell, who served eight months in Kingston Penitentiary for a crime he did not commit, has just been released by order of the Minister of Justice.

HAS A VOTE TO SELL

Charge That the Labor Party in Australia is a Menace.

ONLY THE KING CAN CURB HIM

Some Explicit Views of Mr. Chamberlain and His Tariff Policy Expressed—Frenchman Says British Colonies Talk Arrogantly—Fear Expressed in Germany—Did the Germans Save Waterloo?

London, Dec. 21.—A prominent German State Minister has declared that Chamberlain's colonial zollverein will remain a chimera through his losing sight of the prospect of making a common enemy of Europe and the United States.

Leroy Beaulieu, member of the French Institute, says that England's capital and prestige feeds and maintains them. Any talk of abandoning the Motherland is idle nonsense.

Arnold White warns Englishmen that if Chamberlain becomes Premier no will in the Empire will be able to curb him but that of King Edward.

John Burns says the tariff commission is a packed jury.

A prominent city firm says that a strong syndicate of German business men has been formed to supply the free trade party with unlimited funds to fight Chamberlain.

Lord George Hamilton informs Ealing Conservatives that the opposition to protection is too strong for him to support Balfour.

Winston Churchill, supporting the Liberal candidate at Ludlow, says that protection means a policy of brag and grab.

The Berlin Reichebote declares that if the other British colonies adopt New Zealand's differential tariff Germany will be shut out of the markets of the world.

R. Nash, Sydney, Australia, replying to Chamberlain's question, how to give the colonies a preference without taxing foreign goods, says by cheapening ocean carriage. The News attacks Mr. Pearson, chairman of the Tariff Reform League, because his (Pearson's) Christmas extra was printed in Holland.

The Standard says the tariff commission is indecorous, irregular and disrespectful to the sovereign.

Has A Vote to Sell.

The Mail, referring to the Australian election, says the result is a menace to Australia, as the labor party is ready to sell its vote to the highest bidder, and has loaded the country with debt.

The Leader's Sydney correspondent says the Federal elections are a blow to Chamberlain.

The Daily Chronicle's Melbourne correspondent wires that the election has caused widespread consternation among the Conservatives in that portion of the community. The Melbourne Age, a Government organ, declares there will be no peace so long as the free traders maintain a vestige of the fiscal policy. J. Watson, a prominent labor leader, has denounced the naval subsidy and favored a preference with England.

Did Germans Save England?

Considerable resentment is shown in the English press over the reference to Waterloo made by Emperor William on Saturday at a banquet in honor of the anniversary of the Hanovarian regiments, when the Emperor said the German Legion saved the English at Waterloo. The papers protest against the claim.

Redmond Enters Protest.

John Redmond, speaking at Buninggagin, County Sligo, Ireland, yesterday, strongly protested against decisions of the legal officers at Dublin Castle, which, he said, prevented the proper operation of the Irish Land Act in congested districts by enabling landlords to combine in a refusal to sell grazing lands. He declared the decisions were a gross violation of the Government's pledges, and said that the Irish party would demand their amendment in the coming session of Parliament.

Trouble With U.S. Customs.

Halifax, Dec. 21.—Much annoyance has been caused to passengers by the enforcement of a new customs regulation at U. S. ports. The Dominion Atlantic Railway Liner Boston was detained for two hours at Boston while the passengers on board were compelled to make a declaration as to whether there were dutiable goods in their baggage, and the valuation. The rule is an application of that in force for ocean steamships, where no railway competition being affected there is no cause for complaint. The Canadian steamship companies will agitate for a continuance of the present system, whereby the inspectors examine the baggage of the passengers without declarations.

Bernier is Still Hopeful.

Ottawa, Dec. 21.—Captain Bernier, of Polar expedition fame, says that he has been offered the command of an expedition which will go in search of the North Pole in an airship. Chicago men, he says, are behind the scheme, and they have their plans perfected. The captain, however, has declined the offer, as he is determined to make the dash for the pole at the head of a Canadian expedition. He is still sanguine of the ultimate success of his plans.

Gun Accidently Discharged.

Winnipeg, Dec. 21.—Louis Kaulin of Lourdes shot himself accidentally while returning from Manitou with his father and brother. He died a few hours after the accident, which was caused by the discharge of his gun while jumping in the rig.

Stripped of Honors.

Tien Tian, Dec. 21.—Chang Yi, director of the Northern Railways, has been degraded and stripped of all ranks.

Look on the Bright Side.

The suffer from nervous exhaustion is generally blue and discouraged. He looks on the dark side of things and fears paralysis, locomotor ataxia or insanity. All this is changed by the persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which gradually and naturally rekindles and revitalizes the wasted nerve cells and instils new vigor and energy into the whole system.

THE HUTCHINSON HOME.

Completes Record-Breaking Trip Through Ice From Detroit.

Buffalo, N.Y., Dec. 21.—The steamer J. T. Hutchinson, Captain Smith, which left Detroit on Thursday for this port, arrived here early yesterday under her own steam. The Hutchinson was on the rocks off Keweenaw, Lake Superior. Her trip, a record-breaking one through the ice to Detroit, was resumed on Thursday when she sailed from that port accompanied by the two ice-breakers which convoyed her to clear water in Lake Erie. Every craft with steam up gave her a hearty welcome as she entered the harbor at 7 o'clock.

HALF JURY OF WOMEN.

Their Sympathies Were Enlisted and Mother's Request Granted.

Chicago, Dec. 19.—For the first time in the history of the United States, so far as local records show, a jury composed of six women sat on a case before Judge Honore in the Juvenile Court yesterday. The jury passed on a petition to have Mary McGann, 8 years old, declared a delinquent, and placed in a institution. The mother of the girl declared that her child had been with her all her life and would die if taken away from her. The jury sympathized with the mother and returned a verdict that mother and daughter should be sent to Dunning. The verdict was concurred in by a jury of six men in order to make the verdict legal.

AN ORDINATION TO PRIESTHOOD.

Christ through the Apostles. Christ, Himself had performed the three-fold duties, and his representatives to-day were called upon to do the same.

At the last supper before Christ was delivered up, He conferred upon His apostles the extraordinary powers and they were given authority to teach all the truth. Christ intended also that the power conferred upon the Apostles should likewise be conferred upon priests to the end of time. To Paul and Barnabas was given this power and Paul conferred it upon Titus and Timothy and we would find, said the reverend father, that this Apostolic succession continued to this day.

This power of priesthood, which is a supernatural one, is so great that those upon whom it is conferred are to be obeyed, even as Christ was obeyed. After the ascension of Christ, he sent into the world the Holy Spirit to advise the people, and also to assure them that they will be taught the truth the same as Christ taught it.

The same power which Christ gave the Apostles is possessed by the Priests today, who have authority to make laws and regulations for the spiritual body of the church, and the people have the Divine command to obey their laws.

The most important power possessed by Christ and which has also been conferred upon the priests is that which enables them to offer sacrifices for the people. The words of St. Paul in the text are but a repetition of Christ's words as recorded. Christ gave power to the members of the priesthood, as He also possessed, Himself, to change living sacrifices and inanimate objects, into a sacrifice in commemoration of Christ's death, as a sacrifice. The idea of sacrifice has become deeply impressed upon the minds of all the people of the world. The first instances of sacrifices recorded are those of Cain and Abel. Noah also offered sacrifices as did also all the early inhabitants. The Pagans, although they have mixed with their sacrifices many erroneous ideas, still have the principle deeply impressed upon them.

The significance of the sacrifice is that it reminds us of the fact that if we received what we deserved we should receive death, which is what in reality happens to the object or thing sacrificed. We are all God's creatures, and in offering a sacrifice we beg him to accept it in our place.

The celebration of the Mass is the perfect sacrifice because in it there is everything essential. The authority and effect of the Priest's work is due to his participation in the priesthood of Christ and in the Mass the priest may apply the merits which Christ secured by His death. The powers of the priest, said the speaker, are supernatural, and the ordination confers the great and Divine assistance to do the work of Christ on earth. It is not an easy life, and none but those who have been Divinely called should attempt it. It is impossible without the help of God to perform the duties incidental to the sacred office. In order to preach the true doctrines of Christ he must study and know the word of God. He must sanctify the people and set a good example. This requires that he should live a life of holiness and that he must be different from the ordinary man. He must be a man of prayer, of faith, and above all, of humility. He must possess prudence, because to him is given the power to remit sins. His duty is not only to represent God in the remission of sins, but he must try to prevent it and if necessary offer himself as a sacrifice for his people. To do all this he must depend on God's grace. In conclusion Father McColl heartily welcomed Father Kelly to the ranks of the priesthood and said he was satisfied that in his work he would be successful.

The Bishop then enjoined the recently elevated priest to live a holy life and to consider diligently the order received and the burden placed upon his shoulders.

THE BISHOP'S ADDRESS.

His Lordship briefly addressed the congregation, and said that they had great reason to thank God that He had called one of them to the priesthood. They should be thankful that God had designs upon him from childhood, that He might have another representative who would offer mass, and in the name of Christ, forgive their sins. There was a reason for praising God that in the past fourteen years he had chosen fifteen from the diocese to be ordained for the priesthood and ten for work for the church in other dioceses and in orders in the church. He enjoined his flock to pray God would select their sons and daughters to devote themselves to the work of the church. The Bishop concluded by announcing that the newly-ordained priest would give his blessing individually to those present, and the whole vast congregation passed before the priest, who thus performed the first function of his great office.

Father Kelly celebrated his first Mass this morning at 8 o'clock, when a great many of his friends participated in this solemn service.

The music by the choir was a special feature of the service, opening with Stearns' Mass. During the offertory Miss Annie Simons and Miss L. Kester sang "Veni Creator" by Himmel, and at the blessing the Te Deum was sung. The Ave Verum by H. Millard was sung very sweetly by Miss Annie Simons.

A BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH.

Rev. Father Patrick James Kelly is in relation to the sacred edifice where he was consecrated yesterday, a very Levite in one sense set apart for the priesthood from generation to generation. His grandfather, the late Patrick Kelly, was married in the church—new St. Peter's cathedral—then a plain bare building without seats, where the eye instead of meeting frescoed walls and ceilings, blazing with splendid allegory, rested on the exposed roughly hewn beams of the primitive structure. His father, Mr. Thos. Kelly, was baptised at the same church, confirmed there, married there and has been a worshipper there all his life. The subject of these few lines, Rev. Father Kelly, who was born in Peterborough twenty-four years ago, Nov. 16th, 1879, was also baptised in St. Peter's, took his first communion there, served as altar boy, and there yesterday he arrived at the dignity of the priesthood. He is, therefore, not only a child of the church Catholic, but veritably a child of this particular church. He is doubtless the first priest who has been ordained at St. Peter's with such a record.

Rev. Father Kelly received his preliminary education in the schools of Peterborough, and here, attention may be called to a fact which illustrates both his fine natural ability and also his industry and thoroughness of character. In all of his several school, collegiate, college, university and seminarial courses he never was known to miss an examination and at many he carried off the honours.

His first experience of school life began at the age of six years at Notre Dame Convent here. He still treasures with pride the first little reward card he received at the hands of his teacher, the late sister Ste. Clara, and to the instruction received, the principles instilled by her he credits much of his after-life success. He then attended the Murray street Separate School and in July, 1901, at the age of eleven years, he passed his entrance examination to the Collegiate Institute, carrying off the medal given by the late Rev. Father Rudkins. Here he continued his studies, with such marked success that at the age of fifteen years he passed the examinations for second class teachers' non professional certificate. Rev. Father Kelly is fond of speaking in the highest terms of the kindness and assistance he received from the staff of the Institute, the principal, Mr. Fessenden, being particularly held in esteem. Rev. Father Kelly enjoys also the distinction of being the first student educated in the Collegiate Institute to be ordained at St. Peter's. Then one year later he entered St. Michael's College, Toronto, and after spending a year there went to Ottawa University where he passed one year also. From there he went to the Grand Seminary, Montreal, where he concluded his studies and was ordained a deacon last June. Rev. Father Kelly, as remarked, was very successful in his studies. At St. Michael's College, Toronto, he won the Rev. Bishop O'Connor's silver medal for mathematics, being the first Peterborough boy educated in the public schools of the town to receive this honour. At Ottawa University he also won the silver medal for mathematics, and at the Grand Seminary, where no medals are given, distinction for scholarship is represented by membership of St. Thomas' Academy of which Mr. Kelly was a member for three years. Mr. Kelly was a well balanced boy. While he was so successfully devoted to his studies he was not forgetful of the necessity of mens sana in corpore sano. At the proper times he threw himself actively into manly sports of which he was at the same time as good an exponent as he was an ardent advocate. He was fond of lacrosse and played the game with a will, his last participation in a match being with the T. A. S. team last year. He was one of the originators of the Vatican Lacrosse club, so called from its games being played on "Vatican Park," formerly known as the "Priest's Lot, To show that the ties formed on the field of manly sport are not always temperary it may be mentioned that several members of the old Vatican Lacrosse Team in Rev. Father Kelly's time—some of them of different religious faith—occupied seats together at the ceremony.

Rev. Father Kelly will, no doubt, have a successful priesthood. If he performed the secular and educational duties of his life so conscientiously and thoroughly in his youth, the time when responsibility sits most lightly, he will, no doubt, with matured faculties and a full sense of the awful responsibility he assumed yesterday, perform his sacredotal duties with a thoroughness, zeal and devotion which will, no doubt, redound not only ad Dei gloriam majorem, but also maintain and strengthen him in the high place he holds in the esteem of his family, friends and the citizens generally of his native town.

Mr. Kelly and family are to be congratulated that in practically losing a member of the family he is admitted to the high dignity of the priesthood under conditions which, apart from the religious significance of the occasion constitute a pleasing testimony to the breadth of religious tolerance and the high place Mr. Kelly and his family hold in the esteem of the community. A feature of the gathering was the large number of Protestant citizens occupying prominent positions.

MR. HALL REPLIES,

Town Solicitor Answers Statements Made in Mr. N. T. LaPlante's Letter.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir ,— In your issue of Saturday appears a letter addressed to the Mayor, signed by Mr. N. T. Laplante, in which my name has been mentioned, evidently with the intention of leading the public to believe that while I was acting as Town Solicitor during the negotiations for granting a franchise to the Radial Railway Company, I was also solicitor for that company. Mr. Laplante, or the writer of the letter, might have had the decency to have found out the truth before making such an insinuation, either by asking me, or from other sources open to him. As a matter of fact my firm have never acted for the Radial Railway Company ,beyond obtaining the act of incorporation early in 1902, and for which I received instructions before I had any idea that I would be appointed town solicitor. Since then I have not acted in any way for the company, was not appointed solicitor of the company, and have no interest, direct, or indirect, in it, nor are any of the clients of my firm, or myself, interested in the company.

Yours truly,
R. H. D. HALL.

A LETTER FROM SANTA CLAUS.

My Dear Little Boys and Girls,—

I am back at the old Stand with my pack full of the most interesting Christmas gifts. You'll find me in the Children's section of the Peterborough Bookstore.

I made so many friends here that I wish to meet you all once more, just to give you a bow or a handshake, and to show you the great pile of gifts I have been making for you since last Christmas. You ought to come and take one peep into my sack. Oh! it's a wonderful storehouse, this pack of mine. My workshop is away up at the North Pole where the explorers are trying to get. Up there the nights are long—as long as the months are here, but by the light of the stars I work at my bench with millions of little fairies and busy little elves to help me.

You ought to see my doll factory, girls! It is the greatest shop of all.

Come in and see me when you get a chance and bring your mamma and papa along—I have presents for them too. Good-bye till I see you. You'll find me on the main floor at the back, next to Chambers street.

Your loving friend,
Santa Claus.

Now at the Peterborough Bookstore

Blocks, Dolls, Games, and Books

Naturally the Children's Section is the first place to look for Children's Presents of all descriptions, suitable for the purposes of good old Santa Claus.

Those who look will not be disappointed. The things are here in great variety and at moderate prices.

Jan. 28, Belleville at Napanee.
Feb. 1 ,Napanee at Deseronto.
Feb. 2, Picton at Belleville.
Feb. 4, Napanee at Picton.

The meeting at which this schedule was arranged, was held at Belleville on Friday night, the representatives present being Messrs. M. J. Burns, of Deseronto, W. J. Gorman, of Picton, T. G. Williamson, of Belleville, and B. H. Williams of Napanee.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The track on which the Peterborough Turf Club's winter meet will be held, at the Driving Park, is in first-class shape, and from present prospects the meet will be a successful one.

* * * *

That the management of the last summer meet of the Turf Club was satisfactory, is evident from a letter which the secretary has recently received from Mr. F. Leibler, of Tavistock, in which he asks that a race be arranged for 2.15 or 2.16 pace, in next summer's meet, so that he will be able to enter a horse. Leibler had horses on the track at the last meet, and the treatment he received was evidently satisfactory.

BASKET-BALL.

A SOCIETY FORMED IN Y. M. C. A. HALL

To Promote Municipal Legislation By Majority Vote.

The People's Right to Veto Council's Action Resolutions Adopted by Meeting.

An important meeting to form a federation for majority rule was held in the Y.M.C.A. Hall on Saturday night. Although the attendance was far from being large the aim of the meeting was accomplished and a federation formed for the purpose of securing from aspirants to municipal honours pledges to support the proposal to inaugurate the system of the Initiative and Referendum in municipal affairs. Mr. John McCann, President of the Labour Federation was on motion appointed in the chair. The speaker of the evening was Mr. W. H. Boebuck, of Toronto. The following are the proposed questions to be submitted to candidates for Mayor or Aldermen:

1. Do you believe that the will of the majority should prevail in this city; "majority" meaning a majority of those entitled to vote and who do vote?

2. To give effect to the will of the majority, do you favour the adoption of the people's veto by optional referendum and of the Direct Initiative by petition or collective request?

3. Will you, if elected, use the power of your office to obtain the adoption in the Town Council of rules of procedure providing for the optional referendum and the direct initiative along the lines of the proposed rules of procedure herewith appended?

4. Will you, if elected, use the power of your office to carry out the will of the majority as expressed by any referendum votes that may be taken?

5. Will you, if elected, use the power of your office to submit for the decision of the voters any measure (within the legal powers of the Council) that is asked for by 10 per cent. of the electors.

The next business of the meeting was the foundation of the Federation and Mr. John McCann was elected President and Mr. W. H. Robinson, Secretary. Mr. J. H. McWilliams moved that the President and Secretary wait on the Board of Trade and Labour organizations of the town to ask them to send three representatives each for the Executive Committee of the Federation.—Carried Messrs. F. Faran, W. Montgomery and Jos. Lundy, as not being affiliated with any labour organization, were appointed by the meeting to represent the individuality of the electors of the Executive Committee of the newly formed society.

The following rules of procedure were adopted:

1. Bylaws and resolutions subject to the optional referendum and to the rules of procedure dealing therewith shall be those only which relate to the following matters:

(a) The granting, renewing or extending of any rights or franchises to any person or corporation, giving power to enter upon the streets, or the property of the town, for the purpose of carrying on any undertaking. This clause does not include ordinary leases.

(b) Application for legislation for the purpose of changing the present method of town government.

(c) Application for legislation for the purpose of raising money for town purposes.

(d) Increasing the rate of taxation beyond twenty mills on the dollar for all purposes.

(e) Granting exemptions from taxation on land.

2. After the second reading of each bylaw of the town council relating to the subjects above set forth, a vote of the members present shall be taken, and, if favourable to its passage, and if the bylaw is not subject to compulsory submission to the electors, it shall remain pending for 30 days before it is taken up for third reading. If during those 30 days a petition or collective request signed by ten per cent. or more of the electors on the roll at the last previous municipal elections, shall be presented at the town clerk's office, asking that such pending bylaw shall be submitted to the voters of the town for an expression of opinion, it shall be put to a Referendum vote accordingly.

3. The time of taking such Referendum Vote shall be fixed by the town council, but shall not be later than the then next ensuing municipal election, except when the petition or request is presented later than three weeks before such election, in which case the Referendum Vote shall be taken not later than the second next ensuing municipal election.

4. If a majority of the vote lawfully cast for and against the bylaw shall favour its passage, it shall be read a third time in the council and a vote taken on it by yeas and nays. (Note. — The bylaw will pass, for a majority of the members of the council will have agreed to abide by the will of the voters.) If the bylaw fails to receive the approval of the voters, it shall not go to a third reading.

5. Provided, however, that the foregoing provisions for ascertaining the will of the people shall not apply to any measure classed as urgent, the passage of which is immediately necessary for the preservation of the public peace, health or safety, and which receives a three fourths vote of the entire number of aldermen.

1. Ten per cent. or more of the municipal electors upon the voters' list for the year may by initiative petition request the town council to pass any bylaw or resolution within its legal powers, and may require a referendum vote in the event of refusal. Such initiative petition must be signed by 10 per cent or more of the electors on the roll at the last previous municipal election, and be presented to the Town Clerk or his deputy. The bylaw or resolution asked for may be set forth in full at the head of the petition. If the Council declines to comply with the request of the petitioners, it shall submit, if the petition requests it, such proposed bylaw or resolution to a referendum vote of the municipal electors qualified to vote thereon, on the voters' list for the current year, at a time to be fixed not later than the next municipal election after the filing of the petition, which does not occur within thirty days of the filing of the petition, and if a majority of those voting vote in favour of the proposed bylaw or resolution, such bylaw or resolution shall thereby become enacted or passed, and the Council shall be governed accordingly.

2. Upon the presentation of an initiative petition as above set forth, the council may pass an alternative bylaw or resolution upon the same subject matter and submit it to a referendum vote along with the bylaw asked for by the petitioners. The voting shall be in two parts: First—Do you want a bylaw for.....purposes? Yes or No. Second — Do you prefer the initiated bylaw "a" or the council's bylaw "b"? If a majority of those voting on the first question vote no, neither bylaw shall be carried. If a majority vote yes, then the bylaw having the larger vote shall be enacted and the other lost.

3. Each measure thus initiated shall have precedence over all other measures except appropriations and measures that are immediately necessary for the preservation of the public peace, health or safety, and all proceedings of the Council connected with it shall be completed within two months from the time it was proposed. At least three weeks shall elapse between such completion and the submission of the measure to the voters.

4. Subject to the last clause, the time of submission to the electors shall be fixed by the town council, but shall not be later than the then next ensuing municipal election, except when the proceedings taken by the Council are completed later than three weeks before such election, in which case the submission shall be not later than the second next ensuing municipal election.

THE HILLIARD PURCHASE.

"Another Ratepayer" Writes Endorsing the Scheme of Ald Rush.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—When I saw the by-law to enable the town to buy this farm I was pleased. It showed that our council are looking ahead and preparing to meet future requirements. I will briefly give my reasons for approving the by-law.

1. It will give a suitable site for an isolation hospital.

2. It will give a fine place, good soil, a large orchard and 88 acres of land for a county poor house, which we will be compelled to provide, and which the county will join in paying for and supporting.

3. It will provide sand and gravel for public works, roads, sidewalks, bridges, etc.

4. It has a very large quantity of granite stone which will come in for public works.

5. It is the nearest gravel to town, and we all know that it is the horse hire that makes material for public works so dear.

6. It will save the town from being at the mercy of owners of gravel and sand, who could easily fix prices if the control was in their hands.

7. The Hilliard homestead, the land and four houses the town gets will rent for more than enough to pay the interest of the purchase money.

8. The vacant land on Water street will sell for building lots when the street railway is running.

9. After the gravel is removed the land under it will sell for as much as the present gravel hill.

10. I am surprised at the modest price asked for the property, and would consider it criminal negligence to let the opportunity of getting it slip away.

11. There is no other property suiting so many requirements of the town available, therefore I will heartily support the town in what I consider wise and judicious foresight on their part.

Yours truly,

WHAT LONDON EATS

SEVEN AND A HALF MILLION POUNDS EVERY YEAR.

Three Hundred and Twenty Pounds of Bread to Every Man, Woman and Child—136 Pounds of Meat Per Head—76 Pounds of Fish Yearly for Every Inhabitant—Takes Produce of Three-Quarters of a Million Milch Cows.

The most marvellous feature of the life of London is probably the provision, day by day, with the regularity of a machine, of food for its six-and-a-quarter million inhabitants. From every county in the kingdom, and from every country on the globe, flows in a stream of eatables, on a scale, so vast as to be almost inconceivable.

In an average year over 4,000,000 sacks of flour and 2,500,000 quarters of wheat come in by rail and sea; one-sixth from our own lands, about one-sixth from Canada, Australia and other colonies and four-sixths chiefly from the United States, Russia and India. Enough of this is retained in London to make close on 2,000,000,000 pounds of bread, giving about 320 pounds to every man, woman and child.

To grind the wheat, London has 1,509 millers and millhands, while there are 13,522 bread, biscuit and cake-makers, and 11,516 sellers of bread and confectionery.

It is said that 2 pounds of bread per day is sufficient to support life, and consequently these two thousand million pounds constitute nearly half of London's food.

But quite as important is meat, the muscle-maker.

Only one-third of the meat used in London is home-grown. Each year we increase our dependence on foreign countries. Beef we get from the United States, Argentina, Queensland and New Zealand; mutton from New Zealand, New South Wales, Argentina and Holland; bacon from Canada, the United States and Denmark. Australia sends 10,000 and Belgium 4,000 tons of rabbits; while most of the foreign poultry comes from the northern ports of Russia.

London's Meat Bill.

Altogether, London receives all, or dead, 9,000,000 cwt., or 1,008,000,000 lbs. Beef is the largest item, amounting to 4,000,000 cwt., mutton and lamb the next, totalling 3,400,000 cwt., while the remaining 1,600,000 cwt. are made up of bacon, pork, hams, rabbits, poultry and game.

If all this meat were consumed in London every inhabitant would have 160 lbs. per annum; but much of it is distributed to the provinces, so that London's real consumption is about 125 lbs. per head, equal to 782,000,000 lbs. for Greater London.

To deal with the supply of cattle, sheep and dead meat, London has 278 slaughterers, 947 provision-curers, 14,567 butchers, 6,422 provision dealers, as well as 185 cattle, sheep and pig salesmen, and 816 drovers. These are the figures of the County of London only.

Of fish, the supply is immense. At Billingsgate Market over 180,000 tons, or 403,200,000 lbs. are disposed of in a year. Shadwell deals with seventeen or eighteen thousand tons. And a large quantity is sold by salesmen by private contract. Then there is the fresh-water fish, some twenty thousand hundredweight of salmon, principally from Scotland and Ireland, being sold at Billingsgate, and large quantities otherwise disposed of. There are thirty-six million oysters from Whitstable, Burham and Southend, and ten or more millions of foreign oysters. And there is a vast quantity of tinned salmon, sardines, etc., to be added.

Totalling up all sorts of fish, it is found that Londoners eat 75 lbs. per head, which is equal to 469,000,000 lbs. for the whole population.

The fish is disposed of by 778 curers, 6,592 fish and poultry-dealers, and several thousand costermongers, carriers, porters, etc.

Produce of 750,000 Cows.

The milk of 245,000 cows is consumed in London, and if we add the cheese and butter to this, probably London takes the produce of three-quarters of a million milch cows. One third of a pint of milk per day seems a rather small quantity for each inhabitant. But multiplied by 365, and then by the population, it amounts to the enormous quantity of 82,000,000 gallons. This includes the 50,000,000 gallons we get by rail from the home and midland counties, the 1,000,000 gallons that comes by road from the surrounding country, the 8,000,000 gallons drawn from London's own cows, and the vast quantity of condensed milk which comes principally from Switzerland.

Of butter, London consumes 94,000,000 lbs. a year, which gives every man, woman and child 15 lbs.—two-thirds of an ounce per day. With the exception of the condensed variety, all our milk comes from English cows; but of butter London gets 90 per cent. from foreign countries—Denmark, Normandy, Australia, Canada, the United States and the Argentine Republic.

Cheese shows a better complexion, for six of the twelve pounds which Londoners eat per head is made at home. The other six pounds come mainly from Canada and the United States; but the higher-class cheeses, Gorgonzola, Camembert, Brie, etc., come from the Continent. The total consumption of cheese in London is 75,000,000 lbs.

Then there is margarine, of which it is estimated that London people eat 5 lbs. per head in its own name, with probably as much more under the name of Dorset or Brittany butter, say 60,000,000 lbs., total consumption.

Not a Billion Eggs.

The number of eggs eaten is not ascertainable. Each Londoner is supplied with 80 eggs by Russia, Germany, Belgium, France, Denmark and Canada. But what numbers come in from our own farms is unknown. If we put it at 80 more, then the total consumption of eggs is 1,000,000,000. Placed end to end they would circle the globe nearly three times.

The thousands of tons of vegetables consumed are incalculable. At least 160 lbs. of potatoes are eaten per head, or a total of 1,000,000,000 lbs., most of which come from Cambridge, Huntingdon and Lincolnshire. Over a million bushels of foreign onions are discharged at the Port of London, but all are not kept for consumption. If we add the cabbages, turnips, carrots, beetroot, peas, cauliflowers, artichokes, etc., probably not far short of one million tons of vegetable food is eaten or wasted in London.

Of apples, oranges, lemons, grapes, plums, raisins, currants, nuts and other fruits, 225,000 tons are imported into London, besides the immense home supply.

Lastly, there is sugar, of which London consumes 600,000,000 lbs.; tea, which it uses to the amount of 38,000,000 lbs.; coffee, 6,000,000 lbs., and cocoa, 7,000,000 lbs.

And for the disposal of these and other similar foods we have 496 sugar refiners, 4,758 jam and sweet-makers, 939 cocoa and chocolate-makers, 1,259 makers of vinegar, mustard, pickles, etc., and 18,128 grocers.

Taking men, women and children, Londoners eat the following quantities weekly:

Weekly Consumption.

Bread	6	0
Meat	2	6
Fish	1	3
Butter and Margarine		6
Eggs, six		5
Potatoes	3	0
Other vegetables and fruits	3	8
Sugar	1	15
Milk.....2 1-3 pints
Cheese		13
	19	13

What Professor Moleschott says the average adult ought to eat is:

	lb.	oz.
Bread	7	11
Meat	5	14
Butter	1	1
Potatoes	4	0
Vegetables	3	3
Sugar	1	1
	23	3

Taking into account the large number of children in London, it is obvious that its inhabitants are remarkably well fed.

Deck Hand For His Health.

"That man can speak more languages correctly than you can count on the fingers of one hand," said a railroad official, pointing to a deck hand on a North river ferryboat.

"He translated the European correspondence of a large importing house until his health gave way from the confinement. We live in the same town, and one evening he came to me and asked for a job as deck hand.

"'I have to have an outdoor job,' he said, 'or you'll be a pallbearer at my funeral.'

"I tried to find something that would pay better, but there was nothing that would give him as much good air, and he got the job. Now that his health is restored he is loath to give it up. He had saved some money, and he pieces out his income by doing translating at home, so he gets on pretty well.

"Yes, you'll easily find several score of men on North river ferryboats who are working as deck hands for their health. The deck of one of these big boats is a sanitarium, to say nothing of the grave."—New York Times.

The Chinese Love For the Zigzag.

The straight line is an abomination to the Chinese. They endeavor to avoid it in their streets and buildings and have banished it completely where country field paths are concerned. They will always substitute a curve whenever possible, or they will torture it into a zigzag.

In districts not subject to the influence of the foreigner the houses and temples are characterised by curved, often peaked, roofs, ornamented with fantastic modifications of the "myriad stroke pattern." The inhabitants of such regions are seen found to have a mental world to correspond. The straight line is scouted. They think in curves and zigzags. To the Chinese mind the straight line is suggestive of death and demons. It belongs not to the heaven above or to the earth beneath. In a true horizon line are seen the "undulations of the dragon." Therefore, argue the Chinese, the straight line pertains to hades.

A "Hot Time" Christmas.

Australia has hard work to keep cool when it is time for a visit from Santa Claus, for it is then midsummer with its people, who are doing their wisest to get away from the terrible heat of the terrible sun. Funny though it may seem, they have in mind at this time the picture of the jolly and generous old Northman saint who is making the "old country" folk happy for at least one day in the year.

NEWFOUNDLAND.

Sir William Whiteway Inaugurates Strong Movement Canadianways.

Sir William Whiteway, a former Premier of Newfoundland, has inaugurated a strong movement in favor of confederation with Canada. His campaign promises better results than any previous effort to bring the island into the Dominion. Newfoundland is not prosperous. Naturally the people attribute the lack of prosperity to the island's isolation and they demand a change of some kind. Until recent years Newfoundland sentiment was not favorable to political amalgamation with Canada. To the islanders confederation meant absorption, and from this fate their rugged independence shrank. They preferred closer commercial relations with Canada or the United States, thinking that this expedient would place them on the high road to prosperity and preserve their identity. In negotiating commercial treaties, Newfoundland has not been successful. Twice the island Government was on the verge of effecting a reciprocity treaty with the United States and each time the Imperial Government declined to ratify the treaty. That Newfoundland at heart is soundly British is shown by the comparatively slight resentment that followed the disallowance of the Bond-Blaine treaty at a time when the island was in the depths of adversity. The people of Newfoundland are not satisfied with present conditions, but they are hostile to the idea of annexation with the United States. The island will never pass from British sovereignty unless it is thrown away by stupid diplomacy.

The pro-British sentiment of Newfoundland has been more than once put to the test, and it has always conquered. It has calmly withstood the disallowance of commercial treaties that seemed to promise a healthy prosperity and it has viewed with commendable calmness French encroachments on what it believes to be its heaven-born rights. The French shore question is a standing menace to the happy relations existing between Newfoundland and the Mother Country. Why the question was not settled long ago is a puzzle to those who understand the really trivial issues involved. The British Government has never taken the question up with energy and persistence, probably because the issue promised no serious complications with foreign powers. By the treaty which ceded Canada to England, the Islands of Miquelon and St. Pierre were retained by France and to the French were conceded fishing rights on a specified stretch of Newfoundland shore. The contested point is whether those rights are concurrent or exclusive, whether the French alone should be permitted to fish along the shore allotted to them, or whether they should enjoy these rights in common with British subjects. British diplomats admit that this French shore question can be easily adjusted. Now that the relations between Britain and France are on an unusually friendly footing it is not improbable that the French shore question will soon be settled.

Settlement of the French shore question is undoubtedly a preliminary condition to bringing Newfoundland into the Dominion. No Dominion Government would be anxious to deal with such an embarrassing issue. Sir James Winter, who was one of the British Commissioners at the Anglo-American conference, held at Quebec, and later at Washington, was at the time Premier of Newfoundland, and a strong advocate of confederation. He approached Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues in an informal way, but he received no encouragement. The French shore question was the stumbling block then as it is today. True, the people of Newfoundland are not unanimous in their demand for union with Canada, but there is no such hostility to the movement as was manifested by New Brunswick and Nova Scotia to confederation and which was successfully overcome. If Great Britain and Canada do not do their utmost to assist the present movement in favor of confederation they will lose an opportunity which may not soon present itself again, says a writer in Toronto Sunday World.

The Yuletide Log.

A custom at one time prevalent in England and still observed in some of the northern districts of the old country is that of placing an immense log of wood—sometimes the root of a great tree—in the wide chimney place. This is often called the Yule log, and it was on Christmas eve that it was put on the wide hearth. Around it would gather the entire family, and its entrance was the occasion of a great deal of ceremony. There were music and rejoicing, while the one authorized to light it was obliged to have clean hands. It was always lighted with a brand left over from the log of a previous year.

SON KILLS HIS FATHER.

Reports Attack on His Mother and Murder Results.

Saginaw, Mich., Dec. 19.—August Wienke was killed Thursday morning by his 20-year-old son Emil. The elder Wienke returned home intoxicated. He awakened his wife and began to quarrel with her. He had been in bed but a short time when he exclaimed, "Well, I might as well choke you to death now as any time." With that he attacked his wife. She ran into the sitting room, where the struggle was continued. Emil, hearing the noise, ran into the sitting room, seized the shotgun, poured its contents into his father's breast. "Did you do right?" murmured the elder Wienke. Then he fell off and expired almost instantly. Emil then tried to shoot himself, but was prevented by his mother. He left home and went towards the river, was caught and locked up.

UNREST IN HONDURAS.

Enemies of the President of Honduras Want to Oust Him.

Mobile, Ala., Dec. 19.—Advices received here by steamer indicates that another revolution is imminent in Honduras and that it is expected to take place soon after the first of the year. It is expected to be fostered by ex-President Sierra with the purpose of ousting President Bonilla. On his retirement from the executive chair of Honduras, President Sierra named Senor Arrias for president, and he was given the position. Then Bonilla organized a revolution and overthrew Arrias, who is now an exile and in prison.

Boy's Peculiar Death.

Victoria, B.C., Dec. 19.—Jack Kentville, aged 11, was sent from home on an errand Thursday morning. Yesterday morning he was found dead in a hole dug for a telephone pole. He had fallen in head-first, and was drowned in the water at the bottom of the hole.

Livery Drivers Strike.

Chicago, Dec. 19.—Sixteen hundred livery drivers, backed by every teamsters' union in Chicago, struck yesterday. Nearly 400 livery stables are completely tied up. The men have been receiving $12 a week of seven days. The demand is for an increase of $2 a week.

Mill Will Close.

New Haven, Conn., Dec. 19.—On account of the refusal of skilled laborers of the New Haven Iron and Steel Co. to accept a ten per cent. reduction in wages that mill will close to-night for an indefinite period. About 400 men will be throwa out of work.

Gas Company Wins.

Windsor, Dec. 19.—Magistrate Bartlett yesterday morning heard the case of Government Gas Inspector A. F. Nash v. The Windsor Gas Co., and handed down a decision in favor of the latter, saddling the Government with costs.

Croupy Coughs and Asthma Gasps

Are Alike Relieved and Cured by the Soothing, Healing Influence of

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE.

Thousands of mothers feel grateful to Dr. Chase because this great medicine has been the means of saving a darling child when frantically struggling for breath—a victim of croup.

It also frees the asthma sufferer from the dreadful paroxysms which cause him such keen agony and cures asthma, as has been proven in a hundred cases.

The effects of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine are both thorough and far reaching and it cures when ordinary cough medicines have little or no effect.

From childhood to old age this great treatment for ailments of the throat and lungs stands as a guard which prevents coughs and colds reaching the lungs and developing into pneumonia and consumption.

Mrs. A. A. Vanbuskirk, Robinson street, Moncton, N.B., states:

"For years I have used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for my children whenever they take cold. I used it first with a severe form of asthma. We have never tried anything in the way of a cough medicine that worked so satisfactorily. It seemed to go right to the diseased parts and brought speedy relief."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is sold by all dealers at 25 cents a bottle, family size (three times as much) 60 cents. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every bottle. 6

Author of "Under the Sun."

Her composure forsook her for the moment, and she bit her lip cruelly.

"Don't," she whispered. "I am not to blame. I never dreamed it would go so far. Why should people"—

"Why?" he interposed ironically.

Susan pulled herself together. "Yes, why?" she repeated defiantly. "Can women prevent men from making fools of themselves any more than they can prevent them from amusing themselves as they will? Today it is this toy, to-morrow another. At length"—bitterly—"a woman comes to consider herself only a toy."

Her companion regarded her curiously. "Well, well!" he ejaculated finally. "Losing at cards doesn't agree with your temper."

"Nor being worsted by Saint-Prosper with yours," she retorted quickly.

Mauville looked virulent, but Susan, feeling that she had retaliated in ample measure, recovered her usual equanimity of temper and placed a conciliatory hand sympathetically on his arm.

"We have both had a good deal to try us, haven't we? But how stupid men are!" she added suddenly. "As if you could not find other consolation!"

He directed toward her an inquiring glance.

"Some time ago, while I was acting in London," resumed Susan thoughtfully, "the leading lady refused to receive the attentions of a certain odious English lord. She was to make her appearance in a piece upon which her reputation was staked. Mark what happened. She was hissed—hissed from the stage. My lord led this hostile demonstration, and all his hired claqueurs joined in. She was ruined; ruined!" concluded Susan, smiling amiably.

"You are ingenious, Mistress Susan, not to say a trifle diabolical. Your plan"—

She opened her eyes widely. "I have suggested no plan," she interrupted hurriedly.

"Well, let us sit down, and I will tell you about a French officer who— But here is a quiet corner, Mistress Susan, and if you will promise not to repeat it I will regale you with a bit of interesting gossip."

"I promise; they always do," she laughed.

For such a frivolous lady Susan was an excellent listener. She who on occasions chattered like a magpie was now silent as a mouse, drinking in the other's words with parted lips and sparkling eyes. First he showed her the letter Francois had brought him. Unmarked by postal indications, the missive had evidently been intrusted to a private messenger of the governor whose seal it bore. Dated about three years previously, it was written in a somewhat illegible but not unintelligible scrawl, the duke's own handwriting.

"I send you, my dear marquis," began the duke, "a copy of the secret report of the military tribunal appointed to investigate the charges against your kinsman, Lieutenant Saint-Prosper, and regret the finding of the court should have been one of guilty of treason.

"Saint-Prosper and Abd-el-Kader met near the tomb of a marabout. From him the French officer received a famous ruby which he thrust beneath his saboot, the first fee of their compact. That night, when the town lay sleeping, a turbaned host armed with yataghans stole through the flowering cactuses. Sesame! The gate opened to them; they swarmed within. The soldiers, surprised, could render little resistance. The ruthless invaders cut them down while they were sleeping or before they could sound the alarm. The bravest blood of France flowed lavishly in the face of the treacherous onslaught—blood of men who had been his fastest friends, among whom he had been so popular for his dauntless courage and devil-may-care temerity. But a period, fearfully brief, and the beloved tricolor was trampled in the dust. The barbarian flag of the emir floated in its place.

"All these particulars and the part Saint-Prosper played in the terrible drama Abd-el-Kader, who is now our prisoner, has himself confessed. The necessity for secrecy you, my dear marquis, will appreciate. The publicity of the affair now would work incalculable injury to the nation. It is imperative to preserve the army from the taint of scandal. The nation hangs on a thread. God knows there is iniquity abroad. I, who have labored for the honor of France and planted her flag in distant lands, look for defeat not through want of bravery, but from internal causes. A matter like this might lead to a popular uprising against the army. Therefore the king wills it shall be buried by his faithful servants."

As Mauville proceeded Susan remained motionless, but when he concluded she leaned back with a pleased smile.

"Well?" he said finally.

"How piquantly wicked he is!" she exclaimed.

"Piquantly, indeed!" repeated the land baron.

"And he carries it without a twinge! What a petrified conscience! That accounts for his unwillingness to talk about Africa," went on Susan. "Soldiers, as a rule, you know, like to tell all about their sanguinary exploits. But the tented field was a forbidden topic with him. And once when I asked him about Algiers he was almost rudely evasive."

"He probably lives in constant fear his secret will become known," said Mauville thoughtfully. "As a matter of fact, the law provides that no person is to be indicted for treason unless within three years after the offense. The tribunal did not return an indictment. The three years have just expired. Did he come to America to make sure of these three years?

But Susan's thoughts had flitted to another feature of the story.

"How strange my marquis should be connected with the case! What an old compliment monger he was! He vowed he was deeply smitten with me."

"And then went home and took to his bed!" added Mauville grimly.

"You wretch!" said the young woman playfully. "So that is the reason the dear old molly coddle did not take me to any of the gay suppers he promised? Is it not strange Saint-Prosper has not met him?"

"You forget the marquis has been confined to his room since his brief, but disastrous, courtship of you. His infatuation seems to have brought him to the verge of dissolution."

"Was it not worth the price?" she retorted, rising. "But I see my sister and Adonis are going, so I must be off too. So glad to have met you!"

"You are no longer angry with me?"

"No; you are very nice," she said. "And you have forgiven me?"

"Need you ask?" pressing her hand. "Good evening, Mistress Susan!"

"Good evening. Oh, by the way, I have an appointment with Constance to rehearse a little scene together this evening. Would you mind loaning me that letter?"

"With pleasure; but remember your promise."

"Promise?" repeated the young woman.

"Not to tell."

"Oh, of course," said Susan.

"But if you shouldn't"—

"Then?"

"Then you might say the marquis, your friend and admirer, gave you the letter. It would, perhaps, be easier for you to account for it than for me."

Susan's feet fairly danced as she flew toward the St. Charles and burst into Constance's room, brimful of news and importance. She remained there for some time, and when she left it was noteworthy her spirits were still high.

CHAPTER XXIII.

A VERSATILE dramatic poet is grim Destiny, making with equal facility tragedy, farce, burletta, mask or mystery. The world is his inn, and, like the wandering master of interludes, he sets up his stage in the courtyard beneath the windows of mortals, takes out his figures and evolves charming comedies, stirring melodramas, spirited harlequinades and moving divertisement. But it is in tragedy his constructive ability is especially apparent, and his characters, tripping along unsuspectingly in the sunny byways, are suddenly confronted by the terrifying mask and realize life is not all pleasant pastime and that the Greek philosophy of retribution is nature's law, preserving the unities. When the time comes the master of events, adjusting them in prescribed lines, reaches by stern obligation the avoidless conclusion.

Consulting no law but his own will, the Marquis de Ligne had lived as though he were the autocrat of fate itself instead of one of its servants, and therefore was surprised when the venerable playwright prepared the unexpected denouement. In pursuance of this end, it was decreed by the imperious and incontrovertible dramatist of the human family that this crabbed, vicious, antiquated marionette should wend his way to the St. Charles on a particular evening. Since the day at the races the eccentric nobleman had been ill and confined to his room, but now he was beginning to hobble around, and, immediately with returning strength, sought diversion.

"Impossible!" he murmured.

"Francois," he said, "what is there at the theater tonight?"

"Comic opera, my lord."

The marquis made a grimace. "Comic opera outside of Paris!" he exclaimed, with a shrug of the shoulders.

"A new actress makes her debut at the St. Charles."

"Let it be the debut, then! Perhaps she will fall, and that will amuse me."

"Yes, my lord."

"And, by the way, Francois, did you see anything of a large envelope, a buff colored envelope, I thought I left in my secretary?"

"No, my lord." But Francois became just a shade paler.

"It is strange," said the marquis half to himself, "what could have become of it. I destroyed other papers, but not that. You are sure, Francois, you did not steal it?"

By this time the servant's knees began to tremble, and had the marquis' eyesight been better he could not have failed to detect the other's agitation. But the valet assumed a bold front as he asked:

"Why should I have stolen it?"

"True, why," grumbled the marquis. "It would be of no service to you. No; you didn't take it. I believe you honest in this case."

"Thank you, my lord."

"After all, what does it matter?" muttered the nobleman to himself. "What's in a good name today, with traitors within and traitors without? 'Tis love's labor lost to have protected it. We've fostered a military nest of traitors. The scorpions will be faithful to nothing but their own ends. They'll fight for any master."

Recalled to his purpose of attending the play by Francois' bringing from the wardrobe sundry articles of attire, the marquis underwent an elaborate toilet, recovering his good humor as this complicated operation proceeded. Indeed by the time it had reached a triumphant end and the valet had set the marquis before a mirror the latter had forgotten his dissatisfaction at the government in his pleasure with himself.

"Too much excitement is dangerous, is it?" he mumbled. "I am afraid there will be none at all. A stage struck young woman, a doll-like face probably, a milk and water performance! Now, in the old days actors were artists. Yes, artists!" he repeated as if he had struck a chord that vibrated in his memory.

Arriving at the theater, he was surprised at the scene of animation—the line of carriages, the crowd about the doors and in the entrance hall. Evidently the city eagerly sought novelty, and Barnes' company, offering new diversion after many weeks of opera, drew a fair proportion of pleasure seekers to the portals of the drama. The noise of rattling wheels and the banging of carriage doors, the aspect of many fair ladies, irreproachably gowned; the confusion of voices from venders hovering near the gallery entrance, imparted a cosmopolitan atmosphere to the surroundings.

"You'd think some well known player was going to appear, Francois!" grumbled the marquis as he thrust his head out of his carriage. "Looks like a theater off the Strand. And there's an orange girl, a dusky Peggy!"

The vehicle of the nobleman drew up before the brilliantly lighted entrance. Mincingly the marquis dismounted, assisted by the valet. Within he was met by a logs director, who with the airs of a Chesterfield bowed the people in and out.

"Your ticket, sir," said this courteous individual, scraping unusually low.

The marquis waved his hand toward his man, and Francois produced the bits of pasteboard. Escorted to his box, the nobleman settled himself in an easy chair, after which he stared impudently and inquisitively around him.

Having taken note of his surroundings to his satisfaction, the marquis at length condescended to turn his eyeglass deliberately and quizzically to the stage. His sight was not the best, and he gazed for some time before discerning a graceful figure and a pure, oval face, with dark hair and eyes.

"Humph! Not a bad stage presence!" he thought. "Probably plenty of beauty, with a paucity of talent! That's the way nowadays. The voice—why, where have I heard it before? A beautiful voice! What melody, what power, what richness! And the face"—Here he wiped the moisture from his glasses. "If the face is equal to the voice she has an unusual combination in an artist."

Again he elevated the glass. Suddenly his attenuated frame straightened, his hand shook violently, and the glasses fell from his nerveless fingers.

"Impossible!" he murmured. But the melody of those tones continued to fall upon his ears like a voice from the past.

When the curtain went down on the first act there was a storm of applause, and Constance as Adrienne Lecouvreur, radiant in youth and the knowledge of success, was called out several times. In the loges all the lattices were pushed up, "a compliment to any player," said Strawa. To the marquis the ladies in the loges were only reminiscent of the fashionable dames with bare shoulders and glittering jewels in the side boxes of old Drury Lane leaning from their high tribunals to applaud the Adrienne of twenty years ago.

He did not sit in a theater in New Orleans now, but in London town, with a woman by his side who bent beneath the storm of words she knew were directed at her.

They were applauding now, or was it but the mocking echo of the past? The curtain had descended, but went up again, and the actress stood with flowers showered around her. Save that she was in the springtime of life, while the other had entered summer's season; that her art was tender and romantic rather than overwhelming and tragic, she was the counterpart of the actress he had deserted in London, a faithful prototype, bearing the mother's eyes, brow and features; a moving, living picture of the dead, as though the grave had rolled back its stone and she had stepped forth, young once more, trusting and innocent.

Could it be possible it was but a likeness his imagination had converted into such vivid resemblance?

Overwrought and excitable, he did not dare remain for the latter portion of the drama. Better leave before the last act, he told himself, and, dazed by the reappearance of that vision, the old man fairly staggered from the box.

The curtain fell for the last time, and Barnes, with exultation, stood watching in the wings. She had triumphed, his little girl; she had won the great, generous heart of New Orleans. He clapped his hands furiously, joining in the evidences of approval, and, when the ovation finally ceased and she approached, the old manager was so overcome he had not a word to say. She looked at him questioningly, and he who had always been her instructor folded her fondly to his breast.

"I owe it all to you," she whispered.

"Pooh!" he answered. "You stole fire from heaven. I am but a theatrical, bombastic, barnstorming Thespian."

"Would you spoil me?" she interrupted tenderly.

"You are your mother over again, my dear! If she were only here now! But where is Saint-Prosper? He has not yet congratulated you? He, our good genius, whose generosity has made all this possible!" And Barnes half turned, when she placed a detaining hand on his arm.

"No, no!"

"Why, my dear, have you and he"—

"Is it not enough that you are pleased?" replied Constance hastily, with a glance so shining he forgot all further remonstrances.

"Pleased!" exclaimed Barnes. "Why, I feel as gay as Momus! But we'll sing Te Deum later at the festive board. Go now and get ready!"

ACCIDENTAL?

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death on the man who fell from the window ledge on which he had fallen asleep. But the death was really due to carelessness which made the accident possible. There are a great many lives suddenly terminated as a result of carelessness, although the medical certificate may read "heart failure." When a man takes chances with his stomach and neglects the warning symptoms of disease, he is carelessly inviting calamity.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food, which makes strength. It stimulates the liver, cures biliousness, and removes bilious impurities from the blood.

"I had been troubled with a pain in lower part of my stomach for three years, so severe I thought it would kill me in time," writes Mr. Aaron Van Dam, of (Kensington) 259 110th St., Chicago, Ill. "I could hardly work. I felt like a big weight hanging on me and got so bad that I had to take medicine. I used Stomach Bitters for a time, but it did no good so I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce for advice, which he gave me immediately. I followed his directions; used two bottles of his medicine and was cured. I had a torpid liver which was troubling me instead of cramps (as I thought), so Dr Pierce told me. I have pleasure in living now, have gained in weight 15 pounds since then."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They do not beget the pill habit.

OTONABEE POWER COMPANY'S POSITION

With Respect to Street Lighting Contract.

Extract From Affidavits to Show That Peterborough Radial Railway Co. and Peterborough Light and Power Co. Were not Connected.

The Otonabee Power Company have handed to the Examiner, for publication, their report on the proceedings to set aside the street lighting bylaw.

The only interest the Otonabee Power Company had in the matters engaging the attention of the council, was to see that the street lighting was put up to fair competition, and that the lowest tenderer would be awarded the contract. It was further contended that if the council desired to give the Peterborough Railway a bonus, then the amount of the bonus should be stated, and the ratepayers of Peterborough should be asked to vote upon the question. That would have been taking the ratepayers into the confidence of the council, and transacting the affairs of the town above board and in a straightforward manner. The council took a different course. They conceived the brilliant idea of coupling the street lighting franchise and the street railway franchise together, and sought to award the street lighting franchise to an amalgamated company, which was supposed to be composed of the American Cereal Company shareholders, at the modest sum of $60 per lamp per annum for over one hundred lamps for ten years, and also to grant to the same company the street railway franchise on very favourable terms for the term of thirty years. These statements were made public at the time, and the move was regarded as a dexterous way to avoid the not prohibiting bonuses without the consent of the ratepayers.

About this time the Otonabee Power Company put in a tender to supply the town with the same quantity of light at the sum of only $35 per lamp per annum, and offered to install the very latest alternating current enclosed arc lamp of 2,000 candle power capacity that the Canadian General Electric Company could manufacture.

The difference between these two propositions was no less than $2,500 per annum for ten years, or in round numbers, $25,000. That was too large a sum to attempt to justify, and the Mayor evidently thought that it was a part of his duty to appeal to Mr. Robert Stuart for directions, and to solve "the difficulties of the situation." The following is a copy of the letter the Mayor wrote to Mr. Robert Stuart:

"Peterborough, April 17, 1903.

"Dear Sir, — You will, no doubt, have been advised, that contemporaneous with Mr. Dennistoun's proposals to the council in reference to electric light and street railway, came also one from the Otonabee Power Company to furnish lights at $35 per lamp. This apparent bonus of $2,500 per annum for the street railway is clearly more than public opinion would justify the council in giving. Resulting discussion and enquiry have further elicited the fact that modern power energy lamps can be operated at less cost with more satisfactory results than our present class of high energy lamps.

"Expert advice is now being obtained on the whole subject of street lighting as applicable to our local conditions.

"Though there will probably be opposition the majority of the council are decidedly anxious to effect an arrangement with you, if possible, and neither the coupling of the lighting contract and the street railway franchise, nor the thirty years duration of the latter, will be obstacles, if the terms can in other respects be brought within the radius of moderate public opinion. It would be fair to the council, however, that they should have details of the franchise part of the proposition before them also, before making a decision in regard to either, as it would be trying, if possibly after turning the Otonabee Power Company down, they should find themselves unable to agree with you as to these.

"I am giving Hon. G. A. Cox and Mr. Dennistoun copies of this letter also. These gentlemen fully appreciate the difficulties of the situation.

"Yours truly,

"(Signed) G. M. Roger.

"Mr. Robert Stuart,

"American Cereal Company,

"Chicago, Ill."

From the above letter it clearly appears that the Mayor recognized that the Otonabee Power Company's offer was $2,500 per annum lower than the offer of the proposed amalgamated company, "that modern power energy lamps can be operated at less cost, with more satisfactory results than can our present class of high energy lamps," that it would be necessary to "turn the Otonabee Power Company down," and that the Mayor "appreciated the difficulties of the situation."

The council then went into committee and held its secret sessions, to which the Otonabee Power Company were not invited, although the opposition companies were invited to be present and did attend the meetings. How were the "difficulties of the situation" overcome? Who was to pay for the cost of removing the snow from the streets? How was the Otonabee Power Company to be "turned down"? How was the payment of $2,500 per year more for street lighting to the Peterborough Light and Power Company to be overcome? How was the "radius of moderate public opinion" to be circumvented?

The answer to the "difficulties of the situation" was easy. The two propositions could be separated. The street lighting franchise could be given to the Peterborough Light and Power Company at $1,400 per year more than the Otonabee Power Company had offered to do it for, and the street railway franchise could be granted to the Peterborough Radial Railway Company. The excuse for not awarding the lighing contract to the Otonabee Power Company could be given, that their proposed lamp was not satisfactory to the "expert."

The reader will say: That cannot be so, because he heard nothing of it prior to the passing of the two bylaws. He never heard at that time that neither Mr. Robert Stuart nor any member of the Cereal Company, were not to have one dollar's worth of interest in the Peterborough Radial Railway Co. He was not aware that the thirty year street railway franchise was to be granted to practically the same interests that ran the old railway under the ground. But so it is, and here is the proof taken from the sworn affidavit of Mr. T. E. Bradburn fyled in court:

"I, Thomas Evans Bradburn, of the Town of Peterborough, in the County of Peterborough, gentleman, make oath, and say:

"1. I am the President of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, Limited.

"2. There is no existing agreement or understanding whereby the Peterborough Radial Railway Company will receive any benefit or advantage from the street lighting contract entered into between the Town of Peterborough and the Peterborough Light and Power Company Limited, for the ten years following the 1st day of January, 1904.

"3. The suggested amalgamation of the two companies referred to in April 1903 was never proceeded with and though negotiations were had for that purpose, nothing was accomplished and the street lighting contract entered into between the Town of Peterborough and the Peterborough Light and Power Company, Limited, is not shared in any way with any other person or corporation, nor are any persons or corporations other than the shareholders of the said Peterborough Light and Power Company, interested in the moneys payable under said contract either directly or indirectly.

"4. With the exception of myself, no person holds any stock in both the Peterborough Light and Power Company, Limited, and the Peterborough Radial Railway Company. I hold ten shares in the former and 250 shares in the latter Company. There is no arrangement for the transfer of shares from the shareholders of one Company to the shareholders of the other Company or anything of that kind for the purpose of giving either Company or the shareholders thereof an interest in the contracts of the other Company, but each Company is carrying on business bona fide and entirely separately and distinct in every particular from the other of said Companies, and I deny that there is any secret understanding between the companies as set forth in the affidavits fyled in support of this motion."

Both Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, the Solicitor for the American Cereal Company, and Mr. J. C. Shook, the President of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company, made affidavits corrobating the above statements of Mr. Bradburn.

The bylaw granting the franchise to the Peterborough Light and Power Company, Limited, was accordingly passed giving them $14,000 extra for street lighting.

The bylaw was passed giving the Peterborough Radial Railway Company, but not the Cereal Company, a thirty year franchise of our streets. The Otonabee Power Company was "turned down." The ratepayers whose assessments were lately increased, were left to pay the cost of shovelling snow. And the Mayor and Council congratulated themselves that they had overcome the "difficulties of the situation" and were still within the "radius of moderate public opinion."

The Otonabee Power Company would not be "turned down." They felt that they had power to spare to the Town at moderate rates. They felt that they had reduced the cost of domestic lighting to the citizens of Peterborough at least $20,000 per annum, and that the street lighting would stand a similar reduction.

The representatives of the Otonabee Power Company applied to the Courts and Mr. Justice Meredith set the Street Lighting Bylaw aside with costs against the Town. Mr. E. E. A. DuVernet the Counsel for the Otonabee Power Company, thus reports the decision of the Court:—

"In giving judgment His Lordship said that he could come to no other conclusion than that there had been a desire on the part of the Aldermen men to favour the Peterborough Light and Power Company and to give them an indirect bonus or such substantial advantage as amounted to a bonus under the Act, and he accepted the affidavits and statements of the Aldermen who made affidavits that the primary motive in doing this was to get the Radial Railway introduced.

"The learned judge commented rather strongly on the action of the Mayor whose letter seemed to indicate that he was somewhat in the power of the promoters of these two companies.

"He seemed to consider the objections made to the tender of the Otonabee Power Company trifling and unsatisfactory and intimated that the Aldermen were trustees and should have conducted the business in the same manner as if they were acting in no other capacity. He suggested that no Alderman would make a loss of $1,400 a year in his own business simply because an offer had been put in at a late date. In fact this reason appeared to him that they were not doing themselves justice in putting forward this reason."

It now appears from the Mayor's interview that Mr. Robert Stuart really made the deposit of $5,000 on behalf of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company though it is positively sworn that he had not one cent's worth of interest in it.

This whole matter should be investigated by some tribunal having power to take evidence under oath. What was to become of this extra $14,000? Among whom was it to be divided? Was the railway Company to get $5,000 and the Street lighting Company the other $9,000?

Why did not the Aldermen take the ratepayers into their confidence and let them know the facts before voting on these bylaws? Why did some of the Aldermen in addressing the Council inform the public that this extra price was being paid to induce the American Cereal Company to give the citizens of Peterborough a real live street railway service? In fact there are a number of whys and wherefores that the public are anxiously awaiting a good old fashioned honest answer to.

Be it said to the credit of Alderman Best and Alderman Clinkscale that they stoutly opposed these two bylaws from first to last.

CREATED ROW ON SATURDAY NIGHT.

Jos. Finlay, of Ashburnham, Arrested for Making a Disturbance.

Interesting Cases at the Police Court—Stole Manufacturer's Trousers in Return for a Night's Lodging.

There was a full docket at the Police Court this morning, and the cases attracted an unusually large audience.

Paul Tonigeon, a Frenchman, was fined $2 for being drunk; he pleaded guilty.

William Sheehan, appeared pursuant to remand on two charges, one of theft and the other of fraud. The charge of stealing a string of bells from W. J. Overend, was dismissed. The evidence on the charge of fraud showed that he went to Wolstenholm's livery on Dec. 12th, and poured forth a sympathetic tale of an ill father at Bridgenorth, and whom he wished to see that afternoon. His little piece of fiction got him a horse and cutter. The following day the liveryman became somewhat agitated because Sheehan had not returned. On the third day the horse came trotting into the stable in a bad condition, and apparently it had not had anything to eat since it left the stable. However no Sheehan appeared.

The Magistrate considered it a clear case of fraud and sentenced him to one month's residence in the place of durance vile.

Alfred Cooney, who works at the C. P. R. Hotel, formerly came from Cobourg, which fact gives him an opportunity to display his charitable disposition for all the stranded Cobourgites who come to Peterborough go to Cooney for a helping hand, which he generally gives for the sake of the old town. On July 25th, Robert Nicholson and two of his chums sought Cooney and explained that they were without friends or money. Cooney at once opened his heart to them, and gave them the glad hand of welcome, as well as a wash. That night when Cooney was going to bring in the chairs from outside the hotel he discovered Nicholson reposing in one. He had just received $4 from his employer and gave Nicholson 40 cents to get a flask of whiskey. After having a swig or two, as Nicholson had no roof to sleep under he invited him up to his room to spend the night. Nicholson accepted the offer. In the morning when Cooney awoke he could find neither his trousers, his money nor his Cobourg friend. Later he discovered that five shirts, a necktie and a new pair of boots had been stolen.

This morning Nicholson appeared in answer to the charge of theft and pleaded not guilty and denied having slept with Cooney.

He was somewhat surprised when Crown Attorned R. E. Wood read his Cobourg record as follows:

Oct. 2, 1895—Convicted of theft.

Oct., 1898—Allowed out on suspended sentence for assault.

Oct. 8, 1900—Convicted of assault.

April 24, 1901—Convicted of using insulting language.

April 29, 1901—Convicted of vagrancy.

June 15, 1901—Convicted of drunkenness.

June 17th, 1903—Convicted of assault.

The prisoner was sentenced to 6 months imprisonment in the Central Prison.

Joseph Finlay, of Concession street Ashburnham, is locked up in the Police Station, charged with creating a disturbance. On Saturday night prisoner took far too much whiskey than was good for him. This put him in a bad mood and he started abusing his wife, breaking the furniture, and generally putting the house on the rough. The affair attracted the neighbours and the Peterborough police were informed. One of the constables appeared on the scene and escorted Finlay to the Police Station.

THE TREATY MAKING

Powers of Canada Discussed in Interview by Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

THE LATE ALASKAN DECISION

Prime Minister of Canada Defines His Position Upon the Question to a Representative of the London Daily Mail—No Danger of Separation If Added Powers Are Given—Will Enlarge Upon It.

London, Dec. 22.—(C. A. P.)—The Mail publishes an interview with Sir Wilfrid Laurier by H. Lucy regarding Canada and the treaty-making power. Premier Laurier said that at the instance of England, Canada had consented to the inquiry and looked for it to be conducted by jurists free from partisan prejudice. Canada had entered a protest against the pronounced type of the American partisan commissioners, but the complaint had received scant consideration from the Colonial Office. Canadians were so certain of the justice of their case and of the impartiality of Lord Alverstone that they were confident of a favorable judgment on the two points.

Canadians would not get over the disappointment and were unanimous in the view that a repetition of the Alaska boundary incident would be rendered impossible by Canada having treaty-making powers. It would not lead to separation, as the Dominion would not demand absolute treaty-making powers, but only the arrangement of the preliminaries of all treaties affecting her trade and territory, leaving to the sovereign power the responsibility of vetoing them if her Ministers thought it desirable in the interests of the Empire. The question was not new, but something would come of it now for Canada was mightier than in 1882, when the point was noted by Edward Blake.

To-day nearly six millions of people have a passionate conviction that they have the right to determine matters affecting their own commerce and boundaries. Canada had besought the Imperial Government to bring the Canadian just claims to court in the Alabama case, but England was afraid of offending the United States and left her colonies in the lurch and much the same had happened in the Alaskan case. Had Canada had the right to arrange the preliminaries in the Alaska matter the result of the inquiry would have been very different.

Sir Wilfrid said that in the next few weeks he would enlarge on the subject of the necessity for Canada forming treaty-making powers in view of the demand having been acclaimed throughout the Dominion.

The Mail, commenting on the interview editorially, says: "There seems to be good reason for Canada's contention, but we are none the less hopeful that she will see her way clear to modify her demand."

Attacks Mr. Pattullo.

R. Hawkin, writing to The Standard, says that Andrew Pattullo is of no importance, as he is only a member of the Provincial Parliament, which, like English County Councils, has nothing to do with tariffs. Another writer says that the Colonial Agent-General has no business with the tariff commission, and should keep aloof from politics like an ambassador.

Canadian Apple Trade.

The Mail says that but for Canada, Americans would have engineered a corner in apples on the strength of the failure of the English crop last year. Canada has shipped to England three million bushels, and this year the quantity would be far heavier.

Will Not Buy Greenland.

Lord Strathcona in an interview said that the announcement that Canada would purchase Greenland was premature. The intended purchase was not within the range of practical politics at present.

Meets Jan. 15.

The first meeting of Joseph Chamberlain's commission of tariff experts, which is to enquire into the conditions of British trade, and to report with the object of drawing up a tariff reform bill, will be held Jan. 15. Mr. Chamberlain has accepted the honorary presidency of the commission.

BENSFORT.

(Wrom our own Correspondent.)

The fowl supper at Centreville was largely attended by Bensfort people, and all report having had a good time.

Miss Hattie Fletcher of Goodlands, Manitoba, is home renewing old acquaintances.

Miss Hazel Thompson, who has been seriously ill, is recovering but slowly.

Messrs. Geo. Smithson, W. H. Thompson and T. Armstrong, went to Long Island last week for a fox hunt and returned home the proud possessor of a very fine reynard.

The Literary Society was not very largely attended last week, but we hope to have better weather next Wednesday and a large crowd.

As Mr. F. Thompson was coming home from Mr. Joe Woods last Friday evening, where he had been engaged threshing clover, the driver, Richmond Morrison, who has the reputation of being a good teamster, by some accident upset the machine, doing considerable damage to it and narrowly escaping being crushed beneath it.

There was quite a runaway a short time ago in our village. As Miss May Moncrief and Miss Nettie Moncrief were driving to the post office they turned the corner a little too fast and were thrown out, the horse being a spirited one ,running away. He was caught by Andrew Huggins before very much damage was done.

Mr. W. H. Thompson reaped his ice harvest last week. He reports it to be of good quality and one foot thick.

Our local butcher is doing a rushing business.

Wm. Smith, of saw mill fame, is prepared to cut all logs taken to his mill, no matter how many.

Our school closed on Tuesday and Miss Marett has gone home to Millbrook for the holidays.

Mr. J. W. Wodlock was called to Toronto on Thursday evening to visit his aunt, who is very ill.

WARSAW.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. B. Huston of Young's Point, was in the village last week, the guest of Mr. H. Choate.

Mr. J. A. Sexsmith, the Liberal-Conservative nominee for this riding, visited the village on Friday last.

The concert on Friday evening of last week, given by Miss Carrie White of Peterborough, elocutionist, and Miss Julia Clark of this village, vocalist and violinist, assisted by the orchestra, was a complete success. It certainly is worthy of notice that two girls, the elder of whom is only 12 years of age, were able to arrange and carry out a programme of sixteen numbers, and holding the interest of the audience until the last song was finished. It is needless to say that if another concert is announced by them standing room will be at a premium. We noticed Mr. Dale Foote and a large party from Lockfield among the audience.

The statutory meeting of the Dummer council was held on the 15th, and the financial statement prepared.

Judging from reports, the Woman's Institute of this place seems to be flourishing. We think it is a great credit to the ladies to be able to organize and promote such a society. We wish them every success. Ladies who have not joined should not miss the first opportunity of doing so, as they cannot realize what they are missing.

CANADIAN PROGRESS.

The Country Becoming Yearly More Self Contained.

The Canadian Shoe and Leather Journal comments on the great strides made in this country within the past five or six years. Progress is amply attested by the diminished use of foreign leathers in high grade shoes. In certain lines of calf and cow an article is being put on the market that cannot be excelled in tannage, finish and appearance. In kid and fine calf, but more particularly in patented and enameled lines of this class, the development is declared to have been truly phenomenal, and it is predicted that if the same advance in methods and results be shown at the end of the next five years we will have the leather trade of this country entirely in our own hands.

SENSIBLE GIFTS FOR MEN.

Acceptable to Father, Son, Husband, Brother, Uncle or Sweetheart.

Gentlemen, — If you wish to confer a personal favour on yourselves, you ought to note the special reductions in our fashionably tailored high-class suits and overcoats.

Ladies, — If you wish to bestow a thoughtful gift on your gentlemen friends, we allow you a special discount off any of these presents for men:

Fur coats, Raglanette overcoats, fine suits, dressing gowns, silk umbrellas, silk mufflers, elegant silk neckwear, silk handkerchiefs, kid and reindeer gloves, silk suspenders, underwear of every grade, felt hats, Cardigan jackets, working shirts, winter boots, overshoes, rubbers, slippers, waterproofs, etc.

If values count, Peterborough has seldom seen such grand values in furnishings, and footwear, as at present rule at Gough Bros.

TULLY & MERRELL,

GALWAY.

Mrs. S. Pearson, who was very sick for some time is rapidly recovering.

Wm. Mansfield is again home after a three year's absence.

Mr. John Flood, of Emmemore, was here during the past week and held a very successful meeting in view of starting a cheese factory. Some very good views were expressed on the subject, especially by Ed. Allen, who thought that it seemed curious all the surrounding country could have factories and yet Galway remains neutral. Mr. O'Leary was next speaker and told what money there was in cheese now-a-days compared with the first years of cheese factories. There was now a good English market and an unlimited supply of cheese required. He had only six cows and they brought about $7.00 a month average, each. He strongly urged the people of Galway to have a factory and in a short time they would see the truth of his words. He did not come back to speak on this subject, but was glad to be able to highly recommend the man who intended to build. Mr. Flood had one of the largest factories in the county, and gave satisfaction to all his patrons. Joseph O'Leary then took the floor, winding up with a short speech on political economy.

HARVEY COUNCIL.

The minutes of the Harvey township council, as supplied by the clerk, are as follows;

Councillors present, Messrs. Wm. Hunter and Henry Beckett; Chas. Coben, reeve, in the chair.

Moved by Mr. Hunter, seconded by Mr. Beckett, the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

Moved by Mr. Beckett, seconded by Mr. Hunter that no action be taken in connection with the application of the Peterborough Times for municipal printing, and that no action be taken in connection with A. W. Daymont asking the council to subscribe for a copy of the Municipal Index.

Moved by Mr. Hunter, seconded by Mr. Beckett, that the following accounts be paid:

John McGuire, three deviations for road allowance on lot 11, con. 10, Galway, $10 per deviation, $30; Dr. White, balance on McGrath account, account, $15; H. Beckett, locating a road, $1.25; C. Coben, locating road, $1.25; Mrs. Hartnett, use of her house for council meeting, $2.50; P. Collins, postage, $3, express assessment roll, 30c; voters lists, 30c; P. Collins, collectors' roll, 25c; financial statements, $1.50; D. Sheehan, financial statements, $1.25; C. Coben, $1.25; C. Coben, council fees, $2.50; W. Hunter, council fees, $2.50; H. Beckett, council fees, $2.50; D. Curtin, council fees, $1.25.

Minority Stockholders May Combine.

Toronto, Dec. 21.—A conference of much importance concerning the Soo industries was held at the King Edward last night. Francis Clergue had returned from his hurried trip to Philadelphia and New York. The conference was composed of Francis Clergue, B. J. Clergue, Solicitor Hamilton, James Conmee, three representatives of the Cincinnati syndicate and two Philadelphia lawyers, said to represent the minority stockholders opposed to the Speyer syndicate. Francis Clergue said he had nothing he could report to the press. The plan Mr. Clergue is now working on is said to include a fusion of the interests of the minority stockholders, and the new blood from the Cincinnati syndicate. The Speyer people refuse absolutely to treat with Clergue.

WINNIPIG PASTOR GIVEN A RECEPTION.

Rev. W. B. Tighe, Formerly of Peterborough Honoured by his Congregation.

The Winnipeg "North Ender" has a report of a reception to Rev. W. B. Tighe, who is taking the pastorate of a Baptist church there. Rev. Mr. Tighe is a former resident of Peterborough, and his many friends here will read the following item with interest:—

On Tuesday evening last the congregation of Powers street Baptist church gathered in large numbers to informally give a formal reception to their new pastor, Rev. W. B. Tighe. Mr. Tighe has only been in charge of this church for a month, but he has already won a large place in the affections and esteem of the people.

The meeting on Tuesday night was a reception tendered to him by the congregation.

Rev. F. W. Patterson occupied the chair and guided the proceedings of the evening, which were according to the following programme:

Hymn ....No. 305
Prayer ....Rev. Patterson
Speech ... ...Rev. W. C. Vincent
Solo, "Guid While I Slumber"...Mr. W. Grant
Speech ... ...Rev. J. McNeill
Speech ... ...Rev. F. W. Patterson
Solo, "The Choir Boy"...Miss Kirkby
Address of Welcome...Mr. Hilton; response, Rev. W. B. Tighe
Hymn ....No. 80

Rev. F. W. Patterson, in his address, outlined the work of Mr. Tighe and also told the church and congregation what was expected of them.

Rev. John McNeill, an old college friend of Mr. Tighe's reviewed their old associations and expressed his high esteem for Mr. Tighe, both as a minister and a man. He congratulated the church on being so fortunate as to have for their pastor such a man as W. B. Tighe.

Rev. W. C. Vincent, in a convincing and practical address, took the word, reception, and made of its letters initials of words showing the duty of the church to their pastor. They were to—

Reward him.
Encourage him.
Consult him.
Exault him.
Pray for him.
Talk him up.
Imitate him.
Obey him.
Note him.

Mr. Hilton, on behalf of the congregation, read an address of welcome couched in felicitous language, outlining the reasons which prompted the congregation in calling Mr. Tighe, expressing the esteem in which he was held and promising hearty co-operation with him in his labours.

Rev. Mr. Tighe responded most fittingly, thanking all for their kindly words and kindlier actions.

The whole affair was a most enjoyable one, and the hearty oneness of spirit exhibited, augurs well for the success of the work of Powers street Baptist church.

Jack the Ripper Crime.

New York, Dec. 21.—The White Chapel atrocities of "Jack the Ripper" and the murder of "Old Shakespeare" by the Arab Ben Ali, in this city, were recalled by the discovery yesterday of the fearfully mutilated body of a woman in a sailor's resort of the lowest type in James Slip, near the East River. The woman, who was identified as Sarah Martin, a notorious character of the "Cherry Hill" section went to the place Saturday night, accompanied by a man who registered as Carl Nelson and wife.

OUT OF CAR WINDOW

Jump From Train Didn't Kill So He Cut His Throat.

JOHN WARK OF ARCOLA, ASSA.

Desperate Suicide Believed to Be Man From Northwest—Letter in His Pocket Thought to Reveal His Identity —Man of That Name Was a Passenger and Dead Man Had Letter to His Brother.

Ottawa, Dec. 22.—A man jumped through the window of a car on the C.P.R. express between 2 and 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon while it was speeding into Ottawa about six miles from the city. Only two other passengers were in the car at the time. They heard the crash of glass and turned to see a pair of feet disappearing through the broken window. One of the two spectators hurried to the rear end of the car for the conductor, but by the time he caught the official the train was several miles from the scene of the occurrence. On reaching Ottawa a light engine was sent out to a point about three miles this side of Bell's Corner. There the man who had made the wild leap was found lying behind a fence with his throat cut. The jump had only bruised him and with a knife he then severed the jugular vein. From a letter in his clothes he is believed to be John Wark of Arcola, Assa. Wark was a passenger on the train bound for Montreal. He had a ticket from Moose Jaw to St. John, N.B., and was supposed to be on his way to Wellsford, Petersville parish, Queen's county, New Brunswick. The body was brought here and placed in the morgue. The deceased was apparently between thirty and forty years of age. The letter found on him was from Daniel Wark, who is evidently a brother, and who resides at Wellsford, New Brunswick. There was also a baggage check on the body. Coroner Baptie will hold an inquest.

Shot Friend By Mistake.

Ingersoll, Dec. 22.—Miss Minnie McGraw of Detroit, who, with Miss Maud O'Connor of the same place, is visiting her parents over Christmas, uncovered a 22 calibre revolver yesterday morning while doing housework, and not knowing it was loaded, pointed it at her friend. The weapon was discharged and the bullet entered the right side of Miss O'Connor's nose. Fatal results are not anticipated.

9 Killed, 20 Injured.

Kansas City, Dec. 22.—The Meteor, the fast train on the St. Louis and San Francisco Railway, was wrecked at Godfrey, 15 miles south of Fort Scott, Kansas, yesterday. The train ran into a switch and all except the sleeper were derailed and turned over. Nine persons were killed and over twenty injured. The crew of a freight train left the switch open and the Meteor jumped the track and rolled down a small embankment.

Miners Burned By Gas.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Dec. 22.—An explosion of gas occurred in the Nottingham mine of the Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Coal Company, at Plymouth, yesterday. Eleven men were seriously burned, two of them fatally.

ORIGINATORS OF MASSACRE.

Two Russians Sentenced For Atrocities Against Jews.

Kishineff, Bessarabia, Dec. 22.—Two Russians named Gnetschin and Marosjeik, who have been on trial charged with murder as the authors of the massacre of Jews here last spring, were sentenced yesterday to seven and five years penal servitude respectively.

Twenty-two other persons charged with being involved in the massacre are sentenced to periods ranging from one to two years each. One person was sentenced to six months imprisonment and twelve were acquitted, while civil actions brought against the accused were dismissed. The costs of the prosecutions must be paid by the convicted persons.

Chinese Coming to Canada.

Victoria, B.C., Dec. 22.—Chinese laborers are said to be rushing into Canada by the hundreds to avade the head tax of $500 on every Chinaman that enters Canada after Jan 1. They are now required to pay but $50. The steamer Doric, which recently arrived at San Francisco, from the Orient, brought 80 Chinese, who were immediately shipped to Victoria. The Japanese liner Nippon Maru, just arrived, brought 79 Chinese, and the steamer Oanfa carried 149 Mongolians, all of whom are in transit to Canada.

Borrowed Pay Cheques.

Windsor, Dec. 22.—Minot J. Shaw, whose home was in Boston, Mass., for one year general bookkeeper in the offices of the Girardot Wine Company, of Sandwich, has been missing since Dec. 10, and his books are being examined by an expert. As yet no shortage has been shown. Shaw borrowed pay cheques from employes of the firm before leaving.

Christians Murdered.

Cettinge, Montenegro, Dec. 22.—A Christian judge and two Christian gendarmes have been murdered by Mussulmans at Gusinye, in Northern Albania. The victims were recently appointed to their posts in conformity with the Macedonian reform scheme of Austria-Russia.

Royal Marriage Planned.

Madrid, Dec. 22.—According to the Spanish newspapers, a project is on foot for the marriage of King Alfonso to his cousin, Maria del Pilar, aged 18, daughter of the Infanta Maria de la Paz.

Passengers Were Rescued.

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 22.—The steamship Perrallon reached Seattle yesterday, having on board the passengers of the overdue Canadian steamship Amur. The Amur left Skagway, Dec. 12, and on the 14th ran into Harbor Reef, at the entrance to Port Simpson. She pulled off, but in doing so broke her tail shaft. She reached the wharf at Port Simpson.

BLOOD POISON

On account of its terrible effects, blood disease is called the king of all diseases. It may be either hereditary or contracted; so while it may not be a crime to have the disease, it is a crime to permit it to remain in the system. It may manifest itself in the form of Scrofula, Eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, itchiness of the skin, eruptions or blotches, ulcers in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, falling out of hair, "scrofula" stomach, and a general desperation of the system. If you have any of these symptoms don't neglect yourself. You have no time to lose. Beware of "old fogy" treatment—beware of mineral poisons—beware of Quacks and Fakirs. OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT is guaranteed to cure this disease, never to return. Bank Bonds will protect you. Our treatment is not injurious in any way, but reaches the very root of the disease and eliminates all poison from the system. The symptoms of disease gradually disappear. The blood becomes pure and enriched, the whole system is cleansed and purified, and the patient feels prepared anew for the duties and the pleasures of life. CURES GUARANTEED OR NO PAY. 25 Years in Detroit. 250,000 Cured.

Sealed tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Pembroke Wharf," will be received at this office until Friday, Jan. 8th, 1904, inclusively, for the construction of a wharf at Pembroke, County of Renfrew, Province of Ontario, according to a plan and specification to be seen at the office of H. A. Gray, Esq., Engineer in Charge, Harbour and River Works for Ontario, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, on application to the Postmaster at Pembroke, Ont., and at the Department of Public Works, Ottawa.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the form supplied and signed with the actual signature of tenderers.

An accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable, the Minister of Public Works, for four thousand dollars ($4,000.00) must accompany each tender. The cheque will be forfeited if the party tendering decline the contract or fail to complete the work contracted for, and will be returned in case of non-acceptance of tender.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender,

By order,

LULL IN N. RENFREW

Features of the Campaign That Are Unique in Politics.

THE REAL ISSUES BEFOGGED

Mr. Dryden, Mr. Cowan, Mr. Stratton and Mr. Evanturel to Speak Before Polling—Mr. Whitney and Other Opposition Speakers to Be Heard—Committees Never Relax Their Work of Organization.

Pembroke, Dec. 22.—There was a lull in the North Renfrew campaign yesterday, so far at least as Pembroke was concerned. The leading speakers from the outside had gone home for Sunday, and returned only last night one by one. The committees, however, never relaxed their efforts, and, after all, it is probably work of that kind which will tell from now out rather than platform oratory. The effect in a voting sense of the extraordinary gathering on Saturday to hear Mr. Gamey was keenly discussed yesterday, and the more thoroughly it is sifted the more the Liberals are convinced that while it was magnificent it was not war.

The oldest campaigners say that they never took part in such a peculiar campaign, one in which the real issues are so befogged by Gameyism. The leading speakers are returning, and the flood of oratory will be again at full tide to-day.

Hon. John Dryden and Mr. M. K. Cowan, M.P., will address a meeting at Douglas on Tuesday night, and the Minister of Agriculture will speak in several other places before polling. The closing meeting of the Liberals in Pembroke will be on Wednesday, when the speakers will be Hon. J. R. Stratton, Mr. M. K. Cowan, M.P., and Hon. F. E. A. Evanturel, M.P.P., and in consequence of the prominence which the Conservatives have allowed Mr. Gamey to assume there will no doubt be another overflowing meeting to hear the Provincial Secretary.

Mr. Whitney, leader of the Opposition, will return to-day, but as he has positively refused to appear on the same platform with Mr. Gamey his meetings have not yet been arranged. Mr. Thomas Crawford, M. P.P., and Colonel Matheson, M.P. P., addressed small meetings in the county last night. Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, M.P.P., Mr. G. N. Kidd, M. P.P., and Mr. J. S. Gallagher, M. P.P., are expected here to-day.

Mr. Gamey spoke last night at Point Alexander.

U. S. WAR ON COLOMBIA.

European Powers Wrestling With Colombia to Avert Such a Calamity.

Washington, Dec. 22.—Diplomatic pressure will be brought to bear upon Colombia by several European powers to prevent war between that country and the United States. The first step in this direction has been taken already by several foreign powers through their representatives here, who have informed Gen. Reyes of the futility of an attempt by Colombia to take Panama, declaring that it will result only in precipitating the Bogota Government into war with the United States, and have said to him that the result of such a catastrophe Colombia herself must realize. If this is not sufficient the representatives of these countries at Bogota will be instructed to inform President Marroquin that Colombia can expect no sympathy from the European powers in any move she may make on Panama, which would inevitably involve her in war with the United States. The members of the diplomatic corps have been informed by Gen. Reyes himself that he fears he cannot check his people much longer.

Colombian Troops Land.

Colon, Dec. 22.—Information has been received here that about one hundred Colombian troops have landed at the Island of Pines, northwest of Cape Tiburn, which is situated at the western extreme of the Gulf of Darien. The Island of Pines is in Panama territory.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Detroit, Mich.—Miss Lillian Abano of Liverpool, England, a talented harpist, is dead at Harper Hospital, aged 20. She was taken sick with typhoid fever while filling an engagement at the Temple Theatre.

Albany, N.Y.—Frank Roman, aged 12, was accidentally shot and killed Sunday evening by a revolver in the hands of his sixteen-year-old brother. They were examining the pistol, which neither thought was loaded.

Adis, Abeba, Ethiopa.—Escorted by several thousand Ethiopian soldiers the American mission to Emperor Menelik, headed by Consul-General Skinner of Marseilles, entered the Abyssinian capital on Friday, when Menelik personally received them.

Alleged Ripper Under Arrest.

New York, Dec. 22.—By the arrest yesterday of Emil Totterman, a Swedish sailor, the police believe that they have cleared up the mystery in the murder of Sarah Martin, whose mutilated body was found Sunday in Kelly's Hotel, a sailors' rest, on the East River front.

At police headquarters the prisoner was fully identified by James Kelly, the proprietor of the hotel, his wife and other persons as the man who, on Saturday night, accompanied Sarah Martin to the room in which her body was found.

Comfort for the Aged.

Judging from the letters of people up in years there is no medicine which so promptly frees them of aches and pains and insures regularity of the liver, kidneys and bowels as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Even when all other means have failed old people can turn to this great medicine with full assurance of relief and cure.

Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure

Costs Nothing if it Fails.

Any honest person who suffers from Rheumatism is welcome to this offer. For years I searched everywhere to find a specific for Rheumatism. For nearly 20 years I worked to this end. At last, in Germany, my search was rewarded. I found a costly chemical that did not disappoint me as other Rheumatic prescriptions had disappointed physicians everywhere.

I do not mean that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure can turn bony joints into flesh again. That is impossible. But it will drive from the blood the poison that causes pain and swelling, and then that is the end of Rheumatism. I know this so well that I will furnish for a full month my Rheumatic Cure on trial. I cannot cure all cases within a month. It would be unreasonable to expect that. But most cases will yield within 30 days. This trial treatment will convince you that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure is a power against Rheumatism—a potent force against disease that is irresistible.

My offer is made to convince you of my faith. My faith is but the outcome of experience—of actual knowledge. I know what it can do. And I know this so well that I will furnish my remedy on trial. Simply write me a postal card for my book on Rheumatism. I will then arrange with a druggist in your vicinity so that you can secure six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure to make the test. You may take it a full month on trial. If it succeeds the cost to you is $5.50. If it fails the loss is mine and mine alone. It will be left entirely to you. I mean that exactly. If you say the trial is not satisfactory I don't expect a penny from you.

Write me and I will send you the book. Try my remedy for a month, if it fails the loss is mine.

Address Dr. Shoop, box 47-9, Racine, Wis.

Mild cases not chronic are often cured by one or two bottles. At all druggists.

ANSWER OF JAPAN.

Asks Russia to Reconsider Certain Essential Points in Her Reply to Japan—Not An Ultimatum.

Tokio, Dec. 22.—Japan's reply to Russia was handed to Baron de Rosen yesterday afternoon, at a conference between the Russian Minister and Foreign Minister Komura at the Russian Legation.

It is in no way in the nature of an ultimatum, but she asks Russia to reconsider certain essential points in her reply to Japan. Baron de Rosen is now sufficiently recovered to resume the negotiations.

PREFERS DEATH TO PRISON.

Written Confession of Ship's Cook Admits Four Murders.

New York, Dec. 22.—When Frank Henry Burness, a ship's cook, was placed on trial in Brooklyn yesterday for the murder Nov. 10 of Captain Geo. B. Townsend, the skipper of the lumber schooner Charles Buckley, the prisoner admitted his guilt, and a written confession was submitted, in which he declared that he had shot the captain deliberately and with premeditation, because the latter owed him money and that he desired to facilitate the trial because he preferred to be executed rather than remain in prison. The confession further stated that the prisoner had previously killed three men. For shooting a man in Charlestown, Mass., he said that he had served three years in prison. He had served a term in Havana for killing a teamster, and had killed a man named Henry Hecker, on which charge he was acquitted on a technicality.

SHOTS FOR EVERYONE.

George Roche Raised Row in Toronto Hotel and Was Arrested.

Toronto, Dec. 22.—George Roche, 45 Esther street, was locked up last night on the serious charge of threatening to shoot with intent to kill. If Roche had made good his threats the Palmer House would have been turned into a private hospital or morgue. Those whom he intended to put out of the way are his wife, Mary, J. C. Palmer, Charles Palmer and Fred. Weighart. However, Constables Sockett and Irwin arrested the would-be shooter before any damage was done. He had no revolver, anyway. Roche's wife, Mary, has been an employe of the Palmer House for some time. Roche is a brother of Jack Roche, the pugilist.

No One Blamed.

Hamilton, Dec. 22.—The coroner's jury last evening brought in a verdict to the effect that Robert Smith, the Allandale brakeman, who was killed here last Wednesday night, came to his death as the result of an accident and no one was blamed.

Reserve Force.

The healthy body has a certain amount of strength reserved in case of emergency, attack by disease or unusual physical exhaustion, without this power of resistance a person is an easy prey to every ill that comes along. By enriching the blood and creating new nerve cells, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food keeps the health at high water mark and fills the body with the vigor and vitality that overcomes and defies disease.

Will Fight Extradition.

Windsor, Dec. 21.—Edward Slaughter, who is wanted in Windsor on the charge of murdering John Hudden, was arraigned in Cincinnati and remanded to Dec. 26 to await examination for extradition. "You bet I hit him," Slaughter is reported to have admitted to Detective Charles Mahoney of Windsor. Mahoney says Slaughter takes his arrest very seriously, but he puts all hope in the belief that he will not be taken back to Canada.

Eleven Years With Lepers.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 21.—After having spent the past eleven years caring for the children of the lepers of the Hawaiian Islands, Sister Albania of the Franciscan Order, who was formerly Miss Miriam Sluder of St. Louis, has arrived here on a visit to her parents. Sister Albania said that the common belief that children of the lepers inherited the disease of lepers is erroneous.

WAGE REDUCTION IN CANADA

Massey-Harris Company in Toronto Reduce Wages of Over 1,000 Workmen—Cutting Down Elsewhere.

Toronto, Dec. 22.—Over one thousand workmen at the Massey-Harris Company works are to suffer a reduction in their wages of something over 7½ per cent., starting from this week. The company explain that it is the usual result of the annual adjustment of the wage scale, affecting all but the better mechanics, the foremen and officials. The men so affected are much worked up about the matter and assert that no matter what the company care to call it, it is nothing more or less than a cut in their wages which were not, they say, too high before. The reduction is not a uniform one. It reduces some men's pay 5 per cent. and others as high as 10 and 12.

A Combine of Reduction.

Pittsburg, Dec. 22.—Semi-official information was given out yesterday that a general reduction in wages is to be made at all non-union iron and steel plants in the country that will average about 10 per cent. It is not proposed to make any official announcement of the cut until after Christmas. Representatives of the United States Steel Corporation are said to have agreed with the independent interests upon a uniform readjustment of wages of all employes.

Wages Down 10 Per Cent.

Pueblo, Col., Dec. 22.—Notices were posted at the Colorado Fuel and Iron Works yesterday that when the works resume, which probably will be within a few days, it will be at a reduction of 10 per cent. in wages of skilled employes.

13 1-2 Per Cent. Reduction.

Houghton, Mich., Dec. 22.—The wages of the iron mine employes of the Oliver Mining Company, which is the iron ore end of the steel trust, will be reduced 13½ per cent. on Jan. 1.

Billet Mills Close.

Joliet, Ill., Dec. 22.—The convicter and billet mills of the Illinois Steel Company, employing 1,000 men, closed down yesterday. President Eugene J. Buffington gave Jan. 15 as the date of probable resumption. Four thousand steel laborers at South Chicago, employes of the Illinois Steel Company, have been notified that they will be laid off next Thursday. Thirteen hundred employes have already been discharged. The reason given the men for their dismissal is needed repairs.

Idle Several Weeks.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 22.—The Glassport Hoop Mills resumed operations yesterday, after a shut-down of several weeks. Some of the tonnage men returned to work at reduced wages. The reductions vary from 20 to 35 per cent.

Ambulances Under the Ban.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—There was no sign of peace in the livery drivers' strike yesterday. Ambulances have come under the ban of the striking pickets, and police may be necessary to man the conveyances of the sick. Efforts to settle the strike were made by outside influences yesterday.

An Attack of Pneumonia Warded Off

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold. She complained of pains in the chest and had a bad cough. I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, according to directions, and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail," says James Prendergast, merchant, Annato Bay, Jamaica, West India Islands. The pains in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly warded off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold towards pneumonia For sale by all druggists.

BULLET STRIKES MAX NORDAU.

Man Who Fired Shot Said He Had Been Chosen By Lot.

Paris, Dec. 21.—About midnight Saturday night, a miserably clad man fired two shots at Max Nordau, vice-president of the Congress of Zionists, at a Zionist ball at the Salle Charras. One of the shots grazed Nordua, while the second wounded a guest named Assowedski.

The man who fired the shot was immediately arrested. He said he was a Russian, that his name was Chain Selik Louban, that he was 28 years old, a revolutionist, and had been chosen by lot to shoot Nordau.

Louban is one of the Zionists who insisted upon the acquisition of Palestine. He and his co-conspirants at Berne were antagonistic to the plan advocated by M. Nordau and others to establish the new Zion in Africa.

M. Nordau was standing at a window in the ballroom, talking to a friend, when he was shot, and owes his life to a man who, noticing Louban point the revolver, prevented him from taking accurate aim.

Statement Made by Mr. R. R Hall on Behalf of Power Company.

Mr. R. R. Hall, in reference to a paragraph contained in a morning paper to the effect that Ald. Morrison had stated that Mr. Hall had said that the town would have to pay $75 per lamp per year, if the council is dilatory, and does not accept this contract, states that the Otonabee Power Company is still willing to accept the contract at the same price, $35 per lamp per year, and give a sufficient guarantee for the performance of the contract.

The company will install the lamp which the town engineer is said to have recommended as being the best, and is still prepared to carry out the contract to the letter.

MR. G. F. SHEPLEY K. C., ADVOCATES AN APPEAL.

The Town Solicitor's Report to the Council Last Night.

Peterborough Light and Power Company Anxious to Keep Faith With the Council—Mr. Dennistoun's Communication.

The report of Mr. E. H. D. Hall, Town Solicitor, regarding the Street Lighting and Radial Railway bylaws was read at last night's meeting of the Committee of the Whole. The Town Solicitor also enclosed copies of letters of Mr. Shepley, K. C., who conducted the case for the Town before Mr. Justice Meredith. They relate to his finding and the first strongly advocates an appeal from the Judge's finding.

Besides these were read letters from the Peterborough Light and Power Company and Mr. R. M. Dennistoun.

The communications were as follows:—

S. R. Armstrong, Esq., Town Clerk,—

Dear Sir: Re By-laws 1042 and 1046, Meldrum vs. Peterborough:.

The motion to quash these by-laws came on for argument before Mr. Justice Meredith on the 16th inst., with the result that the motion to quash by-law No. 104 relating to the Radial Railway Company was adjourned until the first court day after Christmas vacation in order that the council might have an opportunity to amend clause 37 of the agreement with the Radial Railway Company by making clear that it was not intended by this clause to exempt the dividends of the stock holders of the Company from taxation. If this is done the judge stated that the motion to quash this by-law would be dismissed without costs, but that if this clause was not amended the motion would be further considered—as it was not the intention that the exemption clause should have this effect it would be well to make this amendment after obtaining the consent of the Radial Railway Company to its being made.

As to By-law No. 1046 respecting the lighting contract the judge held that the offer the Otonabee Power Co'y. received while this by-law was receiving the second reading and after the terms of the agreement with the Light and Power Company had been arrived at was not too late and that the agreement to pay more for the street lighting than the Otonabee Power Company offered to do it for was in the nature of a reward to the Light and Power Co. for introducing the railway and that therefore the by-law should be set aside. The judge did not consider the reasons which induced the council to give the contract to the Light and Power Co. instead of the Otonabee Light and Power Company, notwithstanding the apparent difference in price, such as the difference between the lights offered, the inadvisability of duplicating poles on the streets, the recognition by the Light and Power Company of the terms of By-law No. 770 that the price offered by the Light and Power Company was lower than any other place in Canada was now paying, the recommendation of the expert employed by the town, the doubt most members of the council had of the bona fide of the offer of the Otonabee Power Company, or any of the other reasons set out in the affidavits and examinations which led the council to make the agreement with the Light and Power Company., but based his judgment on the technical ground above mentioned, which was not referred to in the notice of motion urged by the counsel for the applicant.

The judge intimated on giving judgway by-law was not sustained and ment in effect that as the Radial Railtherefore the obtaining of a railway would not now be an inducement to granting a lighting contract that there was no legal obstacle to prevent the council, if it considered it advisable, to pass another by-law adopting a contract with the Light and Power Co., on the same terms and conditions as in the agreement adopted by the by-law set aside. The point relied on in the notice of motion that the by-laws should have been submitted to the vote of the ratepayers was not even referred to by the applicants' counsel nor by the judge, and, as all matters that he thought would be urged against the legality of both these by-laws were no doubt argued by the applicant's counsel it must be taken that he did not think there was anything in this objection.

I enclose you copies of two letters from Mr. Shepley, K. C., who argued these matters for the town, by which you will see he strongly advises an appeal, and will be glad of instructions in the matter encl.

Yours truly,
E. H. D. HALL,
Peterborough, Dec. 21st, 1903.

E. H. D. Hall, Esq., Town Solicitor, Peterborough, Ont:

Dear Sir,—I am very strongly of the view that the council ought to appeal from the judgment on By-law No. 1046. I do not think the council should permit itself to rest under the interpretation put upon a majority of its members by the judgment. I feel very strongly that the learned judge came to an erroneous conclusion of fact, and I should advise an appeal rather than complicate the situation by a re-passing of the by-law.

There is, of course, an appeal to the Divisional Court, if we prefer it, instead of to the Court of Appeal, and as the possibilities of an early hearing are greater on such an appeal, I think we might try a Divisional Court. We might further, when the appeal is set down, make an application to expedite the hearing, though of course it would be difficult to say whether such an application would succeed.

Notwithstanding all the difficulties involved by the possible delay I would advise an appeal.

Yours truly,
G. F. SHEPLEY.

Toronto, Dec. 18th, 1903.

E. H. D. Hall, Esq., Barrister, Barrborough, Ont:

Dear Sir,—Re Meldrum vs. Peterborough.

In delivering judgment in this case Mr. Justice Meredith said, in substance, that the reason why he regarded the Electric Light By-law as invalid was that upon the evidence he thought the municipal councillors, or at any rate a very substantial number of them, had given undue weight to the consideration arising out of Mr. Dennistoun's original proposition, and had not treated this matter as entirely independent of the Radial Railway argument, and that he could not help feeling that on the evidence, it was the intention of the council to give a reward to the Electric Light Company equal to the difference between the price offered by Mr. R. R. Hall and the price stipulated for in the contract by reason of their inducing the Radial Railwaly Co. to enter into the contract with the municipality. The judge further said that he could not enter into a discussion of the wisdom or unwisdow of the electric light contract so long as it was not plain that the municipal council was not actuated by any improper motives in entering into the contract, and that, notwithstanding the quashing of the by-law it would now be open to the municipal council to consider the matters in question, and, as their attention was not pointedly directed to the matters which should not be allowed to enter into their consideration, or to influence them, they might, if they saw fit, pass the by-law entering into a new contract with the Electric Light Company upon the identical terms of that referred to in the by-law quashed. If they did so, they would be answerable not to the courts, but to the electors, as there was nothing compelling the council to enter into a contract with the lowest tenderer.

Yours truly,
G. F. SHEPLEY.

Toronto, December 18th, 1903.

G. M. Roger, Mayor of Peterborough:

Dear sir,—We are informed by our solicitors that the by-law recently passed by the council, authorizing the execution of a lighting contract as settled between us, has been quashed by Mr. Justice Meredith.

We are also informed that when delivering judgment Mr. Justice Meredith stated that it would now be open to the town council to re-pass the said by-law if they saw fit to do so, as the Radial Railway By-law has been entirely removed from the question, and no one could suggest thereafter that the council had been influenced in any way in passing a new by-law, by the Street Railway problem.

We have been asked if our company is still willing to carry out the terms of the contract as previously settled, and in reply to this question we beg to state that we are and wish to keep faith with the town, and are willing to stand by the proposed contract until the end of the year. If, however, the present council do not see their way to execute the contract we wish to be in a position to deal with the new council without being bound in any way by our previous negotiations.

Our reasons for taking this step are as follows: Since accepting the proposition made by the town in the early fall to do the street lighting at $48 per annum we have suffered in common with other owners of power on the Otonabee River from low water and have been obliged to rent power at high price wherever it could be obtained. We are, therefore, not anxious to enter into any contracts which involve the expenditure of power at the low figure previously quoted. As previously stated we will keep faith with the present council and carry out the bargain previously made, but if the matter is allowed to stand over until next year we must be free to deal with the question as is then considered for the best interests of our shareholders.

Yours truly,
A. STEVENSON,
Secretary.

E. H. D. Hall, Esq., Town Solicitor, Peterborough, Ont:

Dear Sir,—The proposed amendment to a street railway franchise referring to "Income tax" is only making clear what we always intended when settling the franchise.

It was never intended that the dividends payable to shareholders should be exempt and there can be no objection to making this point clear.

Yours truly,
R. M. DENNISTOUN.

Peterborough, Dec. 21st, 1903.

On Friday, Jan. 15th, the music-loving citizens of Peterborough, will have an opportunity of hearing Mrs. Bertha Cushion Childs, of Boston, the great American contralto, supported by the following strong talent; Miss Maicl Stanley Leonard, of Detroit, entertainer; Miss Georgie Turner, of Montreal, violinist; Mr. W. Spencer Jones, accompanist. This will undoubtedly be one of the finest concerts ever given in Peterborough.

Expert Sign Writing.

Nugent's drug store has been treated to a good business tonic, in the form of a swell new name plate, executed by the master hand of Mr. Fred Cook. The words, "John Nugent" are skilfully carved in a bold antique in raised gold letters on a black ground, outlined with bronze green, and is an effective specimen of original free-hand sign lettering. A mammoth new sign now also adorns the Canadian Cordage Company's office. It is a bold and striking imprint, the huge letters being in bright gold over a black ground. This is another of Fred Cook's original designs,—the whole work on both signs being executed in his own "studio" in the fifth ward of our city.

WOMEN TEACHERS WERE SELECTED LAST NIGHT.

To Replace the Misses Pakenham—Committee Will Recommend Their Appointment.

The Committee on Appointments of the Board of Education of which Mrs J. J. MacBain is the chairman, met last night in order that they might select teachers to replace the two Miss Pakenhams, who resign from their duties with the New Year. In answer to advertisements in two of the city newspapers, several applications were received. The two selected were Miss Annie Johnston, of Grafton, and Miss Nellie Evans, of Galt. These will be recommended for appointment by the committee at the next meeting of the Board.

WAS MARRIED IN MINNESOTA.

Dr. A. P. Grant Formerly of Peterborough Married and Will go to Mission Fields.

The Rochester, Minn., Daily Bulletin, has the following on the wedding of a former Peterborough young man:—

"The marriage of Miss Harriett Hopkins and Dr. A. F. Grant of Peterborough, Canada, was celebrated at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Hopkins, on South Glencoe street at high noon Wednesday. The house was decorated in an artistic way with pink and white carnations and ferns.

"The couple entered the parlour to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by the bride's sister, Mrs. Bert Crowell. The couple were unattended as they stood before the officiating minister, Rev. F. C. Whitney, and assumed the vows which bound them for life. The ring ceremony was used. There was something peculiarly impressive about the service, for the union signified that the lives of two young people are united for self-denying labours in the foreign missionary field. They presented a pleasing picture as they stood in the flower-bedecked home, the bride gowned beautifully in white silk, trimmed with real lace, and carrying a cluster of white roses. After congratulations and good wishes, a wedding dinner was served. Only the immediate friends and relatives were present, the wedding being a quiet affair.

The bride has been away from the city for some time, completing a course in the Hahneman Hospital Training School for Nurses. The groom is a graduate of Queen's College, Kingston. They intend to go to the foreign field as medical missionaries under the United Presbyterian Board of Missions. Until January Dr. Grant and wife will visit in the city and vicinity, after which they will enter upon their missionary career at Asyut, Egypt."

A PROMISING LIFE PREMATURELY ENDED.

Zetta Jameson Passed Away Last Night After a Short Illness.

It becomes the sad duty to chronicle the death, at the age of 13 years and 3 months, of Zetta, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Jameson, of 24 Harvey street, which occurred last night shortly before midnight.

The deceased had been ailing about four months from heart trouble, but her condition was not considered serious. On Wednesday last, however, she was stricken with paralysis and congestion of the brain. She rallied somewhat from the first attack, but on Thursday, shortly after noon, she was again prostrated, and from this she never regained consciousness, gradually sinking until her death.

The news of a young life thus prematurely cut off, comes as a sad blow, particularly to those who were well acquainted with the one whose life has been taken away, as she was a most lovable child and showed a consideration for the thoughts and feelings of others unusual even in those of more mature years.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, Rector of St. Luke's, paid a high tribute to the Christian character of the deceased. She was a member of the Mission Band of that church, and also a consistent member of the Sunday school, in both of which organizations she rendered faithful work, and the members of which will feel that they have lost a true friend.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2.30 from the family residence, 24 Harvey street, to the Little Lake cemetery.

One brother, Percy, with the parents, are left to mourn her loss.

DO YOUR SHOPPING IN THE MORNINGS

And Avoid the Rush—You Will Receive Better Satisfaction.

Now that Christmas Day is so near at hand, shoppers are asked to do their shopping in the mornings. Business was congested in the afternoons all last week, and yesterday afternoon, and it was with the greatest difficulty that the merchants and their clerks could attend to all their customers. But in the mornings it has been different. The stores were open, the clerks were waiting, but the rush did not come until late in the day.

The morning is undoubtedly the best time to shop. The clerks are bright and fresh, the goods are seen to better advantage, and buying can be more leisurely attended to.

Examiner readers will benefit themselves as well as the store-keepers by shopping in the mornings this week.

The winner of Group No. 2 in the Intermediate O. H. A. is already practically decided, according to the Belleville Intelligencer, which says: "Its rather early for prophesying, but if the championship of group 2 doesn't drop near here yours truly is making a big mistake."

• • • •

The first hockey game in Eastern Ontario was played Friday night in Belleville, when the Kingston team was defeated by the Bellevilleites. Of the work of the home team the Intelligencer says:—

"Of the local team it may fairly be said that they were all stars last night — shooting stars, we mean. With the exception of Winchester, the goal-keeper, everybody was just aching to get a chance to shoot on the Kingston net. That was especially noticeable in the first half; in the second there was an improvement—and that was where Belleville won the match. The boys, every one of them, showed up with speed to burn, and their stick-handling, considering that the season is just opening, was splendid. Their condition, too, was fairly good, as was shown by the furious pace they set in the last fifteen minutes. But the players have not yet learned to keep their places, and until they do the team as a whole cannot do its best. Those beautiful solo runs are nice to look at, but they don't win games."

BASKET-BALL.

On Saturday night in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium the Athletics (White) won the championship of the Basketball League, trimming the Arrows to the tune of 32 to 17. Throughout the season the team has put up some excellent basketball and won the championship in five straight games, thus defeating every team who have lined up against them. All members of the team are good men, while collectively it is a very heavy five, while good shooting is one of its many excellent points. On Saturday a fair crowd witnessed the game, which was, however, somewhat rough, and the finest basketball was not thus displayed, both teams lacking the usual combination. The half time whistle showed the score as being 17—5 in favour of the Athletics.

The teams lined up as follows:—

Athletics — Dorris, Glover, Dunsford, Robertson, Cavanah.

Arrows — Gillespie, Galley, Hodgson, Richardson and Fitzpatrick.

The standing of the teams at the close of the league was:

	Won.	Lost.
Athletic (white)	5	0
Arrows	3	2
Alerts	2	2
Brownies	2	3
Harriers	1	4
Athletics (blue)...	0	4

An exhibition game was also played and, wonderful to relate, the Harriers, last year's champions, actually beat a "scrub" team by 16—15. This was the second victory for the Harriers this fall and it was a kind of a "consolation" match for them.

The teams were:

Harriers—W. Campbell, P. Campbell, Richardson, Dobbin and Maguire, "Scrubs" — Noble, Renton, Hall, Boucher, Cameron.

SEVEN SISTERS WITH THE LONGEST AND MOST BEAUTIFUL HAIR YOU EVER SAW DESCRIBED, MADE IN TWO GOLD LOCKETS FOR ONE DOLLAR

SUTHERLAND SISTERS

HAIR GROWER

The Great Hair Tonic is a Positive and Thorough Antiseptic

and will quickly eradicate all trace of scalp bacteria, which is the cause of hair falling, dandruff and baldness. NO SCALP CAN BE HEALTHY AND HAIR CAN BE BEAUTIFUL IF BOTH CONTAMINATED WITH THESE DISEASE-BREEDING CREATURES. They undermine the hair and devour all the nutriment or life-sap of the scalp, without which the scalp dries up and peels off, forming dandruff and causing the loss of hair. SEVEN SUTHERLAND SISTERS HAIR GROWER AND SCALP CLEANER ARE THE ONLY REMEDIES IN THE WORLD THAT WILL DESTROY THESE GERMS. They penetrate the scalp thoroughly, carrying with them all the necessary properties to quickly regenerate all the impoverished parts. They rebuild the lost tissues of the scalp and renew the growth of the hair in every case. A few applications will make the hair fairly sparkle with new life and vigor. They make healthy hair grow twice to three times as fast as it does normally.

A GLOOMY OUTLOOK

Resources of Diplomacy Now Near the Exhaustion Point.

FAR EAST CRISIS IMMINENT

Fears Expressed That the Russian Government May Have Overstepped the Boundary Which Would Make a Continuation of Peaceful Negotiations With Japan Possible—No Actual News of Developments.

London, Dec. 21.—Reuter's Telegram Company has learned that considerable anxiety exists in the best informed circles of London regarding the possible outcome of the situation in the Far East. Fears, it says, are expressed that the Russian Government may have overstepped the boundary which would make a continuation of peaceful negotiations with Japan possible. It may be regarded as quite certain, it asserts, that Japan will not accept the principles of the last Russian note which are altogether at variance with Japan's main contentions, and that Japan's reply must necessarily be cast along this line.

Apart from the delicate state of the negotiations between the two nations, Reuter says, it is also known that Russia is assuming a more defiant attitude and the outlook may be regarded as more gloomy than it hitherto has been, although it cannot yet be said that the resources of diplomacy have been completely exhausted.

It concludes by saying that there is no actual news of fresh developments, and that no ultimatum has been given by Japan to Russia.

Grave Crisis Approaching.

Pekin, Dec. 21.—While no news has been received at the Japanese Legation that Japan has sent an ultimatum to Russia, it is recognized at the legation that a grave crisis is approaching. Major-General Yamani, the Japanese military attache, and the Japanese colonel, who has been instructing General Yuan Kai's troops, have both started for Japan.

The native press recently reiterated a circumstantial story to the effect that in the event of Manchuria being retained by Russia it was the intention of Great Britain to establish a protectorate over the Yang Tse Valley as compensation and to appoint a viceroy therein so that her prestige in the Far East would be equally as effective as Russia's. Some of the native papers gave the Chinese Foreign Board as authority for the story. This fiction is largely credited and is creating hostility against Great Britain. It is suspected that the story has been fostered by unfriendly agencies, and the British Legation is investigating its origin.

What An Incident May Do.

The newspapers to-day display increased alarm over the aspect of affairs in the Far East, rather from the fear that some unforeseen incident may precipitate a conflict than from any belief that the resources of diplomacy have become exhausted, the opinion being that Russia and Japan are anxious to avoid war.

The Morning Post, which is inspired in the Japanese interest, makes a suggestion which may possess a significance that Japan may cut the Gordian knot by declaring a protectorate over Corea. The paper contends that such a solution would commend itself to all the powers with the exception of Russia, and that it might even be welcomed at St. Petersburg if it be true that Russia does not desire war.

The correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, who, after a tour of Manchuria, has arrived at Nagasaki, expressed the belief that Russia does not want a war before she has consolidated her position in Manchuria. She is apprehensive, however, of the strength of the Japanese fleet, and the attitude of China and Great Britain.

PANAMA AND COLOMBIA.

Two Battalions of Colombian Troops Leave For Quidedo.

Panama, Dec. 21.— News was brought last night by the steamer Martinique, from Savanilla, that two battalions of Colombian troops have left Savanilla for Quidedo.

It is reported that President Marroquin sent this cablegram to Gen. Reyes at Washington:

"Any negotiations which do not look to the re-establishment of the integrity of Colombia will not be acceptable."

Gen. Reyes is said to have replied in part as follows: "All aggression against Panama will be disastrous for Colombia. I will undertake further negotiations."

That War Rumor Again.

Rome, Dec. 21.—Advices received at the Vatican from Macedonia say that it is not believed that Turkey or the powers are capable of carrying out reforms there, and that therefor in the spring a new revolutionary uprising is likely to be followed by war. Bulgaria being incapable of longer restraining the feelings of her people.

Popular Delusion Upset.

San Francisco, Dec. 21.—Six persons were asphyxiated by illuminating gas Saturday night, and the coroner concluded that the cases were all accidental. In most instances a window was open in each room in which gas was escaping, and the coroner called attention to the fact that it is popularly supposed that a fatal result cannot ensue where fresh air has a place to enter.

While Crazed With Liquor.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—While crazed with liquor yesterday, Frederick Pfugradt, a machinist, shot and killed his wife and then committed suicide

The Evidence You Value.

By word of mouth from friend to friend Dr. Chase's Ointment has received more unsolicited recommendation than probably any medicine you can mention. The fact that it is an absolute cure for piles has put it in a class all by itself as a preparation of inestimable value and people recommend it knowing that it is a certain cure.

SILVER AT MANUFACTURERS PRICES.

We feel justified in alluding to our line of Silverware, which is known the Dominion over for honest making, pleasing styles and superior weight of material used.

Our prices are much lower than those usually asked for the same quality elsewhere, and the reason is simply a matter of profit.

You buy silverware of a retail dealer, who buys of the jobber, who buys of the manufacturer.

You then pay three profits. You buy from us as manufacturers. The difference is in your own pocket.

RETARD BURIAL OF THE DEAD.

Rioters in Livery Strike Clubbed by the Chicago Police.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—The body of Judge Jonas Hutchinson and the body of Frederick R. Otis were carried to cemeteries Saturday in the plain black wagons of undertakers, position and wealth being unable to secure more fitting conveyances owing to the strike of the livery drivers. Neighbors came to the relief of the bereaved families by offering private vehicles for the use of the mourners.

As on Friday, the strikers directed their fight against the dead, and in several instances the police were called in to protect funerals. In one case there was actual riot.

In the afternoon the livery owners met and decided to hire an attorney and to take steps to hold the City of Chicago responsible for any damage done by mobs. Police protection will be asked for all wagons sent out, and the owners will drive ambulances.

Policemen clubbed a crowd of 300 or 400 people, many of them strike sympathizers, while a priest was holding mass over the remains of Anna Vlcek, who is said to have been murdered by her husband.

The police were forced to charge the crowd to prevent it from committing violent assaults on Undertaker Anton Linhart, who drove the plain black wagon in which the body was taken to and from the church.

A funeral car instead of a hearse, as well as a police guard, was utilized by Undertaker Joseph Blake, to circumvent striking pickets from whom violence was feared.

Stablemen in many of the barns quit work Saturday. Few of them are unionized, but they fear to incur the displeasure of organized labor. There are many idle men.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe. This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighbourhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of his children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost in case of croup as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup known as hive syrup, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw off the phlegm quicker and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as a croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to use. For sale by all druggists.

Editor James A. Tucker Dead.

Toronto, Dec. 21.—James A. Tucker, assistant editor of Saturday Night, died at his residence, 168 Pearson avenue, on Saturday afternoon. He had been afflicted with heart trouble for the past ten years, and when he returned from his holidays in Owen Sound last summer he complained considerably of his affliction. He could not hold anything on his stomach, and Dr. Mackenzie said this was one of the main reasons for his non-recovery. He leaves a wife and a child about 4 years old.

Red Star Liner Ashore.

London, Dec. 21.—The Red Star Line steamer Winland, which left Antwerp at noon Saturday for New York, is ashore at Nieuwenluis, near Flushing, Holland. The weather is thick and foggy. The Winland lies in a dangerous position. She has 1,000 passengers.

Found Dead on the Road.

St. Catharines, Dec. 21.—Tobias Wismer, a highly esteemed and well-to-do farmer of Louth township, was found dead on the road near his home at noon Saturday. Heart trouble.

A Hint to the Brethren.

A country paper tells of two little boys who asked their mother if they might play store in the dining room. "Yes," she replied, "if you don't make much noise." "We'll be quiet about it, mom," said one. "We'll be storekeepers that don't advertise."

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, Dec. 21.—About 900 head of butchers' cattle, 40 calves and 200 sheep and lambs were offered for sale at the East End abattoir to-day. The butchers were out strong, but trade was rather slow, as the butchers were holding back for lower prices on Christmas cattle, than were paid last week. The best steer which has been seen in this city for some years past was sold for 6c per lb., which weighed 1910 lbs., and came from Exeter, Ont. Sales of Christmas cattle were made at 5c to 5½c per lb., but a few very choice animals were held at higher rates; prime beeves sold at about 4¾c per lb.; good mediums at about 4c; ordinary mediums, at about 3½c, and the common stock, at 2½c to 3½c per lb. Calves sold at from $3 to $13 each, or from 3½c to 5c per lb. Sheep sold at from 3c to 3½c and the lambs at 4½c to 4¾c per lb. Good lots of fat hogs sold at about 5½c per pound.

CUT FROM 5 TO 15 PER CENT.

Thousands of U.S. Steel Corporation Mine Workers Will Be Affected.

Minneapolis, Dec. 21.—A despatch from Negaunee, Mich., says: "It was announced yesterday that beginning Jan. 1 the wages of all mine workers in the employ of the United States Steel Corporation in Lake Superior region would be cut from 5 to 15 per cent. The reduction will affect thousands of men, and will, it is understood, be followed by like reductions by the independent companies."

Coal Mines Close Down.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Dec. 21.—The Lehigh Valley Coal Company and the Wilkes Coal Company announce a suspension of work from Dec. 24 to Jan. 4, and it is likely that this move will be followed by other companies, although officials of the Susquehanna Coal Company and the Delaware and Hudson Coal Company stated last night that they had received no notice yet of any suspension. Those familiar here with the coal trade say restriction is more to keep up prices for the winter than because of any overproduction. The demand for coal is brisk.

MISS CRANE'S DEATH.

Hamilton Colored Woman Lodged in Jail —Alleged Victim is Dead.

Hamilton, Dec. 21.—Mrs. Hattie Waters, a colored woman, who lives at 50 North Hughson street, was arrested about 9 o'clock Saturday night by Detectives Coulter, Bleakley and Miller and driven straight to the jail. The warrant charges her with performing a criminal operation. Her alleged victim was Miss Ada Crane, a domestic, who has worked for Capt. J. H. Herring, 177 West Main street, for 14 years. She was taken in great pain from the Herring residence about noon Saturday and died at 8 o'clock in the City Hospital. Coroner Griffin will open an inquest at Blachford & Son's morgue this morning at 11 o'clock. The girl's condition was not known till last Thursday, when Dr. Edgar was called in. She was about 25 years of age and a strong, healthy woman. The only relative the authorities know of is a brother in Guelph, who is expected this morning. The prisoner is about 58 years of age, and bears a bad reputation.

Killed By a Runaway.

St. Catharines, Dec. 21.—Mrs. Stott, an elderly lady, who resided at the corner of Ottawa and Wiley streets, was on the Market Square crossing Saturday, when a horse attached to a light market wagon, belonging to Mrs. Dodds of Grantham, which had taken fright, made a dash through the crowded square, collided with her, knocking her to the ground and rendering her unconscious. The ambulance was called and the injured lady removed to the hospital, where she succumbed in half an hour from fracture of the skull.

Rescuers Driven Back.

Houghton, Mich., Dec. 21.—A rescue party Saturday attempted to reach the three imprisoned miners caught by the fire in the Isle Royale Mine Friday by descending an abandoned shaft of the mine, but on reaching the second level, they were driven back by gas. The air compressor is kept running in the hope that the imprisoned men may keep alive.

Wiped Out Whole Family.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 21.—Roscoe W. Derby, a machinist, about 45 years old, exterminated his family early yesterday by shooting his wife, his three children and then himself. The crime is believed to have been due to despondency over the improverished condition of the family purse and the near approach of Christmas.

Snow Causes Damage.

Listowel, Dec. 21.—A portion of the roof of the skating rink caved in on Saturday night owing to an accumulation of snow, from two to three feet of snow having fallen in the past few days. The Methodist Church driving shed also suffered considerably from the same cause.

Brain Controls Every Muscle.

Injury to Brain or Nerves, Deficiency of Nerve Force, Mean Paralysis and Helplessness.

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

Every muscle of the body controlled by the will is connected with the brain, and every muscular action is originated by nervous force, generated in the brain and transmitted along the nerves to the muscles.

When the nerves are injured or diseased, when there is a deficiency in the supply of nervous energy, paralysis, locomotor ataxia or some form of helplessness results because the brain no longer has control of the muscles.

It may be weak heart action, inability to digest food, failure of the lungs to purify the blood or impaired action of any of the vital organs, but the cause of trouble is with the nerves.

The restorative action of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is soon felt throughout the entire system, because it restores the vigor and vitality of the nerves—fills them with new nerve force, the vital power of the body; wakness, nervousness, irritability, sleeplessness and low spirits disappear and new energy and strength take their place.

Mr. John Rousel, school teacher, living at 596 George street, Peterborough, Ont., states:—

"As a remedy for nervousness and nervous dizzy headaches, I consider Dr. Chase's Nerve Food excellent. I was troubled a great deal with headache, and my system was pretty well run down, but the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has made a radical change in my condition. My nerves have become strong and healthy, the headaches have entirely disappeared, and I believe that the credit is entirely due to this preparation."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 7

CHAPTER XXIV.

A SUPPER was given the company after the performance by the manager, to which representatives of the press—artful Barnes!—had been invited. Of all the merry evenings in the bohemian world that was one of the merriest. Next to the young girl sat the Count de Proprise, his breast covered with a double row of medals. Of the toasts drunk to Constance, the manager, Straws, etc., unfortunately no record remains.

So fancy must picture the devotion of the count to his fair neighbor, the almost superhuman pride of noisy Barnes, the attention bestowed by Susan upon Saint-Prosper, while through his mind wandered the words of a French song:

Adieu, la cour, adieu les dames;
Adieu les filles et les femmes.

Intermixed with this sad refrain the soldier's thoughts reverted to the performance, and amid the chatter of Susan he reviewed again and again the details of that evening. Was this the young girl who played in schoolhouses, inns or town halls, he had asked himself, seated in the rear of the theater? When she won an ovation he had himself forgotten to applaud, but had sat there looking from her to the auditors, to whom she was now bound by ties of admiration and friendliness.

"Don't you like her?" a voice next to him had asked.

Like her! He had looked at the man blankly.

"Yes," he had replied.

Then the past had seemed to roll between them—the burning sands, the voices of the troops, the bugle call. In his brain wild thoughts had surged and flowed as they were surging and flowing now.

"Is he not handsome—Constance's new admirer?" whispered Susan. "What can he be saying? She looks so pleased! He is very rich, isn't he?"

"I don't know," answered Saint-Prosper brusquely.

Again the thoughts surged and surged and the past intruded itself. Reaching for his glass, he drank quickly.

"Don't you ever feel the effects of wine?" asked the young woman.

His glance chilled her, it seemed so strange and steely.

"I believe you are so—so strong you don't even notice it," added Susan, with conviction. "But you don't have half as good a time."

"Perhaps I enjoy myself in my way," he answered.

"What is your way?" she asked quickly. "You don't appear to be wild by hilarious in your pleasures." And

"For once I want to be myself."

Susan's bright eyes rested on him curiously. "But we were speaking about the count and Constance. Don't you think it would be a good match?" she continued, with enthusiasm. "Alas, my titled admirer got no further than the beginning! But men are deceivers ever. When they do reach the Song of Solomon they pass on to Exodus."

"And leave the fair ones to Lamentations," said Straws, who had caught her last remarks.

At the sound of their laughter Constance looked coldly their way until a remark from the count engrossed the young girl's attention once more. But finally time reminded Barnes that the hour had arrived when the curtain should descend upon these festivities. So he roared out a last blithe farewell, and the guests departed one by one, taking with them flowers in memory of the occasion, until all had left save Constance, the count, Saint-Prosper and the manager. Barnes was talking somewhat incoherently, holding the soldier by the coat and plunging into successive anecdotes about stage folk, while Saint-Prosper, apparently listening, observed the diplomat and Constance, whose conversation he could overhear.

"As I said to the royal infanta of Spain, flattery flies before truth in your presence, mademoiselle," sighed the count, and then, raising her hand to his lips, "Ah, ma chere mademoiselle, que je vous adore!" he whispered.

She withdrew it hastily, and, ogling and gesticulating, he bowed himself out, followed by the manager.

Leaning against the chair, her figure outlined by the glow from the crystal chandelier, her face in shadow, the hand the diplomat had pressed to his lips resting in the exposed light on the mahogany, the gayety went out of her face, and the young girl wearily brushed the hair from her brow. As if unaware of the soldier's presence she glanced absently at the table in its wrecked glory and, throwing her lace wrap over her arm, was moving toward the door when he spoke.

"Miss Carew!"

She paused, standing with clasped hands before him, while the scarf slipped from her arm and fell at her feet.

"May I not also tell you how glad I am that you succeeded tonight?"

"I dislike congratulations," she said indifferently.

He looked at her quickly, but her eyes expressed only apathy. In his a sudden gleam of light appeared.

"From me, you mean?" The light became brighter.

She did not answer. His self control was fast ebbing.

"You underestimate your favors if you fancy they are easily forgotten."

A crimson flush extended to her brow, the unconcern died out of her eyes.

"I do not understand," she answered slowly.

"When a woman says 'I do not understand' she means 'I wish to forget.'"

Her wide open glance flashed ominously to his. She clasped and unclasped her fingers.

"Forget what?" she said coldly.

"Nameless nothings," he returned. "A smile, a glance, nothing to you, perhaps, but"—the set expression of his face giving way to abrupt passion—"everything to me. Perhaps I had not meant to say this, but it seems as though the words must come out tonight. It may be"—his voice vibrating with strange earnestness—"for once I want to be myself. For weeks we have been—friends—and then suddenly you begin to treat me—how? As though I no longer existed. Why did you deceive me, let me drift on? Because I was mute did you think I was blind? Why did I join the strollers? The land baron accused me of following you across the country. He was right. I was following you. I would not confess it to myself before. But I confess it now. It was a fool's paradise," he ended bitterly.

She shrank back before his vehement words; something within her appeared violated, as though his plea had penetrated the sanctity of her reserve.

"Would it not be well to say nothing about deception?" she replied, and her dark eyes swept his face. Then, turning from him abruptly, she stepped to the window and, drawing aside the lace curtains mechanically, looked out.

The city below was yet teeming with life, lights gleaming everywhere and shadowy figures passing. Suddenly out of the darkness came a company of soldiers who had just landed, marching through the streets toward the camping ground and singing as they went.

The chorus, like a mightly breath of patriotism, filled her heart to overflowing. It seemed as though she had heard it for the first time; had never before felt its potency. All the tragedy of war swept before her; all that inspiring, strange affection for country, kith and kin suddenly exalted her.

Above the tramping of feet the melody rose and fell on the distant air, dying away as the figures vanished in the gloom. With its love of native land, its expression of the unity of comradeship and ties stronger than death, the song appeared to challenge an answer, and when the music ceased and only the drum beats still seemed to make themselves heard, she raised her head without moving from her position and looked at him to see if he understood. But, though she glanced at him, she hardly saw him. In her mind was another picture—the betrayed garrison, the soldiers slain—and the horror of it threw such a film over her gaze that he became as a figure in some distressing dream.

An inkling of her meaning—the mute questioning of her eyes, the dread evoked by that revolting vision of the past—was reflected in his glance.

"Deceived you?" he began, and his voice to her sounded as from afar. "How—what"—

"Must it be—could it be put into words?"

The deepest shadows dwelt in her eyes, shadows he could not penetrate, although he still doggedly, yet apprehensively, regarded her. Watching her, his brow grew darker.

"Why not?" he continued stubbornly. Why? The dimness that had obscured her vision lifted. Now she saw him very plainly indeed—tall and powerful, his face harsh, intense, as though by the vigor of physical and mental force he would override any charge or imputation.

Why? She drew herself up as he quickly searched her eyes, bright with the passions that stirred her breast.

"You told me part of your story that day in the property wagon," she began, repugnance, scorn and anger all mingling in her tones. "Why did you not tell me the rest?"

His glance, too, flashed. Would he still profess not to understand her? His lips parted; he spoke with an effort.

"The rest?" he said, his brow lowering.

"Yes," she answered quickly—"the stain upon your name, the garrison sold, the soldiers killed, murdered"—

She had turned to him swiftly, fiercely, but before the look of sudden shame and dread on his face her eyes abruptly fell as though a portion of his dishonor had inexplicably touched her. Motionless he stood, a darkness overspreading his features, as words struggled within him for mastery—a moment, an eternity!

"Why don't you go?" she cried. "Why don't you go?"

He started as though struck, then wheeled sharply around. At the threshold he paused, but she did not look up; could not.

The door opened, closed. She was alone.

Pale as the dying lilies on the table, she stepped toward the threshold when Barnes, chipper and still indefatigable, entered by another door. He was too inspired with festal intoxication to observe her agitation.

"What, my dear!" he exclaimed cheerily. "Has he gone? Did you make up your little differences? Did you settle your quarrel before he leaves for Mexico?"

"For Mexico!" she repeated mechanically.

"Of course. He has his commission in the army and leaves early in the morning. But you look tired, my dear. I declare you are quite pale," pinching her cheek. "Rest will bring back the roses, though."

Impulsively she threw her arms around his neck.

"Why, why, what's this?" he said, patting her head.

"I only care for you," she whispered. "My dear, my dear!"

CHAPTER XXV.

"PERHAPS she will fail, and that will amuse me," ruminated Francois on his high seat next to the coachman, repeating the marquis' words as they drove home after the nobleman's precipitous retreat from the theater. Here the carriage drew up sharply before the marquis' home, and Francois, hastily alighting, threw open the door.

"Eh? What? Are we here?" muttered the marquis, starting from the corner where he had been reclining.

He arose with some difficulty and finally, with the assistance of the valet, found himself once more in his room, the sick chamber he had grown to detest! Here alone, having dismissed the servant as soon as possible, he moved restlessly to and fro, pondering deeply. Since the moment when he had seen and recognized his daughter, all the buoyancy which had given his wasted figure a sort of galvanic vitality seemed to vanish.

"That resemblance cannot be coincidence!" he thought. "Oh, errors of the past, you come home in our old age when the limbs are faltering and life is failing!"

Going to the secretary, he took out a box that had not been opened in years and with trembling fingers turned over many papers. He shivered and, thinking it was cold, stirred the fire. Returning to the secretary, he took from the box a package tied with a ribbon, still, after the lapse of these many years, slightly fragrant, and he breathed that perfume, so faint, so subtle, while recollections smote him like a knife.

Its scent was familiar to him. It seemed to bring life to the dead, and for the moment in his mind's eye he saw her glowing figure—the love of his youth—with flashing, revengeful eyes and noble mien. He cowered over the desk, as if shrinking from an avenging spirit, while the perfume, like opium, filled his brain with strange fantasies. He strove to drown remembrance, but some force—it seemed not his own—drove him irresistibly to untie that ribbon, to scrutinise many old theater programmes and to gaze upon a miniature in ivory depicting a woman in the loveliness of her charms, but whose striking likeness to the young actress he had just seen filled his heart with strange fear. Some power—surely it could not have been his will, which rebelled strenuously—impelled him to open those letters and to read them word for word. The tenderness of the epistles fell on his heart as though to scorch it, and he quivered like a guilty wretch. His eyes were fascinated by these words in her last letter: "Should you desert me and your unborn child your end will be miserable. As I believe in retribution, I am sure you will reap as you have sown."

Suddenly the reader in a frenzy threw the letter to the floor and trampled on it. He regarded the face in the miniature with fear and hatred and, dashing it into the drawer, called down maledictions on her. He ceased abruptly, weak and wavering.

"I am going insane," he said, laughing harshly. "Fool! To let that woman's memory disturb me. So much for her dire prophecy!" And he snapped his fingers and dropped the letter in the fire.

"What can her curse avail?" he said aloud. "She is gone, turned to ashes like that paper, and there is no life after this one. All then is nothing, emptiness, a blank. I need rest. It is this cursed dyspepsia which has made me nervous. Something to compose me, and then to bed."

In spite of soothing powders, however, he passed a restless night and arose unrefreshed, but ordered his valet to bring one of his lightest suits, and, having dressed, he set a white flower upon his coat, while the servant proceeded to apply various pigments to the wrinkled face until it took on a mocking semblance to the countenance of a man fifteen years younger. The marquis leered at himself in the pier glass and assumed a jauntiness of demeanor he was far from feeling.

"I do not look tired or worried, Francois?"

"Not at all, my lord," replied the obsequious valet. "I never saw you, my lord, appear so young and well."

"Beneath the surface, Francois, there are age and weakness," answered the marquis in a melancholy tone.

"It is but a passing indisposition, my lord," asserted the servant soothingly.

"Perhaps. But, Francois"—peering around—"as I look over my shoulder do you know what I see?"

THE FIRST STEP

Of the child is an event in the mother's life. How proud she feels when the attempt to walk is begun so early as to evidence childish courage and sturdy strength. Such pride should be enjoyed by every mother. But it often happens that the child is timid, weak and deficient in vitality, and clings to the mother's arms with no desire to walk or play.

Mothers should learn that to have strong children they must themselves be strong, for the child's strength is the gift of the mother.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription by expectant mothers gives them health and strength to give their children. It nourishes the nerves, strengthens the body and gives great muscular strength and elasticity, so that the baby's advent is practically painless.

"I have been using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and can say it is just what you advertise it to be, and can cheerfully recommend it," writes Mrs. Victor J. Hadin, of Leonardville, Riley Co., Kansas. "I began taking it just two months before baby came and was greatly benefited by its use. The doctor who attended me said I did about as well as any one he had seen (as I was sick only about three hours), and also that your 'Favorite Prescription' was 'the one patent medicine' which he did have faith in.

"We now have a darling baby boy. Strong and healthy, who weighed nine pounds when born (July 25th). During this month he has gained three and one-half pounds."

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.

CURE SICK HEADACHE.

Impairment of hearing robs one of many of the joys of life, exposes to danger, interfers with capacity for usefulness, limits ability to transact business and earn a living. Many annually abandon their plans, ambitions and hopes on account of loss of hearing.

In nearly every case of partial or complete deafness there is another feature that to many is more troublesome than the difficulty of hearing—the distracting head noises. These make such an impression on some as to almost drive them insane. The everlasting buzzing, ringing, snapping, rumble or roar, distracts them by day and prevents rest at night.

Nine cases out of ten of head noises and progressive hardness of hearing are due to catarrh of the middle ear or of the tube leading from it to the throat.

It should be understood and constantly borne in mind that to restore the hearing and silence the distracting noises a treatment is required that will allay inflammation in the eustachian tubes, reduce the congestion and swelling and stop the secretion of mucus so that the tubes will be keep open for free passage of air into the middle ear. No locally applied medicine will effectually do this, only a searching constitutional alterative and resolvent will cure catarrh in the deep recesses of the head.

Two acquaintances of the writer were run down and killed by the cars in one year. Both had catarrh of the head, which had extended up the eustachian tubes, l eading from the throat to the middle ear, and were quite hard of hearing. In both cases the corner's jury decided that they came to their death because of inability to hear and head signals that were intended for them. What happened to them is of frequent occurrence and in three cases out of four might have been prevented by the use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets. These tablets cure all kinds of catarrh. They can be bought at any drug store for 50 cents a box.

That Stuart's Catarrh Tablets do effectually cure catarrh of the eustachian tubes and the head noises and deafness resulting therefrom is attested by the following:—

Mrs. Jane Barlow, the famous medistc, says: "I finally had to give up personal attention to my customers and in consequence many of them went elsewhere, I was in despair for specialists seemed powerless to help me. Stuart's Catarrh Tablets cured me in just a little while so completely that now I hear as well as ever."

Army Surgeon C. H. Beverly, became so deaf from catarrh that he was forced to resign his position, and abandon his profession. He says: "Of course my inherent professional prejudice was hard to overcome but knowing the great benefit you had received, my dear General, through the use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, I used them. The great and almost immediate relief I experienced was truly astonishing. I am now entirely cured and have no fear of the disease returning. I go back to my old post next month."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets have done it, do do it, will do it. Try them and be convinced. They are for sale at any drug store at 50 cents a box. It will put you to very little trouble or expense to prove what they will do for you. Send to F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., for their free book about catarrh. A postal card will bring it. REVELATIONS IN TOWN'S RAILWAY AGREEMENT.

Aldermen Discover That Contract was not Given to Mr. Stuart.

APPEAL FROM JUDGE'S DECISION.

Meeting of Committee of Whole Council—Divergent Views Expressed by Aldermen—Railway Bylaw to be Amended.

The Committee of the Whole Council, which met last night, decided to recommend the Council to take a line of action on the situation in which the town finds itself by reason of the decision of Justice Meredith, in which the street lighting bylaw was quashed, and the street railway bylaw laid over for amendment by the Council.

The decisions arrived at, after a good deal of discussion, in the course of which some of the members of the council learned some facts with reference to the bargain made by the town in entering into the two contracts, which were new to them, were that the Legal Committee was instructed to authorize an appeal from the decisions of the Judge, with regard to the street lighting bylaw, the appeal to be entered as advised by the counsel, Aldermen O'Connell and Best opposing this action; and that the council be recommended to amend the Radial Railway Bylaw, as suggested by Justice Meredith, to make it legal. This motion was opposed by the same Aldermen as objected to that referring to the lighting bylaw. The ground taken by Alderman O'Connell, in opposing this action was that he thought the Council would be acting ill-advisedly in amending the bylaw, and thereby entering into an agreement with the Peterborough Radial Railway Company, controlled practically by the same interests as those of the defunct street railway company, without any assurance that Mr. Robert Stuart, or the American Cereal Company, would be in any way interested in the street railway, and at the same time giving the street lighting contract to the Peterborough Light and Power Company at a price $1,400 per year in excess of the offer made by the Otonabee Power Company. Alderman O'Connell said if he had thought at the time of the granting of the street lighting contract that it had not been thoroughly understood that it carried with it a guarantee that the street railway was to be revived by the interests associated with Mr. Stuart and the American Cereal Company, he would have opposed the bylaw, as his main reason in supporting it was the fact that he believed it meant the taking hold of the street railway by Mr. Stuart.

Alderman Best, while he opposed both motions, did so from a different motive than did Alderman O'Connell. Alderman Best still advocates the town taking over the street lighting plant and equipment, and running it as a municipal enterprise, the power to be supplied by the water works dam, where there is a surplus of power.

Alderman Morrison, in supporting the motion, defended the action of the Council in granting the lighting contract as it was granted. He expressed the belief that the contract outside of the street railway consideration, was a good one, and said that by it the town got twenty-five extra lamps, and $125, and, in addition, the street railway.

The result of the decisions arrived at last night will be that the Railway Bylaw will be amended, to conform with the requirements of the law, and will be binding upon both the company and the town, the former bound by a $5,000 guarantee, to carry out its contract, and with reference to the street lighting, an appeal will be made against the Judge's decisions, and, in the meantime, on January 1st, 1904, the new contract with the Peterborough Light and Power Company comes into effect, and remains valid until the appeal is dismissed, or otherwise disposed of.

* * * * * * * *

A meeting of the Committee of the Whole Council was held in the Town Clerk's office last night, at which Mayor Roger presided and the following members of the council were present, — Messrs. Best, Edgcumbe, Shortly, Rush, Morrison, Hutton, O'Connell, McWilliams and Corkery.

The Mayor explained that the object of the meeting was that the Council might discuss the situation of the town with reference to the Street Railway and Street Lighting Bylaws, the second of which has been quashed by Justice Meredith. The matter is still in the hands of the Legal Committee, but the Mayor thought that committee might like to be advised by the council before taking further action. He asked the members present to express their views on the situation, and Ald. O'Connell was the first to avail himself of the opportunity, stating that in considering the question of the street lighting contract, and in view of the fact that the contract had been granted at a price $14,000 in excess of an offer which the council had for the same service. The main object in giving this higher price had been that with it, the town would get a street railway operated by the American Cereal Company interests. Personally, it was on this ground that he had voted in favour of giving the contract, and certainly if he had thought that in giving a street railway franchise it was to give it to the same parties who had controlled the old company he would have hesitated before supporting it. He thought that the proposition first made to the council in respect to the street lighting and the railway had the appearance of a bonus proposition, and he had supported it as such, and he only learned recently that the railway contract was made not with Mr. Stuart or his interests, but with the old company. He believed every councillor also believed as he did, in supporting the granting of the franchise, and felt that the affair had been to a certain extend mismanaged. He would oppose any amendment being made to the bylaw which would legalize it, because, in his opinion, it was a fortunate thing for the town if it should be declared invalid and not binding upon the town.

The council had been led to believe that the two companies were practically identical, and at any rate, were both controlled by Mr. Stuart and his associates, but he was surprised to learn that they were in no way connected. He quoted from the affidavit of Mr. T. E. Bradburn contained in Yesterday's Examiner, as follows:—

"There is no existing agreement or understanding whereby the Peterborough Radial Railway Company will receive any benefit or advantage from the street lighting contract entered into between the Town of Peterborough and the Peterborough Light and Power Company Limited, for the ten years following the 1st day of January, 1904."

And also,—"There is no arrangement for the transfer of shares from the shareholders of one Company to the shareholders of the other Company or anything of that kind for the purpose of giving either Company or the shareholders thereof an interest in the contracts of the other Company, but each Company is carrying on business bona fide and entirely separately and distinct in every particular from the other of said Companies, and I deny that there is any secret understanding between the companies as set forth in the affidavits fyled in support of this motion."

If the provisions of the bylaw make it a bonus and therefore illegal it should never have been passed in the council, and he was pleased to find out that the council need not be bound by it.

ALD. MORRISON EXPLAINS.

In reply to Ald. O'Connell, Ald. Morrison said that in the first place the offer had come to the town from Mr. Stuart, through Mr. Dennistoun, to do the street lighting and resuscitate the street railway, his idea being that the two could be operated in conjunction economically. The committee appointed to deal with the matter in return made an offer to Mr. Stuart to give a contract for street lighting at $50 per lamp per year, deducting the amount to be received for pole rental, making the net cost $46.66 per lamp. This, Mr. Stuart accepted, and the committee was empowered to enter into the details of the contract. The strength upon which Mr. Stuart made his offer to supply a street railway service was an option which he held on the assets of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company. Ald. Morrison subsequently stated in reply to a question asked by Ald. Best, that the purchase price of the property was to be $30,000. Because of a number of delays, before the council could take action, the option expired. A second one was secured, and it also expired. At this time all that was necessary to the ratification of the bylaw was its confirmation by the council. At this juncture, because of a threatened law suit, Mr. Stuart considered it not wise to connect himself with the railway company, consequently the option was not renewed. The council, said Ald. Morrison, then dealt with the Radial Railway Company, which had a good financial standing, having $100,000 of subscribed stock, and $20,000 in the bank. The committee, however, wished to be fully secured, and consequently Mr. Stuart was asked to deposit $5,000 as a guarantee, which he did, the check now being in the hands of the town treasurer. Ald. Morrison said that as he had stated in the council meeting, when the matter was discussed, in the lighting contract, the town got 25 additional lamps, saved $125, and got a street railway thrown in. He contended that the offer of $46.66 not per lamp, was a good one, and felt sure that such an offer could not be duplicated. He stated that Mr. R. R. Hall had given it as his opinion that the town would yet pay $75 per lamp per year for light. Ald. Morrison was of the opinion that the council would be dilatory if it did not at once secure the passing of the bylaw. Light in Peterborough, he said, was as good as or better than in any town he had visited. He had seen the lighting service in other towns, and Peterborough's was better than any. He favoured a re-enactment of the bylaw, but if the majority of the council was in favour of appealing from the Judge's decision, he would support them, although he felt the wisest plan was to re-pass the bylaw, and secure the cheapest street lighting in Canada. Speaking of the street railway bylaw, he said that he believed if the amendment was made to it, as the Judge suggested, Mr. Stuart would be willing to build and operate the street railway.

THE MAYOR MAKES STATEMENT

Mayor Roger said that there was to him no mystery in the situation. The proposal which first came from Mr. Dennistoun, was that for a renewal of the street lighting contract for ten years to the Peterborough Light and Power Company, Mr. Stuart, and those associated with him would undertake to operate a street railway on a thirty year franchise. The council had received no offer, nor had it entered into any discussion with any other company or body of men than Messrs. Stuart, Cox and Dennistoun. This is the syndicate that the council had negotiated with all along. At the request of Mr. Stuart, the offer was made by and the contract given to the Peterborough Radial Railway Company, as it was understood that Mr. Stuart was about to purchase the plant and equipment of the company. The Mayor said that the council was under no obligation now, and could retreat, if it was thought advisable. He felt satisfied that the people were fairly familiar with the details of the situation, and were satisfied with the bargain, and he thought the wiser plan was to go to the people on the question, and make it a feature of the municipal elections, and stand or fall on the merits of the question. For his part he was perfectly willing to answer to the electors for the position he had taken.

Ald. Best interjected to say that he too was prepared to go to the electors on his record.

The Mayor continuing, said that the counsel and solicitor expressed themselves as feeling that the town had good grounds for an appeal from the decision of the Judge in the street lighting bylaw. He was not prepared to state whether he thought the grounds were sufficiently strong to warrant an appeal or not, but he felt that the counsel's advice might be accepted. If the council decided that it wishes to stand by the bylaw there were, it appeared to him, two courses open. The bylaw could be re-passed, as the Judge is said to have stated, would be perfectly legal, or an appeal could be entered.

Ald. O'Connell — "Do you think Mr. Mayor, that if the fact that the difference of $14,000 in ten years, in the price of the contract, with the offer of the Otonabee Power Company, is sufficient ground for quashing the bylaw, it could be re-passed?"

The Mayor, replying, said that he had some doubts as to the remarks which the judge was said to have made on this point, and the course he would counsel would be to appeal the case and go before the people on it. The principal fact to be considered was, "Are we satisfied with the terms of the contract?" He felt that the contract was a good one, and that the matter was perfectly safe in the hands of Mr. Stuart and Mr. Cox.

Reviewing the history of the street railway since the collapse of the old company, the Mayor said that the assets of the company had been seized by the sheriff and afterwards purchased by Messrs. Haslett and Bradburn, who obtained a new charter in 1902, under the name of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company. Nothing further was done of any practical value to the town, although negotiations had been carried on at intervals with different gentlemen. When Messrs Cox and Stuart came forward, however, and made their offer, the council thought it was the chance of a lifetime, because these men knew the town and its requirements, and had the necessary financial responsibility to carry out their contract. Although the option held by these men on the railway had expired, he was assured that they were still willing to carry out the contract. The whole question, said the Mayor, is, are we satisfied with the bargain. If not, the council should go back; if it is, the council should stand by the contract. Personally, he was satisfied, and he was prepared to submit the whole question to the people and stand or fall by their decision. He had never considered the street lighting bylaw in the nature of a bonus, because the advantage in accepting the offer of the Peterborough Light and Power Company in preference to that of the Otonabee Power Company, were manifest. He did not want to give the contract to the latter company, because it would mean duplicating the poles on the streets, which, he thought, would be a mistake. He was satisfied that if this contract were dropped it would be impossible to get as cheap light again, and the street railway would also be lost.

ALDERMAN BEST'S VIEWS.

Ald. Best expressed himself as being strongly opposed to the views advanced by the Mayor. The people, he said, thought that when the water works was made a municipal plant, the street lighting was also to be conducted in the same way, and he was satisfied that the town could do its own street lighting at $35.00 per lamp per year. If the two companies were about to amalgamate, as Ald. Morrison had suggested, it was all the greater reason why the town should do its own lighting.

ALD. McWILLIAMS STATES HIS POSITION.

Ald. McWilliams said that his understanding of the two propositions was that there was a bargain between the two companies, the Peterborough Light and Power Company, and the Peterborough Radial Railway Company, by which Mr. Stuart was to have control of both. He had not learned until about Nov. 15th that there was a friction between the two companies as to the terms of agreement. He was surprised to find that the two companies were not treated as one. The affidavits made by the the members of the companies had also been a surprise to him.

As to the terms of the lighting contract, he was perfectly satisfied, and would vote again the same way. He thought the contract a good one and all that could be asked for. Referring to the decision of the judge, he believed that it was bad law, and worse to say that the bylaw could be re-enacted.

He had not considered the street lighting bylaw as a bonus and thought that no fault could be found with any member of the council for voting as they did, and had no objection to vote in favour of passing it again.

He would like to see the matter disposed of by the people.

Ald. O'Connell thought that

SOME COURSE SHOULD BE ADOPTED AT ONCE.

Personally he was prepared to give a higher price for lighting in order to secure the railway, but he thought the council should have been in a position to know before the bylaw was passed whether it would be made invalid.

The worst feature of the whole thing to him was that he had understood, as he believed the other members of the council had, that in granting the contracts, it was to Mr. Stuart and the American Cereal Company, whereas it appeared that this was not the case.

As it stood now, Mr. Stuart might fail to come to an agreement with the Railway Company and the town might find itself tied up for thirty years with the same interests which ran the old street railway, and with whom, he believed, the council did not want to deal.

The council had the offer of the Otonabee Power Company to supply street lighting at $1,400 per year less than the other Company, and he believed that the lower offer should be accepted if there was not the street railway to be considered. He was opposed to re-enacting the bylaw.

Ald. Best counselled entering into a contract for one year with the present lighting company and in the meantime go into the matter of municipal lighting.

Ald. McWilliams in reply to this said that five of the six members of the Special Committee appointed to deal with the matter had reported against municipal lighting, and Ald. Best retorted by saying that the expert on whose advice the committee reported, had been handed over to the Peterborough Light and Power Company on his arrival here and that his report had been inspired by its officers. In reply to this statement Ald. Morrison reviewed the whole matter with regard to the visit of the expert, and stated that Ald. Best had taken every opportunity of opposing him.

Ald McWilliams moved, seconded by Ald. Shortly, that the street railway bylaw be amended as suggested by the judge. This was carried, Ald. O'Connell and Best opposing the motion.

Ald. McWilliams moved, seconded by Ald. Rush, that the committee recommend the Legal Committee to enter an appeal to the Judge's decision, as the counsel and solicitor may advise. This motion was carried on the same division as that preceding.

The committee then adjourned.

WAR IS INEVITABLE

Is Opinion in London of Russo-Japanese Situation.

JAPAN URGED TO STRIKE NOW

Russia is Playing a Waiting Game, and When the Time Suits Her Will Snap Her Fingers at the Mercury Kingdom—Britain and France Bringing All Their Influence to Bear.

London, Dec. 23.—Discussing the far eastern situation, the London papers to-day say that Russia is playing for time, and when her moment comes she will snap her fingers at Japan. A section of the London press is strongly urging Japan to strike now. Assuming that war is inevitable, they say that Japan will rue it if she falls in with Russia's waiting game. If the two countries resort to war the sympathies and the prayers of Britain will be for Japan. What more the British would do nobody undertakes to say.

Great anxiety pervades all Europe on account of the situation. It might be an exaggeration to say that the prevailing belief in Britain, France and Germany is that war between Japan and Russia is unavoidable, but it may be said truthfully that the view of most persons whose opinions have weight is that the situation is so bad that the most natural outcome is war. About the most optimistic view is that there is still ground for hope that the two countries may reach a peaceful settlement.

The Japanese Reply.

Tokio, Dec. 23.—It is asserted in official circles here that the Japanese reply to Russia rejects the fundamental points at issue, which are understood to include mutual guarantee for the preservation of Chinese and Corean sovereignty while securing their individual interests.

The situation is graver than since the commencement of the negotiations, but is still susceptible to a pacific solution if Russia will quickly reconsider her reply.

The fact that Foreign Minister Komura called on Baron De Rosen, the Russian Minister, Monday, instead of Baron De Rosen calling on Komura, is interpreted that Japan is determined not to afford Russia possible ground for claiming Japanese impetuosity as an excuse. Komura's communication is not believed officially to be necessarily tantamount to an ultimatum, as rumored.

War preparations continue apace. The transports and warships can sail at five minutes' notice.

The Japanese Government purposes immediately to undertake the completion of the Seoul-Fusan Railroad, under the direct supervision of Japan.

Popular sentiment and the press are eagerly urging the Government to set a limit to the "Russian tactics of aggression and insolent negligence."

Peril to China.

Pekin, Dec. 23.—The Chinese officials are awakening to the peril confronting China in the event of a Russo-Japanese war, and they are greatly disturbed. Wu Ting Fang has been urging the United States Legation, on his own responsibility, to seek a special audience of the Dowager Empress and impress on her China's perilous position and the need of a strong army and ministers acquainted with foreign affairs.

Other Powers Now Intervene.

Paris, Dec. 23.—Confirmation was obtained from official sources yesterday of the reports that Foreign Secretary Lansdowne and Foreign Minister Delcasse have within the last few days made strong representations at Tokio with the view of averting a crisis between Russia and Japan. There is reason to believe that these representations, coming at the critical moment when Japan's reply was being handed to the Russian Minister, Baron Deroson, exercised a powerful restraining influence. This is especially true of Lord Lansdowne, owing to the British being the ally of Japan.

Russians Busy Fortifying.

London, Dec. 23.—According to The Daily Telegraph's Nagasaki correspondent, the Government has given notice that it will require all the dry docks in the country for the use of the Japanese fleet, the vessels of which are already beginning to dock for cleaning purposes. The correspondent says that the Russians have begun the building of a rampart around Port Arthur to include the new town, and the old rampart is to be demolished.

The Daily Mail prints a report from Seoul to the effect that M. Pavloff, the Russian Minister, has entered objections to the landing of Japanese sappers attached to the telegraph guards.

The Daily Mail's Shanghai correspondent says that the British cruiser Sirius, which should have wintered there, has been ordered to Weihaiwei, where it is expected a naval concentration will take place.

The Times' Tokio correspondent says that, owing to the rumors of assembling of military transports at Hiroshemia, there has been a sharp fall in all Japanese stocks.

Warships at Port Arthur.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 23.—Of the Russian warships recently at Chemulpo, Corea, in connection with the disturbance there, only the cruiser Boyarin remains at that place. All the other vessels have returned to Port Arthur.

Vice-Admiral Stark, commanding the Russian Pacific squadron, while the warships were at Chemulpo, had an audience with the Emperor of Corea.

Concentrated Energy

As every one knows, energy is derived from the food consumed, digested and absorbed into the system.

It does not follow, however, that the amount of energy generated is in proportion to the amount of food consumed, but it certainly does depend on the amount of suitable food properly digested and actually absorbed.

If the food is concentrated and easily assimilated the amount of energy produced will be proportionately large. It is just because Ferrol is a highly concentrated food almost ready for instant absorption that such marvellous results in the way of increase of weight and renewed energy have followed its use.

Ferrol is pleasant to take, easy to digest, and contains more real nourishment in a dessertspoonful than is usually derived from an ordinary meal.

Sample free. At all druggistt, or from THE FERROL COMPANY, LIMITED, 124 King Street West Toronto.

DREYFUS INNOCENT.

Belief That He Will Be Restored to the Army—M. Victor Mercier Recommends Revision of the Case.

Paris, Dec. 22.—At a meeting of the Dreyfus commission next Wednesday M. Victor Mercier, reporter of the commission, and one of the directors of the Ministry of Justice, will submit a report recommending revision of the case of Captain Dreyfus. It is not yet positively known whether M. Mercier's report will recommend revision by the Court of Cassation or by the Court-Martial, but there is every reason to believe that the Court of Cassation will now consider the case in the light of facts gathered by M. Mercier, at the same time passing upon the other documents submitted.

While it is impossible to predict what view will be taken by the commission, but it is expected it will at least adopt Mercier's recommendation.

If the revision of the case should be favorable to Captain Dreyfus, he will be restored to the army, no matter what protests may be made, but it is not expected that he will assume active service.

M. Mercier's report, it is believed, not only establishes that Dreyfus is innocent of writing the Bordereau, but dwells with emphasis on the modifications by M. Griebeling, keeper of the War Office records, of his testimony before counsel at Rennes. M. Griebeling then swore that Dreyfus was guilty, while the modification of his testimony now indicates that the alleged treason was committed by Col. Henry, who was at the same time chief of the Intelligence Department of the Ministry of War.

G. T. PACIFIC DEPOSIT.

Consists of First Preference Bonds Quoted in London at From 102 to 103 —Issued For Improvements.

Montreal, Dec. 22.—The report that the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway had deposited with the Dominion Government the required guarantee of five million dollars was confirmed at the Grand Trunk general offices yesterday. The deposit has been made by a portion of the first preference bonds, issued a few months ago, and authorized by the shareholders of the Grand Trunk Railway. They are 4½ per cent. bonds, and are quoted in London at from 102 to 103. They carry a first lien upon the properties of the Grand Trunk Railway, and were originally issued for the purpose of improvements to the Grand Trunk System, such as double-tracking, and the like. The company have been able to draw from revenue of the road to complete the improvements in question, rather than from capital account.

TERRIFIC AND FATAL FIRE.

New York Fire Chief Loses His Life in Fierce Factory Fire.

New York, Dec. 22.—The famous "Nines" fire alarm, summoning more fire apparatus than any other alarm provided for by New York's fire department, was sounded last night for a terrific fire which destroyed the six-storey factory building of the Herrmann Furniture and Plumbing Cabinet Works at 188-192 Mott street, and the four-storey varnish factory of the firm run under the name of the H. Herrmann Lumber Company. A quarter of a million dollars damage was done. Battalion Chief Martin Coleman perished in the fall of two great walls of the factory.

There was a frightful panic among the Italian inmates of the tenements ouposite, and in the rear of the burning buildings, and the firemen and police reserves from three precincts had the utmost difficulty in getting the people to the street.

Richard Joyce, a fireman, is also missing.

MARRIED WOMAN ELOPES.

Port Arthur Woman Leaves Husband, Home and Children.

Port Arthur, Dec. 23.—Mrs. Kohler, accompanied by a young Englishman named Daniel Fillmore, who has been employed at Canadian Northern sheds, have eloped. It is supposed they have gone east. Mr. Kohler has been employed in Big Master mines and during the summer has spent but little time at home.

Mrs. Kohler and her paramour had become intimate during the absence of her husband, and a letter from Kohler enclosing a cheque for $76 and stating that he would be home to spend Christmas resulted in the flight. Two small children, one six months old, were left for neighbors to care for. The last heard of them was at Copper Cliff, Ont.

Traffic Through Soo Canals.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Dec. 22.—Although the total traffic through the ship canals at this place for the year just closed showed a falling off of 1,288,700 net tons, all of this decrease has occurred on the traffic through the American canal, the Canadian canal being 778,884 tons in excess of last year. Building stone shows a falling off of 45 per cent., while both wheat and flour also lost 20 per cent. The only record which showed any considerable increase was that of hard coal; in this 271 per cent. increase is noted.

Boodsman is Reimbursed.

New York, Dec. 22.—A despatch from Syracuse says that former Mayor William B. Kirk has finally induced Col. John F. Gaynor, a fugitive from justice at Quebec in connection with the Carter frauds against the United States Government, to pay to him the $40,000 which he lost by being on Gaynor's bond when he left the United States.

Bryan Visits the Czar.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 22.—William Jennings Bryan was received in audience by Czar Nicholas yesterday. The audience lasted 15 minutes. Mr. Bryan will leave for Berlin to-day.

The Evidence You Value.

By word of mouth from friend to friend Dr. Chase's Ointment has received more unsolicited recommendation than probably any medicine you can mention. The fact that it is an absolute cure for piles has put it in a class all by itself as a preparation of inestimable value and people recommend it knowing that it is a certain cure.

MISSING PROSPECTORS.

Port Arthur, Dec, 22.—Last August Patrick Laren and Patrick McCoy, two prospectors of Duluth, left on a trip to explore the country in the vicinity of Pic River, that flows into Lake Superior at Peninsula Harbor. They carried provisions for fifty days and nothing has been heard from them since. Their friends are now alarmed about them and believe they are lost. They went out for the purpose of exploring for minerals and timber, the latter especially in regard to pulp wood.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O

THE FIRST CHRISTMAS.

From the Gospel According to St. Luke, Chapter II, Verses 7-20.

And she brought forth her firstborn son and wrapped him in swaddling clothes and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them, and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them: "Fear not, for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

"For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

"And this shall be a sign unto you, ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger."

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying:

"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

And it came to pass as the angels were gone away from them into heaven the shepherds said one to another, "Let us now go even unto Bethlehem and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us."

And they came with haste and found Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in the manger.

And when they had seen it they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child.

And they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds.

But Mary kept all these things and pondered them in her heart.

And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen as it was told unto them.

Druids and Mistletoe.

The Druids always sought the mistletoe by the full moon and, when they found it, rejoiced and worshiped. After cutting off its twigs with a golden sickle they sacrificed two milk white bulls beneath the tree. The sacred shrub was then immersed in water, and the resulting concoction became their remedy for all diseases. The early Christians would not permit the use of the mistletoe in their churches because of its heathenish origin; consequently it was hung only within the private abode and usually in the kitchen. Any maid caught standing beneath a branch had to forfeit a kiss to the gallant eagerly awaiting his opportunity. With each kiss a berry was plucked, and when all of the berries disappeared the bare branch was useless to the young man who wished to claim the privilege of thus saluting the fair damsel thereafter. The mistletoe was said to have been the original magical shrub or forbidden tree in the garden of Eden.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Bank Embezzler Sentenced.

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 22.—James H. Edge, the bank teller, who embezzled about $110,000 of the funds of the First National Bank of Paterson, N. J., was yesterday sentenced to imprisonment of seven years in the penitentiary.

A LONG CHRISTMASTIDE.

Holidays That Extend Into the New Year.

While in this country, as in England, Germany and other parts of Europe, the joyous spirit of the Christmas festival is by no means limited to Dec. 25, but finds expression in many ways in the life and amusement of the people both before and after that day itself, comparatively little attention is paid here to the observance of the numerous designated holidays which in other lands go to make up Christmastide. The period opens with St. Thomas' day, which falls on Dec. 21, and closes with St. Distaff's day, on Jan. 7. The first named festival is known in some parts of England as "Doling day," on account of the distribution of the bounty of charitable individuals, and in most English cities at the present time the day is given up largely to the anniversaries of charitable societies and the distribution of benefits among the poor and needy. It is also the day chosen for the election of church officers, a custom adopted here in some denominations, and it appears also from the old rhyme that certain public officials were elected at the same time:

My masters all, this is St. Thomas' day,
And Christmas now can't be far off, you'll say.
And when you to the ward motes do repair
I hope such good men will be chosen there
As constables for the ensuing year
As will not grudge the watchman good strong beer.

As for St. Distaff's day, which closed the merry round of Christmastide, that anniversary is now rarely observed anywhere, but in the good old times in England it was not the least among the happy festivals of the year. It takes its name from the fact that on this day it was the custom for women to resume for a few hours their labors at the distaff or the spinning wheel. It was sometimes called "Rock day" in honor of the rock, which is another name for distaff.—Leslie's Weekly.

Christmas at Ninety In the Shade.

Christmas in the West Indies is very well observed. To meander about among palm trees or orange groves and fields of sugar cane on Christmas day, with the thermometer at 90 degrees in the shade, certainly has the zest of novelty to a northerner. If you are in the British West Indies on Christmas day your attention will be most attracted in all the Christmas gatherings of which you form a part, whether in the streets, the home or the church, by the close association of whites and blacks. The "color line" is not a live question.

Boots as Stockings.

German children do not, as a general practice, hang up their stockings Christmas eve, but use their father's big boots instead.

Brain Controls Every Muscle.

Injury to Brain or Nerves, Deficiency of Nerve Force, Mean Paralysis and Helplessness.

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

Every muscle of the body controlled by the will is connected with the brain, and every muscular action is originated by nervous force, generated in the brain and transmitted along the nerves to the muscles.

When the nerves are injured or diseased, when there is a deficiency in the supply of nervous energy, paralysis, locomotor ataxia or some form of helplessness results because the brain no longer has control of the muscles.

It may be weak heart action, inability to digest food, failure of the lungs to purify the blood or impaired action of any of the vital organs, but the cause of trouble is with the nerves.

The restorative action of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is soon felt throughout the entire system, because it restores the vigor and vitality of the nerves—fills them with new nerve force, the vital power of the body; wakness, nervousness, irritability; sleeplessness and low spirits disappear and new energy and strength take their place.

Mr. John Rossel, school teacher, living at 596 George street, Peterborough, Ont., states:—

"As a remedy for nervousness and nervous dizzy headaches, I consider Dr. Chase's Nerve Food excellent. I was troubled a great deal with headache, and my system was pretty well run down, but the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has made a radical change in my condition. My nerves have become strong and healthy, the headaches have entirely disappeared, and I believe that the credit is entirely due to this preparation."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 7

Strollers

By FREDERIC S. ISHAM

Author of "Under the Rose."

The almost hideous expression of the roue's face alarmed the servant.

"No, my lord. What is it?"

"A figure stands there in black and is touching me. It is the spirit of death, Francois. You cannot see it, but there it is"—

"My lord, you speak wildly."

"I have seen some strange things, Francois. The dead have arisen. And Side by side they knelt.

I have received my warning. Soon I shall join those dark specters which once gayly traversed this bright world. A little brandy and soda, Francois."

The servant brought it to him. The marquis leered awfully over his shoulder once more. "Your health, my guest!" he exclaimed, laughing harshly. "But my hat, Francois. I have business to perform, important business!"

He ambled out of the room. On the street he was all politeness, removing his hat to a dark brunette who rolled by in her carriage and pausing to chat with another representative of the sex of the blond type. Then he gayly sauntered on until, reaching the theater, he stopped and made a number of inquiries. Who was the manager of Constance Carew? Where was he to be found? At the St. Charles hotel? He was obliged to monsieur, the ticket seller, and wished him good day.

Entering the hotel, he sent his card to Barnes, requesting an interview, and the manager, overcome by the honor of such a visit, responded with alacrity. The customary formalities over, the nobleman congratulated Barnes on the performance and led the conversation to the young actress.

"Pardon my curiosity," he said, with apparent carelessness, "but I'm sure I remember an actress of the same name in London, many years ago."

"Her mother, undoubtedly," replied the manager proudly.

"She was married, was she not, to"—

"A scoundrel who took her for his wife in one church and repudiated the ties through another denomination!"

"Ah, a French-English marriage!" said the marquis blandly. "An old device! But what was this lover's name?"

"This husband's, my lord!"

"Lover or husband, I fancy it is all the same to her now," sneered the caller. "She has passed the point where reputation matters."

"Her reputation is my concern, M. le Marquis!"

"You knew her?" asked the nobleman, as though the conversation wearied him. "And she was faithful to his memory? No scandals; none of those little affairs women of her class are prone to? There"—as Barnes started up indignantly—"spare me your reproaches! I'm too feeble to quarrel. Besides, what is it to me? I was only curious about her; that is all! But she never spoke the name of her husband?"

"Not even to her own child!"

"She does not know her father's name?" repeated the marquis. "But I thank you. Mlle. Constance is so charming I must needs call to ask if she were related to the London actress! Good day, monsieur! You are severe on the lover. Was it not the fashion of the day for the actresses to take lovers or for the fops to have an opera girl or a comedienne? Did your most popular performers disdain such diversions?" he sneered. "Pardie, the world has suddenly become moral! A gentleman can no longer, it would seem, indulge in gentlemanly follies."

Mumbling about the decadence of fashion, the marquis departed, his manner so strange the manager gazed after him in surprise.

With no thought of direction, his lips moving, talking to himself in adynamic fashion, the nobleman walked mechanically on until he reached the great cathedral. The organ was rolling, and voices arose sweet as those of seraphim. He hesitated at the portal and then laughed to himself. "Well has Voltaire said: 'Pleasure has its time; so, too, has wisdom. Make love in thy youth and in old age attend to thy salvation.'" He repeated the latter words; but, although he paused at the threshold and listened, he did not enter.

As he stood there, uncertain and trembling, a figure replete with youth and vigor approached, and, glancing at her, an exclamation escaped him that caused her to pause and turn.

"You are not well," she said solicitously. "Can I help you?"

"It is nothing, nothing," answered the marquis, ashy pale at the sight of her and the proximity of that face which regarded him with womanly sympathy. "Go away."

"At least let me assist you. You were going to the cathedral? Come."

His hand rested upon her strong young arm. He felt himself too weak to resist, so together, father and daughter, they entered the cathedral. Side by side they knelt, he to keep up the farce, fearing to undeceive her, while yet only mocking words came to the old man's heart as the bitterness of the situation overwhelmed him. She was a daughter in whom a prince might have found pride, but he remained there mute, not daring to speak, experiencing all the tortures of remorse and retribution, and was only recalled to himself as his glance once more rested upon the young girl.

He became dimly conscious that people were moving past them, and he suddenly longed to cry out, "My child!" but he fought down the impulse. Something within held him from speaking to her—perhaps his own inherent sense of the consistency of things, his appreciation of the legitimate finale to a miserable order of circumstances. Even pride forbade departure from long established habit. But while this train of thought passed through his mind he realized she was regarding him with clear, compassionate eyes, and he heard her voice:

"Shall we go now? The services are over."

He obeyed without question.

"Over!"

He leaned heavily upon her arm and his steps were faltering. Out into the warm sunshine they passed, the light revealing more plainly the ravages of time in his face.

"You must take a carriage," she said to the old man.

"Thank you, thank you," he replied. "Leave me here on the bench. I shall soon be myself. I am only a little weak. You are good to an old man. May I not"—asking solely for the pleasure of hearing her speak—"may I not know the name of one who is kind to an old man?"

"My name is Constance Carew."

He shook as with the palsy. "A good name, a good name!" he repeated. "I remember years ago another of that name—an actress in London. A very beautiful woman, and good! But even she had her detractors, and none more bitter than the man who wronged her. You—you resemble her! But there, don't let me detain you. I shall do very well here. You are busy, I dare say."

"Yes, I should be at rehearsal," she replied regretfully.

"At rehearsal!" he repeated. "Yes—yes. But the stage is no place for you!" he added suddenly. "You should leave it—leave it!"

She looked at him wonderingly. "Is there nothing more I can do for you?"

"Nothing! Nothing! Except—no, nothing!"

"You were about to ask something?" she observed with more sympathy.

"If you would not think me presuming—if you would not deem it an offense—you remind me of one I loved and lost—it is so long ago since I felt her kiss for the last time—I am so near the grave"—

With tears in her eyes she bent her head and her fresh young lips just touched his withered brow.

"Goodby," she said. "I am so sorry for you!"

And she was gone, leaving him sitting there motionless as though life had departed.

A rattling cab that clattered noisily past the cabildo and calaboza and swung around the square aroused the marquis. He arose, stopped the driver and entered the rickety vehicle.

"The law office of Marks & Culver," said the marquis.

The man lashed his horse, and the attenuated quadruped flew like a winged Pegasus, soon drawing up before the attorneys' office. Fortunately Culver was in, and, although averse to business on any day—thinking more of his court yard and his fountain than of his law books—this botanist-solicitor made shift to comply with the marquis' instructions and reluctantly earned a modest fee. He even refused to express surprise at my lord's story. One wife in London, another in Paris. Why, many a southern gentleman had two families—quadroons being plentiful. Why not? Culver unobtrusively yawned and, with fine courtesy, bowed the marquis out.

Slowly the latter retraced his steps to his home. His feet were heavy as lead; his smile was forced; he glanced frequently over his shoulder, possessed by a strange fantasy.

"I think I will lie down a little," he said to his valet. "In this easy chair; that will do. I am feeling well; only tired."

He made an effort to smile, which was little more than a grimace.

"A cigar, Francois!"

"My lord, are you well?"

The marquis flew into a rage and the valet placed an imported weed in his master's hand.

"A light, Francois!"

The valet obeyed.

He pulled feebly at the cigar.

"It is cold here, Francois."

The servant consulted the thermometer.

"It is 5 degrees warmer than you are accustomed to, my lord," he replied.

"I believe, Francois," stammered the marquis, "that the fault lies with me. It is I—I who am growing cold like death."

"Oh, my lord"—

The servant removed the shoes and silken stockings from his master's feet and propped him up in a chair, throwing a blanket over his shoulders and heaping more wood upon the fire in the grate.

"More fire, you idiot!" cried the marquis peevishly. "Do you not see that I am freezing?"

"It is 10 degrees above the temperature my lord always ordered," retorted Francois coolly.

"Ten degrees! Oh, you wish to remind me that the end is approaching? You do not dare deny it!" The valet shrugged his shoulders.

"But I am not gone yet." He wagged his head cunningly and began to laugh to himself. His mind apparently rambled, for he started to chant a French love song in a voice that had long since lost its capacity for a sustained tone. The words were distinct, although the melody was broken, and the spectacle was grewsome enough. As he concluded he looked at the valet as if for approbation and began to mumble about his early love affairs.

"Bah, Francois," he said shrilly. "I'll be up tomorrow as gay as ever. Vive l'amour! Vive la joie! It was a merry life we led, eh, Francois?"

"Merry, indeed, my lord."

"It kept you busy, Francois. There was the little peasant girl on the Rhine. What flaxen hair she had and eyes like the sky! Yet a word of praise, a little flattery"—

"My lord was irresistible," said the valet, with mild sarcasm.

"Let me see, Francois. What became of her?"

"She drowned herself in the river."

"That is true. I had forgotten. Well, life is measured by pleasures, not by years, and I was the prince of coxcombs. Up at 10 o'clock—no sooner on account of the complexion—then visits from the tradespeople and a drive in the park to look at the ladies. It was there I used to meet the English actress. 'Twas there, with her, I vowed the park was a garden of Eden! What a scene when my barrister tried to settle the case! Fortunately a marriage in England was not a marriage in France. I saw her last night, Francois"—with an insane look—"in the flesh and blood, as lifelike as the night before we took the stage for Brighton!" Suddenly he shrieked, and a look of terror replaced the vain, simpering expression.

"There, Francois!" glancing with awe behind him. And truly there stood a dark shadow, a grewsome presence. His face became distorted, and he lapsed into unconsciousness.

The valet gazed at him with indifference. Then he went to an inner room and brought a valise, which he began packing carefully and methodically. After he had completed this operation he approached the dressing table and took up a magnificent jeweled watch, which he examined for a moment before thrusting it into his pocket. A snuffbox set with diamonds and several rings followed. Francois, with the same deliberation, opened a drawer and took out a small box, which he tried to open and, failing, forced the lid with the poker. At this my lord opened his eyes and in a weak voice, for his strength had nearly deserted him, demanded:

"What are you doing, Francois?"

"Robbing you, my lord," was the slow and dignified response.

The marquis' eyes gleamed with rage. He endeavored to call out, but his voice failed him, and he fell back, trembling and overcome.

"Thief! Ingrate!" he hissed hoarsely.

"I beg you not to excite yourself, my lord," said the stately valet. "You are already very weak, and it will hasten the end."

"Is this the way you repay me?"

"My lord will not need these things soon."

"Have you no gratitude?" stammered the marquis, whose physical and mental condition was truly pitiable.

"Gratitude for having been called 'idiot,' 'dog' and 'blockhead' nearly all my life! I am somewhat lacking in that quality, I fear."

"Is there no shame in you?"

"Shame?" repeated Francois as he proceeded to ransack another drawer.

"There, Francois!"

"There might have been before I went into your service, my lord. Yes. Once I felt shame for you. It was years ago, in London, when you deserted your beautiful wife. When I saw how she worshiped you and what a noble woman she was I confess I felt ashamed that I served one of the greatest blackguards in Europe"—

"No more, rascal!"

"Rascal yourself, you wornout, driveling breath of corruption! It is so pleasant to exercise a gentleman's privilege of invective! Ah, here is the purse! Au revoir, my lord. A pleasant dissolution!"

But by this time the marquis was speechless, and Francois, taking the valise in hand, deferentially left the room. He locked the door behind him and thrust the key into his pocket.

How long will it take the man to fill the sack if he does not stop the leak? To attempt to nourish the body when the stomach is diseased is like trying to fill the sack with the hole in it. When the stomach and other digestive and nutritive organs are diseased, there is a constant loss of nutrition. Enough is eaten but the body loses flesh,—plain proof that the food eaten is largely wasted because it is not digested and assimilated.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It stops the leaks by which nutrition is lost, and enables the building up of the body by the nutrition derived from food. The gain in weight proves the cure.

"Three years ago I was taken sick with what the doctor called nervousness and indigestion," writes Mrs. Warren E. Parker, of Orange Street, Nantucket, Mass. "He gave me medicine for the trouble, but I could not eat even a little toast or oatmeal without suffering severely. In a few months I began to have distressing pains right in the pit of my stomach. I called the doctor again and he said I had catarrh of stomach; gave me medicine but it did not do any good. I lost 28 pounds in three months. I then commenced taking Dr. Pierce's medicines and soon began to feel better. I have taken six bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' two of 'Favorite Prescription' and six vials of Dr. Pierce's Pellets. I have gained ten pounds. Can eat everything."

TREASURER PRESENTED WITH DINNER SET.

Mrs. Lyle Pleasantly Surprised by Members of Charlotte Street Ladies' Aid.

An especially interesting meeting was that of the Ladies' Aid Society of Charlotte Street Church yesterday. They had gathered in the Sunday school room to arrange for supplying Christmas cheer to some not so fortunately situated, and during the course of the afternoon the members of the society took the opportunity to present Mrs. Lyle, who has been treasurer of the society for eleven years, with a dinner set in recognition of her faithful service in this important branch of the church's work.

Mrs. Lyle was taken completely by surprise by the actions of the ladies in presenting her with the gift and the following address:

Dear Mrs. Lyle,—The members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Charlotte street Methodist Church desire to express to you their appreciation of your valuable services as a member of this society, and of your faithfulness in the discharge of the duties as treasurer for the last eleven years. We hope you may long continue with us, and, to show our practical appreciation of your work, we desire you to accept the gift as a token of your good-will, and we shall ever pray that you may be spared for many years so as to render such efficient service in the future as you have done in the past.

Signed on behalf of the society,

BABY'S SUDDEN DEATH LEADS TO AN INQUEST.

The Names of the Jurymen—A Post-Mortem Examination Will be Held.

The extraordinarily sudden death of May Wilson, a healthy one-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson, who reside with a family named Whitehead, at 816 Sherbrooke street, was attended with such incriminating rumours that Coroner Dr. Grey deemed an inquest necessary and empanelled the following men to act as a jury on the case: Wm. Smith, (foreman), Wm. Stock, S. R. Percy, A. White, Geo. O'Brien, R. Maitland, W. S. Warne, S. A. Oke, J. Theabald, E. White, G. M. Walton, J. Ruth, F. O'Conner and J. Shea.

Yesterday morning the police notified the parents not to remove the body, but as two families resided under the same roof, somebody telephoned A. Comstock, the undertaker, to remove it to the vault at the Little Lake Cemetery. Thus when the jury assembled at the house at five o'clock yesterday evening they were somewhat surprised to hear that the baby's remains had been removed to the cemetery. The Coroner at once telephoned Undertaker Comstock to take the body from the vault to his undertaking establishment. After the jury had been sworn they adjourned to Comstock's undertaking rooms and viewed the body.

From all appearances the baby was very well developed for its age, and showed no exterior marks of illusage nor foul play whatever. After considerable discussion the jury decided that it would be beneficial for all if a post-mortem examination was held. This will probably be done tomorrow. The enquiry was then adjourned until Monday evening next, December 28th.

ENJOYABLE ENTERTAINMENT.

Given by the Knights of the Maccabees Last Night.

Peterborough Tent No. 69, of the Knights of the Maccabees, held a most delightful social in their hall last night, when there was a large attendance. The evening was delightfully spent and an excellent programme of instrumental and vocal selections, dialogues, recitations, club swinging, etc., was provided. In the the absence of Dr. Morgan, Mr. Harry Roberts occupied the chair. The several numbers on the programme were all well received, and apparently everyone had a very pleasant time.

ENGINEER DID NOT SEE A SLEIGH ON THE LINE.

Vehicle Narrowly Escaped Destruction Last Night.

Yesterday evening as the clocks of the town were striking the hour of six, a man who was going to deliver a load of wood at a house on Bethune street, between Hunter and Simcoe streets, had the misfortune to get two of the runners of the sleigh caught in the tracks. A train bound for the west left the G. T. R. station at the time the driver was trying to get both horse, sleigh, and load of wood off the line. However, the vehicle seemed to be securely jammed between the rails. The situation was critical, and as it was evident that the driver had not noticed the obstruction on the line, as the huge engine came thundring down on them, the two men with the sleigh realized that they were in a perilous position. At last the powerful headlight of the engine revealed the danger, and immediately after came the grinding of the brakes as they were suddenly forced on. Just at that moment, however, the horse was so panic stricken that its actions released the sleigh. Before the animal had time to run away both men grabbed the bridle. The train was a freight, and its impetus carried it past the sleigh. There is no doubt that had the sleigh been on the track a second longer it would have been entirely demolished, and the accident might have had a tragic ending.

MAYOR ROGER REVIEWS FACTS

In Connection With Passing of the Bylaws.

ACTED IN GOOD FAITH.

Shows Conclusively That They Were not Passed by Secret or Underhand Methods.

Mayor Roger has handed the following letter to the Examiner for publication, which is gladly given. The Examiner regrets if the headlines in the article referred to has given a wrong impression, as its desire is to always present a fair and impartial report, and the intention of the article was not to give expression to the idea that there had been secret or underhand dealings:—

To the Editor of the Examiner:

As the headlines of the Examiner, "Revelations in Town Railway Agreement," "Aldermen Discover that Contract was not Given to Mr. Stuart," in it's yesterday's report of the previous night's proceedings are calculated to mislead and to convey the impression that there was something secret or underhand in the dealings referred to, perhaps you will permit me to direct attention to the fact that the terms of the street railway franchise were discussed between a committee of the whole council (all its members being present except Messrs. Shortly and Hatten) and Messrs. Stuart, Richards and Dennistoun on behalf of the new promoters, on July 8th last. At a similar meeting on 20th July at which all members of the council were present, except Messrs. Best, O'Connell and Shortly, the promoters, and the promoters were represented by Messrs. Robert Stuart, Hon. Geo. A. Cox, R. M. Dennistoun and O. Kirn in person. The entire details were settled as embodid in the present by-law, and on 28th July that committee favourably reported to council thereon, and the council adopted the report, all members of council being present except Messrs. O'Connell, Clinkscale and Shortly. Notice was then published by poster and in the Times for four weeks that the franchise was open to examination, that the Council proposed to pass the by-law on 8th Sept., when an opportunity will be given to any person "who desires to be heard."

The council met on the 8th of September, no person appeared to object, but after reading the first time the further readings were postponed until after publication of the by-law in full, which was done in all the town papers, and on the 14th of September, all the members except Messrs. McWilliams and Edgecumbe being present, the by-law was given its second and third reading.

The form of the contract, so far as parties were concerned, was the same on every occasion. Mr. Stuart subsequently gave his personal cheque for $5,000.00 deposit which is still in the hands of the town treasurer, as guarantee of his good faith. So shrewd a man as Mr. Stuart does not negotiate a franchise and put money up on it without the intent and ability to carry out his project.

I cannot ask more of your space at present, except to say in conclusion that if it had not been for the selfish policy of the Ottawa Power Company by blocking the street railway project in its own interests the material for the construction of the railway would have been ordered long ago.

Yours truly,

G. M. ROGER.

WHERE IS MARY ELLEN HUDDLESTON NOW?

Her Brother Desires to Have Information Regarding Her Whereabouts.

Chief Rossel has received a letter from a certain Jas. Huddleston, of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., in which he asks for information regarding his sister, Mary Ellen Huddleston, whom he has not seen since the year 1902.

His sister was in Peterborough some years ago, and lived with a family by the name of Eastland, on Simcoe street. However, it is believed that she married a railway man in Peterborough, and all trace of her has been lost for the past few years. She is aged about 29 years, has brown hair and eyes, and is generally good looking. Any information whatever regarding the missing girl will, if given to the police, be forwarded to her brother at once. The letter stated that he himself was ill and wished to see his sister once more.

LIBRARY INSPECTOR PRESENTED REPORT.

Dr. May Says the Peterborough Public Library is Well Equipped.

Ald. Corkery, Secretary of the Public Library Board, has received from the Deputy Minister of Education, advising him that Dr. May, the Inspector of Public Libraries for the Province has presented his report on his recent visit to the Peterborough Library, to his department. The report says, in part:—"I recently inspected Peterborough Public Library. The Library and readings are in an upstairs room. They have about 10,000 books in good order and the reading rooms are well equipped."

It is gratifying to the members of the Board that the report has been so satisfactory.

REV. P. J. GALVIN WAS ORDAINED PRIEST.

Ceremony at St. Martin's Church Ennismore.

Yesterday Morning — Bishop O'Connor Officiated, Assisted by Others.

There was an unusually large congregation at St. Martin's church, Ennismore, yesterday morning, when Rev. P. J. Galvin of that township was ordained to the priesthood by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, assisted by Ven. Archdeacon Casey, of Lindsay, Rev. Father McColl, and Dr. O'Brien of Peterborough, Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Ennismore, Rev. C D. Bretherton, of Emily, and Rev. C. J. Phelan of Young's Point.

During the ceremony Rev. Father Fitzpatrick of Ennismore, preached a very eloquent sermon, in which he minutely enumerated the responsibilities and duties of priests, and the spirit in which they had to labor to do these things. He congratulated both the congregation and the young man himself on entering into holy orders.

At the conclusion of the sermon His Lordship Bishop O'Connor addressed the young priest, urging him to diligently perform his duties. He also congratulated the congregation in having one of their number ordained to the priesthood, and felt assured that the young man would faithfully and creditably fill his sacred office.

Rev. Father Galvin was born in Ennismore township, and was educated at the Collegiate Institute in this town. Later he took his classical course at Ottawa University, and his philosophical and theological courses at the Montreal Seminary. Through his student life he passed very successfully, attaining honours in many subjects. He is the sixteenth set apart in the diocese for the office of priesthood during the past fourteen years. The names of these predecessors are:

George Whibbs, Campbellford.
D. J. Scollard, North Bay.
W. J. McColl, rector of St. Peter's Cathedral.
T. F. Collins, Bracebridge.
M. J. Calnan, deceased.
M. J. McGuire, Wooler.
M. J. Fitzgerald, Ennismore.
P. J. O'Leary, Galway.
C. J. Phelan, Young's Point.
J. J. O'Sullivan, Victoria Road.
M. J. O'Brien, St. Peter's Cathedral.
F. J. O'Sullivan, Lindsay.
J. J. O'Brien, St. Peter's Cathedral.
T. J. Crowley, North Bay.
P. J. Kelly and Patrick Galvin.

Rev. Father Scanlon of Grafton is from Halifax, and Rev. A. F. Kelly of Trout Creek, is from Ogdensburg. Ten others have been ordained from the diocese who are labouring in other fields, both in Canada and the United States, some as members of various religious orders.

BLEW OPEN THE SAFE AND TRAMP EASTWARD.

Police on the Alert for Two Burglars—Circulars Being Distributed.

The many recent robberies by the blowing open of safes with high explosives has put the police on the "que vive." Since the jewellery store of W. T. Polle, of Tilbury, Ont., was burglarized in this manner and about $2,000 worth of goods appropriated, notices have been sent to all the police depots of the province cautioning them against two men who, in the circular are described as follows—

"No. 1,—About 6 feet high, age about 35 years, weight about 180 lbs, fair complexion, sandy moustache, claims to be a plumber."

No. 2,—Aged about 28 years, 5 ft. 6 in. high, weight about 130 lbs., dark complexion, small, dark moustache."

"Both of these men," continues the circular, "were roughly dressed and are tramp burglars. After the robbery we traced them about nine miles through the country, tramping east."

PARSONAGE WEDDING.

Miss Bessie Arnold Married to Mr. Robt. Chatten To-day.

A nice quiet wedding took place this afternoon at two o'clock in the Murray street Baptist parsonage, when Mr. Robert Chatten of Otonabee, was married to Miss Bessie Arnold of Peterborough, by Rev. J. Gastow, the pastor.

The bride, who was very tastily attired, was attended as bridesmaid by Miss Carrie Devincy, of Ashburnham, while Mr. John E. Chatten, brother of the groom, acted as groomsman.

The young couple will reside at 209 1-2 Hunter street, and their many friends will join in wishing them many years of happy married life.

PRACTICAL GIFTS FOR BOYS.

The Boys' Department is our stronghold — we mean to get a strong hold on the boys. To do this we select their clothing with all the care that we put into the clothing of their fathers.

Just compare Gough Bros.' clothing with other kinds and see where we get in our graft on the boys.

Everything in the wearing line that boys like for Christmas.

Warm overcoats, reefers, stylish suits, stout overcoats, heavy sweaters for skating, tams, caps, hats, gloves, shirts, ties, stockings, suspenders, collars, cuffs, a complete boys' department.

No present is better for Christmas than one that is of some use.

Nothing is more appropriate than some garment or article of apparel.

Gough's furnishing department includes pretty much everything that a man or boy wants in holiday teggery.

TEACHER BADE HIS PUPILS FAREWELL.

Pleasant Affair in School Room of Section 7, Emily, on Thursday, Dec. 17th.

The school room of No. 7, Emily, was the scene of a very pleasant concert on the afternoon of Thursday, December 17th, when the teacher, Mr. J. A. O'Donohue, took an affectionate farewell of his pupils, whom he had in his charge during the past three years.

A happy feature of the programme was the presentation to the teacher by the pupils of several beautiful and useful gifts as a mark of the love and esteem they bore him.

The pupils are to be congratulated on the excellent manner in which they carried out the songs, dialogues, recitations and choruses, in which they were engaged. The following excellently rendered songs drew forth special applause:

"Sweet Enniscara" ...Miss Celia Twomey
"Tommy was a Bad, Bad Boy ..... Master Michael Fitzpatrick
"The Broken Pitcher" ... ...Miss Eva Twomey
"The Bay of Dublin"... ...Miss Celia Twomey
"Father O'Flynn"... Master Michael Fitzpatrick
"The Old Kentucky Home" .....Miss Annie Lowes
"The Land of the Maple"... ...School Chorus
"Hiawatha"... ...Miss Eva Twomey
"Nobody knows but Mother,"..... ... Miss A. Lowes
"Japanese Love Song"... ... Miss Loretta Guiry
"Auld Lang Syne"... ... School chorus

The accompanists were Miss L. Guiry and Miss Mamie Sullivan.

The chair was filled by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Ennismore, whose graceful remarks and kind references were appreciated by all present.

PUPILS PRESENT TEACHER WITH GIFT.

Miss Payne, of North Monaghan Remembered by Her Scholars.

A pleasing programme was given by the pupils of S. S. No. 1, North Monaghan, on Friday afternoon. At the close their teacher was called to the front and while Miss Willina Dobbin made the presentation Miss Spillsbury read the following address:

Miss M. E. Payne:

Dear Teacher,—On the eve of your departure from our midst we, the scholars of this section desire to show our appreciation of the services you have rendered us during the past year.

As a teacher you have endeavoured by your kindness and thoroughness, as well as by example and precept, to train us for our labours in the field of life.

It is needless to say we very much regret your departure from amongst us, but in your future calling we, one and all, wish you God-speed. As a slight token of remembrance we ask you to accept this fountain pen and inkstand.

Signed on behalf of the school,
WILLINA DOBBIN,
PEARL HUSTIN,

Miss Payne was taken by surprise but made a suitable reply, thanking the pupils for their kindness now and during the year past, and expressing her wish that they would ever be as kind, industrious and obedient as during the time spent with her.

Secretary-treasurer Trustee Barnard addressed the gathering and expressed himself as highly satisfied with the afternoon. He complimented the teacher and pupils on the year's success, expressed his regret at her departure and felt assured of her success in the future.

SOME HAPPENINGS IN THE NORTHERN TOWN.

Personal Mention and Other Items of Interest from Lakefield.

Mr. Walter Casement, of Dakota, is visiting his brother, Mr. W. H. Casement, in the village.

Miss Alice Sherin, of Barrie, is spending her Christmas vacation in the village with her parents.

Mr. Darcy opened the rink for the season on Saturday evening.

Mr. Chas. Gray, who has been working on one of the Georgian Bay steamers for the past seven months, is back to the village.

Mr. W. Bowden, former mill owner in the village, paid a visit to Lakefield last week prior to his moving to Port Dover, where he has secured another grist mill.

Mr. Harry Down, Douro, had the misfortune last week to have a valuable colt accidently shot through the shoulder. There is very little hope of saving the animal. Mr. Down thinks it is the result of persons using a rifle recklessly.

Mr. F. A. Kilbourn left for his home in Owen Sound on Wednesday, where he will spend his Christmas vacation with his friends.

Mr. Gordon Ridpath left on Friday for Toronto, where he will spend the winter. "Colonel" will play hockey with the Western Athletic team this season. The loss of "Colonel" from the team will be felt by the Lakefield seven as he was considered one of the fastest forwards.

The Presbyterian Sunday school entertainment which was held in the town hall on Tuesday evening, Dec. 22nd, was a decided success. The audience was delighted from the beginning of the programme to the end with the various numbers. The song, drills and dialogues given by the little ones reflected much credit on those who had the work of training the pupils.

Miss Down, of Toronto, is spending her Christmas holidays in Lakefield, visiting her sister, Mrs. Cornish.

Mr. Clare Bravender leaves on Thursday for a two weeks' visit on the American side of the border with friends in Warners, Syracuse and other towns.

Mr. S. W. Hill left for his home in Winchester on Wednesday.

Miss McGorman left for her home in Brighton on Wednesday, where she will spend the holiday season with her parents.

The curlers are having a good time on their open air rink and from present indications the roarin' game will prosper in Lakefield this season.

Rev. Father Phalen, of Young's Point, was in Lakefield Monday.

SENSIBLE GIFTS FOR MEN.

Acceptable to Father, Son, Husband, Brother, Uncle or Sweetheart.

Gentlemen, — If you wish to confer a personal favour on yourselves, you ought to note the special reductions in our fashionably tailored high-class suits and overcoats.

Ladies, — If you wish to bestow a thoughtful gift on your gentlemen friends, we allow you a special discount off any of these presents for men:

Fur coats, Raglanette overcoats, fine suits, dressing gowns, silk umbrellas, silk mufflers, elegant silk neckwear, silk handkerchiefs, kid and reindeer gloves, silk suspenders, underwear of every grade, felt hats, Cardigan jackets, working shirts, winter boots, overshoes, rubbers, slippers, waterproofs, etc.

If values count, Peterborough has seldom seen such grand values in popular swell top coats, suits, furnishings, and footwear, as at present rule at Gough Bros.

A HOME WEDDING IN BURLEIGH.

Miss Eva Bolton Married to Mr. Archibald Tedford.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mr. John Tedford, Burleigh Falls, on the 15th of December at 4.30 in the afternoon, when Eva M., youngest daughter of the late Thomas Bolton, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Archibald Tedford, in the presence of a large number of friends. The Rev. Mr. Warren, Rector of Lakefield Episcopalian Church, performed the ceremony. The bride was attired in a becoming gown of gray cashmere, trimmed with white silk. The bridesmaid was Miss Vera Stone, niece of the bride, while the groom was supported by his brother, Mr. William Tedford. The bride's going away dress was of blue ladies' cloth with hat to match. When the happy couple had received the congratulations of their many friends a sumptuous wedding supper was served in the dining room. The presents were costly and numerous, showing the esteem in which the young couple were held. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome pair of gauntlets. After supper the guests enjoyed themselves with dancing and other amusements. Among the friends from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tedford, of Gamebridge and Mr. and Mrs. Esau Tucker, of Apsley. Mr. and Mrs. Tedford left the following day for their wedding trip to Toronto, and other points of note.

THE LATEST NEWS FROM NORWOOD.

Personal Mention and Other Items of Interest from the Eastern Town.

Norwood, Dec. 21, 1903.

Miss Mattie Parker, daughter of Rev. C. Parker, who has been attending Albert College, Belleville, is home for Christmas holidays.

Miss Leighton, of Marrickville, is home for her vacation.

Mr. Thos. Elliotte and daughter, Miss Annie, left last week for London, where they expect to spend a few days with friends.

Mr. R. J. Stewart was in Peterborough on Saturday.

The closing exercises in connection with the Model School, here, were held on Wednesday evening of last week. The programme which consisted of readings, dialogues, recitations, etc., were well rendered by the students of the school. They were assisted by outside talent, who acquitted themselves in excellent style. The chair was ably filled by Mr. Leighton, Principal of the Model School, who was presented during the evening by the students with a Morris Chair. The proceeds of the concert were donated to the Children's Hospital, Toronto.

We regret very much the fact we have to record the death of one of our esteemed citizens in the person of Mr. Hugh Hill, who succumbed after a very short illness. The deceased was 39 years and 8 months old. He leaves a wife and two sons, Cecil and Gerald, to mourn his loss. He was buried in the Norwood Cemetery on Dec. 17th, Rev. Mr. Hockings, Baptist minister, officiated.

Messrs. Roxburgh & Son shipped this week to Gilmour station, one carload of oats and one carload to IL. Amabo.

Miss Strathern, who has been filling the position of assistant teacher during the Model term, was pleasantly surprised by her pupils on Friday, when they presented her with a very suitable address accompanied by a beautifully bound volume of Whittier's Poems. Miss Strathern replied in very suitable terms.

The Palace skating and curling rink opened on Friday evening.

Messrs. Buck & Walsh shipped one carload of hogs to the Laing Packing Company, Montreal. Price paid was $5.00 per hundred.

Mr. Keefer was in Peterborough one day last week.

South Dummer cheese factory made a final settlement with their patrons on Dec. 12th, in Norwood, the treasurer being Mr. David Kelly, and Mr. Thos. Webster, salesman. Average price of cheese 10.49 per lb. Total amount paid out for year 1903 was $17,000.00. The cheese was first-class and considerable credit is due to Mr. Hatton, cheese maker, and the good prices obtained is due to the careful management of the salesman, Mr. Webster.

Mr. McGregor, formerally proprietor of the McGregor House, here, but now of Indian Head, was in town last week renewing old acquaintances.

Messrs. Archie Fraser and Thos. Fraser, of Hastings, were in town on Saturday.

The public school closed on Wednesday last owing to a leakage in the pipes.

Miss Mabel Little spent a few days last week with Miss Emeline Fraser.

Mr. Gerald Roxburgh, who has been attending the School of Practical Science, is home for his holidays.

Dr. S. P. Ford leaves to-morrow to spend some few weeks with his son, Professor H. Ford, of Jefferson University, Washington.

YOUNG'S POINT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The school closed on Tuesday for the Christmas holidays, and our teacher, Mr. A. Huston, will return home for the next ten days.

Mr. R. Heard has been confined to the house for the past week with a severe cold. We sincerely hope he will soon resume his duties at the forge.

Mrs. Samuel Anglesey of Peterborough, has been visiting at Mr. R. Anglesey's during the past four weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Perry of Rochester, are renewing old acquaintances in these parts. Mr. Perry is an old Peterborough boy, having left town about twenty years ago.

Mr. Thos. Darcy, the proprietor of the Burleigh Falls Hotel, is giving a grand ball and supper on Christmas night, the 25th inst., at the Falls. As the sleighing is excellent, and good music will be provived, there should be a large number present.

Quite a number of lumbermen passed through here from the north during the last few days to enjoy Christmas at their different homes.

BURIED ON SUNDAY.

Funeral of Mrs. Robert Bowles, of North Monaghan, Took Place Sunday.

The funeral of Sarah Ann Madill, wife of Robert Bowles, took place on Sunday afternoon from the family residence, east half of lot 1, con. 10, North Monaghan, to the Little Lake cemetery.

The deceased was 48 years of age, and died on Friday last after an illness of some duration. She was very popular and her death will come as a great blow to her wide circle of friends.

OBITUARY.

Sad Death of Margaret Sullivan Relict of the Late Michael Hanlon.

The funeral of Margaret Sullivan, relict of the late Michael Hanlon, took place on Monday morning from the family residence, lot 30, concession 9, Norwood road, Otonabee, to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

The late Mrs. Hangon, whose husband predeceased her many years ago, was aged 88 years, and died about nine o'clock on Friday evening after an illness of about one month in duration. She leaves one daughter and four sons, whose names are Annie and Jas., at home; Saml., of Erie; Richard, of Sharon, Pa., and Dan. She was a consistent member of the Roman Catholic church and had many friends who will deeply feel her loss.

Mrs. B. McCarthy, of Simcoe street, and Mr. T. Sullivan, Murray street, are respectively sister and brother of the deceased.

YOU WILL BE ALL SMILES AGAIN.

Forget Your Stomach and You'll Have a Santa Claus Face.

HOW TO DO IT.

If there is one thing more than all others that will give a man a forlorn and friendless appearance and and make him morbib and "cranky" and disagreeable, that thing is dyspepsia. It makes one forget his friends and become morose and irritable. He is so wrapped up in his own misery that he is inconsiderate of every one else. Relieved of this terrible and depressing ailment, he again becomes a good fellow and a man among men.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are beyond question the most effective and popular remedy ever offered to the sufferers of this terrible disease. The thousands and thousands of cures they have brought about and the enormous increase of their sales fully attest the truth of this statement.

They are, above all, a natural remedy. They possess exactly the same properties that the gastric juices and other digestive fluids of the stomach possess and they actually do the digestive work of the stomach and enable that organ to rest and recuperate and become sound and well. They act in a mild, natural manner and cause no disturbance in the digestive organs. They prevent any fermentation of the food which causes sour stomach. In fact, under their influence the subject forgets that he has a stomach and his resulting cheerfulness presents a great contrast to his former dejection.

Millions of boxes of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold annually and they are but in the dawn of their popularity. Every mail brings letters of thanksgiving from grateful ones who have been cured of this terrible disease. The following is one of hundreds received each week:

Rev. J. R. Hoag of Wymore, Neb., writes: "For six years I have been troubled with dyspepsia. Last fall I became very much alarmed at some symptoms of heart trouble and came to believe there was a sympathetic relation between the two diseases, rather, that the stomach trouble was the cause of the heart disturbances. I hit upon Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets for a remedy and invested a dollar and a half for three boxes which lasted me three months and I can eat any kind of food I want and have a good, vigorous appetite. Although I am 77 years old, I now feel perfectly well and without being requested by any one I make this statement as a compliment to the virtues of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets."

The township treasurer fyled a statement of receipts and expenditures for the last fifteen days of 1902 and for from January 1st to Dec. 15th, 1903, inclusive. The statement was ordered to be printed and published according to law. The township collector of rates presented a return of taxes paid in up to Dec. 17th, as follows: Amount of roll, $4659.72; amount collected, $4408.54; uncollected, $251.18. This statement was received.

Mr. Crow appeared before the council and discussed an amicable arrangement of the claim as held by him against the township for damages through an accident to his son.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn, representing the Peterborough Sugar Co., presented a by-law dealing with the fixing of the assessment of the Sugar Co's property for a term of years and asked the council to fix terms and submit the by-law to the ratepayers at an early date.

Mr. Barnard was reappointed to collect all outstanding taxes and rates forthwith.

Moved by Mr. Smith and seconded by Mr. Morrow, that in the action of Messrs. Crowe vs. the Township of North Monaghan, whereas Mr. John Crowe offers a settlement of the case now in the court for the sum of $165.50, being the total amount claimed by him for loss sustained through an accident to his son. Therefore this council do hereby and without prejudice submit this offer of settlement to their solicitor and that an answer be given on or before Jan. 1st, 1904. This was carried.

On motion of Messrs. Smith and Morrow, the taxes of Mrs. W. Close, $.96, and poll tax of Mr. Chattan, 75c, were remitted.

Moved by Messrs. Smith and Morrow that the school orders as issued be confirmed as follows:

Section No. 1—$345.00,
Section No. 2—$430.00
Section No. 3—$415.00
Section No. 4—$308.00
Separate school—$75.50.

This was carried.

On motion of Messrs. Brown and Fowler, the accounts as presented were ordered to be paid.

Moved by Messrs. Monon and Fowler that salaries of township officers be paid as follows: W. H. Bradburn, township treasurer, $40.00; G. W. Bennett, township clerk, $37.50; R. Sanderson, caretaker, $7.50; Jas. Barnard, collector on return of roll, $45.00; I. Madill, reeve sessional allowance, $25.00; Messrs. I. Brown, I. Smith R. Fowler and Morrow, councillors, sessional allowance, $20 each. This was carried.

On motion of Messrs. Brown and Fowler, By-law No. 529, a by-law to fix the assessment of the property of the Peterborough Sugar Co. at a certain rate for a term of years was introduced. This by-law was given two readings and the value was fixed at $10,000 for a term of twenty years and in this form is to be published according to law, and submitted to a vote of the ratepayers on the fifteenth day of January, 1904, the Sugar Co. to bear all costs or charges in connection therewith.

By-law No. 427, a bylaw to confirm the appointment of a solicitor for the township in the case of Crowe vs. North Monaghan was then introduced and passed.

By-law No. 428, a by-law to appoint place of nomination and deputy returning officers for the elections of 1904 was then passed, nominations to be held in the town hall on Monday, December 28th, 1903 at 1 p. m., and H. G. Webber at No. 1 and J. J. Bennett at No. 3 polling subdivisions, to be deputy returning officers. Council then adjourned sine die.

Sealed tenders will be received by Jno. Grear and Isaac Clarke, 364 Water street, Peterborough, executors, of the estate of the late Henry Owens, on or before the 9th day of January, 1904, for the following properties:

1. The leasehold of the southerly 66 feet of lot No. 1, east of Water street and north of Simcoe street, in the Town of Peterborough, having a frontage on Water street of 52 feet and a frontage on Simcoe street of one hundred feet and a lane 14 feet wide on the east side of the premises.

This property consists of a large double two-story brick store and warehouse with workshop and factory in rear and a comfortable two-story brick dwelling adjoining, being the residence of the late Mr. Owens, subject to the ground rent, and with the right of renewal of the leasehold term, as provided in the lease thereof.

2. Lots numbers thirty and thirty-one south of Sherbrooke street and west of Park street as shewn upon registered plan number thirty-six for the town of Peterborough, having a frontage of about ninety-eight feet and a depth of about two hundred and twenty feet.

3. The water power property and mill site south of Macdonel street and east and west of Park street in the Town of Peterborough, having an easterly frontage on Gilchrist street of about one hundred and twenty-seven feet, an easterly frontage on Park street of about two hundred and sixty-five feet and an easterly frontage on Park street of about one hundred and eight feet together with the right to flood certain other lands adjoining. There are a number of building sites on this property.

4. The stock of cutters, carriages, farm implements, etc., in the shop No. 364 Water street in the Town of Peterborough.

Tenders to state terms of payment desired.

Tenders may be separate for the various properties or for the whole estate.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

For further particulars and conditions of sale apply to Edmison & Dixon, 367 George street, or to the undersigned.

DESIRES OF CANADA

Causes Glasgow Herald to Pay Tribute to Our Nationality.

NEWFOUNDLAND'S ADMISSION

"Testimony to the Real National Self-Consciousness of the Widely Scattered and Not Always Congenial Members of the Canadian Federation"—Denmark Would Not Sell Greenland—Clarke's Tribute.

London, Dec. 23.—(C. A. P.)—The Glasgow Herald says that Canadians are talking of annexing Newfoundland and Greenland in order to become a big enough field for treaty-making powers, the main object being the magnifying of Canada. A national argument that the United States do not covet barren Greenland is weak when remembering the desert state of Alaska. Denmark is no more likely to sell Greenland than the West Indies to the Americans, but the probable admission of Newfoundland into confederation bears testimony of real national self-consciousness among the widely scattered and not always congenial members of the Canadian federation.

The Post's Copenhagen correspondent wires a report that the anxiety to obtain Greenland is not seriously taken there, and that the Danish Government would not give a willing ear if the proposal were made.

Has No Preference For Colonies.

Sir Edward Clarke, speaking before the Carleton Conservative Club at Manchester Monday, said that the tariff commission had nothing to do with the relation of the colonies to the Motherland. At present England had no preference to give them. Questions on which England spent much money in different parts of the eastern world were insignificant compared with maintaining the splendid Canadian loyalty. England should be keen in helping Canada to secure Newfoundland and Greenland. He hoped colonial questions would be dealt with without waiting the decision on fiscal reform, "and," he said, "we should not be niggardly in dealing with colonial wishes."

A leading Copenhagen paper demands that the French Minister of Foreign Affairs distinctly disavow the selling of Greenland.

Why the Americans Wonder.

A. Moseley, who has recently returned with his commission from America, says that American economic authorities expressed wonder to him of any opposition to Chamberlain.

Herbert Gladstone, speaking at Newberry yesterday, said the tariff commission was composed of a number of wealthy manufacturers who desired to make money with no regard to the British consumer.

Leading actresses and performers in 280 pantomimes are singing Chamberlain's honor.

Lord Cowper writes The Times that since the formation of the tariff commission it is no longer possible to deny that protection pure and simple is staring us in the face.

Satisfied With Canada.

The SS. Bavarian has just landed twenty-eight prosperous Western Canadian farmers, who will spend Christmas in England. They passed a resolution expressing satisfaction with their ventures in Manitoba and the Northwest and their determination to urge Englishmen to emigrate to Canada. The party is led by J. Pearson.

Real Menace to Empire.

The World's Work says that while Mr. Chamberlain is busy assuring us that the Empire will go to pieces unless wheat is taxed a real danger to the Empire that has sprung up is receiving little or no attention. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's demand to be a treaty-making power is the real danger. It is obvious that if Canada is allowed to make treaties independently then England must take the consequences of that independence. England, it is not to be expected by Canadian, will approve of the demand, but the matter is certainly one of great gravity.

Suggests Handsome Subsidy.

Charles Lancaster, the Liverpool delegate to the Montreal Congress, speaking at a free trade demonstration, suggested that a handsome subsidy be given to establish a fast ocean express between England and Canada. Wheat could then be carried from Fort William for two shillings and ninepence per quarter, because it would come all the way by water.

Will Invite Colonies.

It is understood that the colonies will be invited to participate in the formation of naval volunteers' depots for receiving and training recruits.

CHILD MURDER CHARGED.

Mrs. Christina Saunders and Miss Phoebe Davis Under Arrest.

Orillia, Dec. 23.—As the result of a coroner's inquest and subsequent proceedings in the police court yesterday Mrs. Christina Saunders and her sister, Miss Phoebe Davis, were committed to stand their trial at the next assizes, charged with the murder of the former's infant child, and John Pallister, the infant's reputed father, is charged with being accessory to the fact and with assisting in concealment of the birth. The evidence disclosed the fact that the child was born alive and came to its death by a wound in its head.

Woman Convicted of Murder.

Bennington, Vt., Dec. 23.—The jury in the Rogers murder trial returned a verdict yesterday, finding Mary A. Rogers guilty of murder in the first degree. The verdict carries the death penalty. The jury deliberated all night. Mrs. Rogers was charged with the murder of her husband.

A BURNING TORCH.

Mrs. Partridge So Badly Burned That Doctors Pronounce Her Case Hopeless —Killed By Falling Tree.

Hamilton, Dec. 23.—Mrs. Partridge, 254 Mary street, was the victim of a terrible accident last evening. About 6 o'clock she attempted to light a quick fire in the stove by the use of coal oil. There must have been some fire in the stove, for almost as soon as she poured oil in the flames burst forth and caught her dress. She fought as well as she could for a time, but was forced to run out on the street shrieking with pain. Every stitch of clothing was burned from her body until she was as black as a piece of charred wood. The hands at the Hamilton mill were just coming out from work when the unfortunate woman reached the street. Several of those who ran to her assistance were severely burned. Mrs. Partridge was taken to the City Hospital. The minute the doctors saw her they pronounced her case hopeless. She is about 33 years of age and is the mother of four small children. It is only a short time since she was discharged from St. Joseph's Hospital after a long illness.

Killed By Falling Tree.

Pembroke, Dec. 23.—Wm. Matheson, sr., a prominent farmer residing five miles from here, in Pembroke Township, was killed yesterday morning while felling a tree. The tree fell on him and broke his back. He lived two hours. He leaves a wife and nine children.

Fatalities of a Day.

Ardmore, I.T.—John Scott and Sam. Victory, farmers, fought with guns at Woolsey, both being killed. The misunderstanding arose over Scott's cattle breaking into Victory's field.

Hoffman, N.C.—Two brothers, Galloway and John Blue, negroes, living in Cumberland County, were shot and killed by Town Marshal Thompson and a deputy while resisting arrest for disorderly conduct.

Brookhaven, Mass.—Eli Hilson, a negro, was assassinated while on his way home from town alone in his buggy. Hilson was warned by whitecaps last winter to leave the country. His home was visited in the night about four weeks ago by whitecaps, who fired several volleys into the house, but he still disregarded the warning.

Menominee, Mich.—Fire caused 12 persons to jump from the second story window of the Travelers' Home, a small hotel here. James Beatty, a guest, was found dead in the ruins. Joseph Vorachek was fatally burned.

Des Moines, Ia.—An atrocious murder is brought to light here by the discovery of the badly burned body of Mrs. Charles W. Craves in her home, the doors of which had been unlocked from the outside. An autopsy revealed evidences of strangulation prior to burning. Mrs. Graves' husband had threatened the woman's life.

Flaws in Irish Land Act.

London, Dec. 23.—Both the Nationalists and the Unionists are discovering serious flaws in Irish Secretary Wyndham's Land Act, which will necessitate further amendment in Parliament. In the land judges' court in Dublin Justice Ross has delivered an important judgment regarding the sale of Lord Ely's estates, according to which the tenant for life is not entitled to appropriate the bonus under the new act for his own use, but must hold it subject to trusts of settlement. Landlords thereby lose the chief inducement to sell under the act.

May Eat Meat on Friday.

Montreal, Dec. 23.—Archbishop Bruchesi, in a circular letter to the clergy of his diocese, officially announces that by virtue of a dispensation of His Holiness Pope Pius X. all Catholics are permitted to eat meat on Friday, New Year's Day.

FRENCH IN ONTARIO

Their Claims for Cabinet Representation Discussed.

SUPPORT FROM BOTH SIDES

Hon. F. E. A. Evanturel Shows in Pembroke How Generous the English-Speaking People of Ontario Had Been to the French—Time Would Be When They Would Be Recognized—Whitney' Meeting.

Pembroke, Dec. 23.—There are a large number of French electors in North Renfrew and both parties have naturally devoted a good deal of attention to those phases of politics in which they are more particularly interested.

Dr. Reaume, M.P.P., addressing a meeting in Stafford, where there are a number of French, Monday night, made some interesting statements about the position of French-Canadians in Ontario. He said that the French in Quebec recognize the English minority by reserving for them always a seat in the Cabinet, whether it was Liberal or Conservative, and the French in Ontario, who were equally as numerous in proportion to the population as the English in Quebec, deserved equal consideration. The Ross Government, he said, were really sustained by the almost solid French vote in their favor, and Mr. Evanturel should have been a Minister. Finally he declared that the Conservatives had given a pledge that should they come into power a seat in the Cabinet would be reserved for French-Canadians.

Hon. F. E. A. Evanturel, former Speaker of the Legislature, addressed a meeting at the same place last night. He admitted the correctness of the argument that the French were entitled to Cabinet representation, but pointed out that it war not opportune to urge it now. There was no vacancy in the Cabinet, none of the Ministers had been defeated at the general election, and he was sure that the French were too fair-minded to insist upon the displacement of a Minister in order to make way for one of their own countrymen. He went on to show how generous the English-speaking people of Ontario had always been to the French, and as one instance referred to the appointment of a French separate school inspector. He expressed the belief that when the time was opportune the claims of French-Canadians to a portfolio would be recognized. With regard to the timber policy of the Government he pointed out the inconsistency of the Conservatives, for while those in Ontario condemned that of this Province and lauded that of Quebec, the Conservatives of that Province condemned theirs and claimed that the Ontario policy was better.

The Opposition Meeting.

Cobden, Dec. 23.—The leader of the Opposition and Mr. W. J. Hanna, M.P.P., came here last night to endeavor to counteract the effects of Hon. Geo. W. Ross' meeting week before last. A rather slimly-attended meeting was held in the Town Hall, Mr. Joseph Warren in the chair, and there was a lack of enthusiasm. Mr. Whitney excused himself from making a long speech, on the plea of wanting to save his throat for the next two days, but continued to speak for over an hour.

Mr. Hanna spoke chiefly on the question of education, holding that the present system is a bad one and that the Opposition have a better one to replace it. He declared that teachers and pupils are driven into nervous prostration trying to keep up with the course, but that in the end the boys turned out cannot write, read, spell or do simple sums.

Mr. Whitney told the audience that the first duty of the Conservative Government, which he gave them to understand would soon be in power, would be to place the Provincial finances on a solid basis, after which education and agriculture would be attended to and more money spent on them. The party was represented as having a system of education ready for introduction, founded on Egerton Ryerson's idea and endorsed by the British educationists. Six or eight more agricultural colleges would be established, Mr. Whitney said, if the finances were properly handled. The closing half of his speech was a general accusation against the Government of stealing its policy from the Opposition and stealing seats.

Antwerp, Dec. 23.—Another large steamship has gone ashore near where the Red Star Line steamer Finland grounded on Saturday last. Owing to the fog which prevails the observers ashore have up to the present been unable to ascertain the vessel's name.

Fannie McGarvey Was Insane.

Strathroy, Dec. 23.—The inquest on the remains of Patrick Upton, who died from injuries inflicted by Fannie McGarvey with an axe last November, took place Monday. The case was given the jury at 2 o'clock yesterday morning, and they brought in the verdict that the woman had committed the deed while temporarily insane.

TEN LOST CONSCIOUSNESS.

Narrow Escape of 13 More Men in Isle Royale Mine.

Houghton, Mich., Dec. 23.—The bodies of the three Isle Royale miners discovered Sunday were brought to the surface Monday night. They were strapped on boards and hauled up through old winzes and shafts.

The recovery of the bodies nearly led to other fatalities. There were twelve in the party and only one man reached the surface unaided through the old shaft, falling the moment he reached open air. This gave the alarm, and thirty volunteers went down 700 feet after Capt. Moyle and his party. Two were found conscious, crawling toward the surface, and the other nine were unconscious from gas, and death would have resulted speedily but for the volunteers.

POLITICAL CLEAVAGE.

Hon. G. W. Ross Speakes on This Topic at Chicago Convocation.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—Hon. George W. Ross, Premier of Ontario, delivered an address at the forty-ninth convocation of the University of Chicago yesterday on "The Political Cleavage of North America."

Speaking of the movement recently inaugurated by Joseph Chamberlain to federate the English colonies on the basis of Imperial protection against the world, Premier Ross said: "It requires no argument to show that the establishment of commercial relations within the Empire on the basis of preferential tariff, would greatly strengthen the ties which bind all the colonies, including Canada, to the Empire and remove still further in the background whatever inducements remain for closer political or commercial relations with the United States."

Will Have to Serve His Time.

Toronto, Dec. 23.—W. H. Callaghan, sentenced to 60 days in jail for theft, will have to serve his time. The Court of Appeal yesterday refused leave to appeal from the verdict of the jury of the Sessions. The decision of the Court of Appeal is merely on technical points as to the alleged improper admission and rejection of evidence: "We have nothing to do with the question whether the verdict was against the weight of evidence. That can only come to us on leave granted by the trial judge." This leave was refused by Judge Winchester.

The Intermediate Team at Picton will be a hard one to beat as the club has secured the services of several well known players, among them them being Rock of last season's Ottawa Aberdeens; Strike, the ex-Captain of the Montreal Intermediate Team; and Powell of Kingston. —Toronto News.

BASKET-BALL.

TORONTO VS. ATHLETICS.

The Peterborough boys are getting into good shape to trim the Toronto team to-morrow night. They had a good practice last night and have another to-night. Robertson is doing some star shooting and it ought to count well to-morrow night. The team is in good trim and we feel confident that the boys do not intend to let an outside team be the first to beat them this season. Our fellows will give them a hard game. The Toronto team play two games at Ottawa on Christmas day, so they will have a chance to win one of those, and not return home without winning at least one game.

Two of the Intermediate teams will play an exhibition game at 8 o'clock. Other items will be given. Admission 25 cents.

RUGBY.

Messrs. Thornton, Hurtubise and Deannard are asked to be at Roy's studio Christmas morning at ten o'clock to have their photos taken for the Rugby team group. Geo. Morgan is also asked to visit the above studio as early as possible.

TUG-OF-WAR.

The Quaker tug of war team hereby accepts the challenge of the Cordage team for a draw, date to be set later on. Signed, C. Munden, capt.

ALL THE STORES IN HOLIDAY GARB.

Peterborough Merchants Excel Themselves in Christmas Decorations.

Window Dressing a Credit to the Artists and to the Town—The Holiday Trade is Satisfactory.

One has but to walk along George street to know that the Christmas season is at hand, and the clerks and proprietors of each of the many business establishments in Peterborough are quite certain that it is, the former because of the extra work which they are called upon to do, and the latter particularly because of the greatly increased sales, and the large bank deposits which they are able to make each day.

Notwithstanding the extra heavy rush of Christmas buyers, they are being handled well by the staffs of clerks, which in the majority of the stores have been increased to meet the demand. Then the work of the salespeople has been made comparatively easy by the apparently unusual consideration for them being shown by buyers this year. Usually the buyers leave it until the last few days before Christmas, and then all make a grand rush for presents. This as experience has taught, is satisfactory neither to the buyer nor the seller, and this year there is a marked change in this respect, at least as far as Peterborough is concerned. All the merchants agree that purchases were made earlier this year than formerly, and as a result, the volume of business has been spread over a larger period, to the great advantage of all concerned. The salespeople's work has again been facilitated by the fact that it has not been as difficult to sell goods this year. Buyers apparently have more money to spend, and consequently are not as hard to please, as is the case when money is not so plentiful.

Not only are purchases being made earlier, but it is a noticeable fact that a better class of goods is being bought, another evidence of the prosperity of the country, in general, and Peterborough County in particular. The evidence of the merchants is that there has never been a Christmas in the history of the town when business has been as good as that of 1903. The volume of trade in town last Saturday eclipsed all previous records for the corresponding day, and the records still continue to be broken.

This will indeed be a glad Christmas and for the best reasons.

The stores now present a very animated appearance, and for one who has an eye for the beautiful a trip through the many stores is indeed a pleasure.

DRY GOODS DECORATIONS.

Perhaps in no line of goods has such extensive decorating been done as in that of dry goods, and in this particular the stores of which Peterborough is justly proud, have excelled themselves apparently.

This is Richard Hall and Son's first Christmas on George street, and their new place of business seems to be attracting a crowd of buyers. The beautifully adorned windows probably have their share in this attraction. Certainly the display is very artistic and pleasing, and the decorator whose work it is, may well feel a degree of pardonable pride in his work. The crest of the firm is very neatly arranged in the centre of the south window, and on one side is the year in which the firm started business, 1859, and on the opposite side, 1903. The windows contain many articles dear to a woman's heart, including costumes, gloves, etc.

The store windows of J. O. Turnbull & Co., are always very tastily arranged, and Mr. Maude, the window dresser for this firm had a reputation to sustain when he started in on his Christmas decorations. That he well sustained it, however, is amply evidenced by a visit to this store, where, not only the windows, but the entire interior, is arranged in characteristic Christmas fashion. The staff of clerks is kept busy attending to the wants of the many shoppers who visit this store.

One of the most attractive stores in Peterborough is that of A. W. Cressman, and the natural attractiveness of a well-planned store and well-arranged stock has been accelerated by the additional decorations which have been made for the Christmas tide. All the departments of the store have taken on a holiday gala air, and the well lighted and beautiful windows but reflect the beauty of the stores.

The store of J. Sutcliffe & Sons should prove very attractive to the young folks, to whom dolls and other toys are still the acme of life. The north window has been arranged very temptingly with things which have an especial charm for children's eyes, and at any hour of the day a number may be seen eagerly gazing into the wonderful stores of toys and speculating as to which of them "Santa" will procure for them. But toys are not the only things that are just now attracting crowds of buyers to this store. The regular Christmas dry goods are evidently finding many buyers, and the entire store is very artistically arranged.

The windows of Robert Fair & Co. present many useful hints to those who are in doubt as to "what to give." It would seem that if the gift be for a lady, any one of the variety of articles displayed in these windows might be chosen, with the assurance that its receipt would give pleasure. An electrical illumination in the windows and front of this store gives it additional beauty and it is one of the most tastefully arranged store fronts in town.

The Beehive, in its holiday attire, is the scene of characteristic activity, and in it many a perplexed buyer finds "just the thing I had been looking for." An almost endless variety of articles suitable for gifts are to be seen here, and the store is evidently getting its full share of the holiday business.

The Bankrupt Stock Store is apparently feeling the effects of the Christmas trade, and has made preparations for it. In smallwares, the store seems to present to view an extensive supply, from which gifts might easily be chosen.

MEN'S FURNISHINGS.

To many a man and boy Christmas will mean, a new suit, overcoat, hat, cap, gloves, or other necessary articles of wearing apparel, and the stores in Peterborough devoted to this class of trade have made preparations commensurate with the demand. The windows of these stores give but a faint idea of the volume or variety of the stocks inside, but they at least give an index, and suggest gifts.

Gough Bros. have made special provision for the holiday rush, which is now on in earnest, and the store is crowded with buyers at almost any hour of the day. The windows of the store have been especially dressed, and a windmill attachment in that to the north attracts the attention of the passerby to the meritorious display of those things which appeal more particularly to those of the storner sex.

Gough's shoe department is being visited by large numbers too, and the pleasingly arrayed window devoted to footwear, has evidently had its share in attracting buyers inside.

The clothing establishment of Grafton & Co. is right in the midst of a great Christmas business. The reputation which this store enjoys is being fully sustained, and its friends are remembering their friends by purchasing Christmas gifts from the extensive stock which this store carries. The windows give a fair idea of the nature of the stock carried, although the store and its stock are so well known that little extra decorating is necessary to bring trade.

Cressman's "Climax" Clothing Department presents a busy scene, and after Christmas more men will wear this brand than ever before. The large stock of men's furnishings carried by this store is proving very attractive to those who are buying gifts for brothers, sons or fathers.

Meredith's stock, too, is so arranged that it suggests the appropriateness of giving articles of wearing apparel, of which this store has an especially pleasing variety.

The City Clothing Store, of which H. LeRun & Co. are proprietors, have made special decorations throughout their large establishment, and the Christmas business being enjoyed by the firm is ahead of expectations, the store being crowded with buyers, many of whom have dealt with the store for many preceding Christmases and have always found the goods and treatment satisfactory.

THE FURRIER'S HARVEST.

Of all lines of business, with the exception probably of jewelry, the furrier depends on Christmas time for his volume of business, and certainly Peterborough's furriers are not being disappointed. The stocks were never so complete, and the buyers were never more plentiful. The store of W. Lech & Sons is especially attractive with an array of rich and beautiful fur garments, the beauty of which is shown to the best advantage by the excellent arrangement of the stock and store.

Fred A. Clark's fur store also is in holiday attire, and the artistically decorated window is a most beautiful sight. Hats and caps for gentlemen also form an important part of this firm's stock and in all departments a good trade is being done.

A very pretty effect has been obtained by the window decorations of Thos. Barrie's store, where costly furs are arranged in an artistic profusion. The men's furnishings portion of the stock has also been given an additional decorative effect, the whole store presenting a very "taking" appearance.

THE JEWELERS.

These are the days when the jewelers and their assistants do with very little sleep, their time being pretty fully taken up with serving the Christmas wants of buyers. The stores in this line in Peterborough are feeling the effects of the good times and have never done as good a trade as that of this year. The store fronts present an especially brilliant appearance, the nature of the goods lending itself easily to an attractive display. The decorators, too, appreciate the value of a good display, and the result must be satisfactory to those who have given their time to the work. The jewelry stores in Peterborough, Schneider's, Frost's, Sanderson's, McClelland's and Gibson's, are all feeling the rush of Christmas, and the proprietors are all wearing broad smiles as a result.

DRUG STORES' CHRISTMAS.

In the window displays of the drug stores perfumes seem to predominate, and in this line all the stores have very meritorious showing. The stores in which these suitable gifts are given prominence are J. D. Tully, John Nugent, H. H. Edmison, Ormond and Walsh, Jas. Lynch, H. S. Macdonald and Wm. Medill. W. B. Warne also has a window in which the same classe of goods are shown to good advantage.

HARDWARE GOODS.

To many a boy, this Christmas will mean a new pair of skates, and the hardware merchants have recognized this fact and have arranged their windows to show to good advantage the stock of hardware articles. The stores of W. R. G. Higgins, Best Stove Co., Kingan Hardware Co., A. Hall and Peterborough Hardware Co., have shared in these decorations.

BOOTS AND SHOES, TOO.

The boot and shoe stores have caught the Christmas spirit, too, and in all of the stores devoted to this particular line of merchandise, special displays have been made. Robt. Neill's large windows look particularly inviting, while those of J. F. Stenson, Thos. Douglas, W. McWhinnie and Gough Bros. also present a holiday appearance.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT.

The many grocery stores in town have shared in the prevailing spirit of special Christmas displays, and each of them has given some special attention to the window displays. Fruits seem to form the most popular ingredient. W. H. Hamilton has a particularly good display, coloured lights being used to make a pretty effect. Other stores which have good displays are:—P. Connal & Son, E. F. Mason, R. A. Dutton, James Edgcumbe, F. Brown & Co., The Henry Company, R. H. Hunter, W. H. Tuck, Geo. Carton, F. J. R. Mitchell, W. Sutherland and others.

The confectionery stores have also made extensive preparations for the holidays and the result is that their windows form the centre of attraction for particularly the younger portion of the population.

Stratton's, Salisbury's and Routley's have window displays which suggest that the stores contain many useful and ornamental gifts.

In this article, which is necessarily a brief one, it is impossible to do justice to the many really first-class displays shown by the different stores, and if any which have made special decorations here not been mentioned, the omission is not intentional.

WHO WILL BE OUR TIMOTHY?

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—When we read that next Saturday, the 26th, is being given by the T. Eaton Company, to their 5,000 employees, without docking their wages, thus giving them Friday, Saturday and Sunday in which to rest and to enjoy Christmas, one is constrained to ask why the hundreds of clerks in Peterborough should not be treated with equal consideration. As far as can be learned, they will all work at least three hours extra daily during the first four evenings of this week, thus making up a full day. Surely they are entitled to it, and they will have it if our merchants will but do the just thing, the Timothy Eaton act, in other words, the Golden Rule. Who will be the first to say so publicly?

"FAIR PLAY."

Once Again

The Christmas Festival is upon us. It's time to be merry.

That the season has been a prosperous one is now beyond all doubt. The general prosperity of the country has been strongly marked; and, so far as our own city is concerned, the holiday trade was never so great.

With what heartfulness we have looked forward to giving friends and loved ones some tangible expression of esteem and show our desire to perpetuate the "Peace on earth, good will toward men" sentiment.

The "Golden Lion" takes special pleasure in again wishing its many friends and customers "A Merry Christmas" and "A Prosperous New Year." We have abundant reason for gratitude in the continued tinued confidence reposed in this store by the shopping public.

The store will be closed to-morrow and open again Saturday bright and early.

SIXTY-THREE PERSONS KILLED.

Train Ran Into Pile of Lumber and was Smashed to Pieces.

Shocking Death of John Carpenter of Tuscarora—Engineer Glassford and Fireman Patton Fatally Scalded—Accident was Near Barrie—Mrs. John Jacques, of Fargo, Found on Fire was Burned to Death.

Connellsville, Pa., Dec. 24.—A disastrous passenger wreck occurred on the Baltimore & Ohio Railway, eight miles west of here, last night, and at least sixty-three people were killed. Twenty or thirty people are badly hurt.

The wrecked train was known as No. 12, eastbound, composed of an engine, combination baggage and smoker, two coaches, two Pullman cars and a diner.

The official statement of Supt. W. C. Larse follows: "No. 12 was derailed by running into some switch timbers, or timbers of about that size, derailing the engine and all the cars. All the cars were badly damaged. Do not think any of the equipment will be able to go away from the accident on their own wheels, except possibly the Pullman cars and the diner. The engine lies across both tracks. The baggage car is over the bank. The first coach is partly over the bank. The balance of the train is badly twisted. I judge thirty-five people were killed. All the people killed were in the smoker; escaping steam from the engine went into the first coach, scalding the people. Very few of the other passengers were injured. The injured have been taken from the wreck and are lying on the bank. Engineer and fireman cannot be found."

Two Trains Collide.

Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 24.—A collision between two passenger trains on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad is reported to have occurred near Newcastle, Ala., twenty miles from Birmingham. Engineer Wright was killed and several passengers were injured.

An Indian Gnawed By Swine.

Brantford, Dec. 24.—Tuesday night the body of an Indian named Carpenter was found five miles from Lyndon, badly eaten by pigs. Carpenter was in Brantford on Saturday endeavoring to sell five pigs but did not dispose of them, and, returning home, got on the G.T.R. cattle-guard near Cainsville, where his horses fell and he would have been killed but for the timely notice of some Cainsville citizens who stopped the express.

Nothing more was heard of Carpenter until two young men happened to go on a side line, which Carpenter had taken, and discovered his rig turned over and he pinned underneath. The pigs in some way got liberated, and, when discovered, were eating Carpenter's body. An arm, leg and part of the head was gone.

Engineer Glassford, Killed.

Barrie, Dec. 24.—John Glassford, G.T.R. engineer, died yesterday afternoon, as the result of injuries received in an accident at Colwell, about 11 o'clock yesterday morning. His engine, with a snow plow attached, was passing over a switch when one of the wings caught, pulling over the plow and the engine with it. Engineer Glassford and Fireman James Patton were caught in the cab, and before they could be extricated were terribly scalded with escaping steam. Patton is very seriously injured, but will recover. Glassford was one of the best known engineers on the road. He leaves a widow and four children.

James Patton, who was expected to recover, grew suddenly worse last night, and died at 9 o'clock. Deceased was 22 years of age and unmarried.

Burned to Death.

Chatham, Dec. 24.—Mrs. John Jacques of Fargo, about seven miles from this city, was burned to death Tuesday night. As she was alone it is not known how it happened, but as he was subject to fits it is supposed she fell with a lamp in her hand. All her family were out visiting at the time, and the discovery was made by Mail Carrier Rizborough, who, in calling with letters, found her with her clothing in flames. She lingered until 2.30 yesterday morning.

Fatal Accidents at Hamilton.

Hamilton, Dec. 24.—Samuel H. Stevenson, night watchman at the steel plant of the Hamilton Steel and Iron Co., was crushed to death between the big steel rollers about 1 o'clock yesterday morning. He had worked in the mill only a few days, and his wife and family are on their way to the city, expecting to spend Christmas holidays with him. Mrs. Frederick Partridge, who was so badly burned, died yesterday about 5 o'clock.

Wall Collapsed; Men Killed.

New York, Dec. 24.—One of the walls of the old 13th Regiment Armory building, Brooklyn, fell yesterday afternoon. Two workmen, who were engaged in tearing down the structure, were killed and seven others badly hurt.

Perilous Trip Ends Fatally.

Wellington, N.Z., Dec. 24.—The two-and-a-half ton yacht Kiora, which its owner, a man named Buckridge, attempted to sail from New Zealand to London by way of Cape Horn, has returned here. Buckridge fell from the mast and was killed when the yacht was in the Pacific, 1,000 miles from land. His mate and sole companion navigated the Kiora back to Wellington, and was in great peril for three weeks, suffering from semi-starvation. Buckridge was 25 years of age. He had served in the war in South Africa and afterwards became a member of the Antarctic expedition on the exploring vessel Discovery, which was fitted out by British scientific societies.

Greater Carnage Than War.

Wellington, N.Z., Dec. 24.—The annual report of Major Brown, secretary of the Department of Internal Affairs, says the casualties among steam railway employes in Pennsylvania for the year were 15,383. The combined figures for the steam and street railways show a greater number of casualties during the year "than occurred to the Union Army in any one of their great battles of the Civil War." There were 255 fatal and 8,059 non-fatal accidents on street railways.

TO-MORROW'S SERVICES.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

The special Christmas services at St. John's tomorrow will be brief and bright.

At 8.30 Holy Communion; 11 a.m., Morning Prayer and brief address with Christmas hymns and anthems. This service will conclude before 12.15, at which hour there will be a second celebration, ending at 1 p. m. The church has received its usual beautiful Christmas dressing.

At the conclusion of the special choir practice of Christmas music last evening at St. John's a pleasant surprise awaited the choir in the form of a delightful supper provided for the members by Mr. Gliddon and Mr. Hollingshead, a kindness greatly appreciated by the forty who were present. At the conclusion of the repast the boys of the choir presented Mr. Hollingshead with a silver flask as a slight expression of their gratitude for many kindnesses received from him.

THE CHRISTMAS WEDDING BELLS.

Four Weddings were Celebrated Yesterday Afternoon.

Three Performed by Rev. J. G. Potter—Marriage and Baptism at 338 Charlotte Street.

DOUGLAS—CAMPBELL.

Yesterday afternoon Miss Margaret Campbell, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Campbell was married to Mr. Wm. Douglas, formerly of Hamilton, but now a resident of Peterborough, at the residence of her parents, No. 252 Charlotte street. The interesting ceremony was performed by Rev. J. A. Shepherd, of Coldwater, assisted by Rev. W. L. Armitage, of town. Miss Eva Elliott, of North Monaghan, was bridesmaid, while Mr. Geo. Campbell, brother of the bride, was best man. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Walter Mollee, and the house was artistically decorated for the occasion.

The bride was gowned in a dress of white point-de-sprite with insertion and bows of white satin ribbon and underlay of Indian lawn. Her going away dress was one of navy blue serge finished with black velvet and dotted with silver nail heads. She wore a large black silk hat and white furs.

The bridesmaid was attired in a gown of white muslin with insertion and ribbons.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas left per 5.20 G.T.R. train for Toronto and Hamilton for their honeymoon.

After the wedding the baptism of the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Campbell took place, the bride and groom standing as godmother and godfather, respectively.

ELLIOTT—FRAZER.

At St. Andrew's manse yesterday afternoon at 1.30 o'kock a very quiet wedding took place and was celebrated by Rev. J. G. Potter, the contracting parties being Miss Levina J. Fraser, daughter of Robert Fraser, of Cardiff, and Mr. Jos. Elliott, of Smith.

Mr. Robert Elliott, brother of the groom, fulfilled the duties of best man, while Miss Thurza Allen supported the bride.

The happy couple after visiting their relatives will reside in Smith Township.

TROTTER—LAWSON.

The residence of Mr. George Lawson, 449 Bethune street, was the scene, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, of a pretty, if quiet, wedding between Miss M. S. Lawson, his eldest daughter, and Mr. John Trotter, of Otonabee. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. G. Potter in the presence of only the relatives and friends of the contracting parties.

After the marriage a handsome wedding breakfast was served.

STINTSON—RENWICK.

The marriage of Miss Nellie Renwick, daughter of Mr. Jas. Renwick, of Deloraine, Man., and Mr. Wm. John Stintson, was celebrated by Rev. J. G. Potter at 10 Cambridge street, at 8.30 yesterday afternoon, at the residence of Mr. Jas. E. Henderson, the bride's uncle. The bridesmaid was Miss Susan Johnston, while the groom was supported by Mr. John Spence. The bride was wedded in a handsome going away gown. The newly married couple left per 5.20 G.T.R. train for points west, and on their return will reside on Antrim street.

OTONABEE UNION CHEESE FACTORY.

Annual Meeting was Held on December 19th.

The annual meeting of the patrons of the Otonabee Union cheese factory was held in Stewart's Hall, on Dec. 19th. The season has been a very good one for the cheese factory work. This factory is one of the smallest on the Peterborough Board. Below are figures which show the result of the season's work:—Number of patrons, 37; milk received, 982,865 lbs.; standards 328; cheese, 88,041 lbs.; value of cheese, $9,189.87; expenses, $1,568.85; net to patrons, $7,621.02; value of milk per standard, to patrons, $23.24; average lbs. milk per lb. of cheese, for season, 11.16.

Secretary.

Delicious Creamery Butter and Good Old Cheese always in stock at White and Gillespie's Grocery on George street.

FRASERVILLE CHEESE FACTORY

The patrons of Fraserville cheese factory held their annual meeting on Monday, Dec. 14th, for the purpose of settling the season's business. The Secretary's report showed that the factory had been patronized this season by 104 patrons, who sent in 716 letandards of milk. This amount of milk when coaverted into cheese gave 200,054 lbs., being a lb. to cheese for 10.70 of milk. There was received for cheese $20,814.68, for whey $527.25, interest $33.25, making a total of $21,375.18. The expenses of the factory was $4,091.08, leaving $17,274.10 for the patrons. Paying the patrons 81 cts. per cwt., or $24.37 per standard for the milk. The largest amount sent by any one patron was by Mr. Jas. Bell, Monaghan, who sent 56,701 lbs., which entitled Mr. Bell to receive an 81 lb. cheese that the cheese maker promised to the patron that sent the largest amount of milk in the season of 1903.

PRESENTATION TO RETIRING TEACHER.

Mr. C. J. McDonnell Made Recipient of Gifts by Pupils of S. S. No 2. Ennismore.

The school of Section No. 2, Ennismore, was the scene of a highly successful concert on the evening of Friday, 18th inst, when Mr C. J. McDonnell, the retiring teacher, was made the happy recipient of a number of very costly gifts, among others twenty-two well-bound volumes of standard authors, and a fountain pen, being an expression of the universal love and gratitude which he has won for himself during his three years' teaching in that school.

The presentation was made during an interval of the programme by four of the pupils: Frances Calvert, Essie Calvert, Nellie Murray and Ella O'Donnell.

The following address to the teacher was read by one of the pupils, Miss Ella O'Donnell:

To Mr. C. J. McDonnell, Teacher:

Dear Teacher,—We, the pupils of Public School Section No. 2, Ennismore, have assembled here to-night for what to us is a very sad and painful task, namely, to say farewell to you, our kind and loving teacher.

When we heard of your intended departure we were filled with deepest regret, and our first thought was, what shall we do without him?

And indeed, when we remember your great ability, untiring zeal, and unfailing courtesy, we feel that it will be many, many years before even your slightest acts of kindness will be forgotten and fall from our memory, indeed if they ever do.

For the past three years you have devoted all your time and energy in our behalf, earnestly endeavouring to make us good and God-fearing men and women and endeavouring to pave our way to be honest, faithful members of society.

And with the zeal and ability of a teacher were coupled the kindness and patience of a very dear teacher and brother.

So that in parting from you we are losing a dear friend, one who has our best interests at heart.

But God orders all things for the best and when we lose, others gain; for we know wherever you go your earnest life and noble example will result in great good.

Dear teacher, we know that your services are always rendered cheerfully and without hope of reward.

So you will not consider the accompanying gift, which we beg you to accept, in any other light than as a token of good-will, friendship and gratitude.

Signed on behalf of the pupils,

ELLA O'DONNELL,
ESSIE CALVERT,
NELLIE MURRAY,

Mr. McDonnell then made a suitable reply.

A very lengthy programme was rendered by the pupils of the school, whose cleverness in performing their parts reflects great credit on their teacher and gained for themselves great applause.

A special feature of the evening was the christmas tree, whose tempting fruit, plucked by Mr. Jno. O'Reilly and distributed by Mr. Jno. Telford, made glad the hearts of all the pupils, parents and teacher.

The musical accompaniment was excellently rendered by Miss Loretto Guirey.

The duties of chairman were ably discharged by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick.

IN APPRECIATION OF PASTOR'S WORK.

Zion and Fairview Congregations Present Rev. J. Bunner with Fur Coat.

The Sunday school of Zion church, 7th line, Smith, gave a very interesting and successful entertainment on the evening of December 18th. Readings, recitations, dialogues, solos, duetts, choruses followed each other in quick succession, the children acquitting themselves admirably and with credit to their leader, Miss Milburn, the organist of the Sunday school, on whom had fallen the burthen of the work and responsibility.

The most pleasing event of the evening came when Messrs. Bradin, Kerr and Rosborough, being called to the platform, presented, in the name of the congregations of Fairview and Zion, their pastor, the Rev. J. Bunner, of Bridgenorth, with a fur overcoat, accompanied by the following address:

Rev. Mr. Bunner:

The people of Zion and Fairview desire at this time to express to you, our pastor, our appreciation and gratitude. As you have gone in and out amongst us, and as week by week, we have listened to your teaching, we have learned from you words and life lessons which have made deep impressions and which, we trust, will be found bearing fruit in years to come.

We beg you to accept this coat as a slight token of our regard. When your hours of discouragement come, as they come to all, we trust that it may remind you of those whom you have helped, and who, remembering your example and teaching, are the better for it. Trusting that you may be long spared to the ministry and wishing you and your family a merry Christmas and a very happy New Year.

Signed in behalf of Zion and Fairview,

T. BRADEN,
D. KERR,
S. ROSBOROUGH,

Mr. Bunner replied in his usually sincere and earnest manner, and the meeting broke up at a late hour, all feeling pleased with the entertainment and gratified at having been able to show a little of the esteem and affection for himself which Mr. Bunner has won for himself in his year and a half amongst his people.

INDIAN RIVER NEWS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Indian River, Dec. 21.

Mr. Geo. Davidson, who has been a resident of these parts for a considerable time, has moved to his new home near Peterborough.

Miss Isabel Duff, who has been attending Queen's University, Kingston, returned home for her Christmas vacation on Friday, last.

Miss Eva Turner, of Peterborough, spent a few days in this locality, the guest of Miss Edna Patterson.

Mr. Jas. T. Hall paid his annual visit to the Sunday school on Sunday last.

On Monday the 21st, Dec., Miss Clysdale, who has been our teacher for the past seven years, was presented with a beautiful manicure set, a copy of Tennyson and a Presbyterian Book of Praise, by Misses Robertson and Borland, and Mr. Henry Borland, on behalf of the students of S. S. No. 3, and residents of Indian River and vicinity. Miss Clysdale is to be succeeded by Miss Florence White, of Norwood, who has been teaching at Birdsall.

REPORT OF CEDARDALE CHEESE FACTORY.

The Annual Meeting Held on Friday When Season's Business was Reviewed.

The annual meeting of the patrons of Cedardale cheese factory was held in the factory on Friday, December 11th. The following is an account of the business done through the factory for the season of 1903, which was the best in its history:

Milk received, 846,491 lbs.
Cheese manufactured, 79,803 lbs.
Lbs. milk required to make lb. of cheese, 10.60.
Lbs. milk required to make lb. of butter fat, 27.76.
Average price per standard, $24.23
No. of patrons, 32.
Most milk sent in by any one patron, 77,789 lbs.
The whey for the season of 1904 was sold to A. Wilson for 50c per standard.

Small Calendar Pads in different sizes and colours, on sale at the Examiner office.

OMEMEE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The cold spell of weather causes great destruction on wood and coal, which are not too plentiful.

There was a large shipment of all kinds of stock on Tuesday, including hogs, sheep and cattle, and prices ruled high. Some farmers took home as much as $150 for pigs alone.

We have a great accommodation now for farmers and others fortunate enough to have money, which they want to put away carefully and safely. A branch of the Bank of Toronto has been started here. Mr. Ames is the manager; he was lately on the staff at Peterborough and Port Hope.

There is a splendid opening here for some enterprising firm to build a few good houses, as every available house is taken.

No person is heard grumbling about poverty with the approach of Xmas, that is able to work at all, and got too lazy.

There will be a large number of farmers attending the Wednesday before Christmas market at Peterborough.

Everyone is looking forward to the Christmas and New Year's entertainments for a good bill of fare in the amusement line. There is no use putting on a long face in this village now.

Mr. Fred Rowan, student, is at home for a few holidays under the parental roof. He has been labouring at Lakehurst, Harvey township, Peterborough Presbytery, and speaks in loud praise of the cordiality and kindness of the people among whom he has laboured.

The Lebanon L.O.L., fowl supper proved to be a grand success. The proceeds amounted to $75.

Our churches are being decorated for Christmas, and the choirs are rehearsing their Christmas music.

Hand Bags from 25c to $9.00 each, Leather Purses and Card Cases from 10c at Salisbury Co's.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The morning service in connection with the anniversary of the Methodist Sunday school, was taken by the Rev. Mr. Yule of Springville, who delivered a special discourse, suitable for the scholars of the school, but which was none the less profitable for the congregation at large, who were kindly reminded of their duty. The text was "Here am I," and the letters composing the word, "Joseph." Although the morning was unfavourable on account of the snow storm then prevailing many were very anxious to hear the preacher of the day, who has been the means of rebuilding the congregations of Bethany and Springville. The evening service was conducted by the Omemee pastor, Rev. Mr. Whitlaw, his text being "Behold my hands."

Numerous complaints are being heard of the want of water. Some farmers are being compelled to drive their stock a long distance to water.

Our business men are quite satisfied with the prosperous condition of Canada. The labouring classes also feel the effects of the good times.

Public school teachers have not received much relief from their recent increase in salaries. As a class they receive small pay for the services rendered. Report says that Mr. Mills, our public school teacher, is engaged for another term. During his stay here great credit is due to him for so many of his pupils who have passed the entrance examinations.

HAVELOCK.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

A party of the young people of the town spent a very pleasant evening last Thursday at the residence of Mr. J. Johnston. A very pleasant feature of the event was the sleigh drive there and back.

The Mission Band of the Presbyterians held a very successful at home in the church last Friday evening.

Mr. Frank Murphy, who was appointed storekeeper by the C.P.R., was transferred to Montreal on very short notice. Everybody was sorry to see him go as he had made many friends while in town. Mr. F. M. McLeod of Ottawa, is his successor.

Mr. Chas. Sheppard of Lindsay, spent Friday in town.

Mrs. John Tomwn, jr., left on Monday for Smith's Falls, where she will spend a few days at the home of her father.

Mr. Thos. Jarvis of Smith's Falls, is the guest of his brother, Mr. W. Jarvis, of town.

Mr. William Brown, of Trent Bridge, succumbed to an attack of inflammation on the 20th. His demise was very sudden. The boys will now miss the congenial companion they always had when down at the Bridge.

Miss Annie Bryan returned on Saturday from a three weeks' visit to Peterborough.

The band concert given here by the 40th band of Campbellford did not seem by the attendance to be much of a success, although those who were there say it was very good.

The rink was opened on Monday evening with the town band in attendance, and although the ice was soft after the warm weather during the previous few days. Quite a few turned out to enjoy the first skating of the season.

While skating very fast with a number of other youths at the rink on Monday night Mr. Chas. Robinson fell breaking his collar bone.

KEENE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Keene, Dec. 22nd.

Among our holiday visitors are Miss Mary Andrews, of Toronto, who is the guest of Miss Maud Eason; Miss Elizabeth Powel, of Trinity University, Toronto, who is with her aunt, Miss Read; Mr. Will Cummings, Chicago, the guest of his sister, Mrs. Will Read, and Miss Armstrong, of Rat Portage, who is spending a few weeks with Mrs. Robert MacIntyre.

A number are home for the two weeks' Christmas vacation, among these are,—Miss Mabel Harrison, who has been attending Ainsley Hall, Toronto; Mr. Will Campbell, of the S.P.S., Toronto; Mr. Lou. Bolin, of Douro; Miss Irene Shaw, Jean Campbell and Stanley Mather, of the Peterborough Collegiate, and Mr. Bruce McKee, Allison Mather and Ormond Weir, who have been attending Norwood High School.

Mr. John English, of Indian Head, Assa., was in the village last week.

Miss Elizabeth Kane is visiting her brother, Mr. Thos. Wedlock.

Mr. Wm. Wedlock was in Toronto Friday and Saturday.

The pupils of Mathers' Corners school gave a very nice closing entertainment last Friday evening.

Miss Helen Laing gave an at home and recital for her pupils at her home on Friday evening.

The rink opened on Monday night with a good attendance.

Dr. Harrison has a telephone placed in his office. We expect more 'phones placed in the village in the near future.

A tea and concert given in the hall in Laing last Wednesday evening was a decided success. The programme was excellent and the proceeds were very large.

The Christmas tree given on Tuesday evening in the town hall, here, under the auspices of the Presbyterian Sunday School, was very largely attended and all seemed pleased with the programme. The two trees were laden with many beautiful presents which delighted the hearts of the fortunate recipients.

The entertainment next Tuesday evening promises to be the treat of the season, when Mr. Rathven McDonald will sing.

RUSSIA MUST YIELD

Or Japan and Great Britain Ought to Fight Her.

GERMAN OFFICIALS' OPINION

Japan Putting Her Warships in Order For Serious Work By Removing Superfluous Woodwork and Filling Bunkers With Hard Welsh Coal—Report That Russia Intends to Seize Chin-Wang-Tao.

Berlin, Dec. 24.—The German Foreign Office, in estimating the probabilities of war in the Far East, fixes its attention at this moment on Great Britain, rather than on Japan, for it is recognized that Japan is only waiting for Great Britain to give the word before beginning hostilities. A new and even portentous element in the situation, as it is looked on here, is the rising feeling in Great Britain that Russia must yield or Japan and Great Britain ought to fight her.

Too Hypothetical.

London, Dec. 24.—The British Foreign Office declined to discuss the statements made in the Associated Press despatch from Berlin yesterday on the ground that "the contingency was too hypothetical."

At the German and other embassies the impression prevails that the Russian-Japanese negotiations have reached such a point that it would not be at all surprising if Great Britain expressed her willingness, providing Japan agrees to accept a certain specified compromise, to guarantee to back up Japan, if necessary, by force of arms.

Russia Must Concede Points.

Pekin, Dec. 24.—The optimistic feeling in some quarters concerning war between Japan and Russia is not shared by the other diplomates at Pekin whose knowledge of the present situation of affairs entitles their opinion to the highest consideration. It is positively known that the Japanese Government has drawn the line for a settlement, beyond which it will not make any material concessions, and that she is determined to fight before yielding what she considers to be her vital interests. It is believed that unless Russia concedes important points another exchange of notes will precipitate matters.

JAPAN GETTING READY.

Russian Intention to Seize Chin-Wang-Tao is Reported.

London, Dec. 24.—The Daily Mail's correspondent in the Far East to-day gives a rumor of the intention of Russia to seize Chin-Wang-Tao, and reports that a Japanese squadron of six battleships has left Zohe, 25 miles north of Nagasaki.

The Daily Telegraph's correspondent at Nagasaki says that the Japanese fleet is replacing the local soft coal in its bunkers with hard Welsh steam coal, and also that all superfluous woodwork on the vessels is being removed.

The Japanese Legation here has no further news. Baron Hayashi, the Japanese Minister, and his staff, will rem in in London over the Christmas holidays.

In financial quarters, both in London and Paris, confidence is still unshaken that peace will be preserved.

This coincidence is reflected in the firmness of Russian bonds, which, though only held to a small extent in England, are held in France at an amount between $1,000,000,000 and $1,500,000,000, and it is contended that this fact alone will induce Foreign Minister Delcasse to make the strongest of efforts to prevent Russia going to war. The amount of Japanese bonds held in Great Britain is said not to exceed $95,000,000.

War Will Be Averted.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 24.—Russia's reply to Japan is momentarily expected to be delivered. The foreign office officials and diplomats continue to express the opinion that as both parties earnestly desire a peaceful settlement, and as their allies have left nothing undone to this end, war will be averted. An early conclusion of the negotiations, however, seems unlikely.

THE FIGHT IS ON.

Dominican Warship is Bombarding Puerto Plata.

Cape Haytien, Dec. 24.—A Dominican warship is bombarding Puerto Plata.

This is the Land of the Free.

Washington, Dec. 24. — United States Secretary of Commerce and Labor Cortelyou has ordered the deportation of the skilled glass blowers from Stourbridge, England, detained at Ellis Island, under the alien contract labor law, bound for Corning, N. Y. They appealed to the Secretary from the action of the immigration authorities. It is held that the company had not shown sufficient diligence in seeking like labor in the United States.

President Shields Optimistic.

Montreal, Dec. 24. — Cornelius Shields, president of the Consolidated Lake Superior Company, was in the city yesterday on his way from New York to Sault Ste. Marie, for which place he left last night. He says the re-organization plan now in process of arrangement will be successfully carried out, and in a very short time.

Mother Provincial Dead.

Windsor, Dec. 24.—Sister Mary Elizabeth, in charge of ten convents in Ontario, with the title of Mother Provincial, and for 52 years a nun, died of pneumonia Tuesday night in St. Mary's Academy, Windsor. The remains will be taken to Montreal.

Comfort for the Aged.

Judging from the letters of people up in years there is no medicine which so promptly frees them of aches and pains and insures regularity of the liver, kidneys and bowels as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Even when all other means have failed old people can turn to this great medicine with full assurance of relief and cure.

A PROTECTIVE TARIFF.

Standard Believes Chamberlain's Commission is For the Sole Purpose of Framing One—Mr. Pattullo's Reply.

London, Dec. 24.—(C. A. P.)—Andrew Pattullo, M. P. P., writing to the London papers in regard to the stricture that he represents only the Provincial Parliament, says that considering the enormous area of Ontario he should be able to speak with some weight. He is convinced that his views represent the opinion of nine-tenths of the Canadian people.

For Protective Tariff.

The Standard says that the Birmingham tariff commissioners have no further object in view but that of framing a frankly protective tariff and the most singular feature of the case is the manner in which their organizers are superceding the official leaders of the Unionist party in the Ministry. The Ministerial policy of Premier Balfour was being swept aside.

The Standard, in an agricultural article, says: "If a preference were given the colonies by Great Britain, Ireland would be unable to negotiate for a reduction of the duty on the import of potatoes from the United States."

Stuffs For Free List.

Mr. Chamberlain, writing to a Devonshire landlord, says: "The question of putting cotton seed and other feeding stuffs on the free list is a very proper one for consideration by the commission."

The business men connected with the iron, steel and engineering trades, formed by the House of Commons in June, has dissolved itself, in view of the formation of a tariff commission.

Manchester merchants, manufacturers and shippers, are organizing a non-party free trade association.

Opposed to Dilke.

The Bishop of Rochester has sent a letter to Capt. Morton, M. P., signed by a number of labor organizations, protesting against the motion to restore Sir Charles Dilke to a prominent place in the Liberal Ministry at no distant date.

Berlingske Tidende, Copenhagen, learns from an authoritative source that there have never been any negotiations, verbal or written, in regard to the sale of Greenland to Canada.

ON FISCAL POLICY EXCLUSIVELY.

Chamberlain Supporter Elected By Largely Reduced Majority.

London, Dec. 24.—Rowland Hunt, Liberal-Unionist and a supporter of Joseph Chamberlain's fiscal policy, has been elected by a majority of 970, to represent the Ludlow division of Shropshire in the House of Commons, to succeed Robert J. Moore, Liberal-Unionist, deceased. At the previous contested election his majority was nearly 4,000. The campaign was fought exclusively on the fiscal question.

BIG STRIKE AT PARIS.

Will Involve 400,000—A Demonstration That Was Suppressed.

Paris, Dec. 24.—The strike of men employed in the various branches of food supply assumed serious proportions yesterday, when the bakers adopted resolutions in favor of a strike throughout the baking trade. They also declared in favor of a general strike of food workers, and announced their intention not to resume work until Parliament suppressed the municipal employment agencies. The total number of food workers is 400,000.

Squadrons of mounted troops and police are stationed in various places in the city. In the afternoon the bakers attempted to make a demonstration in front of the Luxembourg Palace, where the Senate was sitting, but were suppressed. Later the police prevented the gathering of rioters on the Place De l'Opera. The determination of the police to prevent street demonstrations has had the effect of checking the strike, discouraged the allied trades from joining it, and now leads to the belief that the strike will not spread.

FOR DAYS WITHOUT FOOD.

Perils of Grand Trunk Surveyors in Lake Nipigon Region.

Port Arthur, Dec. 24.—Chas. Ouillette, explorer, who has been engaged in Chief Engineer McCarthy's camp, near Nipigon Lake, on the Grand Trunk Pacific survey, brings news reports of the terrible privation of members of the camp.

They ran out of provisions and proceeded to their cache to re-stock their supply, but somehow missed it, and for a number of days wandered around with scarcely any food. Some of the party proceeded to Nipigon, and, after getting a large stock, left for the north and found two of the party who had been left behind on the trail crazed with hunger. They had been nine days with but few supplies.

They were taken to camp, where they received treatment. Members of Camp No. 4 also missed their cache and wandered around for four days without supplies.

N. RENFREW SIZED UP

Oldest Liberal Heads Are Confident of Victory Saturday.

GAMEY NOT A VOTEMAKER

Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P.P., and Mr. M. E. Cowan, M.P., Address an Enthusiastic Meeting at Pembroke—Mr. James Findlay Makes an Interruption to Side With the Provincial Secretary's Policy.

Pembroke, Dec. 24.—The North Renfrew campaign practically ended last night so far as oratory is concerned, and both sides are busy counting noses. This is by no means an easy task owing to several unusual features. The Liberals entered on the fight under serious disadvantages, of which the greatest was the loss of the old leaders. Mr. Munro, the late member, had for many years an extraordinary acquaintance in all parts of the riding, and his indomitable energy made him a great power to the party. Mr. Thomas Murray, M.P., who was almost equally strong and had taken a leading part in many a hard struggle, was in California for his health. The large business interests of Mr. Thomas Mackie, M.P., called him frequently out of the riding. The absence of the old guiding hands was severely felt, therefore, at the beginning. On the other hand, the Conservatives have been preparing for the fight ever since the seat became vacant. Mr. Robert Birmingham, their organizer, and a staff of assistants have been at work continuously for the past nine months. Mr. Dunlop, the Conservative candidate, for an even longer period has been making a personal canvass. He was a familiar figure at all the country picnics during the summer and followed up his canvass at all the social gatherings of the fall. His steam yacht, Titwillow, was also turned to account, and all summer made excursions and trips, always with votes in prospect.

Making Up Leeway.

Mr. Hale, the Liberal candidate, missed the guidance of the old leaders, and allowed his opponents to gain a long start. During the past fortnight his chances have improved wonderfully. The completion of his organising committee stimulated him to appear on the platform, and it was found that he had an easy and pleasing delivery and required only a little practice to become a very effective speaker. His organization is now thorough and the reports coming in are daily more encouraging. If it proves to be as good on polling day as that of the Conservatives there will be a Liberal victory, and last night the oldest Liberal heads were confident. As the campaign draws to a close it becomes more and more evident that the Government have really lost little of their strength.

Not a Votemaker.

The Conservatives identified themselves with Mr. Gamey and his case, and the men from Manitoulin certainly attracted great meetings, but careful inquiry shows that the electors were drawn out of curiosity. The effect, if any, from a political standpoint, will be adverse, owing to the violence of his language.

Mr. Stratton Speaks at Pembroke.

The last public meeting on behalf of Mr. Hale, the Liberal candidate in North Renfrew, was held here last night. The Town Hall was filled with an appreciative and enthusiastic audience. There was but one interruption, and that was of a peculiar character. Mr. James Findlay, who has been paraded by the Conservatives as a Liberal, occupied a front seat, and, after hearing Mr. Stratton's explanation of the policy of encouraging beet sugar, he rose and said, "I approve of that policy."

The chair was occupied by Dr. Joseph.

Mr. Thomas Mackie, M.P., the first speaker, briefly expressed his pleasure at the large attendance in support of the Liberal candidate.

The Liberal Candidate.

Mr. Lorne Hale, the Liberal candidate, was enthusiastically received. Having returned thanks for the hearty reception, which he thought was an indication of his success, he referred to the unfortunate circumstances which rendered the election necessary, and eulogized the late Mr. Munro, whose death before the return was made caused the long delay. He pointed out that the record of the Ross Government was worthy of the support of all good Canadians. It was up-to-date and progressive, and had assisted every industry which aided in the development of the Province. He said that he was nominated during his absence, and he depended upon his friends for election, but he promised that if elected he would do all in his power for the riding and the Province. (Applause.)

Hon. F. E. A. Evanturel, speaking in French, vindicated the right of French-Canadians to the use of their own language and dwelt upon the generosity of the Ross Government towards them on all occasions. He touched on some of the main points of the Government's policy and justified its management of timber lands.

NOMINATIONS WEDNESDAY.

Centre York—W. H. Pugsley, Conservative.

Favor Dreyfus.

Paris, Dec. 24.—The Dreyfus commission yesterday considered the report of M. Victor Mercier, on the evidence submitted by War Minister Andre. A decision is not expected for some days. It is generally supposed that the commission will support M. Mercier's findings, and that they are favorable to Dreyfus.

Royal Marriage Dissolved.

Dresden, Dec. 24.—The court has dissolved the marriage of Prince Frederick and Princess Alice of Schoenberg-Waldenberg. The Princess is a daughter of Don Carlos, the Spanish pretender. Her divorce proceedings were based on the ground of bodily injury and forcible deprivation of her liberty. Each side accused the other of infidelity.

Arbitration the Thing.

Rome, Dec. 24.—M. Camille Barrere, the French ambassador, has sent a communication to the Italian Government, which says that the French Government is now prepared to sign an arbitration treaty between France and Italy, on the lines of the treaty recently signed between France and Great Britain. It is understood that such a treaty will soon be signed in Paris.

Tried to Fire Jail.

Fort William, Dec. 24.—A Finlander, run in Tuesday night, attempted early yesterday morning to burn down the jail. He apparently discovered a match in the lining of his coat, and, reaching out through the bars of his cell, he fired the window shades. Luckily, Chief Dodds spotted the conflagration in time, and averted a cataclysm.

German Steamer Ashore.

London, Dec. 24.—A despatch to Lloyds from Flushing, Holland, says the German steamer Preussen is ashore near Zoutelande. The weather is thick and foggy. The Preussen sailed from Yokohama Oct. 31 and Port Said Dec. 5 for Bremen.

Sir Louis Jette Back.

New York, Dec. 24.—Among the passengers on the Kronprinz Wilhelm, which arrived yesterday, were Sir Louis and Lady Jette of Quebec. Sir Louis was one of the Alaska boundary arbitrators.

The Evidence You Value.

By word of mouth from friend to friend Dr. Chase's Ointment has received more unsolicited recommendation than probably any medicine you can mention. The fact that it is an absolute cure for piles has put it in a class all by itself as a preparation of inestimable value and people recommend it knowing that it is a certain cure.

POLLY HANGING HOLLY

WITH Polly I chanced to be hanging the holly,
With Polly the roguish, with Polly the sly;
With Polly, who's brimming with frolic and folly,
A quip on her lip and a jest in her eye.

The wind it was grieving, and shadows were weaving
Their dark web without o'er the face of the sky.
Within it was merry with green leaf and berry,
And Polly, close by, with a gleam in her eye.

"This holly, I know, sir, you wish mistletoe, sir!"
Cried Polly as o'er us a wreath we hung high.
I looked at her, laughing, to see were she chaffing,
And, oh, what a glint there shone out from her eye!

"THIS HOLLY, I KNOW, SIR, YOU WISH MISTLETOE, SIR!"

How like the rose petals on which the bee settles
Her cheeks were! Her lips were the holly fruit's dye.
"Be it mistletoe, dear, a minute or so, dear!"
"A minute?" breathed Polly, with mirth in her eye.

So it's, oh, to be handling the holly with Polly,
With Polly the mischievous, Polly the sly!
With Polly, the genius of all that is jolly,
A lure on her lip and with love in her eye!

The Great Hair Tonic is a Positive and Thorough Antiseptic

and will quickly eradicate all trace of scalp bacteria, which is the cause of dandruff, falling hair and baldness. IT GETS AT THE ROOT OF THE TROUBLE AND CAN BE RELIED UPON TO PRODUCE A NEW GROWTH OF HAIR. IT DESTROYS THE PARASITES WHICH LIVE UPON THE HAIR GERMS. They undermine the hair and devour all the nutriment or life-sap of the scalp, without which the scalp dries up and peels, the hair loses its lustre, turns gray, falls out, and finally disappears altogether. SEVEN SUTHERLAND SISTERS' HAIR GROWER AND SCALP TONIC IS THE ONLY KNOWN REMEDY THAT WILL DESTROY THESE GERMS. They penetrate the scalp thoroughly, carrying with them all the nutriment necessary to nourish and invigorate the impoverished parts. They rebuild the lost tissue of the scalp and renew the growth of the hair in every case. A few applications will make the hair fairly sparkle with new life and vigor. They cause healthy hair every inch as thick as it ever was naturally. We hope these few words will induce you to try this remedy. It is a positive cure for Dandruff, Itching Scalp, Falling and Baldness.

Scalp Microbe magnified 1,000 diameters.

Sold by W. B. Watts, Peterborough, and HENRY SUTHERLAND, Sole Manufacturer and Proprietor, Hamilton, Ont. PRESENTED FOREMAN WITH AN ADDRESS.

Members of the Test Department of the C. G. E. Honours Mr. Jas. Hyde.

The members of the test department of the C. G. E. works last night presented Mr. Jas. Hyde with a gold headed walking stick and complimentary address. The pleasant affair took place in the Oriental Hotel Parlours. The following is a copy of the address:

To our Esteemed Foreman, Mr. James O. Hyde,—

As we are approaching the close of another year's work in the Test Department, under your able management, and the time has come around when all good men echo the cry, "Peace on earth and good will to all mankind." We, the undersigned members of the Test Department of the Canadian General Electric Company's Peterborough Works, desire to express to you in some small way our appreciation of your generous and efficient management of our department and the genial and painstaking manner in which you have directed our work, making it both pleasant and profitable to us, all through the year now fast drawing to a close.

It is a source of great satisfaction to us to know that we have over us one who commands the respect and confidence of his employers, as well as those under him, and who, not contented with a disinterested direction of our work, has proved himself a friend in need and a willing helper in times of perplexity, and, as far as is consistent with good work, an indulgent taskmaster—in short a leader whom we delight to honour and who inspires us to do as well and faithfully as we know how, our duty to him and to the Company whose interests are his and ours in common.

We therefore ask you to accept this token of esteem and with it our best wishes for Christmas, and our hope that the coming new year will see a renewal of the cordial relations that have existed between you and us and that by diligence and faithfulness we may, in some measure, merit the genial and patient treatment you have always given us.

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY.

Christmas Donations to the Fund—Pleasing Public Sympathy With the Work.

The treasurer of the Children's Aid Society, Mr. P. Campbell, wishes to acknowledge with cordial thanks, two very acceptable Christmas donations to the funds of the Society,—Mr. George Webber, North Monaghan, $5; and Mrs. Jory's class in the George street Sunday school, $3.

In this connection the officials of the Society feel it incumbent upon them to very gratefully acknowledge the agreeable fact that so far in its history the Society has not had to make direct appeal for funds for the purposes of the society. Government and corporation assistance and the voluntary offerings of the kind hearted, have so far sufficed. This latter feature is taken to be a very practical recognition of the merits of this excellent Society, and of its claims to the support and sympathy of those anxious to relieve destitution, protect suffering childhood, and open up avenues to happy home life, and wholesome up-bringing in the interest of humanity, and morality, and the good of society.

PLEASANT INCIDENT AT THE CORDAGE WORKS.

Several Presentations Were Made by the Employees at the Factory.

Prior to the conclusion of work at the Cordage Mill this morning, several presentations accompanied on each occasion with an address, were made.

Mr. A. L. Sykes, manager, received a handsome gold headed cane. Mr. T. P. Conner, superintendent, was presented with a pair of fur gauntlets. Mr. E. B. Fowler, accountant, got a gold headed umbrella, while Miss Slater and Miss Grady, the stenographers, were each presented with a dainty basket of bon-bons.

Besides the office staff, the foremen of the different departments were also honoured, as follows:—Mr. Wm. Mellis, of the machine shop, was given a gold mounted fountain pen; Mr. Jas. McCurdy, of the spinning room, an easy chair; Mr. J. S. Noyes of the Preparation Room, a hat rack; Mr. John Carter, of the rope room, a fountain pen; and Mr. Stanley Jones, a brush and comb case; while last, but not least, Jas. Desautel, the office boy, received from the hockey club, a new one dollar bill.

CHRISTMAS.

In this hard-headed, matter-of-fact-age, in this business harried world, sentiment is not generally regarded as a negotiable commodity; but that heart must be very thickly crusted with the callous of care and cold practicality that does not thaw and soften a little in the sunshine of sentiment which the Christmas season, no matter how "the stormy winds do blow," brings with the dying days of December. How deep a thrill of happiness—never so transient but the memory of it lingers in grateful hearts from Christmas-tide to Christmas-tide—the Christ-established custom of gift-giving brings; and hearts that beat with no thought of the divine impulse that prompts their gifts, little think that these acts of kindness, commemmorate, though heedlessly and blindly, the wonderful gift of the Son of God to a world, bankrupt otherwise even in hope. When one considers the divine origin of Christmas, and the marvellous significance of the festival, it is no surprise that the season exercises a softening influence on humanity. And this gentle influence comes very appositely to the season when the earth—as it always should be at Christmas—is in the vigorous bonds of frost, when the snow—as it may do before morning—lies deep over all the land,—when the fierce wind finds it way through the crazy dwellings and rent and worn rags of the poor. When those most need practical pity, the merciful God fills the human heart with the kindest impulses, and it is given to us all to experience the divinely-guaranteed blessedness of giving to relieve the wants of these heirs to poverty and suffering. Our Divine Master made the poor his special wards, and His servants can do no more acceptable worship than render the sublime service of mercy and benefaction to that Master, through the least of these my little ones." Though it may not be generally known, there are many cases of great destitution in town, yet only a suggestion is needed to move many Christian hearts to deeds of Christian kindness. We should indeed be happy if a word of injunction could make any citizen enjoy his Christmas dinner better by sharing it with some destitute and almost literally starving person, whom a little inquiry might probably bring to his knowledge,

They who joy would win
Must share it; happiness was born a twin.

And if we wish for genuine Christmas happiness, we must practically share that happiness and plenty, which Divine goodness has crowned us with. Selfish happiness that fences round the Christmas fireside from all the outside world, is very nealy allied to mere animal enjoyment. If we would have a merry Christmas, which the Examiner very heartily wisheut o all its readers, and the world besides, we shall make it all the merrier by throwing upon it the reflected happiness that shines back into our hearts from deeds of mercy and kindness.

ITALIAN BOARDING HOUSE WAS RAIDED.

Received Fifteen Cases of Brandy—All has now Disappeared—Complaints of Unkind Treatment by Police.

A colony of forty Italians are housed in a small shanty on the Ashburnham side of the river, at the Cereal Company's new dam. Yesterday the Examiner received a telephone message asking that a reporter be sent up there to see the wife of the foreman, who is the only one capable of exchanging a conversation in English, in reference to a case of alleged persecution by the local police force. The request was of course granted, and the reporter at last found himself in a low wooden building in which were huddled the entire colony. Some were lying on their beds, which are made of boxes with planks laid on lengthwise, and blankets thrown over them. Others were grouped around a solitary stove, some cooking their evening meal and others smoking. In another corner of the room four men were seated around a rough wooden table playing cards and incidentally slipping their brandy. In the middle of the table was a bottle with a lighted candle stuck in the mouth. The room was almost dark, being lighted by only one window, while there was practically no method of ventilation. The place was far from clean, and it is absolutely incomprehensible how so many can live together and escape contagious diseases. Although the ideas of cleanliness of many foreigners who emigrate to Canada are not altogether on the lines considered essential by the Board of Health, yet at no Italian boarding house this year has there been a case of either scarlet fever or diphtheria.

The Examiner representative at last after vainly trying to make his mission known, was taken to the foreman, Jos. Olverstros, who at once called his wife, who explained that the Italians generally received unkind treatment at the hands of the police. On Monday the place was raided, as fifteen cases of brandy had come through the Customs House on the previous Saturday.

On behalf of the police, it might in conclusion be said that the officers of the law went up there to execute a search warrant, as they had heard that brandy was being sold on the premises. However, the search proved to be abortive, and was abandoned.

The Examiner was told that fourteen cases had been distributed amongst the men as a Christmas gift, while the fifteenth had been sent to British Columbia friends.

ZETTA JAMIESON IS LAID AT REST.

Funeral Took Place Yesterday Afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

The funeral of Zetta Jamieson, the thirteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Jamieson, who died on Monday night last, took place yesterday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the family residence, 24 Harvey street, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

The cortage of mourners was a very long one, showing the high esteem in which the deceased was held and the sympathy extended towards the bereaved parents and relatives in their sad loss.

The impressive burial service at the grave side was conducted by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, of St. Luke's church, and as the last remains were committed to the earth many a face was turned away in sorrow that so promising a life should be so prematurely ended. The pall bearers were:—Melville Wilson, Savigny Laing, Willie Smith, Elmer Fox, Roy Thornton and Ernie Main.

MERCHANTS WHO WELCOME CHRISTMAS.

All Lines of Business Doing a Satisfactory Trade.

In the mention which was made in yesterday's Examiner to the special Christmas decorations in town, it was found impossible to do justice to the displays of the confectionery stores in the limited space available. All of these establishments have made special window displays, and each is worthy of mention. This class of stores is finding the Christmas trade exceptionally good this year, and never before have so many tons of candy been disposed of as has this season.

A window of special merit is that of L. Potvin's. The base is covered with a royal purple, and electric lights ensconced near the front lend an additional attraction. The other confectioners also have made special efforts at displays, and have succeeded in arranging some exceedingly pretty effects. Among them are H. Long, J. Long, W. Jobe, E. W. Gardiner, T. H. Hooper, W. H. McCallum, G. McGregor, John Mann.

The "Framery," too, is feeling the effects of the Christmas business, and the goods made there are certainly well worthy of attention. A picture, no matter how beautiful it may be in itself, may be greatly improved by encasing it in a neat and appropriate frame. That this fact has been recognized is evident from the large business done by the "Framery."

The Art Metropole is doing a good share of the extra holiday trade, and its window contains many helpful suggestions to those looking for suitable gifts.

Mr. John Kylie has in his Hunter street shoe store a stock of fine stylish shoes, which has been well selected, and the number of customers he has been serving during the Christmas season, indicates that they evidently appreciate the appropriateness of selections from his stock for gifts. Mr. Kylie has been busy selling a larger amount of goods this Christmas than in preceding ones, and the holiday trade has been a satisfactory one to him, as it has to all the merchants in all lines.

A great many people are giving furniture of presents this year, and there can be nothing more appropriate for the home. The different furniture dealers are all doing a largely increased business, and each store contains many articles of furniture which suggest themselves as being both useful and ornamental. Clegg's, Belleghem's, McFadden's Comstock's, Craig's, and Begley's, are all well satisfied with the Christmas trade of 1903.

Call at the Y. M. C. A. to-night and get a year's ticket for that boy of yours, (over 12 years), Cost $2.50.

PRESENTED PRIEST WITH AN ADDRESS.

Members of Former Vatican Lacrosse Club Honour Rev. Father Kelly.

A very pleasant incident occurred last night when Messrs. J. Taylor, John O'Brien, A. M. Dorris, Jas. Anglesey, F. O'Connor, Jas. O'Brien, as representing the former Vatican Lacrosse Club, presented Rev. Father Kelly, who was ordained priest last Sunday, with an address and a fur cap as a token of the esteem in which he was held.

The address ran as follows:—

Rev. F. J. Kelly:

Reverend and Dear Sir,—It is indeed with feelings of delight that we assemble this evening to welcome you back again amongst us, not exactly in your old capacity as an all-round athlete and lacrosse player, but as a holy priest ordained to teach the word of God.

It does not seem long since you were one of the stalwart members of the Vatican Lacrosse Team, now extinct, but all your team mates here present cannot let this opportunity pass without remembering you in some way for the pains you took for the team and wish you to accept this fur cap as a slight token of the esteem in which you are held by us.

Hoping you will be a useful member in your sacred vocation and wishing you a merry Christmas and a happy and prosperous New Year, we sign on behalf of the Vatican Lacrosse Club.

E. Taylor, John O'Brien, Harold Dunsford, Richard Boyle, Ed. Mahoney, A. M. Dorris, Jas. Anglesey, Albert Dorris, F. O'Connor, George Lynch, Leo. Clancy, F. McGrath, W. Heffernan, Thos. Anglesey, R. Lacheur, Leo. O'Connor, A. E. Brundrette, Geo. Gauthier, Jas. O'Brien.

LATEST NEWS OF SPORT.

Meeting of the Trent Valley Hockey League Executive—The Athletics White Basket Ball Team and Its Evolution.

LAW OF EVOLUTION APPLIED TO SPORT.

Secret of Success of Athletic's White, Basketball Team.

Brief Historical Sketch of the Players—An Outcome of the Athletics' Lacrosse Team.

Whether the law of evolution has been exercised in the production of the human race, or not, may be an open question, but there can be no doubt that it has been, and is, applied to sport, and that its application has in some instances at least been highly satisfactory.

Those who have followed the Y.M.C.A. Basket Ball League series of games this fall and winter, must have been impressed with the fact that of the six teams entered in the League, that of the Athletics White has played superior ball to any of the others, and that it well deserves the championship honours which it has won. Its record for the season is a clean one, having been winners in five games with no losses, putting the last year's champions, the "Harriers," completely out of the running.

The record of the team is all the more remarkable when it is remembered that for the majority of the players on the team, this is but the second season that they have played the game. It is here that the law of evolution is manifested. All the members of the Athletics White are active playing members of the Athletic Lacrosse Team, and it was in that game that they acquired the qualities which now make them efficient basket ball players. So that it may be truthfully said that the champion basket ball team is an evolution of the Athletic lacrosse team.

The contiguity and inter-dependence of different forms of sport, is seen in the fact that made amply evident that a successful lacrosse player makes a successful basket ball player, and shows that for an athlete who is proficient in one game, it is comparatively easy to become proficient in another. A brief historical sketch of the different players composing the team may not be inappropriate in view of the most highly satisfactory record made by it.

THE PLAYERS.

W. Cavanah, the captain, has been prominently associated with different lines of sports for some time, in every game in which he participated his ability is recognized. He plays home on the Athletic lacrosse team, and to all who have seen his work on the field his prowess is well known, and needs no word to commend it. He is also one of the forward players on the Peterboro' hockey team, and is recognized as being one of the fastest and most accurate shots in the game. His work this year shows that his training in basketball has kept him in good condition. He is also a member of the Excelsior Base ball team. He plays forward on the basketball team.

The other forward is George Robertson, also on the home field of the lacrosse team, where last season he played a phenomenally good game. He has plenty of speed and is a sure shot. He is one of the hardest workers on the team and is a heady player.

He played last year on the "Quils" in the Trent Valley Hockey League, and also shines on the baseball diamond.

Harold Dunsford, who plays centre, was also one of the valued members of last season's lacrosse team, playing centre. "Harold" is also a harmonist of no mean ability, and takes a deep interest in all forms of sport, being a member of the old Vatican Lacrosse team. The defence division consists of Ed. Dillon, and Terrot Glover, the former being captain of last season's lacrosse team, although he only played in two championship games, having received an accident at Belleville which put him out of the game for the remainder of the season. He still looked after the interests of the team, however, and gave the members the benefit of his experience. He was also a member of this year's rugby team playing on the wing line in all the games.

T. Glover has been a member of the lacrosse team for two years, although he did not figure on the line-up this year, also because of an accident which he sustained early in the spring, and which necessitated his withdrawal from the game for the season. He and Dillon make a good defense division having the necessary weight.

Dorris, who plays defense as utility man is a native of Peterborough and is showing up well in the game. He is a member of the Athletic II Lacrosse team.

HOCKEY.

The executive of the Trent Valley League held a meeting in the Oriental Hotel last evening, when the following gentlemen were present: W. Crowley, president; Messrs. Welsh, vice-president, Bobcaygeon; E. S. Clarry, sec.-treasurer; J. F. Anderson, Norwood; and J. R. McIntyre, of Keene.

The grouping of the remaining clubs was the chief business of the evening and resulted as follows:

No. 2.—Campbellford, Warkworth and Norwood.

No. 4.—Peterborough II., T. A. S. of Peterborough, Keene and Lakefield.

No. 6, Bobcaygeon and Omemee.

The schedule was drawn up as follows:

DISTRICT No. 2.

Jan. 8—Norwood at Campbellford.
Jan. 13—Warkworth at Norwood.
Jan. 18—Campbellford at Warkworth.
Jan. 23—Campbellford at Norwood.
Jan 27—Norwood at Warkworth.
Feb. 1—Warkworth at Campbellford.

DISTRICT No. 4

Jan 4.—Keene at Peterborough.
Jan. 4—T.A.S. at Lakefield.
Jan. 8—Keene at T. A. S.
Jan. 11—Peterborough at Lakefield.
Jan. 11—Peterborough at Lakefield.
Jan. 13—T.A.S. at Keene.
Jan. 15—Lakefield at Peterborough.
Jan. 22—T.A.S. at Peterborough.
Jan. 25—Lakefield at Keene.
Jan. 27—Peterborough at T. A. S.
Jan. 27.—Keene at Lakefield.
Feb. 1—Lakefield at T. A. S.
Feb. 1—Peterborough at Keene.

DISTRICT No. 6.

Jan. 13—Bobcaygeon at Omemee.
Jan. 22—Omemee at Bobcaygeon.

SECOND ROUND.

A.

Feb. 9—Winner of No. 1 at winner of No. 2.
Feb. 16—Winner of No. 2 at winner of No. 1.

B.

Feb. 8.—Winner of No. 4 at winner of No. 5.
Feb. 15—Winner of No. 5 at winner of No. 4.

C.

Winner of No. 2 a bye.

D.

Feb. 29—Winner of C. at winner of B.
Feb. 24.—Winner of B at winner of C.

FINALS

Feb. 29—Winner of D at winner of A.
Mar. 4—Winner of A at winner of D.

In every instance when home and home games are played, goals will count, but where there are more than two teams in a district, games and not goals, will count.

There is no doubt that the coming season will be the most successful one during the existence of the Trent Valley League.

TUG-OF-WAR.

The William Hamilton tug-of-war team hereby challenges the Quakers for the Sykes Trophy, date to be set convenient to both sides.

BASKET-BALL.

There will be two games to-night at the Y.M.C.A. which will be the best, so far, this season. The Athletics, who have won the Association League championship, are in good shape to defeat the West Enders of Toronto. The Toronto boys are going to Ottawa to play two games to-morrow. To-night is a bad night to get spectators, but as this is the first outside team to play here this season, there should be a good turn out to "root" for our fellows. The exhibition game at 8 o'clock, between the Beavers and the Senior Intermediate teams will be a good game. This is the first time the lads have met this season and a keen contest is expected. A number of reserved seats are left at 25 cents. Intermediates and boys 15c.

The Happiest Ever That's What the Goughs Wish

IT'S a little hard to realize that another year has slipped away and that the gladsome Christmastide is here again. The happy Festival has arrived, heralded by the arrival of Santa Claus, who has been arranging his gifts by the hundreds from our big store premises for weeks past.

We've studied long and worked hard in bringing together such a great array of attractive and serviceable gifts, and it's with just pride that we have been able to assist in making so many merry hearts. Once again, its "The Old, Old Story," and the beautiful custom of remembering friends reigns supreme. Prompted by the gratitude that comes after another prosperous year, we sincerely hope that the birth of another year will usher in happiness and prosperity for all,—especially for the good people of the City of Peterborough.

We desire again to greet our many friends and patrons and extend to them our sincere wishes for a Very Merry Christmas.

UNION LABEL AT FUNERALS.

Dead Wagon Bore Placard That Undertaker Paid the Scale.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—Members of the Livery Drivers' Union met yesterday to consider an arbitration plan to settle their strike. They voted to accept a conditional arbitration.

While arbitration was being considered news was received of the first "union label funeral" since the strike began. The funeral was arranged by Undertaker C. M. Marks, the body of the deceased being removed in a "dead" wagon bearing a placard proclaiming the vehicle to be owned by an undertaker paying the union scale. It was also the first funeral in which a procession of carriages was supplied to carry the mourners. There was six carriages labelled like the improvised hearse.

The body of Mrs. Catharina Masterson, the mother of Rev. John Masterson, was borne through the streets on a hand truck, while undertakers and liverymen and their drivers argued as to whether they ought to submit the contest to arbitration. The coffin was carried to the Church of the Holy Family on the truck, while six pall-bearers walked bareheaded beside it.

He has laid the matter before the British Consul, who has promised to transmit the complaint to the British Government.

An Attack of Pneumonia Warded Off

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold. She complained of pains in the chest and had a bad cough. I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, according to directions, and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail," says James Prendergast, merchant, Annato Bay, Jamaica, West India Islands. The pains in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly warded off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold towards pneumonia For sale by all druggists.

CANADA'S TRADE WITH U. S.

More Than Doubled in Last Ten Years—American Purchases Increase.

Washington, Dec. 23.—Commerce between Canada and the United States shows a rapid gain both in the figures of the year about to end and in those of the decennial period which ends with the present year. The year's commerce with Canada, as shown by the figures of the Department of Commerce and Labor through its Bureau of Statistics, will aggregate nearly 200 million dollars, against less than 100 millions in 1893. The increase occurs both in imports into the United States from Canada and exports from the United States to Canada. Our imports from Canada, which in 1893 amounted to only 34 million dollars, will in the present year reach about 55 millions. Our exports to Canada, which in 1893 were 57 million dollars, will in 1903 aggregate about 150 millions.

Doubled Its Trade.

Our total commerce with Canada has thus grown from 91 millions in 1893 to approximately 185 millions in 1903. The total commerce of the United States in the calendar year 1893 was 1,652 million dollars, and in 1903 will aggregate about 2,460 millions. Thus the total commerce of the United States from 1893 to 1903 has increased about 50 per cent., while its commerce with Canada has more than doubled.

Reserve Force.

The healthy body has a certain amount of strength reserved in case of emergency, attack by disease or unusual physical exhaustion, without this power of resistance a person is an easy prey to every ill that comes along. By enriching the blood and creating new nerve cells, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food keeps the health at high water mark and fills the body with the vigor and vitality that overcomes and defies disease.

"GOD WILL PROVIDE."

$160,000 Missed After the Pope's Death Returned With Explanations.

Rome, Dec. 23.—According to The Messagrage the story that Cardinal Gotti, Prefect of the Propaganda, recently handed to the Pope $9,000,000 said to have been confided to the Cardinal by the late Pope Leo XIII., with instructions to turn the money over to his successor four months after his death, originated in the fact that in the financial investigation following Pope Leo's death a deficit of over $100,000 was found.

After diligent search and although no positive proof was obtainable, it appeared evident that the only person who could know where the money had gone was a certain Monsignor living in the Vatican. He at first asserted that he knew nothing of the matter, but being more closely pressed and the evidence against him gathering, he one day said to the Pope:

"Be patient. God will provide for the needs of the Holy See."

Soon afterwards the Monsignor appeared with a friend and said that Pope Leo had confided the money to him, requesting him to return it to his successor four months after his death.

To get out of the difficulty he is a petitioner a second time for divorce from Anna Solomon, his first wife.

MURDERER CASHEL STILL FREE.

That Murderer Obtained Weapons From Brother is Established.

Ottawa, Dec. 23.—Latest advices from Calgary do not indicate that the mounted police have succeeded in locating Cashel the escaped murder, although they believe him to be hiding in the neighborhood. It has been established that the weapons which enabled Cashel to hold up the barrack guards were supplied him by his brother, but how they were smuggled to the prisoner is still a mystery.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighbourhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of his children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost in case of croup as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup known as hive syrup, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw off the phlegm quicker and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as a croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to use. For sale by all druggists.

Observances in England.

The lighting of Christmas candles and the burning of the "Christmas block" were the sure heralds of the season in old England, and the customs still survive in certain parts of the country. In some counties a piece of the Yule log is kept from one year to the next, in order to light the next year's log. In ancient times this fragment was supposed to be a protection against fire and thunder. Its ashes were given to animals for certain sickness and were scattered over the land to keep the corn from blight.

In Devonshire what is known as the "Ashton fagot" is burned on Christmas eve, and a company watches the falling apart of the hoops with which the fagot is bound as they burst with the heat. In some parts of England, after the church service, the people express their joy by crying out in chorus: "Yule! Yule!"

CHRISTMAS POEMS.

By James Whitcomb Riley.

A word of godspeed and good cheer
To all on earth or far or near,
Or friend or foe, or thine or mine,
In echo of the voice divine
Heard when the star bloomed forth and lit
The world's face, with God's smile on it.

By Ben Jonson.

I sing the birth was born tonight,
The author both of life and light.
The angel so did sound it,
And like the ravished shepherds said,
Who saw the light and were afraid,
Yet searched and true they found it.

By Sir Walter Scott.

("Marmion.")

England was merry England when Old Christmas brought his sports again.
'Twas Christmas broached the mightiest ale:
'Twas Christmas told the merriest tale.
A Christmas gambol oft would cheer
A poor man's heart through half the year.

By Harriet Beecher Stowe.

[Written at the age of eighty-two.]

Hail, blessed Christmas morn!
When Christ, a child, was born
Of Mary, holy maid,
In heavenly grace arrayed.
Amen! Hallelujah!

By Rudyard Kipling.

High noon behind the tamarisks—the sun is hot above us—
As at home the Christmas day is breaking wan.
They will drink our healths at dinner, those who tell us how they love us,
And forget us till another year be gone!

The Dawn of Christmas.

Christmas day begins in the middle of the Pacific ocean on the one hundred and eightieth parallel of latitude, and there is where Santa Claus starts and ends his great and only journey of the year.

The Christmas of Private Jackson

IN Company K of a volunteer regiment that was camped in Manila a year ago there was a soldier named Isaac Jackson. He was just a common, everyday sort of man, a good enough fellow to get along with, but one whose talents and personality never would attract any particular attention. Previous to his enlistment he had been a hostler in a livery stable, and in the village where he lived his social status was considered a minus quantity.

The town of Falconhurst was a place of aristocratic pretensions, and the leading people of the municipality prided themselves on being up to date. Consequently when the whole country was interested in the sending of Christmas boxes to soldiers on foreign service the members of the exclusive set of Falconhurst resolved to do their share. At an informal meeting held one evening at the residence of Brewster De Kalib, the bank president, it was resolved to appoint a committee consisting of six fashionable ladies and a half dozen of the wealthiest men in the community to prepare a suitable Christmas box to be sent to "the heroes who had left their homes in Falconhurst to do battle for their country's flag in the faroff Philippines."

The select committee entered into the work with enthusiasm. On the first day there was collected a vast assortment of things that it was thought the soldiers would like. As the stuff was being packed in the big box that was to be shipped to Manila one of the ladies chanced to ask the names of the boys who had enlisted from Falconhurst. No one present was able to answer the question, and, fearful that their town had no heroes whom they could honor, the bank president's wife went at once to make further inquiries of her husband. Although this worthy man was supposed to know all about everybody who was anybody in Falconhurst, he could not immediately call to mind the name of a single volunteer, and rather shamefacedly he so stated to his wife. But just then his office boy, who had overheard the question and answer, spoke up and said that "Ike Jackson, who used to work in Jones' livery stable," had joined the army and gone to Manila. The banker made an investigation and found that with the exception of Ike Jackson no one had enlisted from Falconhurst.

When it became known that Jackson was the only volunteer of whom Falconhurst could boast there was some disappointment in certain quarters, but it was felt that the honor of the town had been saved by a small majority. And by one of those sudden turns which public opinion often takes the absent Jackson was made much of. People who hardly desired to notice him when he lived in their midst called upon the committee with parcels and kindly messages that they wished to send to their "old friend, Mr. Jackson."

THIRTY-EIGHT LETTERS AND A CHRISTMAS BOX.

Possibly no box that was sent to the Philippines ever contained a greater variety of presents. Everything, from champagne to ginger snaps, was most carefully packed into the Christmas box. There were reading matter galore, knickknacks of every description and other good things too numerous to mention.

When the box was finally filled and nailed up it took four men to load it into the wagon which was to haul it to the depot.

Having packed the box and started the package on its way across the continent, those concerned in their work felt it obligatory upon themselves to write Jackson that he might know to whom to give the proper credit.

In camp one night the boys of Company K were discussing the approach of Christmas and speculating upon what they might get from home. Poor Jackson took no part in the conversation. He had no relatives living, and to his knowledge there was not any one in America who would bother about sending him even a Christmas card. When asked if he hoped to get a package he shook his head and said that he would be the last man in Manila that the folks in the United States would remember.

On Christmas eve the first sergeant announced that thirty-eight letters and a Christmas box that weighed "about a ton" were waiting to be receipted for by Private Jackson. Company K had a very merry Christmas, but through it all Ike maintained his usual stolid cheerfulness. The amount of stuff that Jackson received, together with the liberality with which he distributed it, caused to be circulated through the regiment a story to the effect that he was a millionaire in disguise.—Manila American.

MYSTERY OF MYSTERIES.

A Christmas Task For Homelock Sheries, the Detective.

It was the day after Christmas. Homelock Sheries and I sat in the Butcher street rooms cursing the snowy, sloppy weather.

"Bless me! Mulroon's come home sober!" he suddenly remarked as the bark of a dog came in from the hall.

"How on earth can you tell?" I marveled, for no sound of man's voice had been heard.

"Because his dog doesn't know him," answered my friend, with a gleam in his eye. "For a veterinary surgeon you let a great many 'horses' get on you, old man."

Another period of silence, and then Sheries reached up his long white hand and took down the bottle of gin.

"No more of this!" he mused aloud. "Now begins a period of hard work for me."

"Hard work?" I asked wonderingly. "Why, I haven't heard of any recent murders, robberies or disappearances."

"None of these this time, old man. All mysteries. Every young man in town will soon be here to have me find out what the Christmas present his girl gave him is intended for, don't you know."—New York Journal.

Evolution of Christmas.

It is said that Christmas was at one time quite a movable feast and kept when the weather and circumstances permitted and that one of the early popes fixed on Dec. 25. Gradually the custom of singing canticles and carols was introduced by the church in remembrance of those songs of the heavenly host that amazed the shepherds on the Galilean hills and sent them off in hot haste to find the wondrous babe. The holly and mistletoe decorations, of course, descended from the Druids, and a pretty fancy reigned which suggested that the sylvan spirits would be induced to follow the evergreen branches into house and church and remain there, sheltered from the utmost rigor of winter frosts and snows. Then the Yule log was lit on Christmas eve and the fire never allowed to go out before Candlemas, a device for securing warmth during the coldest weeks, while people sat around the hearth and amused themselves with hot cookies and snapdragon, conjuring and forfeits and quaffed spiced ale and punch, much as their descendants crack jokes "over the walnuts and the wine" of these days between Christmas and the new year, when business is at a standstill and the children clamor for parties and pantomimes.

The Broken Down Nervous System.

Often Found in Persons Who are Apparently in Good Health—Extraordinary Effects of

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It is not always the pale and bloodless who suffer from nervous exhaustion, and when a person of apparent good health finds himself almost helpless he gets little sympathy from physician or friends and not infrequently his ills are attributed to the imagination.

A tendency to put off the duties of the day, indisposition for exertion or concentration of the mind, depressed spirits, wakefulness at night, indigestion, headache, feelings of fatigue, and lassitude, dizziness, specks before the eyes, noises in the ears and irregularities and derangements of the sexual organs are among the most common symptoms of nervous exhaustion and prostration.

Nervous diseases are slow in coming on and patience is necessary in their treatment. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is absolutely certain to be of benefit to anyone suffering from exhausted nerves, for it supplies the very elements of nature which go to create new nerve cells and instill new vigor and energy into the nervous system.

Mrs J. Hatcher, 224 Sherbrooke street, Peterborough, Ont., and whose husband is a moulder at the Hamilton foundry, states:—

"I had an attack of inflammatory rheumatism which left me in a very run-down state of health and in fact my whole nervous system seemed exhausted and worn out. I could not sleep and at times the pains in my head were almost unbearable. As a result of these symptoms I was unable to attend to my housework, and felt miserable most of the time. On the advice of a friend I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and can say that it has proved of very great benefit to me. I am able to do my work now, and feel stronger and healthier than I have for years. I can truthfully state that this is due to the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which I consider a great health builder."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

Impairment of hearing robs one of many of the joys of life, exposes to danger, interfers with capacity for usefulness, limits ability to transact business and earn a living. Many annually abandon their plans, ambitious and hopes on account of loss of hearing.

In nearly every case of partial or complete deafness there is another feature that is many is more troublesome than the difficulty of hearing—the distracting head noises. These make such an impression on some as to almost drive them insane. The everlasting buzzing, ringing, snapping, rumble or roar, distracts them by day and prevents rest at night.

Nine cases out of ten of head noises and progressive hardness of hearing are due to catarrh of the middle ear or of the tube leading from it to the throat.

It should be understood and constantly borne in mind that to restore the hearing and silence the distracting noises a treatment is required that will allay inflammation in the eustachian tubes, reduce the congestion and swelling and stop the secretion of mucus so that the tubes will be keep open for free passage of air into the middle ear. No locally applied medicine will effectually do this, only a searching constitutional alterative and resolvent will cure catarrh in the deep recesses of the head.

Two acquaintances of the writer were run down and killed by the cars in one year. Both had catarrh of the head, which had extended up the eustachian tubes, leading from the throat to the middle ear, and were quite hard of hearing. In both cases the coroner's jury decided that they came to their death because of inability to hear and heed signals that were intended for them. What happened to them is of frequent occurrence and in three cases out of four might have been prevented by the use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets. These tablets cure all kinds of catarrh. They can be bought at any drug store for 50 cents a box.

That Stuart's Catarrh Tablets do effectually cure catarrh of the eustachian tubes and the head noises and deafness resulting therefrom is attested by the following:—

Mrs. Jane Barlow, the famous medicate, says: "I finally had to give up personal attention to my customers and in consequence many of them went elsewhere. I was in despair for specialists seemed powerless to help me. Stuart's Catarrh Tablets cured me in just a little while so completely that now I hear as well as ever."

Army Surgeon C. S. Beverly, became so deaf from catarrh that he was forced to resign his position, and abandon his profession. He says: "Of course my inherent professional prejudice was hard to overcome but knowing the great benefit you had received, my dear General, through the use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, I used them. The great and almost immediate relief I experienced was truly astonishing. I am now entirely cured and have no fear of the disease returning. I go back to my old post next month."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets have done it, do do it, will do it. Try them and be convinced. They are for sale at any drug store at 50 cents a box, It will put you to very little trouble or expense to prove what they will do for you. Send to F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich., for their free book about catarrh. A postal card will bring it. Write to-day.

CHAPTER XXVI.

THE engagement at the new St. Charles was both memorable and profitable, the Picayune, before the fifties an audacious sheet, being especially kind to the players. "This paper," said a writer of the day, "was as full of witticisms as one of Thackeray's dreams after a light supper, and, as for its editors, Straws and Phazma, they are poets who eat, talk and think rhyme." The Picayune contained a poem addressed to Miss Carew, written by Straws in a cosy nook in the veranda at the Lake End, with his absinth before him and the remains of an elaborate repast about him. It was then quite the fashion to write stanzas to actresses. The world was not so prosaic as it is now, and even the president of the United States, John Quincy Adams, penned graceful verses to a fair ward of Thalia.

One noon a few days after the opening performance several members of the company were late for rehearsal, and Barnes strode impatiently to and fro, glancing at his watch and frowning darkly. To avenge himself for the remissness of the players he roared at the stage carpenters who were constructing a balcony and to the supers who were shifting flats to the scenery room. The light from an open door at the back of the stage dimly illumined the scene. Overhead in the flies was intense darkness, while in front the auditorium yawned like a chasm in nowise suggestive of the brilliant transformation at night.

"Ugh!" said Susan, standing in one of the entrances. "It is like playing to ghosts! Fancy performing to an audience of spectres! Perhaps the phantoms of the past really do assemble in their old places on occasions like this. Only you can't hear them applaud or laugh."

"Are you looking for admirers among ghosts?" remarked Hawkes ironically.

"Don't," she returned, with a little shiver.

"So, ladies and gentlemen, you are all here at last!" exclaimed Barnes, interrupting this cheerful conversation. "Some of you are late again today. It must not happen again. Go to Victor's, Moreau's or Miguel's as much as you please. If you have a headache or a heartache in consequence that is your own affair, but I am not to be kept waiting the next day."

"Victor's, indeed!" retorted the elastic old lady. "As if"—

"No one supposed, madam, that at your age"— began the manager.

"At my age! If you think"—

"Are you all ready?" interrupted Barnes hastily, knowing he would be worsted in any argument with this veteran player. "Then clear the stage. Act first!" And the rehearsal began.

If the audience were specters, the performers moved, apparently without rhyme or reason, mere shadows on the dimly lighted stage, enacting some semblance to scenes to mortal life, their jests and gibes unnatural in that comparatively empty place, their voices, out of the semidarkness, like those of spirits rehearsing acts of long ago. In the evening it would all become an amusing, bright colored reality, but now the barrenness of the scenes was forcibly apparent.

"That will do for today," said the manager at the conclusion of the last act. "Tomorrow, ladies and gentlemen, at the same time, and any one who is late will be fined!"

"Changing the piece every few nights is all work and no play," complained Susan.

"It will keep you out of mischief, my dear," replied Barnes, gathering up his manuscripts.

"Oh, I don't know about that!" returned Miss Susan with a defiant toss of the head as she moved toward the dressing room where they had left their wraps. It was a small apartment, fairly bright and cheery, with here and there a portrait against the wall. Above the dressing table hung a mirror, diamond scratched with hieroglyphic scrawls, among which could be discerned a transfixed heart, spitted like a lark on an arrow, and an etching of Lady Gay Spanker with corkscrew curls. Taglioni, in pencil caricature, her limbs "divinely slender," gyrated on her toes in reckless abandon above this mute record of names now forgotten.

"What lovely roses, Constance!" exclaimed Susan as she entered, bending over a large bouquet on one of the chairs. "From the count, I presume?"

"Yes," indifferently answered the young girl, who was adjusting her hat before the mirror.

"How attentive he is!" cooed Susan, her tones floating in a higher register. "Poor man! Enjoy yourself while you may, my dear," she went on. "When youth is gone what is left? Women should sow their wild oats as well as men. I don't call them wild oats, though, but paradisaical oats. The Elysian fields are strewn with them."

As she spoke her glance swept her companion searchingly, and in that brief scrutiny Susan observed with inward complacency how pale the other was and how listless her manner. Their common secret, however, made Susan's outward demeanor sweetly solicitous and gently sympathetic. Her mind, passing in rapid review ever recent events, dwelt not without certain satisfaction upon results. True, every night she was still forced to witness Constance's success, which of itself was wormwood and gall to Susan, to stand in the wings and listen to the hateful applause, but the conviction that the sweets of popular favor brought not what they were expected to bring was, in a way, an antidote to Susan's dissatisfaction.

A little knowledge is a dangerous thing and can sometimes be made annoying. In Susan's case it was a weapon sharpened with honeyed phrase and consolatory bearing, for she was not slow to discover nor to avail herself of the irritating power this knowledge gave her. Constance's pride and reticence, however, made it difficult for Susan to discern when her shafts went true. Moreover, although harboring no suspicion of Susan's dissimulation, she instinctively held aloof from her and remained coldly unresponsive. Perhaps in the depths of Susan's past lurked something indefinable which threw its shadow between them, an inscrutable impediment, and her inability to penetrate the young actress' reserve, however she might wound her, awakened Susan's resentment. But she was too world wise to display her irritation. She even smiled sweetly now, as confidante to confidante, and, turning to her impulsively, said:

"Let me help you on with your cloak, dear."

Out of the quiet, deserted theater, isolated from external din, to the busy streets, where drays went thundering by and industry manifested itself in resounding clatter, was a sudden, but not altogether unwelcome, change to Constance. Without waiting for the manager, who paused at the rear entrance to impress his final instructions upon a stolid looking property man, she turned quickly into the noisy thoroughfares.

On and on her restlessness led her, conscious of the clangor of vehicles and voices and yet remote from them, past those picturesque suggestions of the one time Spanish rulers in which the antiquary could detect evidence of remote oriental infusion, past the silken seductions of shops where ladies swarmed and hummed like bees around the luscious hive, past the idlers' resorts, from whence came the rat-a-tat of clinking billiard balls and the loud-as rumble of falling tenpins.

In a window of one of these places, a club with a reputation for exclusiveness, a young man was seated, newspaper in hand, a cup of black coffee on a small table before him and the end of a cigar smoking on the tray where he had placed it. With a yawn he had just thrown aside the paper and was reaching for the thick, dark beverage, his hand thin and nervous, when, glancing without, he caught sight of the actress in the crowd. Obeying a sudden impulse, he arose, picking up his hat which lay on a chair beside him.

"Yo' order am ready in a moment, Mr. Mauville," said a colored servant, hurrying toward the land baron as the latter was leaving.

"I've changed my mind and don't want it," replied the other curtly.

And, sauntering down the steps of the club with ill concealed impatience, he turned in the direction the young girl had taken, keeping her retreating figure in view, now so near her in the crowded street he could almost touch her; then, as they left the devious ways, more distant, but ever with his eyes bent upon her. He had almost spoken when in the throng he approached within arm's length, but something, he knew not what, restrained him, and a press of people separated them. Only for a moment, and then he continued the questionable pleasure of following her.

Had she turned she would probably have seen her pursuer; but, absorbed in thought, she continued on her way unconscious of his presence. On and on she hurried until she reached the tranquil outskirts and lingered before the gate of one of the cemeteries. At the same time the land baron slackened his footsteps, hesitating whether to advance or turn back. After a moment's indecision she entered the cemetery. Her figure, receding in the distance, was becoming more and more indistinct when he started forward quickly and also passed through the gate.

The annual festival of the dead, following All Saints' day, was being observed in the burial ground. This commemoration of those who have departed in the communion—described by Tertullian in the second century as an "apostolic tradition," so old was the sacrifice—was celebrated with much pomp and variety in the Crescent City. Women, dressed in mourning, bore to the tombs flowers and plants, trays of images, wreaths, crosses, anchors of dried immortelles and artificial roses. Some were accompanied by priests and acolytes with censers, the former intoning the service.

A solemn peace fell upon the young girl as she entered, and she seemed to leave behind her all disturbing emotions, finding refuge in the supreme tranquillity of this ancient city of the dead. She was surrounded by a resigned grief, a sorrow so dignified that it did not clash with the sweeter influences of nature. The monotonous sound of the words of the priests harmonised with the scene.

To many the words so mournfully intoned brought solace and surcease from sorrow. The sisters of charity moved among the throng with grave, pale faces, mere shadows of their earthly selves, as though they had undergone the first stage of the great metamorphosis which is promised.

The little orphan children heard and heeded no more than the butterfly which lighted upon the engraven words, "Dust to dust," and poised gracefully as it bathed in the sunshine, stretching its wings in wantonness of beauty.

Now Constance smiled to see the little ones playing on the steps of a monument. It was the tomb of a great jurist, a man of dignity during his mundane existence, his head crammed with those precepts which are devised for the temporal well being of that fabric, sometimes termed society, and again civilization. The poor waifs, with suppressed laughter—they dared not give full vent to their merriment with the black robed sisters not far away—ran around the steps, unmindful of the inscription which might have been written by a John Rand as unconscious of unseemly conduct as the insects that bummed in the grass.

"Hush!" whispered one of the sisters as a funeral cortege approached.

The children, wide eyed in awe and wonder, desisted in their play.

"It is an old man who died last night," said a nun in a low voice to Constance, noticing her look of inquiry.

The silver crucifix shone fitfully ahead, while the chanting of the priests, winding in and out after the holy symbol, fell upon the ear. And the young girl gazed with pity as the remains of the Marquis de Ligne, her father, were borne by.

CHAPTER XXVII.

LONGER and longer trailed the shadow of a tall tombstone until, as the sun went down, it merged into the general twilight like a life lengthening out and out and finally blending in restful darkness. With that transition came a sudden sense of isolation and loneliness; the little burial ground seemed the world, the sky its walls and ceiling.

From the neighborhood of the gates had vanished the dusky venders, trundling their booths and stalls cityward. As abruptly had disappeared the bearers of flowers and artificial roses with baskets poised upon their heads, imparting to their figures dignity and erectness. The sad eyed nuns had wended their way out of the little kingdom of the departed, surrounded by the laughing children and preceded by the priests and acolytes. All the sounds and activities of the day—the merriment of the little ones, the oblations of the priests, the greetings of friends—were followed by inertness and languor. Motionless against the sky spread the branches of the trees, like lines etched there; still were the clambering vines that clasped monolith and column.

But suddenly that deathlike lull in nature's animation and unrest was abruptly broken, and an unroarious vociferation dispelled the voiceless peace.

"For Jack ashore's a Croesus, lads,
With a Jill for every Jack"— sang a hoarse voice as its owner came staggering along one of the walks of the cemetery; for all his song, no blue water sailor man, but a boisterous denizen of the great river, a raftsman or a keel boatman, who had somehow found himself in the burial ground and now was beating aimlessly about. How this rollicking waif of the grogshop came to wander so far from the convivial haunts of his kind and to choose this spot for a ramble can only be explained by the vagaries of inebriety.

"With a Jill in your wake,
A fair port you'll make"— he continued, when his eye fell upon the figure of a woman, some distance ahead, and fairly discernible in the gathering twilight. Immediately the song ceased and he steadied himself, gazing incredulously after the form that had attracted his attention.

"Hello!" he said. "Avast, my dear!" he called out.

Echoing in that still place, his harsh tones produced a startling effect, and the figure before him moved faster and faster, casting a glance behind her at the man from the river, who, with snatches of song, started in uncertain but determined pursuit. As the heavy footsteps sounded nearer she increased her pace, with eyes bent upon the distant gate. Darker seemed to grow the way. More menacing the shadows outstretched across the path. Louder crunched the heels on the shell walk. More audible became the words of the song that flowed from his lips, when the sound of a sudden and violent altercation replaced the hoarse toned cadence, an altercation that was of brief duration, characterised by loggyboreman oaths and followed by silence. And then a figure, not that of the tuneful waterman, sprang to the side of the startled girl.

"Miss Carew!" exclaimed a well remembered voice.

Bewildered, breathing quickly, she gazed from Edward Mauville, who thus unexpectedly accosted her, to the prostrate form lying motionless on the road. The rude awakening from her day dream in the hush of that peaceful place and the surprising sequence had dazed her senses, and for the moment it seemed something tragic must have happened.

"Is he dead?" she asked quickly, unable to withdraw her glance from the immovable figure stretched out in the dim light on the path.

"No fear," said Mauville quietly, almost thoughtfully, although his eyes were yet bright from the encounter. "You can't kill his kind," he added contemptuously. "Brutes from coal barges or raftsmen from the head waters! He struck against a stone when he fell, and what with that and the liquor in him will rest there awhile. He'll come to without remembering what has happened."

Turning moodily, the land baron walked slowly down the road away from the gate. She thought he was about to leave her, when he paused as though looking for something, stooped to the ground and returned, holding out a garment.

"You dropped your wrap, Miss Carew," he said awkwardly. "The night is cold, and you will need it." She offered no resistance when he placed it over her shoulders, indeed seemed unconscious of the attention.

"Don't you think we had better go?" he went on. "It won't hurt him," indicating the motionless body, "to stay here, the brute!"

Her answering look was so gentle, so sad, an unwonted feeling of compunction seized him. He repented of his harshness and added less brusquely:

"Why did you remain so late?"

"I did not realize how late it had become."

"Your thoughts must have been very absorbing," he exclaimed quickly, his brow once more overcast.

"WILFUL WASTE MAKES WOEFUL WANT."

That old copybook maxim finds its most forceful application in the waste of vitality, which is called "burning the candle at both ends." A woman is often tempted beyond her strength by domestic or social demands. Some day she awakens from this waste of strength to the woeful want of it. She has become weak, nervous and miserable.

For weak, nervous, run-down women, there is no better tonic and nervine than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It restores the appetite, quiets the nerves and gives refreshing sleep. It cures local diseases peculiarly womanly which undermine the general health. It makes weak women strong, sick women well.

"No doubt you have forgotten me, but after you read my letter you will remember me," writes Mrs. Annie E. Moring, of 236 7th Avenue, S. W., Roanoke, Va. "In the year 1897 I wrote to you for advice, which you gave me free of charge. When I wrote to you I was a wreck; I could not walk straight for pains in my abdomen; could not sit down, lie down, or get any ease at all. I had what was called the best doctor here, but did not get any better until I went through a course of your medicine. I took eight bottles each of 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and ten bottles of the 'Pleasant Pellets.' I tell you the medicine made a cure of me."

Weak and sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

We placed side by side in our workshops two silver-plated Pudding Dishes, one made by a large Canadian wholesale silver-plating firm, the other made by Henry Birks & Sons.

Our purpose was to strip each of its silver, and ascertain the quantity of silver on each piece.

We did so.

The result astonished us.

Exactly five times more silver was found on the piece of our own manufacture than on the one made by the wholesale house.

To assure ourselves of the correctness of the test, we took two Teapots in the same way, and found four times as much silver on the one of our own manufacture than on the other.

This fine quality of silver-plating is what we offer the people of Canada through our Mail Order Department.

ELECTORS ASKED TO GIVE EXPRESSION OF OPINION

On the Street Lighting and Street Railway Bylaws.

VOTE TO BE TAKEN JANUARY 4TH.

Council Voted to Amend Street Railway Bylaw—Position of Otonabee Power Co. Stated by Mr. R. R. Hall—The Mayor Explains the Situation.

At the Council meeting last night it was decided to submit the street lighting and street railway by-laws to the people at the next municipal elections. This will be in the form of a referendum vote, and all eligible to vote at municipal elections will be entitled to vote on these questions. It should be pointed out that the result of this vote will have no legal significance, and is only taken in order that next year's council may have the expressed wish of the electors to guide them in dealing with this matter.

The Council adopted the recommendation of the committee of the whole and passed a by-law amending the street railway by-law as suggested by Justice Meredith. Ald. Best and O'Connell voted against this recommendation of the committee.

Ald. Shortly fathered a scheme to provide for some celebration of the union of Peterborough and Ashburnham on January 1st and a committee was appointed to deal with the matter.

Mr. R. R. Hall addressed the council on behalf of the Otonabee Power Co., and offered to hold the offer of that company open for three months.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held last night in the Council Chamber with Mayor Roger in the chair and Ald. Shortly, Morrison, O'Connell, Finnie, McWilliams, Ratten, Best and Rush.

The minutes of the last meeting were adopted.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A communication was read from the General Superintendent of the C. P. R. to the effect that at the request of the Mayor the operation of the gates at the George street crossing has been placed at the gates instead of at the station.

From Arnold T. Panabaker, Secretary-Treasurer of the Strathcona Club, Hespler, asking for a pictorial album of Peterborough to be placed on the library tables of the Club.—Received.

From G. R. Armstrong, Town Clerk, on behalf of the Water Commissioners, stating that owing to the growing needs of the town and the increased demand for water service, $5,000 a year was inadequate for extensions and improvements, adding that the Commissioners believed that $15,000 a year would be a proper amount for which to ask authority to issue debentures for such needs.—Received.

From Thomas Mulvey, Assistant Provincial Secretary for Ontario, enclosing a copy of the Ontario Gazette of the 12th inst., containing a proclamation extending the limits of the town.—Received.

G. M. Roger, Esq., Mayor of the Town of Peterborough:

Dear Sir,—I am authorized by the Otonabee Power Company Limited, to write you on their behalf, that the offer they made to the Town Council to supply street lighting to the Tow nof Peterborough at $1,460 per year less than is provided in the contract of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, Limited is still open for your council to accept.

I am still further authorized to state that the Otonabee Power Company, Limited, are prepared to offer you reasonable security that their contract will be faithfully carried out.

I notice from the report in the council the other evening, that there was a doubt in the minds of some of the aldermen as to whether or not the Otonabee Power Company, Limited, was still prepared to carry out their offer. The Alderman who expressed this doubt had no authority whatever for doing so. The opposition companies had communications in, respecting the position that they proposed to take in view of the fact that the street lighting by-law had been quashed. Our company were not favoured by you with any request as to what position the Otonabee Power Co., Limited, would take in view of the by-law being quashed. I trust the above will relieve your mind from any misapprehension as to the Otonabee Power Co. Limited, now being willing to carry out their offer. I notice in your communication in to-night's Review that you charge the Otonabee Power Company with pursuing a "selfish policy." Should you not rather charge our company with pursuing an "unselfish policy," as our offer will save the Town of Peterborough $14,000 in ten years in street lighting alone. This is on the minimum number of lamps used. The same will be nearer $20,000 when Ashburnham is added and if the town grows during the next ten years. The policy which our company is pursuing has saved the users of domestic lighting in the Town of Peterborough at least $30,000 per year. Surely that cannot be a "selfish policy."

I further notice that you state that Mr. Robert Stuart has given his own personal cheque on behalf of the Radial Railway Company for $5,000. If the present town council would undertake to give the Otonabee Power Company the contract at the prices mentioned in By-law No. 1046 they could easily afford to give the Radial Railway Company $7,000 instead of $5,000 and still be $7,000 ahead. Fortunately for the ratepayers it is illegal for the council who are trustees for the people to deal lavishly with other people's money and therefore our company cannot enter into competition with Mr. Stuart as to how much they can afford to give the Radial Railway Company as a bonus if the lighting contract were awarded to the Otonabee Power Company, Limited.

Yours truly,
R. R. HALL.

This communication was received.

REPORTS.

Ald. Morrison presented the following report of the Committee of the Whole Council, and moved its adoption:—

Your Committee of the whole council beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

1. That the by-law authorizing an agreement with the Radial Railway Company be amended as suggested by Mr. Justice Meredith.

2. That the Legal Committee be authorized to appeal the case in regard to the street Lighting by-law as counsel may advise.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Ald. Best moved an amendment to the effect that no action be taken in the matter by this council, and that it be left to the new council to deal with. Ald. O'Connell supported the amendment.

Ald. McWilliams, before the vote was taken, spoke on the report of the committee supporting its adoption, and in doing so reviewed the negotiations leading up to the passing of the bylaws. He said that there was perhaps nothing which the town desired as much as to secure a street railway and it was also desired that Mr. Stuart take it up. But, should it not be taken up by Mr. Stuart, he still thought that its operation by the Peterborough Radial Railway Company would prove to be beneficial to the town. The Company is a strong financial concern and able to carry out its contracts. He believed that the people would prefer that Mr. Stuart should control it, but in any case the bargain was a good one. The railway was the thing most needed to make the town progress. He believed that Mr. Stuart was willing to carry out his promise to the council and he was most anxious that nothing should be done to prevent it. No excuse should be given by the town for a delay in the operation of the railway.

Speaking of the lighting bylaw he said that in his opinion the Judge in quashing it had not given due consideration to some important points. He thought that the offer of the Otonabee Power Company to supply street lighting at the lower figure should not be considered, the same as it would have been had the offer been made earlier in the negotiations and not at the last minute. He believed, too, that the learned Judge had not considered the fact that the Aldermen recognized that to accept the offer of the Otonabee Power Company would necessitate a duplication of the pole lines in town. He believed that the town had good grounds for an appeal, which he thought should be entered. An argument in favour of appealing was that such an action would not prejudice the new council and put this council in a better position, because the new contract will thus come into effect on January 1st, whereas if no appeal is entered, on that date the town will be without any lighting contract.

Ald. McWilliams thought that the electors should be given an opportunity of expressing their opinion on the question. Now that it had come to the last days of the year, he thought that it would be a serious things for the council to decide on a line of action. He felt assured that the electors couldw endorse the action of the council.

ALD. O'CONNELL.

Ald. O'Connell followed, saying that he was strongly opposed to amending the Radial Railway By-law, as the report recommended, because in doing so it might tie up the town for thirty years with a contract with the old Peterborough Radial Railway Company. He reviewed the whole situation leading up to the present time, saying that two companies had made offers to do street lighting, and at the same time an offer had been made to give a street railway. The offer of the Otonabee Power Company for the lighting was considerably lower than that of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, and he believed the motive the aldermen had in voting to give the lighting contract to the company making the higher offer was that they believed the interests of the American Cereal Company would control the street railway if the Peterborough Light and Power Company should be given the contract, that the Peterborough Light and Power Company and the Peterborough Radial Railway Company were practically one, and that both were in turn controlled by the American Cereal Company, which, it was understood would establish large works here, and it was further urged that the best way to get the company interested in the town was by giving it the street railway franchise, and in this way the extra amount of money given the company for street lighting would be repaid to the town. This was the argument that had influenced him in voting for the granting of the street lighting contract. What the council, wished, he said, was that the street lighting contract should go to the Peterborough Light and Power Company, and that the American Cereal Company should operate the street railway. But the council should have decided how this was to be achieved. He could not help believing that the council had been a little derilect in its duty for allowing the time to pass, the old contract expiring, and the new one quashed. He said that because of the fact that the offer of the Peterborough Light and Power Company gave the town the cheapest street light in Ontario, this was no reason for accepting it in preference to that of the Otonabee Power Company, providing the latter company could give a sufficient guarantee for the performance of its contract. If the Ontario Power Company can give as good light, and cheaper light, than the Peterborough Light and Power Company, why was the contract not given to it, unless it was that it was intended to give the extra $14,000 for the purpose of having the street railway, and having it operated by the American Cereal Company. He was not opposed to any appreciable extent, perhaps not at all, to giving the street lighting contract to the Peterborough Light and Power Company at the higher figure, providing the town was given a guarantee that the railway would be undertaken by the American Cereal Company. The duty of the council is to ask Mr. Stuart to give the town a guarantee that if the street lighting bylaw is sustained, and the street railway bylaw amended, he will take over the assets of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company, and operate the railway. If this is not done and the bylaw is ratified, the town will find itself tied up for thirty years with the same company from the hands of which the town was most anxious to extricate itself.

THE OTONABEE POWER COMPANY'S POSITION.

Mr. R. R. Hall, who was in the council chamber, was on motion of Ald. Best, allowed to address the council.

Mr. Hall said that he understood, and he believed the people understood, that the street lighting contract was given to the Peterborough Light and Power Company in order that a street railway might be secured for the town. Consequently he was surprised to learn that the two companies were in no way connected. Mr Hall quoted from the affidavit of Mr. Bradburn, President of the Peterborough Light and Power Company (which has already been published in full in these columns) to show that there was no connection in any way between the Peterborough Light and Power Company and the Peterborough Radial Railway Company. Mr. Shook, he said, had made similar statements under oath. Mr. Hall expressed his opinion that the council could not honestly give its support to a by-law awarding a lighting contract which would in ten years amount to $14,000 more than there was an offer before the town to do it for. He said that if the Otonabee Power Company was given the street lighting contract at the same figure as that of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, his Company would give the Peterborough Radial Railway Company $7,000.

He believed that if the Council should propose to give a bonus to the Peterborough Radial Railway Company up to a reasonable amount, for the purpose of inducing it to operate the railway, the people would support it, but it should be presented to them in a proper form. The two contracts should be separated and each let on its merits.

The Otonabee Power Company was prepared to carry out the contract, and to install the most modern lamp recommended by the best electrical engineers. As to the financial standing of his company, it had a paid up capital of $150,000 and was as well prepared to carry out any contract it might enter into as any other company.

ALDERMAN MORRISON.

Mr. Hall was asked by Ald. Morrison if his company was prepared to install a direct current, open arc 9 1-2 ampere lamp, such as is used now in Peterborough, and replying, Mr. Hall said that such a lamp was considered out of date, and that he would guarantee to install any modern lamp which the majority of the council might choose.

Ald. Morrison continuing, said that he was satisfied that the present lamp in use here was the best lamp for the town. On a recent trip, he, with a number of the aldermen, had seen the lights in several towns and cities, and the result was that in none of them had the light been as good as that in Peterborough. The lamp used here is the same as is used in Toronto, where it was not considered old, and of no use.

THE MAYOR REVIEWS THE SITUATION.

His Worship Mayor Roger said that he regretted that Ald. O'Connell had only awakened to his responsibility in this matter at this late date. The question he was asking now he should have asked earlier in the year when the two bylaws were being considered by the council before they were passed, Ald. O'Connell had supported the bylaws, and should have understood them as the other members of council had done. The mayor once more explained the negotiations which the town had had with Messrs Cox, Stuart and Donnistoun, with reference to the street railway. He said that it was these gentlemen and them only, with whom the council had negotiated. It was at their direct request that the contract had been made out in the name of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company, and he felt satisfied that these men had acted in good faith with the town. The bargain which the town had was with Mr. Stuart, who, as an evidence of his willingness to carry out the agreement, had deposited a personal cheque for $5,000.00. The Mayor firmly believed that had it not been for the opposition of the Otonabee Power Company the material would now be on the ground for the railway, and that progress would have been made to such an extent that the people could see for themselves that the railway was being built. The Mayor said that he had been told that the Otonabee Power Company had approached the Peterborough Light and Power Company with a proposition that they should amalgamate and hold up the town in the matter of street lighting.

Mr. Hall, who was still in the room, arose and said that the statement was not true; that his company had not suggested, nor did it intend to suggest, such a proposal to the Peterborough Light and Power Company.

The Mayor said that he was but repeating what he had been told, and hoped Mr. Hall's denial would be given equal publicity with his statement. The Mayor said that he believed Mr. Stuart acted in good faith, and that he was prepared to give the people the street railway, unless the delays occasioned by the opposition should cause him to throw it up in disgust. If the people wanted the railway, and he believed they did, they should keep faith with Mr. Stuart, and stand by the contract which had been negotiated with him. He regretted that matters had been so much misrepresented and distorted, but he thought the public would recognise that the Otonabee Power Company was acting in their own interests, while the council was acting in the interests of the town.

OFFER OPEN FOR THREE MONTHS.

Ald. McWilliams, referring to the imputations which were being made against the Otonabee Power Company, said that if the latter would give a guarantee that its present offer would remain open for three months it would show that the company was willing to keep faith.

Replying to this Mr. Hall said that on behalf of the Otonabee Power Company he would guarantee that the present offer of $35 per lamp per year, would remain open for three months from this date.

Ald. Best asked why the $5,000.00 cheque given by Mr. Stuart as security, and now deposited in the bank, had not been cashed, and the money placed to the credit oft he town.

The Mayor in reply said that he had only learned that day that it had not been cashed, but it was binding nevertheless, and if Mr. Stuart failed to carry out his contract the money would be forfeited to the town.

The vote on the amendment to the adoption of the report of the Committee of the Whole was then taken and lost, Ald. Best and O'Connell supporting it, and Ald Shortly, Morrison, Rush, Finnie, McWilliams and Ratten opposing it. The motion to adopt was carried on the same division.

A CITIZEN SPEAKS.

Mr. Adam Dawson, who was present, asked the council for an explanation with reference to the street railway negotiations, and the Mayor replying reviewed the events leading up to the granting of the franchise, showing that the negotiations had been with Mr. Cox and Mr. Stuart, and with no other company or syndicate, and said that the negotiations were bona fide, the contract made in good faith and he had been assured by the electrical engineer engaged by Mr. Stuart that if matters had been settled, the supplies for the railway would have been ordered and considerable progress made with the construction.

Supposing, said the Mayor, that Mr. Stuart does not carry out his contract, the town is in no worse position than it was before.

Ald. O'Connell presented the following report of the Court of Revision which was on motion adopted:

Your Court of Revision beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

1. That a cheque for $1.46 be issued to J. W. Edwards as a refund on taxes paid in error.

2. That a cheque for $11.46 be issued to T. A. S. Hay for taxes paid in error as he had been assessed in two wards for income.

3. That a cheque for $1.00 be issued to John Kelly for dog tax paid in error.

4. That the taxes on the property assessed to the Young Women's Christian Association on George and Brock streets for 1903 be remitted.

5. That the taxes of the St. Peter's Total Abstinence Society for 1903, except school taxes, be remitted.

6. That a cheque for $1.00 be issued to Charles Shambo for a dog tax paid in error.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Ald. Morrison moved the first reading of a bylaw to amend the bylaw granting the franchise to the Peterborough Radial Railway Company so that the income of the said railway will not be exempted from taxation, which was passed.

A bylaw providing for submitting to the people for an expression of opinion the street lighting and street railway bylaw, the votes to be taken at the next municipal elections, and all the electors being allowed to vote on it, was passed.

Ald. Shortly suggested that some action be taken to arrange a celebration on the occasion of the union of the municipalities of Peterborough and Ashburnham, and a committee composed of Ald. Shortly, McWilliams, Ratten and Rush, was appointed to confer with this.

CANADIANS TO GET ENGLISH TRAINING

Proposal to Canadians By British War Secretary.

Sir Frederick Borden Will Bring the Matter Proposed by Mr. Arnold Forster Before His Colleagues—Minister of Militia's Visit to England—Amendments to Dominion Militia Act.

Ottawa, Dec. 26.—There is a possibility that a Canadian regiment may be sent to India to get the benefit of a military training there. If so it will be a voluntary matter on the part of the men who may compose the regiment, and the expenses will be borne by the Government of India. This information was gleaned from Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, who returned at 2 o'clock yesterday morning from England, where he had a conference with the military authorities on the subject of the proposed amendments to the Canadian Militia Act. Sir Frederick's attention was drawn to a cablegram, stating positively that a regiment from Canada would be sent to India, which caused the Minister to say: "A suggestion to that effect was made to me by Mr. Arnold Forster, the Secretary of State for War, when I called upon him. Mr. Forster thought military service in Canada was rather dull and uninteresting, and, if the suggestion was thought well of, that Canada might like to have the privilege of doing something of the kind. Of course the regiment would be sent at the expense of India, which bears the cost of maintaining the British regulars stationed there. Such a move would give an opportunity to ambitious young Canadian who desire to see service abroad. It would enable some of our young officers and men who are fond of soldiering to get experience, and there is no better country in the world than India for that. Of course it would be absolutely voluntary on their part. The great difficulty would be what to do with them when they returned. I told the Secretary of State for War that I would discuss the matter with my colleagues. That is all there is to it.

"As a result of my conference with the Imperial authorities, increased educational facilities will be given to our officers, both by way of instruction and perhaps exchanging with officers of the English army. The officers to whom this would apply would be those of the higher rank at headquarters, and possibly some of the permanent corps. The Imperial authorities are disposed to find places for some of our officers in the staff college, so that they may learn staff duties and become proficient in higher military education. We have one Canadian officer in the English staff college already. The education and training of our officers is most important. We must have these things if we are to have thoroughly competent officers, and the home authorities are favorably impressed with the idea to which I have referred."

Imperial Defence Committee.

Sir Frederick went on to say that on his arrival in England he was made an ex-officio member of the Imperial Defence Committee, which is the first time this honor has been conferred upon a colonial Minister. The committee was called together while he was in London, and he was present at the session. The committee took into consideration the four important amendments to the Canadian militia act, and each was put and agreed to. The changes have already been explained.

"The outcome of the conference was most satisfactory in every way," declared Sir Frederick. "The authorities in London are well posted in regard to what we have been doing to improve our militia, and they are well pleased at what has been accomplished in a comparatively short time."

JAPANESE DEMANDS

Still Subject of Consideration by Russian Authorities.

TIME LIMIT SAID TO BE SHORT

Rumor Hath It That It Will Expire on the 7th of January—Possibility That Russia May Give Japan Satisfaction —Aggressive Addresses By Japanese Statesmen — Nation Ready For War.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 26.—The Russian Government is still considering the reply of the Japanese Government to its note, which was sent in answer to Japan's relative to the situation in the Far East. A reconsideration of the proposals made in the Russian note is considered as a matter of course here. Russia has never been disposed to take any step which would lead to an abrupt termination of the negotiations with Japan.

In answer to many inquiries made by the Associated Press, the Russian Foreign Office has always insisted that the Russian proposals were so liberal that it would be scarcely probable to conceive any further concessions.

While the Foreign Office is unwilling to admit that Russia is prepared to offer more than the concessions outlined in the last note, it is considered possible that the Government may suggest changes by which the Russian requirements may be met and satisfaction given to Japan.

A rumor has circulated here that the United States Government is still inclined to suggest the reference of the difficulties between Russia and Japan to The Hague Arbitration Tribunal, but this rumor is believed to be merely the echo of a former suggestion made in the press of the United States.

Seoul-Fusan Railway.

Tokio, Japan, Dec. 26.—At an extraordinary meeting of the Cabinet yesterday, it is reported that it was decided to issue an emergency ordinance authorizing the guarantee of the principal and interest of an issue of 10,000,000 yen debentures on the Seoul-Fusan Railway, which is expected to be finished before the end of next year.

Time Limit Is Short.

London, Dec. 26.—The Daily Mail's Kobe correspondent says it is reported that the note of Baron Komura, Minister of Foreign Affairs, to Baron De Rosen, the Russian Minister, in response to Russia's reply to the claims of Japan, had a paragraph to the effect that only two weeks would be allowed for an answer. This period expires Jan. 7. The report, however, finds no confirmation in any quarter.

Special cablegrams from the Far East printed in this morning's newspapers, reiterate the reports of alleged war preparations, but as Japan securities yesterday recovered their lost values it is evident that little importance is attached to these rumors in financial quarters.

The Daily Telegraph's Shanghai correspondent gives the names of six steamers which Japan has chartered for the conveyance of supplies, and says that the sixth army division, now at the garrison city of Kumamato, is awaiting orders to proceed to Corea.

The correspondent of The Daily Mail at Sydney, N.S.W., cables that the Japanese Government has placed orders for large quantities of pig lead with New South Wales concerns, and that the presumption is that this lead will be used for the manufacture of bullets.

Ready For War.

Tokio, Dec. 26.—At a dinner given by the Oriental Association last night, former Foreign Minister Kato said he deeply regretted that the people had not been taken into the confidence of the Government regarding the position of affairs between Japan and Russia. Nevertheless, he said, should the Emperor declare war the nation would be found ready to give him unanimous support.

Count Okuma, the former Premier, said he agreed with the view expressed by Mr. Kato, and he thought it was now high time to let the people know the actual position occupied by the Government. He also declared that not only a feeling of chivalry but a desire for self-preservation required that Japan should buttress the integrity of China.

Both speakers thought that the situation had reached an extremely critical stage.

SALE OF A LEANING TOWER.

It Stands 163 Feet High and is Ten Feet Out of Plumb.

Rome, Dec. 26.—Bologna's most singular structure, the Leaning Garisenda Tower, which was begun in 1110 by Filippo and Ottone Garisenda, and which was owned by the Marquis Malvezzi, has been purchased by Baron Raimondi Franchetti, who is well-known as a composer. The Gerisenda Tower is only 163 feet high, but it is ten feet out of the perpendicular. Dante, in his "Inferno," compares the giant Antaeus, who bends toward him, to this tower, "when a cloud passes over it." The obliqueness of the tower was occasioned by the settling of the foundations.

The sale of the tower had given rise to much dissatisfaction, and the Government has been urged to interfere for the purpose of securing it for the nation, thus preserving this most important monument.

ARE UP IN ARMS.

Greater Part of Republic in Favor of Insurgent Chief.

San Domingo, Dec. 26.—It is reported that the greater part of the Republic now in arms is in favor of Gen. Jiminez, the former President, who is said to be marching on this city at the head of a large body of insurgents. The Provisional Government is making active preparations for defence. The situation here is becoming critical, though the city is quiet in expectation of events.

There is great depression in business circles as the result of the constant disturbance of the financial situation. The financial condition of the Government is bad, owing to the fact that the debts were mortgaged in advance by the Government of President Woss y Gil.

Avery is Short $10,000.

Boston, Dec. 26.—It was announced last night that Samuel P. Avery, formerly New England agent for the Midland Oil Co., of Minneapolis, with offices at 34 Oliver street, this city, and who disappeared nearly a month ago, is wanted by the police on the charge of larceny of nearly $10,000 from his employers. The fact that Avery was wanted by the police has been kept a secret since his disappearance in hope that some clue to his whereabouts might be obtained.

An Important Discovery.

Rome, Dec. 26.—Prof. Giovanni Livi, Director of the State Archives at Bologna, which town is the principal centre of Dante's fame, has found a parchment dated 1328, on which are two pen sketches representing Dante crowned by Bologna. This discovery is considered of the highest importance, and will prove of great interest to those who are searching for an authentic portrait of the poet.

To Settle Church Question.

Rome, Dec. 26.—The congregation of the Propaganda has received information that Archbishop Chappelle will come to Rome in the near future for the purpose of obtaining a definite settlement of church questions in Cuba and Puerto Rico.

"PARSIFAL" A GREAT STRAIN.

Twenty-Five Persons Become Faint at Big Operatic Event.

New York, Dec. 26.—Owing to the long continued strain of listening to the opera and the intense heat 25 persons in the "Parsifal" audience either fainted or came so near to a state of collapse that they had to leave boxes, and some of them the Metropolitan Opera House Thursday evening.

Mrs. John Jacob Astor was one of those who were forced to leave their boxes because of threatened collapse.

Smelling salts were in great demand and the office had a large supply for the use of patrons.

It was near the close of the performance that the effects of the heat and strain were most noticed. Among the hundreds of the audience who had stood for hours listening to the music the number of the victims was greatest.

$60,000 Fire at Owen Sound.

Owen Sound, Dec. 26.—About 1 p. m. yesterday fire broke out in the National Table Company's factory, completely destroying the main building and contents. Loss, $60,000; insured in New England Mutual. About fifty hands are thrown out of employment.

NEW CAVALRY TRAINING.

New Scientific System to Be Introduced at Aldershot.

Apparently as the result of the admirable experiments in cavalry training made by Lieutenant-Colonel de Lisle at Heunslow, the new system of instruction is to be introduced into the British Army.

The innovation will do away with much of the useless routine work which in the past has occupied so much of the cavalryman's time. From the beginning of the training the aim will be to develop the cavalryman's power of initiative and resource, and general intelligence in the field. One of the first lessons will be to catch his horse when turned loose, to train it, and ride it across country, instead of round the riding school.

The care of horses is also to be taught. Men are to be instructed in the treatment of minor horse maladies, how to judge and treat lameness, and to tell good forage from bad.

Outpost duty and advanced guard duties, reconnaissance duties, and map-reading are to be taught thoroughly. Parties of men are to be sent out to find their way to fixed points entirely by the map. The art of scouting will be installed by the "flag-stealing" game and practical trials of scouting in which special stress is to be laid on intercepting moves of the enemy, learning his strength without being seen, despatch riding, and making intelligible verbal and written reports.

More attention is to be paid to firing, the proper appreciation of cover, rapid shooting, natural rests, and the effects of the wind.

Skill at arms is not to be forgotten, and mounted combats and competitions are to be instituted.

To render charging a little more scientific, an interesting game, somewhat after the idea indulged in by the German infantry, will be practised. A squadron of dummies in line will form the objective, and the squadron bowling over the greatest number of the enemy will be declared winners.

Major-General Ichobell's cavalry brigade at Aldershot will shortly be formed of three very fine regiments—the King's Dragoon Guards

CANADIAN MACHINE TELEPHONE COMPANY

In Which Peterborough People are Prominently Interested.

A "Saturday Night" Article Dealing With the Perfected Invention—A Self Acting Telephone System.

A late issue of Saturday Night, contains an elaborate and well written article dealing with the mechanical and automatic telephone, which a Canadian company, in which several Peterborough gentlemen are interested, claim will revolutionize the work of telephoning. The Examiner has not space for the entire article, but a summary of it will indicate the more outstanding features of the invention, which is claimed to be a distinct advance in telephonic service as represented by the Lorimer machine or automatic telephone, an ingenious contrivance, which claims to be able to greatly simplify, and necessarily cheapen telephone communication. It is claimed the Lorimer machine introduces economy, first in the matter of switchboard. The larger a manual switchboard, the greater the cost, as it is claimed, so that, in reversal of the wholesale principle cheapening price, the more subscribers to a manual exchange, the greater the expense. It is claimed for the Lorimer that it costs no more in proportion for a 5,000 Lorimer exchange than for a 500, the system being increased by adding new sections of 100, and the number of connections is only proportionate. A Lorimer machine exchange can never be outgrown, because it can be increased as required in sections of 100, and at the same cost for the last 100 as for the first.

It is evident that the machine telephone will be much more cheaply operated, as well as installed. It will remove the romance in the form of the telephone girls; with the Lorimer a man will be his own telephone girl. It is claimed that interest on investment, depreciation and maintenance of the manual exchange in excess of the Lorimer exchange for a 6,000 exchange, is $25,000 a year. The inventors of the Lorimer claim that the price of Lorimer telephones in Toronto will be half of the present price.

THE SYSTEMS CONTRASTED

The article referred to contrasts the mode of operation of the two systems as follows:—

When a call comes in to the Bell Central the operator puts the number required. A call is indicated by the dropping of a "fall" above the number of the 'phone calling. After the number is given the operator inserts a metal plug on the end of a tinsel cord into the hole of the number wanted. She then rings up the line called for, and the connection is complete.

Instead of the human operator the Lorimer machine has a device called the "Decimal Indicator" on each section of 100 lines. Every four seconds the "indicator" comes in contact with every line (100) in the section. When a call comes in the "indicator" pauses the fraction of a second, an electric impulse is flashed to the "Division Starter," and the machinery to complete the connection with the number required performs the operation in eight to ten seconds. Meantime the "indicator" goes on about its business, looking for more calls.

When the connection is complete the subscriber himself rings the bell of the line called.

The quality of the service of the manual switchboard depends entirely upon the alertness, intelligence and willingness of the operator. In the Lorimer system only a machine which is always working yet never "busy" does the work unerringly and promptly. It makes the connections with mechanical certainty, precision, promptness and the secrecy of inanimate metal.

Instead of the tinsel cord, which weakly conducts the electric current, causing breaks and chokes and that exasperating "far-off" effect to the voice, the contacts are all of tightly fitting German silver "jacks," which conduct the current perfectly and give a clear resonant conversation.

No line can be out of order longer than four seconds without that fact being discovered by that ceaselessly revolving "Decimal Indicator." When a line is found out of order a warning bell is rung, which calls the attendant to the spot.

It is impossible for a subscriber to get any other number than the one he calls; it is likewise impossible for a third person at Central to overhear a conversation. The Lorimer system gives absolute secrecy.

All the electric current for the talking, ringing and calling circuits is generated at the central exchange. There are no batteries or generators in the subscribers' 'phone to dry up, and become weak or get out of order.

The Lorimer machine assures towns and villages of an all-night service because the batteries which operate the lines are sufficient to furnish the small power required to run the machine. It requires one horse-power to drive ten sections for 1,000 subscribers.

TO MAKE A LORIMER "CALL."

The subscriber sets the dial on his instrument at the number required, pulls down the lever att he side and waits till it returns to its original position, about eight or ten seconds. He is then ready to ring the called line by pressing a push-button on the face of the telephone, and to continue doing so till he is answered. Simple, isn't it? And not a human ear but the person talked to, to hear the conversation! Nothing but an inanimate mass of metal between the speakers—no cutting in, no officious enquiry of "Finished? Finished?" no cutting out before the conversation is completed, no waiting for Central to answer the ring, no exasperating wait for Central to re-ring the called line when it does not answer.

If the line called is busy there will be silence. That is the "busy" answer. If the line is not busy the vibration of the bell on the called line is distinctly audible, and that tells that the connection is complete and the line called is available. No line can be connected with a busy line. When a line is busy a magnet prevents any other connection being made.

When a conversation is completed all connections in Central are instantaneously cut off by the action of hanging up the receiver and a new one can be rung in instantly. When contrasted with the difficulty of getting a manual Central for a new number after ringing off, this advantage alone is considerable. A dozen consecutive calls can be rung in on the Lorimer in the time one ordinarily can get three from the manual Central.

If a called line is busy the dial can be left set for his number, thus obviating delay in forgetting the number in the interim.

Timid householders may set the number of the firehall or police station before retiring and get instant connection if desired. In case of illness in the family the same may be done with the doctor's number. This would not prevent the subscriber's line being rung up at any time.

In these days of the festive strike the Lorimer machine telephone goes calmly on its way. It belongs to no union, has no walking delegate. Its hours are twenty-four per day, and seven days per week.

The outside construction or wiring for the Lorimer is the same as for the manual. In this respect there is little need for improvement, as the quality of the service depends almost entirely upon the quality of the material used.

The Canadian Machine Telephone Company have a 200 exchange set up at the White Swan Mills, Old Upper Canada College grounds, Toronto, and can be seen by those interested.

The company has a fine new factory nearly completed and ready for occupancy in January, at Old Upper Canada College, where they will manufacture the machines for sale.

MURDEROUS CUPIDITY.

Because He Did Not Get Enough, Boy Shot Aunt and Cousin.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—William Kauffmann shot and fatally injured his cousin, Rosa Kauffmann, and wounded his aunt, Mrs. Rega Kauffmann, in a quarrel over Christmas presents. Kauffmann declared that his uncle had not given him a proper number of Christmas presents and attempted to shoot him. The women endeavored to act as peacemakers, and Kauffmann shot them both. He made his escape and has not been arrested.

Police Awed the Strikers

Paris, Dec. 26.—Beyond a few individual attacks by the striking bakers on bakeshops, Paris was quiet yesterday, a condition due to the disposition of a strong force of police and military guards. The strikers held a meeting in the Bourse du Travail yesterday and strongly condemned the use of the army to preserve order. The strikers claim that 2,160 bakers have stopped work, while the chief of police says that only 1,993 have gone out.

Arbitration Treaty Signed.

Paris, Dec. 26.—The treaty of arbitration between France and Italy was signed yesterday by Foreign Minister Delcasse and Signor Tornielle, Italian Ambassador here. The treaty is identical with that between France and Great Britain.

HOLIDAY WOES.

Many Homes Made Desolate and Sorrowful During Glad Christmastide By Fatalities and Casualties.

St. Thomas, Dec. 26.—Frank Small, who has the contract for carrying mail between the stations and the postoffice here, met with a sudden and terrible death at Dexter Friday morning. Mr. Small had a man engaged in driving the mail wagon, while he himself was acting as teamster for the Sutherland Innes Company from the farm of John Van Syckle, Dexter. About 10 o'clock Mr. Small and his brother, Walter, were loading logs upon a sleigh. While guiding a log up the skids Frank's foot slipped, the skids gave way and the large log, which he was supporting, fell, striking him upon the head and crushing him so severely that death was almost instantaneous. Deceased was 25 years of age and married.

Arm Caught in Elevator.

Kingston, Dec. 26.—James Lyons met with a distressing accident yesterday morning. He was working at an elevator when his right arm caught in the shaft and was wound around it. Fortunately his coat was torn off or the accident might have been more serious. It was bad enough as it was, for Mr. Lyons' arm was broken between the shoulder and the elbow and the flesh was badly lacerated.

Brakeman Run Over and Killed.

London, Ont., Dec. 26.—A shocking accident occurred in the Grand Trunk yard here about 4 o'clock yesterday morning, which resulted in the death of Albert E. Latham, brakeman, about 30 years of age. Latham was riding on a yard engine drawing about twenty cars, when he fell off, the cars passing over his legs and mangling them so that they were amputated at Victoria Hospital. Before his death, which occurred about two hours after his fall, Latham stated that he had been suddenly seized with faintness and lost control of himself. A young widow and infant child survive.

Section Man Killed.

Whitby, Dec. 26.—While on his way home to eat his Christmas dinner, Thomas Walton, a G.T.R. sectionman, was yesterday struck by the engine of a freight train and instantly killed. The accident occurred about one and one-half miles east of the G.T.R. station here, and it is supposed that the deceased did not hear the approaching train. Deceased was a most respectable young man and leaves a widow.

RAILWAY WRECK VICTIMS.

Total Number of Dead in Connellsville Railway Accident Now 65.

Connellsville, Pa., Dec. 26.—Another name has been added to the long death list resulting from the Duquesne Limited wreck on the Baltimore & Ohio on Wednesday night. Harry Devlin, one of three remaining patients at the Cottage State Hospital, died at 10 o'clock yesterday. The total dead now number sixty-five, and this probably completes the list, as the two still at the hospital are doing well, and will probably recover. Devlin's home was at Lonaconing, Md.

Special services for the dead were held in all the Protestant churches of the coke regions yesterday, and after the burial of Father Fiemallo, which will take place to-day, the Catholic churches will hold masses for the dead.

The bodies of about thirty of the victims were taken away on early trains.

Those remaining identified will be shipped within the next 24 hours, and the unknowns will be cared for by the Borough Council. A special meeting has been called to form a relief committee to look after bodies unidentified or unclaimed. In case no friends appear the citizens will see that the victims are not buried in the potter's field.

Came to Meet Her Lover.

New York, Dec. 26.—Lillian Bennett, who was to have met here and married Ambrose Good of Newcastle, Pa., who lost his life in the railroad wreck at Connellsville, Pa., Wednesday night, arrived yesterday on the steamship Cedric from Liverpool, and was informed at quarantine of her lover's death. Miss Bennett, who had been worrying because the delay of a day in the vessel's arrival would cause a postponement of the wedding until to-day, was grief-stricken over the news. As she came over in the steerage and has neither friends nor relatives here to take charge of her she must, under the law, be returned to England.

Newspaper Proprietor Killed.

Philadelphia, Dec. 26.—Hugh A. Mullen, one of the proprietors of The Sunday Philadelphia World, and well-known in local politics, was instantly killed last night by being struck by a train at the North Philadelphia station of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Among the papers found in his pocket was an accident insurance policy for $5,000. Mr. Mullen was 56 years old, and a native of Philadelphia.

Run Over While Asleep.

Gladwin, Mich., Dec. 26.—Emery Sheldon and Eli Kemp of Highwood were run over by a train and instantly killed while driving across the track four miles east of this place Thursday night. It is thought they were asleep.

Pugilist Killed.

San Francisco, Dec. 26.—Muldoon McDonald, a well-known colored pugilist, was shot and killed yesterday afternoon by W. H. Atkins, also colored. The shooting was the result of an attempt upon the part of McDonald, his slayer declared, to steal the sum of $1.85 from a card table.

Suicide of a Lunatic.

Winnipeg, Dec. 26.—T. J. Mescott, one of the inmates of the Selkrik Asylum, committed suicide Thursday by hanging. He was about 35 years of age and is survived by a widow and two children.

SOCIETY WOMEN

As Well as the Housewife and Professional Women Endorse Pe-ru-na as a Specific for Winter Diseases.

MISS BLANCHE MYERS.

A SOCIETY LADY'S LETTER.

Miss Blanche Myers, 3120 Pana street, Kansas City, Mo., a prominent young society woman of that place, has the following to say of Peruna:

"During each of the past four seasons I have caught a severe cold, when suddenly chilled after an evening party, and catarrh for several weeks would be the result. One bottle of Peruna cured me, and I shall not dread colds any more as I did."—BLANCHE MYERS.

HOME TREATMENT FREE.

Catarrh Cures by Thousands Under Dr. Hartman's Free Treatment.

Catarrh of the nose and head produces discharge from the nose, sneezing, and pain in the eyes and forehead, weak, and sometimes watery eyes, and occasional loss of memory.

Unless something is done to prevent the catarrh will follow the mucous membrane into the lungs where it will be followed by cough, night sweats, rapid loss of flesh, and the other dread symptoms of consumption.

To all such people Dr. Hartman's treatment comes as a great boon. It is only necessary to send name and address to Dr. Hartman, Columbus, O., and complete directions for the first month's treatment will be sent free.

Not only is it more successful in curing catarrh than the treatment of catarrh specialists, but it is in the reach of every person in this land.

A medicine which is the principal part of Dr. Hartman's treatment, known as Peruna, can be bought at any drug store, and is a remedy without equal for catarrh in all forms, coughs, colds, bronchitis, consumption, and all climatic diseases of winter. Each bottle is accompanied with complete directions for use.

Address The Peruna Medicine Co., of Columbus, Ohio, for a copy of their latest catarrh book, instructively illustrated, and contains 64 pages of the latest information on catarrhal diseases. Sent free to any address.

A Housewife Who Suffered 26 Years.

Mrs. Alla Schwandt, Sanborn, Minn., writes:

"I have been troubled with catarrh for twenty-five years. Could not sleep day or night. After having used Peruna now I can sleep and nothing bothers me now."—Mrs. Alla Schwandt.

Mrs. Jennie Cable, Spokane, Wash., writes:

"After suffering for twenty-one years with neuralgia, caused by catarrh of head, I tried all doctors and all kinds of medicine, receiving no benefit. I became discouraged and worn out at last. My mother wrote me to take Dr. Hartman's medicine, so I did, but my case was a chronic one, and I was also in the change of life. Through the use of Peruna and Manalin I am now entirely well.

"When I began taking your medicine I only weighed 61 pounds; now I weigh 116. I have not taken a drop of medicine for seven months, and would advise all sufferers to consult Dr. Hartman. The neuralgia affected my head and eyes, and for the last year seemed to be in my breast and between my shoulder blades."—Mrs. Jennie Cable.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

The Countess of Ranfurly.

The people of New Zealand are organizing a testimonial for the Countess of Ranfurly before she and the Governor take their departure from the colony. The whole of Lord Ranfurly's family have become greatly endeared to the New Zealanders, for they have moved about the colony a good deal and become personally known to nearly everybody. Lady Constance Knox recently went on a voyage to the Auckland Islands, in the remote Southern Ocean, and the Governor himself has made several trips among the archipelagoes of the South Pacific.

NORTH RENFREW.

All Over Now But the Voting—Conduct of the Campaign—Chances in Favor of Liberal Candidate.

Pembroke, Dec. 26.—The voting in the bye-election in North Renfrew is taking place to-day. The campaign was one of unusual bitterness and personal recrimination, and made no important contribution to the political wealth of the constituency and added little to the dignity of politics in this Province. The Premier and the members of the Cabinet who took part in the campaign did discuss public questions at considerable length and on a high plane, and were forced to descend to petty and personal questions only by the studied and determined course of the Opposition. The introduction into the contest of the member for Manitoulin, and the continuance of his vulgar personalities and morbid egotism over the campaign work of the Opposition, made for the deplorable degradation of the whole situation. Whatever the result of the election on the status of the political parties, the effect of the campaign will not be in the uplifting and purifying of Provincial politics.

The result of the election is altogether uncertain. The variable character of the constituency, as shown in its political history, makes an election under any conditions doubtful. The ardent partisans on both sides predict victory for their party candidate, but the soberer and more cautious speak more guardedly, and, on the whole, anticipate the election of the Liberal candidate. The return of Mr. Hale would give Premier Ross a majority of five in the Legislature. In either event, the Government would continue in power and would carry on the administration of the affairs of the Province.

RESEMBLED THUNDER.

Severe North Shock Felt Along the St. Lawrence Valley.

Ogdensburg, N.Y., Dec. 26.—A distinct earthquake shock was felt throughout this city yesterday morning. Telephone reports show that it was noticed all through Northern St. Lawrence County being severest along the St. Lawrence Valley. Buildings trembled violently at Madrid, sixteen miles east of here, and bottles were thrown from store shelves. The earthquake was accompanied by a noise resembling thunder, which was sufficiently loud to awaken people.

Severe in California.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 26.—A severe earthquake shock, lasting about eight seconds, occurred here at 9.45 yesterday morning. The big buildings in the business centre swayed for an instant. People rushed into the streets thinking some explosion had occurred. No damage is reported.

ZERO ON THE WAY

Chicago Has Promise of 10 Below Here—Other Points.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—A severe snowstorm followed by a cold wave visited Chicago yesterday.

At 10 o'clock last night the mercury stood at 4 below, with the promise from the weather office of 10 degrees below by daylight. The cold is scheduled to continue through to-day with a high wind.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 26.—Almost zero weather prevailed last night in St. Louis and vicinity. Yesterday afternoon a fall of 31 degrees in temperature occurred in four hours. This was accompanied by a high wind that gained a velocity of 40 miles an hour, doing considerable damage.

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 26.—The mercury has fallen 37 degrees since 10 a.m. yesterday, reaching zero at 8 o'clock last night. The cold wave is general over Nebraska and Iowa.

A QUARTER OF A YEAR.

Court of Cassation to Take That Time to Deal With Dreyfus.

Paris, Dec. 26.—The Dreyfus decision has created very little excitement. The Government expects that the public will grow tired of the case by the end of the three months' time, which will be required by the Court of Cassation to pass upon the appeal.

Dreyfus himself refuses to talk for publication, but Joseph Reinach, formerly editor of Siecle, and his other friends, express delight at what they regard as the first step towards his vindication.

700 BRITISH V. 2,000 DERVISH.

In Spite of Odds, Enemy Lost 80 Killed and 100 Wounded.

London, Dec. 26.—The War Office Thursday received a despatch from Major-General Sir Charles Egerton, dated Kerrit, Somaliland, Dec. 21, saying that 700 British and native troops had surprised 2,000 Dervish at Jidballi, thirty-eight miles east of Badwein. The engagement lasted three hours. The enemy's casualties were 80 killed and 100 wounded. The British loss was two men killed and four wounded and one missing.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighbourhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of his children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost in case of croup as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup known as hive syrup, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw off the phlegm quicker and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as a croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to use. For sale by all druggists.

Smallpox at a Ball.

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 26.—Nine persons suffering from smallpox were taken to the Quarantine Hospital yesterday. Six of the cases were discovered at a dance hall in Broadway, where a large number of persons were exposed to infection. The health authorities are working hard to stamp out the disease. Two buildings have been quarantined and placed under a police guard.

TO TROUBLE BOUND

Alaska Question Settled, But Another Grave One Rises.

WE FACE IT RESOLUTELY

Col. Denison's Letter in the Times Says Canada is in Favor of Mr. Chamberlain—London Morning Post Pays a Tribute to the Toronto Speech of Sir Richard Cartwright—Naval Protection.

London, Dec. 26.—(C.A.P.)—The Express, referring to the bill brought before the Dominion Parliament to change the name of Hudson Bay to the Canadian Sea, says: "Canada is facing with resolute intention a new dispute with the United States, fraught with far more serious possibilities than the Alaskan question."

Col. George T. Denison of Toronto writes to The Times: "Canadians are astonished at a prominent English politician, declaring that the colonies are not on Chamberlain's side. Canada is overwhelmingly in favor of the preference and politicians must not listen to the cry of a few Canadians and one or two renegade Canadians in England and Canada against the preference. Every open or secret enemy of the Empire is against Chamberlain."

Sir Richard's Speech.

The Post says that Sir Richard Cartwright's great speech in Toronto was distorted to please the free trade journals of England. It calls his statement favoring a tax on food exports from the United States to England a remarkable argument in favor of the Chamberlain policy, and adds that Sir Richard's statement in relation to the increase in the respect shown by the United States, and promising Canada's help, was the most eloquent portion of all the speech on behalf of Chamberlain.

The Post says: "It is curious that no Canadian statesman sees the necessity of Canada's seaboard trade, and that it requires protection in time of war through the necessity of maintaining naval stations in the vicinity of trade routes as already understood by Australia, South Africa, New Zealand and even Newfoundland.

Wrecks on the St. Lawrence.

London, Dec. 26.—(C.A.P.)—The Times' Newfoundland correspondent, referring to the year's record of wrecks on the St. Lawrence route, says that a great saving could be made in every case if the interests of the English underwriters were considered in preference to the wishes of Canadian steamship managers who claim that the reason for the present course is that Newfoundlanders want to make too much wreck salvage.

MAINTAINS STORY'S ACCURACY.

Denials of Vatican Only Cover Receipt of Actual Securities.

Paris, Dec. 26.—The Rome correspondent of The Figaro maintains the accuracy of the statement that the Pope has received through Cardinal Gotti, Prefect of the Congregation of the Propaganda, several millions of dollars, which were held back at the request of the late Pope Leo. The correspondent adds that the money had been invested and that Cardinal Gotti simply transferred to Pope Pius a memorandum of the investments without, however, handing to him the actual securities. It is pointed out that the official denials only cover this latter point.

A DESPERATE MAN'S DEEDS.

Unable to Buy Gifts, Farmer Kills His Three Children.

Hudson, N.Y., Dec. 26.—Brooding over his inability to purchase suitable Christmas gifts for his three motherless children, Joseph Phillips, a Hollowville farmer, Thursday night murdered the children and then hanged himself.

Phillips had complained lately of his poverty, and it is believed his mind became unsettled. With an ax in hand, Phillips entered his house Christmas Eve and crushed the skulls of Todo, aged 15; Frank, aged 11, and Carrie, aged 10. Mrs. Phillips died last summer.

MAY HAVE BEEN MURDERED.

Thos. Cahill's Body, With Head Wounds, Found in the Water.

Kingston, Dec. 26.—Thomas Cahill, aged 60, a farm laborer, was found drowned yesterday morning, lying on a float at the foot of Queen street. His head was partially under water. On his forehead was a cut, with a big bruise and open wound on the back of his head. His shoulder was dislocated by the fall upon the float. Foul play is suspected, and an inquest will be held.

Fire Raged Three Hours.

Hamilton, Dec. 26.—A $25,000 blaze broke out in the planing mill and sash and door factory of David Aitcheson & Co. last evening about 8 o'clock and raged for three hours. The mill was completely destroyed with a large finished stock and valuable machinery. The fire was confined to the planing mill, which joins the box factory of the company, from which it was separated by only a stone wall. About 85 men are employed by the company, which will rebuild at once.

Golden Rule Trust.

Toledo, Ohio, Dec. 26.—Mayor Samuel M. Jones yesterday announced that 100 shares of stock in the S. M. Jones Company, par value $100 each, have been set aside to create a "golden rule trust," to be administered by a board of seven employes of the factory. The dividends on this stock are to be used to "perpetuate the golden rule idea" and to make the company an "educational as well as a manufacturing business."

Comfort for the Aged.

Judging from the letters of people up in years there is no medicine which so promptly frees them of aches and pains and insures regularity of the liver, kidneys and bowels as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Even when all other means have failed old people can turn to this great medicine with full assurance of relief and cure.

	Book No. 6 on Rheumatism.

Just ask for the book you need.

Let me tell you my experience as a specialist of 30 years. The book tells of a way to health. It tells how, after 30 years, I found a way to reach deep-seated and difficult diseases.

In hospitals and at bed-sides I laboured hard and long to learn what I tell the sick in these, the books I have written.

The books tell how I perfected my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. How by scientific experiment I traced out the causes that bring on chronic diseases.

I found invariably that there was a weakness, the inside nerves were weak.

Where there was a lack of vitality, the vital nerves lacked power.

Where weak organs were found, I always found weak nerves.

Not the nerves commonly thought of, but the vital organs' nerves. The inside—the invisible nerves.

This was a revelation.

Then my real success began.

Then I combined ingredients that would strengthen—that would vitalize these nerves.

That prescription I called a restorative. It is known the world over as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. After that I did not fail to cure one case in each hundred. In the extremely difficult cases my failures were one in each forty treated. I found cancer incurable. Cancer is for surgery, not medicine.

Then how to get this prescription to the sick ones everywhere was my thought.

I must announce it in the public press. But, thought I, will they realize the real truth of my discovery—the real power of Dr. Shoop's Restorative? Then a way came to me like an inspiration.

"I will offer it to the sick on trial," said I. "Then they will know I am sincere—that my prescription is unusual."

I wrote a reliable druggist in each city and village in America. They agreed to co-operate with me.

Now to any Sick One

Dr. Shoop's Restorative

Can be Taken at my Risk.

For a full month I will let you use it entirely at my risk.

Send no money. Just write me for the book you need. When I send it I will tell you of a druggist near you who will permit the month's trial. Use the Restorative a month. Then decide. If you say to the druggist, "It did not help me," that will relieve you of any expense whatever. He will bill the cost to me. This is my way of clearing your mind of all doubt as to what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do.

No matter how prejudiced, you cannot dispute this absolute security I offer. You cannot resist an offer like this of you are at all sick. If you have a weakness write me. If you can't do things like you used dto do them, tell me about it. Write in confidence. As a physician I will tell you a way to help.

Get my book now—to-day.

Mild cases, not chronic, are often cured by one or two bottles. At druggists.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Manila.—Ladrones recently looted the municipal treasury at Boscoboso, in Luzon. They captured the Presidente and cut the tendons of his heels.

Slocan City, B. C.—While loading a barge with freight cars, Brakeman E. O. Conley of Nelson, aged about 24, fell into Slocan Lake and was drowned.

Detroit.—In the partial destruction of a dwelling by fire, Marguerite Nicolai, aged 2, was burned to death, and her brother John, aged 7, perhaps fatally injured by inhaling smoke.

Shanghai.—An indecisive battle has occurred between four battalions of Chinese from Hung Chun and 1,500 Coreans, who invaded Chinese territory, from Kyeng-Chung, in North-east Corea.

Cape Haytien.—General Morales, with a strong force and many cannon, disembarked at Montecristi, Santo Domingo, Monday, after a bombardment of the port. The troops under General Jimenez were defeated.

Manila.—Gov. Taft has pardoned several Filipino prisoners, including the priest, Leonardo Depugay, who was under sentence of death, for burying alive the Presidente of Tayiay, which has been commuted to penal servitude for 20 years.

Tarte For Berthier.

Montreal, Dec. 24.—The Conservative convention at Berthier yesterday nominated J. Israel Tarte for the Commons and Victor Allard for the Local. Mr. Tarte said he preferred to wait till the northern part of the county sent a larger representation.

The Evidence Was Value.

By word of mouth from friend to friend Dr. Chase's Ointment has received more unsolicited recommendation than probably any medicine you can mention. The fact that it is an absolute cure for piles has put it in a class all by itself as a preparation of inestimable value and people recommend it knowing that it is a certain cure.

Coming to Canada.

London, Dec. 24.—Henry Norman, M.P., the author and traveler, sailed for New York yesterday from Liverpool on the White Star Line steamer Majestic. He proposes to investigate the question of preferential tariffs in Canada.

Daily Examiner.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1903.

Were not Installed.

The Examiner was misinformed when it stated that the installation of officers in the local tent, K.O.T.M. would take place on Christmas Eve. The election of officers was held some few days ago, and the installation will not be held until the second week in January, after the returns have been made to the High Tent.

Christmas Fruits.

A store which has benefitted materially by the Christmas trade is that of S. A. Oke & Co. Mr. Oke, who deals exclusively in fruit has done a most satisfactory business, which has been increasing in volume for some time. Those who are particular about having the best in the line of fruit, and who want to have a large stock to select from invariably think of S. A. Oke, and as a result the store has been doing a huge business.

A Distressing Loss.

The Misses M. and J. Hough, of Toronto, arrived in town at noon on Christmas day to spend the holidays with their widowed mother, Mrs. J. A. Hough, 289 Rubidge street. On their arrival at their mother's home, Miss M. Hough discovered that she had lost her pocket book containing about $20. The two young ladies had walked from the C.P.R. station to Aylmer street, along Aylmer to Sherbrooke and west on Sherbrooke to their mother's home on Rubidge. Such a loss, under the circumstances, is a specially trying one at this time, and, of course, must have had the effect of marring the pleasure which their home-coming to their widowed mother was intended to have been. As will be seen by an advertisement among the "Lost" articles in another column, a reward is offered for the recovery of the money, and it is hoped that it may fall into the hands of some honest person, who will consider the particularly distressing nature of the loss.

SERIOUS FIRE IN WOOD MERCHANT'S OFFICE.

R. Hicks & Co's Office Badly Burned This Morning.

A Serious Fire Caused by the Stove—Loss Covered by Insurance—Damages to the Extent of $150.

About 7.45 o'clock this morning fire broke out in the office on Murray street, of R. Hicks & Company, and charred walls and frozen water hanging from the rafters and window sills now remain to tell the tale.

It is a doubled walled building made throughout of wood, the walls being about six inches apart. The fire originated from the stove and was detected shortly after the fire in that article of furniture was lighted for the day. The fire was drawn up between the two walls by the draught and what had begun with a spark was soon a mass of flame. Mr. Wm. Menzies, an employee of the company, was the first to discover the fire and immediately gave the alarm which resulted in the brigade being called out. The men in the building on hearing the cry of fire rushed to the spot and it was not many moments before a bucket brigade was organized. The office was filled with smoke while no fire could be seen, but its roaring between the sides of the building was very loud. The efforts of the employees were almost fruitless on account of the difficulty which confronted them in getting the water in to the flames. It was with a sigh of relief that those persistently fighting the fire with inadequate appliances heard the clanging of the bell and the rattle of hose as the brigade dashed up. The firemen smartly fitted up the hose and within fifteen minutes, by taking the top boards off the roof, had the fire well under control.

Mr. Hicks stated to the Examiner to-day that the fire had done about $150 damages, all of which was covered by insurance.

The building which is owned by Mr. Wm. Yelland, is now in a pretty bad condition. The fire had burned all between the walls and naturally greatly weakened both them and the roof. Had the fire burned for half an hour more the whole building would have collapsed, resulting in a great loss to its occupants.

MANAGER OF LOCK WORKS PRESENTED WITH WATCH.

Mr. Thos. Fortye Honoured by the Employees of that Factory on Thursday Evening.

A memorable incident occurred at the Lock Works on Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock, when Mr. Thos. Fortye the Manager of that establishment was honoured by the employees with a gold watch and a complementary address which ran as follows:—

Thos. Fortye, Esq., Manager Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company:

Dear Sir,—The advent of Christmas, once more, with its joyous note of goodwill towards men, proclaims o'er all the world the universal brotherhood of man, and prompts to deeds of gift-giving as an outward expression of the in-dwelling spirit.

On behalf of the employees of the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company, we desire to express to you, our appreciation of your interest in us, and your kindly consideration manifested towards us at all times.

As a slight token of our regard and esteem, we desire you to accept this gold watch, and our earnest hope is that you may long be spared to wear it, and that it may ever be a reminder of the pleasant and harmonious relations that exist between us, as manager and employees of the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company.

We one and all wish you a very Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

Signed on behalf of the employees,

H. TAYLOR,
H. MORENCY,
A. WEATHERHEAD,
W. McAULIFFE.

Peterborough, Dec. 24th, 1903.

The address was read by Mr. O. J. Taber, while Mr. E. Ward presented the watch.

In reply Mr. Fortye thanked all for the gift which he would ever value as a memento of the genial relationship which had existed between himself and his fellow employees.

MR. HICKS PRESENTED WITH GOLD CANE.

By His Employees on Christmas Eve.

A very pleasant event occurred on Christmas eve in Mr. Robert Hicks' office, when his staff of employees in a body took possession of his private office and presented Mr. Hicks' with a swagger gold mounted ebony cane, with his initials engraved thereon, accompanied by the following address, which was read by Miss Carveth, and Mr. J. Worboy made the presentation:

Mr. R. Hicks,—

Dear Sir,—Your employees desire to take advantage of this festal season of "good will toward men" to express our esteem for you as an enterprising and considerate employer.

It has been well said that, "'tis better that a man's own works than another's words should praise him," and in this respect the rapid growth of your business is evidence enough of your enterprise and pluck, which has caused it to grow.

Your employees are not forgetful of the fact that your success in business has also contributed to our prosperity, and we sincerely hope that still brighter prospects may continue to encourage you.

Allow us also to say that while we have admired your business ability we have also learned to esteem you for your many quietly performed acts of good heartedness to your men and others.

We sincerely hope that both you and Mrs. Hicks may be long spared together, and that this Christmas may be the happiest both of you ever enjoyed.

Please accept this ebony walking stick as a Christmas gift from your men, which we were unable to get into your stocking, for it should serve to strengthen the pleasant relations between employer and employes our best wishes will have been served.

Signed,—I. Derocher, T. McEntee, Wm. O'Donnell, A. H. Ross, W. G. Menzies, J. Worboy, J. Goacher, G. Dredge, M. Carveth, L. Eakins.

Mr. Hicks' was taken completely by surprise bu tmade a brief speech in which he thanked hise mployees for the evidence of good will and cordial relations which existed between the firm and employees. He had faith in his men, and believed that they were working in his interests. He concluded by wishing all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

A PIPE AND CASE WAS HIS CHRISTMAS BOX.

From His Fellow Employees—Pleasant Affair at the Auburn Woolen Mills.

On Thursday the members of the spinning department of the Auburn Woollen Mills, presented Mr. J. M. Bain with a handsome pipe and case, as a token of esteem in which he was held, and the event was one of extreme pleasure to all concerned.

The address ran as follows;—

Mr. J. M. Bain!

Dear Sir,—We, the employees of the Spinning Department, over which you have had charge during the year now drawing to a close, feel that we cannot let this festive season pass without showing you in some practical way the kindness we have received at your hands. And, while you have always kept the interests of our employer in view you have at all times treated us with uniform kindness and we ask you to accept the accompanying gift with our best wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year for yourself and family.

D. GREENE,
R. KENDREY,
W. REGAN,
A. HAYES,

Mr. Bain made a suitable reply, emphasizing the very pleasant relations which he was glad to say existed between himself and his fellow workmen.

The Rev. Irl R. Hicks 1904 Almanac.

The Rev. Irl R. Hicks' Almanac for 1904, is now ready. It will be mailed to any address for 20 cents. It is surprising how such an elegant and costly book can be sent prepaid so cheaply. No family or person is prepared to study the heavens or the storms and weather in 1904, without this wonderful Hicks Almanac and Professor Hicks' splendid paper, Word and Works. Both are sent for only one dollar a year. Word and Works is among the best American magazines. Like the Hicks' Almanac, it is too well known to need farther commendation. Few men have laboured more faithfully for the public good or found a warmer place in the hearts of the people. Send orders to Word and Works Publishing Co., 2291 Locust street, St. Louis, Mo.

AT THE CHURCHES ON CHRISTMAS DAY.

Short Services Held Yesterday in Several.

Impressive Celebration of the Day in the Different Churches—Special Music a Feature of the Services.

A most impressive Christmas service was held at St. John's church yesterday morning. In accordance with the angelic command, a feeling of joy and peacefulness pervaded the atmosphere of the church, while the beautiful decorations gave a touch of enthusiasm to the service.

Rev. J. C. Davidson preached an excellent sermon, taking for histext Zechariah ii, verse 10, "Sing and rejoice, O daughter of Zion, for lo, I come, and I will dwell in the midst of thee, saith the Lord." The preacher began by pointing out how welcome was that message of brightness, of comfort, of cheer to men who were in darkness and desolation, and that promise given out in the text was fulfilled in due season, and the Son of God came down on earth with psalms and rejoicing. Rev. Mr. Davidson next pictured parted friends and relatives scattered over the world attending a Christmas service in churches decorated as was St. John's. Let us take a part, continued Mr. Davidson, in making the day a joy to all, especially to the little children, for He came as a little child, and loved them, and when we give our presents, let us remember God's gracious gift to man. Let us be alive to the joy which cometh from above, and always let us welcome the new-born King.

The hymns were "O Come All Ye Faithful," "Hark! the Herald Angels Sing," and "Christians Awake, Salute the Happy Morn," being numbers 59, 60 and 61 respectively. The special psalms for the day were also said. During the offertory the choir sang a beautiful anthem, entitled, "While Shepherds Watch their Flocks by Night."

ALL SAINT'S CHURCH.

Two services were held yesterday in All Saints' church, at both of which, the rector, Rev. W. L. Armitage, spoke briefly, the subject at the first service, being at 8.30, was "Immanuel," and at the second, which was held at 11, "Good tidings of great joy." At 3 o'clock the rector conducted a services t the Riverside Mission.

The music at yesterday's services consisted of the special Christmas hymns, Reed's "Te Deum," Schilling's "Jubilate," an arrangement from "Adeste Fidelis," and "We have seen His Star."

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

At St. Peter's cathedral yesterday there was a large congregation at High Mass, at 10.30, when His Lordship Bishop O'Connor pontificated. A special feature of the grand service was the musical portion, which under the leadership of Mr. Richard Broderick, Miss Kate Hurley, organist, was very capably and effectively presented by the choir, which deserves special commendation for the very satisfactory and capable manner in which they presented the difficult music, special, as well as incidental.

While the consecrating prelate was preparing for mass, the full choir sang with fine effect, and unaccompanied, "Adeste Fideles." The mass was that of Lambillotte in E flat. The soprano solos were taken by Mrs. E. J. McCarthy, Misses A. Simons, L. Hollihan, and M. Clancy. The contralto solos fell to Misses Koster, J. Delaire, N. Simons and J. Clancy. Mr. LeGros took the tenor solo, and the bass soli were taken by Messrs. J. Wyer, F. Pope and A. Delaire. All these soloists acquitted themselves very creditably. At the offertory, Miss Annie Simons sang very effectively Dressler's "O Holy Night" with chorus by the choir.

In the evening Est's grand musical vespers were sung with Lambilotte's Magnificat, the solos being taken by Misses A. Simons, L. Hallihan, M. Clancy, L. Koster and Mr. J. Wyer.

At the Benediction, the trio, "O, Salutaris Hostes," was exceptionally well taken by Misses L. Hallihan, L. Koster and Mr. J. Wyer. The Tantum Ergo was that of Howard, with chorus by the choir.

Taken altogether the Christmas music at St. Peter's was produced with exceptionally excellent effect.

Service at the Gaol.

A bright Christmas service was held yesterday afternoon conducted by a local clergyman assisted by a number of young men. All the inmates were present and apparently appreciated the service.

Butchered.

A certain well known Peterborough lady, who had sent an order for a joint of mutton, received the following reply: "Dear Mam,—I am sorry I have not killed myself this week, but you can have a leg off my brother. Your affectionate butcher."

MR. J. B. CUNCANNON GIVEN CARVING SET.

Employees of Armature Department Remembered Their Foreman.

Mr. J. B. Cuncannon was presented with a handsome carving set and address on Christmas eve by the employees of the Armature Assembly department of the C. G. E. Co.

Mr. J. B. Cuncannon:

Dear sir,—We, the undersigned committee on behalf of the employees of the armature assembly department of the C. G. E., in reviewing the past year, feel we cannot let this golden opportunity pass without in some way showing our appreciation for the many kindnesses bestowed upon us by you in this year about to close. And we feel it our duty on this auspicious occasion of Christmas to present to you this small gift, not for its value but to show the esteem and regard in which you are held by your employees. May you long live to enjoy the choicest meats and fowl that may be carved by this set. We trust that the good will and harmony which has existed in the past may continue long in the future. Wishing you the compliments of the season, which is a Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Signed by the committee.

The address was read by Mr. Chas. Akey, the presentation being made by Mr. Wm. Nelson.

Mr. Cuncannon in reply thanked the employees for their kindness shown and wished one and all the compliments of the season.

PETERBOROUGH MAN ON COMMISSION.

Mr. C. E. Brown to Investigate Electric Smelting.

A despatch from Ottawa to the Mail and Empire says: "The Government has appointed a commission to go to Europe to inspect the various plants that use the thermo-electric process for the smelting of iron ores and the making of steel. The commission consists of Dr. Haanel, Superintendent of Mines, and Mr. C. E. Brown, assistant and works engineer for the Canadian General Electric Co., Peterborough. A steel expert and a draughtsman will be added to the commission, but they will be selected in Europe.

There are five establishments in Europe where pig-iron and steel are commercially produced by electricity.

Mr. Brown is to be congratulated on being chosen on such an important commission, and it is highly creditable to him that his ability has been thus recognized.

"RATEPAYER" REPROVES THE TOWN COUNCIL

To the Editor of the Examiner:

A remark heard on the street this morning seems to me to indicate the feeling of the majority of the electors on the street railway question. In conversation with a friend a man was heard to say "We want the railway, but we want to know who is to run it." And it is apparent that the council has played with this matter and is guilty of practically deceiving the people. While it may not have been stated definitely, still the majority of the people had the impression that Mr. Stuart and the American Cereal Company interests had at the time of the negotiations absolute control of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company, and that from them the street railway was to be obtained. It was with considerable surprise that I learned with other electors, that all the negotiations between Mr. Stuart and the town had been carried on on the strength of an option which the former held on the assets of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company, and did not, as it was popularly supposed, own the stock of the company. The members of the council knew that the people had the idea that it was from Mr. Stuart that the railway was to be procured, and they allowed them to entertain what has since proven to be an erroneous belief. The electors would not have remained passive while a street lighting contract was being awarded at a price $16,000 in excess of an offer to do the same lighting for, had they not thought that this contract at the higher figure was being given in order that Mr. Stuart might be induced to operate the railway. You can imagine, therefore, the surprise I felt when I learned that the company to which the lighting contract had been given and that which had been given the street railway franchise were entirely separate and distinct, and that no secret or other understanding existed between them.

The position the town finds itself now is that the street railway by-law will be amended and the franchise given to the old railway company, and the electors have no assurance that Mr. Stuart will have anything to do with it, and the council may find itself tied up for thirty years with the old company which so humbugged the people and mis-managed the railway that no person wants to see the town in its power again.

By the temporary retirement of Miss Kate Hurley from the organ of St. Peter's cathedral, the musical interests of the town will, for a time at least, lose the active services of a lady who has been most prominently, and creditably, associated with them for some years. Miss Hurley's retirement will take effect on Jan. 1st next, her place being taken by Miss Maggie Doherty. Miss Hurley proposes taking a well earned rest, and will make a protracted visit to Texas. The numerous friends she has won during the many years she has been so prominently connected with musical interests, etc., will extend their best wishes for a pleasant holiday, and resulting benefit to health and happiness.

The Happiest Ever That's What the Goughs Wish

IT'S a little hard to realize that another year has slipped away and that the gladsome Christmastide is here again. The happy Festival has arrived, heralded by the arrival of Santa Claus, who has been arranging his gifts by the hundreds from our big store premises for weeks past.

We've studied long and worked hard in bringing together such a great array of attractive and serviceable gifts, and it's with just pride that we have been able to assist in making so many merry hearts. Once again, its "The Old, Old Story," and the beautiful custom of remembering friends reigns supreme. Prompted by the gratitude that comes after another prosperous year, we sincerely hope that the birth of another year will usher in happiness and prosperity for all,—especially for the good people of the City of Peterborough.

We desire again to greet our many friends and patrons and extend to them the Compliments of the Season.

SOCIAL COMMITTEE TO GIVE RECEPTION.

Annual Event at the Y.M.C.A. on New Year's Day—All Young Men and Citizens are Invited.

The Social Committee of the Y.M.C.A. invite all young men and citizens generally who are interested in the work to call at the building on New Year's day.

For the first time in the new building this annual event will be open to all and the committee hope to receive every interested citizen on that day.

Ladies who usually contribute refreshments are asked to send in the same before noon on New Year's day.

WERE WEDDED ON CHRISTMAS EVE.

Miss Alice Curtis Became Bride of Mr. Newton Switzer.

A very pleasing wedding ceremony took place on Christmas Eve. at the residence of Mr. Geo. Curtis, 690 Aylmer street, when his daughter, Alice Patience, was married to Mr. Newton Thomas Switzer, of Toronto. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. P. Wilson, in the presence of about forty friends of the bride and groom The house was very prettily decorated for the occasion, and the wedding made a particularly pleasing sight. The bride who was charmingly attired in white was attended by Miss Mabel Fairley, while the groom was assisted by Mr. Walter Dickey, of Toronto.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the residence, a delightful wedding dinner, being served.

Mr. and Mrs. Switzer will reside in Toronto in future.

CHRISTMAS.

Christmas bells again are ringing;
Choirs invisible are singing,
And to Him our hopes are clinging
Who rules in earth and sky;
Though all else grows old and hoary,
Ever new is that glad story
Which ascribes all praise and glory
Unto the Lord most high.

Angels came, the message telling
Of that gift so excelling
Which God to mortals gave.
Shepherds who their flocks were keeping
While their fellowman were sleeping
Heard what banished fear and weeping
And made them strong and brave.

When the messenger appearing
Found them sore amazed and fearing
He proclaimed in accents cheering
Glad tidings full of joy.
He said let fear away be driven,
For unto you this day is given
A Saviour, Christ the King of Heaven,
Whose reign none can destroy.

Then the watchful shepherds gazing
Saw the angels join in praising
Him whose wondrous love amazing
To us in blessing came;
Peace on earth, in accents tender,
Good will each to each shall render;
All mankind through years of splendor
Shall glorify His name.

From the throne eternal bending
Love divine its light is sending,
Heaven and earth are surely blending
While years their course prolong.
Worthless vanities forsaking,
Willing hearts His gifts are taking;
For at length the day is breaking,
And sighs are changed to song.

An Attack of Pneumonia Warded Off

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold. She complained of pains in the chest and had a bad cough. I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, according to directions, and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail," says James Prendergast, merchant, Annato Bay, Jamaica, West India Islands. The pains in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly warded off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold towards pneumonia For sale by all druggists.

New Nova Scotia Railways.

Extensive railway construction is planned in Nova Scotia during the next few years. Projects are now formed for the building of over 700 miles of railways in different sections of the province, and when these lines shall have been completed nearly every part of Nova Scotia will be within easy reach of railway communication. To aid in building these lines, most of which are branches, the Dominion Government has appropriated subsidies aggregating $2,137,000, which sum will be supplemented by equal subsidies to be voted by the Provincial Government. These railways do not include the South Shore line from Halifax to Yarmouth, 217 miles long, which is now in course of construction by Mackenzie & Mann, and which will be completed next autumn.

The most important of the projected roads for which a subsidy has been granted is the railway from Halifax to the Strait of Canso, running through a rich timber and gold-bearing country. This with the South Shore line will form a trunk line 250 miles in length long the Atlantic Coast from Yarmouth to Canso, and will be one of the most important railway enterprises in Eastern Canada, as it will place Eastern Nova Scotia in almost direct communication with Boston and New York, and will open up a fertile and rich mining country. All of the Nova Scotia projects will be undertaken by private corporations, the only Government owned line in that province being the Intercolonial Railway.

Christmas In Other Lands.

In Norway, where Christmas finds the land buried deep under the snow, the fiords frozen and the whole country tight in the grasp of the ice, there are many quaint and pretty Christmas customs. Perhaps the most interesting of all are the nesting and feeding of the birds. A few days before Christmas new straw and hay are put into every nest that can be found in the hollows of trees and the eaves of houses and barns, and straw is scattered about over the frozen snow to be carried away by the birds themselves. Then, in every available spot on the thatched roofs, on house tops, window sills and doorsteps, are strewn large measures of grain. It is a pretty sight to see the flocks of birds sweeping down to this feast. So they feed royally during the holiday times, making up for many days of scant living, for it is hard to find anything to eat when everything is frozen so fast.

BRITAIN AND PANAMA.

Joy Over the Recognition—Crowds Parade Streets Singing "God Save the King" on Hearing the News.

Colon, Dec. 26.—Colon is joyful over the news that the British Government has recognized the Republic of Panama. This news, which was conveyed early in the day by the British Consul at Panama to the Junta, was received here late Thursday evening and immediately circulated.

The foreign population of Colon is largely composed of natives of Great Britain, and the Britishers joined the natives in their jubilation.

Senor Porforio Melendez, the civil and military Governor of Colon, gave permission to the inhabitants to celebrate the event without restriction, and full advantage was partaken of this permission.

At 8 o'clock Thursday night Governor Melendez, accompanied by a band and a military escort, and joined by a great crowd of the inhabitants, assembled in front of the British Consulate, where the band played old English airs and the crowd cheered most enthusiastically.

A torchlight procession was afterward formed, the crowd marching through the streets singing God Save the King.

Washington Hears It.

Washington, Dec. 26.—The American State Department has been officially advised of the recognition by Great Britain of the Republic of Panama.

COLOMBIAN FORCES QUITTING.

No Indications Visible of Attack By Them on Panama.

Washington, Dec. 26.—United States Consul-General Gudger at Panama, has transmitted to the American State Department a report from the American Consul at Cali, Department of Cauca, stating the Colombian volunteer forces in that section are disbanding and there are no indications of an attack upon Panama. From Cartegena comes information of a similar character.

Warships Ready.

San Francisco, Dec. 26.—Orders have been received from Washington by local United States transport officials to get the troopships Sherman and Buford in readiness for service immediately. The transport officials maintain secrecy as to the orders received, and refuse to divulge the intended destination of the vessels. It is generally believed, however, that it is the intention to have the troopships in readiness for any movement toward Panama.

WANT THE DUTY RAISED.

Speyer & Co. Ask Protection For Caustic Soda and Bleaching Powder.

Ottawa, Dec. 24.—A deputation waited on the Minister of Customs yesterday and asked for the imposition of a duty on caustic soda and bleaching powder. The deputation consisted of Mr. Rodine, manager of the chemical company at Sault Ste. Marie; Mr. Burr of Pennsylvania, solicitor for the American Alkali Company, and Mr. Bicknell of Toronto, representing Speyer & Co., who now control the Sault industries.

The Soo company is the only one in Canada that manufactures caustic soda and bleaching powder, but since they started operations English and German manufacturers, in order to gain this market, have cut their prices down to one-half of what they are in the country of manufacture. The result has been to put the Soo company out of business, and they are at present shut down. With the aid of a duty, they claim they could supply the entire demand in Canada.

Munyon's Great Work.

"I have had Rheumatism for 17 years, and have been in bed for three months at a time from this terrible disease. I have tried many different doctors and medicines, but they did me no good at all. The pains affected the muscles in my shoulders and neck, and they were in such a chronic, painful condition that I despaired of ever getting well. At times I could not stand on my feet, the pains were so frightful. The first bottle of Munyon's Rheumatism Cure gave me great relief, and the second bottle cured me."—Madame E. CHRISTMAS ON AN ICEBERG

THIS is in substance the story of Ray Lambertson, a Nova Scotia lad of eighteen, who was taken off an iceberg at sea by a passing ship and treated in Bellevue hospital:

"Father and I went out fishing on Christmas eve last from Clark's harbor. We were after mackerel and were doing well, but had not been long out when a bay of Fundy fog surrounded us, and we concluded to put back. After groping our way east for half an hour we struck against something, or something struck against us, and I was thrown clean overboard. I know now that the keel of our boat collided with the spur of an iceberg. When I rose to the surface I heard the old man shouting, but I couldn't answer him, and it seems to me that the spur got between us in the first place and then we were separated altogether by the entire berg. I managed to get on a ledge of the berg and maintain myself there by bracing my shoulder against a slight projection overhead. When I thought I was on top the berg would keel over until I found myself on the side, and at one time it turned a complete somersault and threw me once more into the water. I had a good mind to give up then and accept what seemed my fate, but I thought of the folks at home and that my father being probably drowned the family would have to depend on me. So I made another effort. The berg was rolling and presented many sharp points here and there, one of which I seized and by its means lifted myself to the ledge from which I had been thrown.

"Realising that I could not maintain myself in that position, I climbed once more to the top and this time found myself in a saucer shaped cavity. Whipping out my knife, I hacked away for dear life until I had scooped out a still deeper hollow, and after much hard work I succeeded in gathering quite a pile of pebbles and sea weed, on which I rested my feet. Meantime my body from the waist up was exposed. Even at this I was in danger of falling out or off when the berg rolled over, as it frequently did. I was therefore obliged to be constantly on the alert. Exhausted from my exertions and though fearing that sleep might mean death, I could not resist the drowsiness that came over me; so I fell asleep. When I awoke after a few hours it was night, and the stars were in the sky. Though my hands and feet were numbed, I did not feel as cold as one might imagine. It is useless describing my sensations. I thought of the sad Christmas mother and the kids would pass without me and, perhaps, without the old man, and I prayed to God to save me. I was glad when the morning came—Christmas morning—but I suffered fearfully from hunger and thirst, especially from thirst. Christmas day passed over me like Christmas eve, and at the dawn of the 26th I gave up hope. But one should never despair even though hundreds of miles out at sea on an iceberg, for that evening I was taken off the berg by a boat from the barkentine Sea Serpent, commanded by Captain Ferguson, and bound for the Azores. The captain treated me well, and after staying on the Azores a few weeks I came to New York in a Liverpool brigantine.

"That is about all," concluded the young fisherman from Nova Scotia. "And, say, doctor, I don't want to spend no more Christmas days on a berg."—Washington Post.

A VERSATILE THIEF.

Arrested While Hedging With Varied Collection of Jewelry and Trinkets.

Toronto, Dec. 24.—Morley B. Schack is a young man about 20 years old who thought he could steal without fear from the police, but he found out different when Detective Mackie faced him in the home of his sweetheart on East Gerrard street, near Brodaview avenue. In his hand Detective Mackie had four warrants sworn out for thefts of various articles, mostly small jewelry and trinkets.

On his person Schack had five fountain pens stolen from George Kelly, a stationer at Elm and Yonge streets, where he has been working for the past few days; a doctor's gold-mounted thermometer worth about $15; a pair of eyeglasses, which he does not use; three valuable silk handkerchiefs, a diamond crescent brooch, which he said he intended to give to the young lady who was present when he was arrested; a gold knot scarf pin, a ring worth $10, belonging to H. L. Edwards, manager of the branch of Gilpin, Fields & Co.'s store at Borden and West Bloor streets, from where the young man absconded with the ring; $5 from the till and $1.50 which the manager had sent him with to Boisseau's to purchase a neck scarf.

In the hallway stood a coatrack on which hung a coat stolen from the Victoria Rink on Dec. 8, and belonging to W. E. Moore of 176 Wellesley street. On his feet were a pair of patent leather boots taken the same night from H. Ferguson of the law firm of Ferguson & Blair.

At his boarding house, 129 Mutual street, where he has been for the last couple of days, a ring was found which T. Malloy, the landlord, claimed was his, also a small pair of scissors used for embroidery work. A camera stolen from H. F. Sharpe & Co., of 73 Bay street, was found in one corner and on the mantelpiece and lying around the room, which was in a very untidy state, were found nearly a score of colored cabinet-sized pictures of girls in varied costumes. On the table two bottles of perfume with the mark of McMillan & Co., Toronto, were also found.

Detective Mackie says that the young man, who is handsome enough to capture the eye of any young woman, had his pockets positively bulging out with all kinds of knicknacks.

The Grave of Tom Sayers.

An English correspondent who strolls once a week all the year round through Highgate cemetery is convinced that the resting place of Tom Sayers, the prize fighter, who died forty years ago, attracts more attention than any other grave in the grounds. Men, women and children, to whom Sayers can be nothing more than the "shadow of a great man," linger musingly around it, and the head of Tom's favorite dog, standing in effigy on guard by the tomb, is worn quite smooth by the stroking and patting of countless hands.

It is the Poison That Causes Pain

The Poisonous Waste Matter is Removed by the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels When These are Kept Healthy by

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

The kidneys, liver and bowels are known as excretory organs, because it is their mission to cast out of the body the poisonous waste material, which would otherwise poison the system, cause pains and aches and give rise to deadly diseases.

Because of their direct and specific action on each of these organs, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are wonderfully successful in overcoming pain and in thoroughly eradicating from the system the very cause of serious and painful ailments.

Once the bowels are regular and the kidneys and liver active in filtering the waste material from the blood good health and proper working of the bodily organs are assured. It seems useless to experiment with new-fangled medicines, which are only intended to afford relief, when you can be thoroughly cured and the cause of your troubles removed by Dr. Chase's Liver-Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Thomas Covert, Highland Grove, Peterborough Co., Ont., writes: "I was a sufferer for years with stomachic troubles and terrible headaches, and spent a good many dollars in medicine without receiving any benefit. Hearing Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills highly recommended I determined to give them a trial and did so with most satisfactory results as I was very greatly benefitted and do not hesitate to recommend this treatment as the best obtainable for such ailments."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 6

Impairment of hearing robs one of many of the joys of life, exposes to danger, interfers with capacity for usefulness, limits ability to transact business and earn a living. Many annually abandon their plans, ambitious and hopes on account of loss of hearing.

In nearly every case of partial or complete deafness there is another feature that to many is more troublesome than the difficulty of hearing—the distracting head noises. These make such an impression on some as to almost drive them insane. The everlasting buzzing, ringing, snapping, rumble or roar, distracts them by day and prevents rest at night.

Nine cases out of ten of head noises and progressive hardness of hearing are due to catarrh of the middle ear or of the tube leading from it to the throat.

It should be understood and constantly borne in mind that to restore the hearing and silence the distracting noises a treatment is required that will allay inflammation in the eustachian tubes, reduce the congestion and swelling and stop the secretion of mucus so that the tubes will be keep open for free passage of air into the middle ear. No locally applied medicine will effectually do this, only a searching constitutional alterative and resolvent will cure catarrh in the deep recesses of the head.

Two acquaintances of the writer were run down and killed by the cars in one year. Both had catarrh of the head, which had extended up the eustachian tubes, leading from the throat to the middle ear, and were quite hard of hearing. In both cases the corner's jury decided that these cases to their death. Had they taken Stuart's Catarrh Tablets they would have been saved to their families and friends.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents for full sized packages. Many cheap substitutes are offered by druggists because they make more profit on them. Don't accept substitutes when you call for Stuart's Catarrh Tablets. Insist on getting them. Don't let the druggist persuade you that he has something just as good. He has not. Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are the best catarrh cure in the world. Nothing else can be compared with them. Nothing else is in the same class. Nothing else is in the same class. Author of "Under the Rose."

Not difficult was it for him to surmise upon whom her mind had been bent, and involuntarily his jaw set disagreeably, while he looked at her resentfully. In that light he could but dimly discern her face. Her bonnet had fallen from her head, her eyes were bent before her as though striving to penetrate the gathering darkness. With his sudden spell of jealousy came the temptation to clasp her in his arms in that silent, isolated place, but the figure of the sailor came between him and the desire, while pride, the heritage of the gentleman, fought down the longing. This self conquest was not accomplished, however, without a sacrifice of temper, for after a pause he observed:

"There is no accounting for a woman's taste."

She did not controvert this statement, but the start she gave told him the shaft had sped home.

"An outlaw! An outcast!" exclaimed the patroon, stung beyond endurance by his thoughts.

Still no reply; only more hurried footsteps. Around them sounded a gentle rustling. A lizard scrambled out of their path through the crackling leaves. A bat or some other winged creature suddenly whirred before them and vanished. They had now approached the gate, through which they passed and found themselves on the road leading directly to the city, whose lights had already begun to twinkle in the dusk.

"Is he dead?"

The cheering rumble of a carriage and the aspect of the not far distant town quickened her spirits and imparted elasticity to her footsteps. Upon the land baron they produced an opposite effect, for he was obviously reluctant to abandon the interview, however unsatisfactory it might be. There was nothing to say, and yet he was loath to leave her. There was nothing to accomplish, and yet he wished to remain with her. For this reason as they drew near the city his mood became darker, like the night around them. Instinctively she felt the turbulent passions stirring in his bosom. His sudden silence, his dogged footsteps, reawakened her misgivings. Furtively she regarded him, but his eyes were fixed straight before him on the soft luster above the city, the reflection of the lights, and she knew and mistrusted his thoughts. Although she found his silence more menacing than his words, she could think of nothing to say to break the spell, and so they continued to walk mutely side by side. An observer seeing them beneath the cypress, a lovers' promenade, with its soft, enfolding shadows, would have taken them for a well matched couple who had no need for language.

But when they had emerged from that romantic lane and entered the city the land baron breathed more freely. She was now surrounded by movement and din; the seclusion of the country gave way to the stir of the city; she was no longer dependent on his good offices; his role of protector had ended when they left the cypress walk behind them.

His brow cleared; he glanced at her with ill concealed admiration; he noticed with secret pride the attention she attracted from passersby, the sidelong looks of approval that followed her through the busy streets. The land baron expanded into his old self; he strode at her side, gratified by the scrutiny she invited; assurance radiated from his eyes like some magnetic heat; he played at possession willfully, perversely. "Why not?" whispered Hope. "A woman's mind is shifting ever. Her fancy—a breath! The other is gone. Why"—

"It was not accident my being in the cemetery, Miss Carew," said Mauville, suddenly covering her with his glance. Meeting her look of surprise unflinchingly, he continued: "I followed you there; through the streets into the country! My seeing you first was chance, my presence in the burial ground the result of that chance. The inevitable result!" he repeated softly. "As inevitable as life! Life; what is it? Influences which control us; forces which bind us! It is you, or all; you or nothing!"

She did not reply. His voice, vibrating with feeling, touched no answering chord. Nevertheless, a new, inexplicable wave of sorrow moved her. It might be he had cared for her as sincerely as it was possible for his wayward heart to care for any one. Perhaps time would yet soften his faults and temper his rashness. With that shade of sorrow for him there came compassion as well; compassion that overlooked the past and dwelt on the future.

She raised her steady eyes. "Why should it be 'I or nothing,' as you put it?" she finally answered slowly. "Influences may control us in a measure, but we may also strive for something. We can always strive."

"For what? For what we don't want? That's the philosophy of your moralists, Miss Carew," he exclaimed. "That's your modern ethics of duty. Playing tricks with happiness! The game isn't worth the candle. Or, if you believe in striving," he added, half resentfully, half imploringly, "strive to care for me but a little. But a little!" he said again. "I, who once wanted all and would have nothing but all, am content to ask, to plead, for but a little."

"I see no reason," she replied wearily, yet not unkindly, "why we should not be friends."

"Friends!" he answered bitterly. "I do not beg for a loaf, but a crumb, yet you refuse me that! I will wait. Only a word of encouragement. Will you not give it?"

She turned and looked into his eyes, and before she spoke he knew what her answer would be.

"How can I?" she said simply. "Why should I promise something I can never fulfill?"

He held her glance as though loath to have it leave him.

"May I see you again?" he asked abruptly.

She shook her head. His gaze fell, seeing no softening in her clear look.

"You are well named," he repeated, more to himself than to her. "Constance! You are constant in your dislikes as well as your likes."

"I have no dislike for you," she replied. "It seems to have been left behind me somewhere."

"Only indifference, then," he said dully.

"No; not indifference!"

"You do care what—may become of me?"

"You should do so much—be so much in the world," she answered thoughtfully.

"Sans peur et sans reproche!" he cried, half amused, half cheerlessly. "What a pity I met you! Too late!"

They were now at the broad entrance of the brilliantly lighted hotel. Several loungers, smoking their after dinner cigars, gazed at the couple curiously.

"Mauville's a lucky dog," said one.

"Yes; he was born with a silver spoon," replied the person addressed.

As he passed through the envious throng the land baron had regained his self command, although his face was marked with an unusual pallor. In his mind one thought was paramount—that the walk begun at the burial ground was drawing to an end, their last walk, the finale of all between them. Yet he could call to mind nothing further to say. His story had been told, the conclusion reached. She, too, had spoken, and he knew she would never speak differently. Bewildered and unable to adjust his new and strange feelings, it dawned upon him he had never understood himself and her, that he had never really known what love was, and he stood abashed, confronted by his own ignorance. Passion, caprice, fancy—he had seen depth in their shallows, but now looked down and discerned the pebbly bottom. All this and much more surged through his brain as he made his way through the crowd and, entering the corridor of the hotel, took formal leave of the young girl at the stairway.

"Good night, Miss Carew," he said gravely.

On the steps she turned and looked down at him, extending her hand. "Thank you!"

That half timid, low "thank you!" he knew was all he would ever receive from her. He hardly felt the hand clasp. He was hardly conscious when she turned away.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

"IN the will of the Marquis de Ligne, probated yesterday, all of the property, real and personal, is left to his daughter, Constance," wrote Straws in his paper shortly after the passing of the French nobleman. "The document states this disposition of property is made as 'an act of atonement and justice to my daughter, whose mother I deserted, taking advantage of the French law to annul my marriage in England.' The legitimacy of the birth of this, his only child, is thereupon fully acknowledged by the marquis after a lapse of many years and long after the heretofore unrecognized wife had died deserted and forgotten. Thrown on her own resources, the young child, with no other friend than Manager Barnes, battled with the world, now playing in taverns or barns, like the players of interludes, the strollers of old, or 'vagabonds,' as the great and mighty Junius from his lofty plane termed them. The story of that period of 'vagrant' life adds one more chapter to the annals of strolling players which already include such names as Kemble, Siddons and Kean.

"From the Junius category to a public favorite of New Orleans has been no slight transition, and now to appear in the role of daughter of a marquis and heiress to a considerable estate—truly man, and woman, play many parts in this brief span called life. But in making her sole heir the marquis specifies a condition which will bring regrets to many of the admirers of the actress. He robs her of her birthright from her mother. The will stipulates that the recipient give up her profession, not because it is other than a noble one, but 'that she may the better devote herself to the duties of her new position and by her beneficence and charity remove the stain left upon an honored name by my second wife, the Duchess d'Argens.'"

On the same day this public exposition appeared Barnes and the young actress were seated in the law office of Marks & Culver, a room overlooking a courtyard brightened by statues and urns of flowers. While the manager and Constance waited for the attorney to appear they were discussing, not for the first time, the proviso of the will to which Straws had regretfully alluded.

He stood for a moment watching them.

"Yes," said Barnes, folding the newspaper which contained Straws' article and placing it in his pocket, "you should certainly give up the stage. We must think of the disappointments, the possible failure, the slender reward. There was your mother—such an actress! Yet toward the last the people flocked to a younger rival. I have often thought anxiously of your future, for I am old—yes, there is no denying it—and any day I may leave you dependent solely upon yourself."

"Do not speak like that," she answered tenderly. "We shall be together many, many years."

"Always if I had my way," he returned heartily. "But with this legacy you are superior to the fickle public. In fact, you are now a part of the capricious public, my dear," he added in a jocular tone, "and may applaud the 'heavy father,' myself, or prattle about prevailing styles while the buskined tragedian is strutting below your box. Why turn to a blind bargain? Fame is a jade, only caught after our illusions are gone, and she seems not half so sweet as when pursuing her in our dreams."

Now, reading the anxiety in his face as he watched her, she smiled reassuringly, her glance, full of love, meeting his.

"Everything shall be as you wish," she said softly. "You know what is best!"

The manager's face lighted perceptibly, but before he could answer the door opened and Culver, the attorney, entered. With ruddy countenance and youthful bearing, in antithesis to the hair silvered with white, he was one of those southern gentlemen who grow old gracefully. The law was his taskmaster; he practiced from a sense of duty, but ever held that those who rushed to court were likely to repeat the experience of Voltaire, who had twice been ruined—once when he lost a lawsuit, the second time when he won one! Nevertheless, people persisted in coming to Culver wantonly welcoming unknown ills.

"Well, Miss Carew," he now exclaimed, after warmly greeting his visitors, "have you disburdened yourself of prejudice against this estate? Wealth may be a little hardship at first, but soon you won't mind it."

"Not a bit!" spoke up Barnes. "It's as easy to get used to as—poverty, and we've had plenty of that!"

"You know the other condition?" she said, half defiantly, half sadly. "You are to be with me always."

"How can you teach an old dog new tricks?" protested Barnes. "How can you make a fine man about town out of a 'heavy father?'"

"The 'heavy father' is my father. I never knew any other. I am glad I never did."

"Hoity toity!" he exclaimed scoffingly, but pleased nevertheless.

"You can't put me on that way," she said decisively, with a sudden flash in her eyes he knew too well to cross. "Either you leave the stage, too, or"—

"Of course, my dear, of course"—

"Then it's all settled you will accept the incumbrance to which you have fallen heir," resumed Culver. "Even if there had been no will in your favor, the state of Louisiana follows the French law, and the testator can under no circumstances alienate more than half his property if he leave issue or descendants. Had the old will remained, its provisions could not have been legally carried out."

"The old will!" said Barnes. "Then there was another will?"

"One made before he was aware of your existence, Miss Carew, in favor of his ward, Ernest Saint-Prosper."

To be continued.

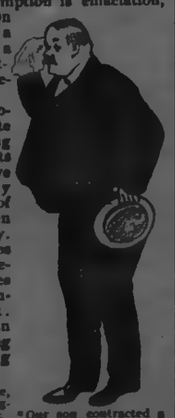
"He Won't Die

Of consumption" is a remark often made of a fleshy man. The remark expresses the popular recognition of the fact that the sign of consumption is emaciation, loss of flesh. On the other hand, a gain in flesh is a sure sign that wasting diseases are being cured.



Emaciated people with obstinate coughs, bleeding lungs, night-sweats and weakness, have been perfectly cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The several steps of the cure were recorded in ounces and pounds of increasing weight. When there is gain in flesh the wasting disease is being surely cured.

Mr. Will H. Whitmire, of Arkton, Rockingham Co., Va., writes: "Our son contracted a deep cold about the first of July, 1899, and had a terrible cough. We called a doctor and he pronounced it irritation of the bronchial tubes, with asthmatic trouble, and he informed me that my son was liable to die at any time. He told me that if we could keep the bronchial tubes open, he might cure him; but after treating him several weeks and my son growing worse all the time, I concluded to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets.' I had seen several almost miraculous cures brought about by the use of these medicines, and of course I had wonderful faith in them. He used three bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' at home and one vial of the 'Pellets,' and was then well enough to go to West Virginia, taking a supply with him. I am just in receipt of a letter from him from which I quote: 'I am well and hardy and getting very fleshy.'"

SANTA CLAUS AT CHILDREN'S SHELTER.

Gladdens the Hearts With Sleigh-loads of Presents.

Those who passed the Children's Shelter at the corner of Stewart and Simcoe streets yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock, knew that the children of that institution were having a high old time. The tooting of half-a-dozen horns in different keys and at different times evidenced that. The Christmas tree was very prettily lighted up and decorated with light presents, while Santa Claus, alias Mr. G. J. Cain, of Ashburnham, won the hearts of his little friends and to their joy distributed each as many toys and other things as they wished for. The following are a few of those who gave presents, but many did not leave their names, preferring the title of "friend":—

Mrs. Barrett, toys, sweets and clothes.

Mrs. Robt. Neill and Mrs. Alex. Elliott, sweets, nuts, figs and dates.

The Misses Neill, Cumming, Elliott, and other young ladies—decoratoins for Christmas tree and toys generally.

Mrs. Wm. Davidson, candies, cake and fruit.

Mrs. Eastwood, decorations for Christmas tree and sweets and clothes.

Mrs. Haslitt, sweets, nuts and raisons.

The George street Methodist church, apples, oranges and clothing.

Mrs. Wm. Henry, clothing and toys.

The Misses Dickson, new print, flannelette and boys' handkerchiefs.

Mrs. R. R. Hall, raisins, figs and sweets.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Cressman, two boys' suits, two boys' overcoats, two girls' dresses, six handkerchiefs and a tie for each boy.

Mrs. J. M. Wallis, toys and sweets.

Mrs. Wilson, clothing, toys and candies.

Fraser Mission Band of St. Paul's church, dolls and other toys.

Mrs. (Dr.) Burnham, a goose.

Mrs. J. D. Collins, clothing and toys books and sweets.

The Shelter also sent out to 18 poor families of the town, a basket containing the following:—1 lb. tea, 25c worth of sugar, 25c. rolled oats, 2 lbs butter and 10 lbs roast beef.

There are six children at present in the Shelter and all had a delightful time.

It was well on in the afternoon when Santa Claus waved good-bye and with a jingle of sleigh bells vanished.

THE WEST ENDERS DEFEAT ATHLETICS.

Interesting Basketball Game Christmas Eve

About 100 spectators saw a very interesting basketball game on Thursday night in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium between the West Enders of Toronto, and the Athletics (white,) champions of the Y.M.C.A. League. The visitors played a suberb game, and defeated the home team by a score of 28—10.

For the first few minutes of the game the Athletics had things their own way and looked like easy winners. Their lead was short-lived, however, as the visitors soon settled down to business and not only prevented the home team from scoring by their splendid defence but the forwards succeeded in eluding the Athletics basket guardians, and soon had the game clinched. The home team did not play the game of which they are capable, and the score is not a fair index of the relative playing abilities of the two teams. The new arrangement of the baskets, too, worked to the disadvantage of the home players, and had it not been for this fact, the score would have been somewhat different. The visitors, however, played the superior game, the defence being particularly good. The forwards, also were in excellent form. Of the ten points scored by the home team eight were made on baskets, and two on fouls, while the West Enders secured 20 on baskets and eight on fouls.

The teams lined up as follows:—

West Enders.	Athletics.
Forwards.
Barnett	...Robertson
Scott	...Cavanah
Centre.
Vogan	...Dunsford
Defence:
Craig	...Dillan
Hanna	...Glover

The officials were J. Laing and E. Payne.

Vogan, the centre man for the visitors, played here last year against the Brownies.

Preceeding the senior game the Beavers and Senior Intermediates played an exhibition game, the former winning by a score of 11—7. This was a most interesting game, and future games in this series will be looked forward to with considerable pleasant expectation.

The teams lined up as follows:—

Beavers.	Sr. Intermediates.
Forwards.
Turner	...Ross
Weller	...Hopkins
Centre.
Robinson	...Miller
Defence.
G Thornton	...Curry
R Thornton	...Loomis

CHRISTMAS CAROLS IN PETERBOROUGH.

The Old Country Practice Successfully Introduced Here.

On Thursday night the male members of the George street church choir introduced tentatively the practice of carol singing on Christmas eve, and the great success achieved is likely to make the practice a permanency. An itinerary had been arranged, which it was thought could very easily be covered, but so great was the enthusiasm of their receptions—so many forced acceptances of refreshments—acceptance of dolea, etc., that though singing diligently from 8 to 5 carols at each place of call they had, up to 4 o'clock, got reached the end of their programme, and like the Israelites of old in the wilderness, whose garments did not wax old—the voices of the carolists though so constantly used, did not wax hoarse. The ardour of their reception could not have been surpassed, and as for alms, the treasurer of the carolists had counted $50 in the wallet before the route was finished.

DR. OSLER GETS $10.000 FEE.

Called From Baltimore to Milwaukee for 5 Minute Consultation.

Dr. William Osler, a native of Dundas, Ont., who has been for some years Dean of the Medical Department of the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md., and who delivered the address at the opening of the new medical building at Toronto last fall, was called into consultation with physicians of Captain Fred Pabst, at Milwaukee, Wis., recently.

While the captain's condition was not considered desperate, yet his family would not be satisfied until they had consulted the highest authority in the country.

Dr. Osler on his arrival had a consultation with he other physicians, saw the patoint for about five minutes, pocketted a fee of $10,000 and returned home in the morning.

A VERY MEAN SWINDLE.

The Matrimomal Swindle the Medium for Another Deception.

A very mean swindling game has been played on an Indiana farmer who entertained over night a stranger claiming to be a minister. In the morning a young couple appeared and asked the way to the minister's saying that they wanted to get married there. The farmer thought of the minister who was staying with him and suggested that the couple be married there. The supposed minister performed the ceremony. The farmer and his wife signed the certificate as witnesses. Recently the farmer was notified that a note for $1,000 was due. They had signed a note, instead of a marriage certificate. The swindlers had discounted the note.

VERY DISASTROUS BOILER EXPLOSION

Fatal Accident at Wolseley Barracks in London, Ont.

Boilers Gave Warning Saturday, but Cause of Disturbance Baffled Those who had Charge of Them—First Boiler Burst When the Soldiers Were not Six Paces Away—Scalded and Bruised.

London, Dec. 28.—With a report that shook the building in every quarter, one of the big boilers used in connection with the hot-water heating system of Wolseley Barracks exploded between 12 and 1 o'clock Sunday morning, killing one man, probably fatally injuring another and seriously injuring four others, all soldiers at the barracks. The soldier who lost his life was Private James Burnett, and the injured are Quartermaster-Sergeant Bernard Dunlevy, Corporal Thomas Sandy and Privates Walter and Thomas Worsack and Herbert Tutt.

Trouble on Saturday.

All day Saturday the boilers had been giving the firemen no little amount of trouble. There was a foaming and turbulent action which caused uneasiness, and about 8 o'clock in the evening Col. Young was notified. The colonel personally inspected the boilers, and a broken elbow was found on a feed pipe, which it was thought was to blame. A plumber, Wm. Greene of East London, was sent for, the barracks plumber for some reason or other not being called. Greene put on a new elbow, but made no inspection of the boilers, not having been instructed to do so, he says. The foaming ceased when the repairs were made until about midnight, when the boilers again began to act queerly. The two firemen, Privates Walter and Thomas Worsack, again reported the matter to Corporal Burnett, who became uneasy, and who in turn reported to Quartermaster-Sergeant Dunlevy. The two officers and the two privates then made a thorough inspection of the boilers, but in the meantime the foaming had ceased. The four men then turned to leave the boiler room, Burnett a little in the rear, and remarking: "It looks as though everything is all right now." The words had scarcely left his lips before the east boiler exploded. The men who were not over six paces away were hurled in all directions. Burnett was thrown into the coal bunk in the next room, the other three being knocked down or blown into the hallway which leads upstairs.

Men Scalded and Bruised.

In the room next to the boiler room Sandy, who is the cook, and Tutt, the waiter of the officers' mess, were asleep. Amidst flying bricks and mortar and debris of all kinds, they were hurled from their cots and scalded and bruised, but managed to crawl through a window, which had been blown out, to a place of safety. Inside the four men, who, strange to say, were not rendered unconscious by the force of the explosion, struggled to get out. The boiler room was almost knee deep in water and the place was filled with scalding steam, which choked them and almost cooked their lungs. Almost blind and shouting for help, they groped their way along, Dunlevy and Walter Worsack finally making their way upstairs to the officers' mess room, and Burnett and Thomas Worsack crawled to the window, through which Sandy and Tutt had escaped, where they were pulled through by a number of the soldiers.

The injured were taken to the barracks hospital, where they were looked after by Surgeon Ardell until Dr. C. W. Belton, the barracks physician arrived. Burnett and the two Worsacks were found to be so badly injured that Dr. Belton ordered them to be sent to Victoria Hospital. Burnett lived until 7 o'clock Sunday morning, when he died from the effects of the steam inhaled. One of the Worsacks may also die, and the other brother and Dunlevy are terribly scalded. Sandy was badly cut about the face and head, and Tutt was severely shaken up.

Second Explosion.

While the injured were being cared for and about twenty minutes after the first explosion occurred, the second boiler exploded with a terrific report. Had it exploded five minutes later there would in all probability have been more killed, as an investigating party were about to enter the basement to ascertain the damage done. The explosion completely demolished both boilers, wrecked the walls of the basement and shook and warped the floor of the officers' mess. Furniture in all parts of the barracks was also upset and dishes were broken in all quarters.

Burnett came to London from Halifax eighteen months ago. He had no relatives in Canada, but two daughters reside in Brighton, England, where his home was. He was a widower and about 45 years of age. The two Worsacks also came to London from Halifax about eighteen months ago, they having seen service there.

Triple Drowning.

Halifax, Dec. 28.—Beverley Robinson, his son Clifford, 16, and James Lockhart, 21, lost their lives Saturday afternoon, as the result of a skating accident on River Lake. Young Robinson held on for some time to the ice after breaking through, and his father having arrived tried to rescue him with the assistance of a board stretched across the hole. The board broke, and both disappeared under the ice. Mr. Robinson, who was aged 40, leaves a widow and six young children. The bodies have been recovered.

Killed in an Elevator.

Ottawa, Dec. 28.—Felix Parisothi, who came to Canada in July from Kensington, London, Eng., was killed yesterday morning while operating the Russell House elevator. It is supposed that he stepped out on the first floor to get a jug, and whether he properly stopped the elevator or not is not known, but he was caught between the elevator and the floor above and his skull was crushed in. This makes the fourth elevator fatality in the last 10 or 12 years in the Russell.

Hamilton Man Killed.

Hamilton, Dec. 28.—Mr. Alexander McPherson of the printing establishment of Messrs. McPherson & Drope, was accidentally killed Saturday afternoon by being run over by a street car. He was running across James street at Robert street to catch a car, when he slipped and fell. He lived only about five minutes. He was struck in the head, and besides his skull being crushed his left leg was broken.

Thrown From a Sleigh.

Brockville, Dec. 28.—A young man named Harold Hall, employed as driver by the Dominion Express Company, was thrown from his sleigh Saturday and was badly injured about the face and head, sustaining concussion of the brain.

Mrs. Graham Hurt.

Belleville, Dec. 28.—A serious accident befell the wife of Mayor Graham of this city Saturday night. The Mayor was driving in a cutter with his wife, when in turning out for another team, he got too close to the edge of the road, and the cutter slipped down into the ditch, throwing Mrs. Graham out and causing her to sustain a compound fracture of the collarbone.

Not Foul Play.

Kingston, Dec. 28.—At the inquest on the body of Thomas Cahill, found drowned in a float at the foot of Queen street, it was proved that the wounds were not caused by foul play.

Indirect Cause of 22 Persons Meeting Their Death.

HEROIC WORK BY RESCUERS

Charles T. Chambers of Ionia, Pinned Down By Tons of Debris, Urged the Rescue of His Unconscious Companion Before Pulling Him From Beneath the Crushing Mass—Orders Had Been Changed.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 28.—Twenty-two persons are dead and many injured, several of them fatally, as the result of the collision early Saturday night of two passenger trains on the Pere Marquette Railroad, one-half mile west of East Paris.

List of the Dead.

The dead: Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Baldwin, Mulliken, Mich.; Louis Baldwin, their son, Mulliken, Mich.; Lester Williams, Lansing, Mich.; Mrs. Daisy Giles, Lowell, Mich.; Burt Myers, Grandville, or Lake Odessa, Mich.; Walter Jordan, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Joseph Hall, colored, Windsor, Ont.; Austin I. Wager, Detroit, baggageman; Charles A. Stoddard, Detroit, engineer No. 6; Charles A. Devins, Grand Rapids, Mich.; William Helmrich, Detroit, baggageman; F. M. Gillet, Burr Oak, or Portland, Mich.; Frank Burns, Detroit, fireman on No. 5; Peter W. Wierenga, Grand Rapids, Mich.; George Palmer, Detroit, American Express agent on No. 6; William Smith, Saranac, Mich.; four unidentified men.

The Injured.

The seriously injured include: Gerritt Motman, Grand Rapids, internal injuries, dying; Charles West, Saranac, Mich., probably fatally injured; John Post, Clarksville, Mich., skull fractured; Michael Maltburg, Hart, Mich.; Frank Waterman, Detroit, engineer No. 5, internal injuries; George Nial, Grand Rapids, conductor train No. 5; R. E. Gay, Detroit, brakeman, leg injured; E. B. Moon, Grand Rapids, fireman train No. 5; Mrs. H. Kent, Grand Rapids, internally; H. C. Franch, Sunfield, Mich.; George Crammon, Grand Rapids; Timothy Qualley, Grand Rapids.

All the injured, except Harry Marcus of New York, president of the E. H. Marcus Company, belong in various Michigan cities. Mr. Marcus was injured about the arms and legs.

Charles T. Chambers of Ionia and John Post of Clarksville, Mich., were found close together, pinned down by tons of debris. Chambers was conscious and urged the rescuers to extricate his unconscious companion, Post. The first efforts only succeeded in loosening the mass of debris so that it bore down heavier on poor Chambers, who was suffering piteously. More powerful levers and more helpers finally lifted the mass sufficiently so that both were pulled out easier.

The uninjured proved themselves heroes in the dangerous work of rescue.

Orders Were Changed.

The officials deny a report that a misunderstanding of orders was responsible. According to the statement of officials the trains were originally to have met and passed at Oakdale Park, but the orders were changed and the westbound train was to have been signaled at McCord's. Instead, it rushed by that station, and the operator there, after reporting this fact, found on going out to the platform, that his red signal light, which had been burning two minutes before, was out, presumably extinguished by the high wind that was blowing.

The trains met with a terrific crash, the baggage and smoking cars behind each locomotive being reduced to kindling wood. The engines were wrecked, the boiler of that which had pulled the eastbound train, being torn from the running gear and left standing perpendicularly in a ditch at the side of the track.

Like Rats in a Trap.

Engineer Frank Waterman of the westbound train, who survived the catastrophe, says he and his fireman, E. B. Moon, were caught like rats in a trap. He says he never saw the eastbound train.

The crash and the moans of the injured were heard by nearby farmers, who rushed to the scene to lend assistance. No person occupying cars other than the baggage and smoking cars, with a very few exceptions, was seriously injured.

A FATAL SOUTHERN STORM.

Buildings Blown Down and Fatalities Are Numerous.

Americus, Ga., Dec. 28.—A destructive storm passed over this section Friday. On the McNeil farm several houses were destroyed and one man was killed by flying timbers. The plant of the Willis Canning Co., near here, was blown down. On Jubal Morris' plantation every tenant house was destroyed.

During a cyclone at Dundee, Alabama, several houses were blown down and several children were killed.

Boys Broke Through Ice.

Providence, R.I., Dec. 28.—Fred and Max Craven, brothers, aged 12 and 18 years respectively, were drowned in the Woonasquatucket River at Limansville Saturday. The boys, with two others, were hunting, and started to cross the river on the ice.

Frozen to Death.

Huntingdon, Pa., Dec. 28.—John Smith, aged 23, son of Rev. M. L. Smith, of this place, was found Saturday frozen to death. He had been struck behind the right ear with a blunt instrument. George Sherrer, a telegraph operator, has been arrested as young Smith's assailant.

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE.

Andy Thomas of Ridgetown Missing Since Christmas Eve.

Windsor, Dec. 28.—Andy Thomas, liveryman and hog dealer, of Ridgetown, who has been trading with the Indians on Walpole Island, is mysteriously missing. The last seen of him was on Thursday night, when he started to return to the island from the mainland over the ice. On Christmas eve, with a lantern, he crossed the river on the ice to visit a little store on the mainland, where he purchased a few articles and started back for the island. The night was dark and stormy. Either Thomas walked into an air hole or met with foul play at the hands of the Indians. He had in his possession $65. He has a family in Ridgetown.

A varied assortment of Mounting Board, also Small Calendar Pads on sale at this office.

Sunlight Soap is recommended, by those who have investigated the different kind of soaps, as being the best and purest on the market. Those who have gone still further and tried the different methods state that the Sunlight way of washing is greatly superior to ordinary methods because it requires much less work and makes the clothes whiter and cleaner. Because Sunlight Soap is quite pure and free from adulteration it will not injure delicate fabrics or the user's hands.

SUGAR FROM SAWDUST.

It Can Be Made, but It Is Hardly Fit For Table Use.

During the middle ages the alchemists, who were the predecessors of the modern men of science, spent much time in making a so called "philosopher's stone" which should transform the baser metals into gold, and even nowadays science still has some problems that are almost as tempting to the imagination and probably quite as unlikely to be realised. To turn ordinary sawdust into table sugar is one of them. The table sugar part of it is generally considered an interesting chimera, but the question of economically reducing sawdust to the different variety known as grape sugar contains possibilities that greatly interest the modern chemist either in the laboratories of commercial plants or in such student workshops as the sugar laboratory of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Grape sugar, which the chemists call dextrose, is an important item in the manufacture of health foods and can be used economically because it develops naturally in a comparatively inexpensive chemical process to which certain grains, chiefly corn, are subjected to produce eventually starch or glucose. As long ago as 1819 a French chemist surprised the French academy by exhibiting a few grains of grape sugar which he had made from old linen; commonly believed to have been his own shirt. Other scientists have shown also that grape sugar could be made from wood, although no one has yet found a way to transform this grape sugar into the more familiar, everyday produce of the cane or sugar beet. Theoretically, therefore, either an old house or an old suit of linen can be turned into this grape sugar, provided one would take a great deal of trouble for a very small result.

The reason why sugar can be made from wood or linen is due to the action—which it would require a sugar chemist to explain in detail—of sulphuric acid on the cellulose, or woody fiber, that is found in both wood and linen. Few persons, however, believe that the process will ever be anything more than a scientific curiosity.

Trick Automobilists.

Although trick automobilists can be found in France and England, this country claims the lead. The accomplishment is peculiarly well adapted to American genius. Another reason for the supremacy of Americans is the greater lightness of the American machines, taken as a class, and their extreme sensitiveness and delicacy of control. It is of course possible to do more with a light car than with a heavy French one. Another condition leading to the development of trick chauffeurs in America is the encouragement given them by the manufacturers, who favor trials of skill because they serve to exhibit machines and demonstrate to possible purchasers the lightness and facility with which automobiles may be controlled.

There are several tricks which may be classed as favorites among chauffeurs. They are all extremely difficult, but the one which more nearly borders on the marvelous is the watch trick. Only the most expert chauffeurs attempt it, as the cost of failure is the cost of a watch. To drive an automobile against an open watch, to back it and expect to stop the heavy machine just in time to spare the watch, seems impossible, but the feat has often been performed.

Cordite Eaters.

Quite an original species of narcomania is noted by the British Medical Journal as having been discovered by Major Jennings, D. S. O., during the recent operations in South Africa. It consists in the eating of cordite, with which the Lee-Metford cartridges are charged. The existence of the vice first became known to Major Jennings from the suggestion of a regimental non-commissioned officer that a certain man had possibly been taking cordite in order to escape service, but in concluding his notes Major Jennings suggests that the effects are so exceedingly unpleasant that none but the most depraved would ordinarily resort to it as a stimulant and that no man could escape service through its means except by the exchange of service for incarceration as a hopeless lunatic or for death by suicide.

CUPID—HIS RUMMAGE SALE

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure. By Louise Lamprey

It was all Cupid's fault in the beginning—that and the moonlight that fetched the house party out of doors and left the little rascal free of the premises. It was not a very happy house party, for somehow the guests had got mismated in the pairing off.

There were not many of them, and they had been so carefully selected by Mrs. Farquhar, in view of possible results, that ill natured people said the Poplars was turned into a marriage market. She had invited Lou Sturtevant, the prettiest debutante of the season, said to be on the point of an engagement with Randall Clyde; Edythe Tillotson, belle of several winters, supposed to have inspired a lasting passion in young Fleete of the British legation; Mrs. Raye, the pretty widow who was half engaged to Anthony Carfax, rich bachelor, man about town, excellent match; Fay Milburn, a little nonsense chatterer who would keep things going and amuse Harry Cummings, the millionaire's son from the university, and

THEY FOUND IT PLACARDED WITH THE WORDS "RUMMAGE SALE."

Cummings, the elder, heavyweight of the party, whom she intended to reserve as her own exclusive property. And she had invited all the men supposed to be attached to these respective feminine leading strings. The logical result would be several engagements and at least ten happy people, not counting relatives and friends. But nothing of the sort had happened.

The extremely illogical facts were on this June night as follows:

Somewhere in the depth of the rose thicket Edythe Tillotson was wandering with Randall Clyde. "Spooning, by Jove!" thought the wrathful Fleete, who was flirting desperately with the demure and black gowned Mrs. Raye on the veranda. At the far end of the veranda the glimmer of the debutante's white gown was seen in the shadow of Cummings' huge bulk, and he was somewhat laboriously trying to entertain her with compliments, while she, for politeness' sake, tried to forget that he was old enough to be her father. Carfax was risking rheumatism and influenza by allowing himself to be walked about the grounds by Fay Milburn, who did not understand his epigrams and whose incessant chatter left him no chance to hear himself think, much less talk. Incidentally the hostess was left to make things pleasant for young Cummings, who was deeply disgusted because he had not come there to amuse dowagers. It was not an appreciative lot of people. Mrs. Farquhar's house party was as bored as a colander.

Meanwhile a new guest had slipped in by the side door, shivered at the chill pervading the premises and scented trouble. Randall Clyde, returning to the house, whither Miss Tillotson had taken herself on pica of fatigue, found the newcomer sitting on the window sill, a tiny, chubby figure, clad in a pair of wings and a rose garland and looking very serious.

"How long have things been this way?" he snapped, as if Randall knew all about it.

"Ever since the day we arrived," said the young man after a moment's thought.

"Well, they can't go on this way," said Cupid decidedly. "Go tell those people to come in. There's going to be a rummage sale."

When the house party assembled in the wide, picturesque, old fashioned hall they found it placarded with the words "Rummage Sale" done in roses, while the auctioneer sat cross legged with great dignity in the middle of a large table, on which was spread a miscellaneous collection of objects.

"This," said Cupid, holding aloft a withered bunch of violets tied with white ribbon, "I found at the bottom of a man's trunk, together with a lace handkerchief and a note. The note reads: 'Dear Cecil—Don't forget to come to tea tomorrow. I have special reasons for asking it.' And it is signed"—

"Never mind the rest, you little scamp," interrupted Fleete hastily, his face a vivid scarlet. "I'll take that lot at any price."

Miss Tillotson did not say anything, but she seemed to have difficulty in deciding where to look.

"And this," went on the auctioneer, "is a bundle of letters scented with—h'm—sandalwood and dated all the way through the last ten years. The superscriptions are in the handwriting of at least four persons, and"—

"Will you please give these to me?" said Mrs. Raye in a soft but final tone. "I think you have made a mistake. They are not for sale."

And four men in the company looked relieved and grateful.

Cupid picked up a ring set with several diamonds and scrutinised it closely.

"Evidently an engagement ring," quoth he. "The owner brought it here expecting to find use for it, for here are initials already engraved on the inside. Shall I read them?"

"I don't think you'd better," said the millionaire grimly. "Give it here and stop your fooling."

"This," said the little auctioneer in a softer tone than he had yet been heard to use, "is a heart—a girl's heart—quite fresh and of priceless value—never worn on the sleeve. The owner gave it away some time ago, but the person she gave it to does not seem to care for it, and she thinks it is lost. It seems a pity that the other—person—didn't understand."

Cupid pursed up his lips and gazed thoughtfully out of the window. The debutante, who had just come in, started forward with a little cry.

"Oh!" she began. "Oh, I"—

Then Randall Clyde stepped before her.

"That is mine," he said, "at any price."

And then as he turned to meet Lou's great brown eyes, widening with a look he had never before seen in them, he felt a tremor as of an earthquake shock, and a voice exclaimed:

"Good Lawd in heaven, Marse Randall, what you a-doin' heah?"

Randall sat up in the window seat and rubbed his eyes, while the butler stared at him in amazement.

"Me? Oh, I've been to a rummage sale. You're quite right. I'll go up to bed and sleep it off. But what the dickens did you wake me for?"

On reflection Clyde came to the conclusion that if a dream was as delightful as that the reality would be even more delightful, and as soon as breakfast was over he took Lou Sturtevant for a walk, and both of them discovered things. Cummings soon turned his attention to Mrs. Farquhar, who made herself very fascinating. Harry and Fay Milburn went for a sail, and Carfax, with a long sigh of relief, found the restful comprehension of Mrs. Raye most gratifying after the vaudeville in which he had been recently engaged. This assortment of personalities left Fleete and Miss Tillotson alone on the veranda. They seemed to like it so well that when the other couples came back the attache and the belle went off by themselves into an arbor and stayed till after luncheon.

Mrs. Farquhar is now smiling and happy and wears a magnificent diamond ring. However, she says the next time she invites a set of congenial people to her house she will take particular pains that they do not get shuffled.

The King's Premature Death.

The leading tragedian of a small company playing in an unimportant English village felt himself hard up one evening for a man to walk on in the first act of a historical blood curdler and say to him, "My lord, the king is ill," and to appear in the last act with the information, "My lord, the king is dead." So the leading tragedian took an active and fairly passable stage hand on one side and, engaging him for an extra shilling or two, instructed him carefully upon the artistic responsibilities of his new duties. "Now, mind you," he said, "the first time you come on you say, 'My lord, the king is ill,' and the second time you come on you say, 'My lord, the king is dead.'" "That's all right, guv'nor!" exclaimed the unshaven recruit, growing visibly larger in the chest with the magnitude of his promotion. And then "the night" came, and in the first act on swaggered the dusty debutant, with the dread line, uttered hurriedly, but in a prodigious voice, "My lord, the king is dead!" "Oh, is he?" snarled the leading comedian, turning upon the much be-feathered messenger a look of eternal hatred. "Then he has spoiled the whole of my blooming part!"

The New Year's Wassail Cup.

Throughout all Europe the wassail cup in one form or another is a feature of the day. In old times one cup of gigantic size served the entire company, and when a man arose and took the huge vessel in both hands to drink to the guests a trusted friend rose with him and with drawn sword stood by his side lest he should be traitorously stabbed in the breast while drinking.

SCRUGGS' SIEGE OF NECKTIEPHOBIA

THOMAS SCRUGGS, on Christmas day,
Got packages galore,
Until he wondered if there could
By chance be any more.

He opened each one when it came
And slowly grew enraged,
And not a package held a thing
That his great wrath assuaged.

For each one, be it long or short
Or slim or thick and fat,
Contained, in varied shape and form,
A gaudy new cravat.

"'TIS EVER THUS!"

"'Tis ever thus!" moaned Thomas Scruggs;
"In every Christmas wreck
I am the sufferer who gets
It always in the neck."

The ties were green and red and brown
And black and pink and blue,
With stripes and dots and funny lines
Of truly awful hue.

At last he fretted so about
The things that he fell ill,
And then, to add to all his woes,
There was a doctor's bill.

Today, when asked about the case,
He seems to grow annoyed
And answers that he suffered from
A siege of necktiephold.

A Smart Arrangement.

A gentleman was on a holiday at one of the Scottish county towns recently. Seeing a line of hose laid along the street, he asked the man in charge if there had been a fire.

"No," replied the man; "we've only been practicing."

Then the visitor began to quiz the brigade man.

"How do you call out your men when there's a fire?"

"Oh, weel," was the reply, "we just drap them a post card!"—Pearson's Weekly.

It is the Poison That Causes Pain

The Poisonous Waste Matter is Removed by the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels When These are Kept Healthy by

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

The kidneys, liver and bowels are known as excretory organs, because it is their mission to cast out of the body the poisonous waste material, which would otherwise poison the system, cause pains and aches and give rise to deadly disease.

Because of their direct and specific action on each of these organs, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are wonderfully successful in overcoming pain and in thoroughly eradicating from the system the very cause of serious and painful ailments.

Once the bowels are regular and the kidneys and liver active in filtering the waste material from the blood good health and proper working of the bodily organs are assured. It seems useless to experiment with new-fangled medicines, which are only intended to afford relief, when you can be thoroughly cured and the cause of your troubles removed by Dr. Chase's Liver-Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Thomas Covert, Highland Grove, Peterborough Co., Ont., writes: "I was a sufferer for years with stomachic troubles and terrible headaches, and spent a good many dollars in medicine without receiving any benefit. Hearing Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills highly recommended I determined to give them a trial and did so with most satisfactory results as I was very greatly benefitted and do not hesitate to recommend this treatment as the best obtainable for such ailments."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

Strollers

By FREDERIC S. ISHAM

Author of "Under the Rose."

"Ernest Saint-Prosper!"

Constance's cheeks flamed crimson, and her quick start of surprise did not escape the observant lawyer. Barnes, too, looked amazed over this unexpected intelligence.

"Saint-Prosper was the marquis' ward?" he cried.

The attorney transferred his gaze from the expressive features of his client to the open countenance of the manager. "Yes," he said.

"And would have inherited this property but for Constance?"

"Exactly. But you knew him, Mr. Barnes?"

"He was an occupant of the chariot, sir," replied the manager, with some feeling. "We met in the Shadengo valley. The company was in sore straits, and—and—to make a long story short, he joined our band and traversed the continent with us. And so he was the marquis' ward! It seems almost incredible."

"Yes," affirmed Culver; "when General Saint-Prosper, his father, died, Ernest Saint-Prosper, who was then but a boy, became the marquis' ward and a member of his household."

"Well, well, how things do come about!" ruminated Barnes. "To think he should have been the prospective heir and Constance the real one!"

"Where is he now?" asked the attorney thoughtfully.

"He has gone to Mexico; enlisted. But how do you know he"—

"Had expectations? The marquis told me about a quarrel they had had. He was a stanch imperialist, the young man as firm a republican. What would be the natural outcome? They parted in bitter anger."

"And then the marquis made him his heir?" exclaimed the manager incredulously. "How do you reconcile that?"

The attorney smiled. "Through the oddity of my client. 'Draw up my will,' said the marquis to me one day, 'leaving all my property to this republican young dog. That will cut off the distant relatives who made the sign of the cross behind my back, as though I were the evil one. They expect it all. He expects nothing. It will be a rare joke. I leave them my affection and the privilege of having masses said for my soul.' The marquis was always of a satirical temperament."

"So it seems," commented the manager. "But he changed his mind and his will again?"

"After he met Miss Carew."

"Met me!" exclaimed Constance, aroused from a maze of reflection.

"Near the cathedral. He walked and talked with you."

"That poor old man"—

"And then came here, acknowledged you as his daughter and drew up the final document."

"That accounts for a call I had from him," cried Barnes, telling the story of the marquis' visit. "Strange I did not suspect something of the truth at the time," he concluded, "for his manner was certainly unusual."

A perplexed light shone in the girl's eyes. She clasped and unclasped her hands quickly, turning to the lawyer.

"Their quarrel was only a political difference?" she asked at length.

"Yes," said the other slowly. "Saint-Prosper refused to support the fugitive king. Throughout the parliamentary government, the restoration under Louis XVIII. and the reign of King Charles X. the marquis had ever a devout faith in the divine right of monarchs. He annulled his marriage in England with your mother to marry the Duchess d'Argens, a relative of the royal princess. But Charles abdicated, and the duchess died. All this, however, is painful to you, Miss Carew?"

"Only such as relates to my mother," she replied in a clear tone. "I suppose I should feel grateful for this fortune, but I am afraid I do not. Please go on."

Culver leaned back in his chair, his glance bent upon a discolored statue of Psyche in the courtyard. "Had the marquis attended to his garden, like Candide or your humble servant, and eschewed the company of kings, he might have been as care free as he was wretched. His monarchs were knocked down like ninepins. Louis XVIII. was a man of straw, Charles X. a feather top and Louis Philippe a toy ruler. The marquis' domestic life was as unblest as his political career. The frail duchess left him a progeny of scandals. These, the only offspring of the iniquitous dame, were piquantly dressed in the journals for public parade. Fancy, then, his delight in disinheriting his wife's relatives and leaving you, his daughter, his fortune and his name!"

"His name!" she repeated sadly, with averted face she watched the fountain in the garden. "If he had given it to my mother," she continued, "but now—I do not care for it. Her name is all I want." Her voice trembled, and she exclaimed passionately; "I should rather Mr. Saint-Prosper would keep the property and I—my work. After denying my mother and deserting her, how can I accept anything from him?"

"Under the new will," said Culver, "the estate does not revert to Mr. Saint-Prosper in any event. But you might divide it with him," he added suddenly.

"How could I do that?" she asked without looking up.

"Marry him," laughed the attorney.

But the jest met with scant response, his fair client remaining motionless as a statue, while Barnes gazed at her furtively. Culver's smile gradually faded. Uncertain how to proceed, realizing his humor had somehow miscarried, he was not sorry when the manager arose, saying:

"Well, my dear, it is time we were at the theater."

"Won't you accept this nosegay from my garden, Miss Carew?" urged the lawyer in a propitiatory tone as they were leaving.

And the attorney not only accompanied them to the door, but downstairs to the street, where he stood for a moment watching them drive down the thoroughfare. Then he slowly returned, breathing heavily—invidious contradiction of his youthful assumption—and shaking his head as he mounted to his room.

"Culver, you certainly put your foot in it that time!" he muttered. "How she frose at my suggestion! Has there been some passage of arms between them? Apparently! But here am I, pondering over romances, with all this legal business staring me in the face." His glance swept a chaos of declarations, bills, affidavits and claims. "Confound the musty old courthouse and the bustling Yankee lawyers who set such a disturbing pace! There is no longer gentlemanly leisure in New Orleans."

He seated himself with a sigh before a neglected brief. In the distance the towers of the cathedral could be seen, reminding the attorney of the adjacent halls of justice in the scraggy looking square, with its turmoil, its beggars and apple women in the lobbies; its ancient, offensive smell, its rickety stairs, its labyrinth of passages and its babel of tongues. Above him, however, the plaster bust of Justinian out of those blank, sightless eyes continued the contemplation of the garden as though turning from the complex jurisprudence of the ancients and moderns to the simple existence of butterflies and flowers.

CHAPTER XXIX.

THERE is an aphorism to the effect that one cannot spend and have; also a saying about the whirlwind, both of which in time came home to the land baron. For several generations the Mauville family, bearing one of the proudest names in Louisiana, had held marked prestige under Spanish and French rule, while extensive plantations indicated the commercial ascendency of the patroon's ancestors. The thrift of his forefathers, however, passed lightly over Edward Mauville. Sent to Paris by his mother, a widow, who could deny him nothing, in the course of a few years he had squandered two plantations and several hundred negroes. Her death placed him in undisputed possession of the residue of the estate, when, finding the exacting details of commerce irksome, in a moment of weakness he was induced to dispose of some of his possessions to Yankee speculators who had come in with the flood of northern energy. Most of the money thus realized he placed in loose investments, while the remainder gradually disappeared in indulging his pleasures.

"Any one been to see me, mammy?"

At this critical stage in his fortunes, or misfortunes, the patroon's legacy had seemed timely, and his trip to the north followed. But from a swarm of creditors to a nest of antirenters was out of the frying pan into the fire, hastening his return to the Crescent City, where he was soon forced to make an assignment of the remaining property. A score of hungry lawyers hovered around the sinking estate, greedily jealous lest some one of their number should batten too gluttonously at this general collation. It was the one topic of interest in the musty, dusty courthouse until the end appeared with the following announcement in the local papers:

"Annonce! Vente importante de negres! Mauville estate in bankruptcy!"

And thereafter were specified the different lots of negroes to be sold.

Coincident with these disasters came news from the north regarding his supposedly immense interests in New York state. A constitutional convention had abolished all feudal tenures and freed the fields from baronial burdens. At a breath—like a house of cards—the northern heritage was swept away and about all that remained of the principality was the worthless ancient deed itself, representing one of the largest colonial grants.

But even the sale of the negroes and his other merchandise and property failed to satisfy his clamorous creditors or to pay his gambling debts. Those obligations at cards it was necessary to meet, so he moved out of his bachelor apartments, turned over his expensive furnishings and bric-a-brac to the gamblers and snapped his fingers at the overanxious constables and lawyers.

His new home was in the house of an aged quadroon who had been a servant in his family many years ago—how long no one seemed to remember—and who had been his nurse before she had received her freedom. She enjoyed the distinction of being feared in the neighborhood; her fetiches had a power no other witch's possessed, and many of the negroes would have done anything to have possessed these infallible charms, save crossing her threshold to get them. Mauville, when he found fortune slipping away from him and ruin staring him in the face, had been glad to transfer his abode to this unhallowed place; going into hiding, as it were, until the storm should blow by, when he expected to emerge, confident as ever.

But inaction soon chafed his restless nature and drove him forth in spite of himself from the streets in that quarter of the town where the roofs of various colored houses formed strange geometrical figures and the windows were bright with flaring headdresses, beneath which looked out curious visages of ebony. Returning one day from such a peregrination, he determined to end a routine of existence so humiliating to his pride.

Passing before a doorway, the land baron looked this way and that and, seeing only the rotating eyes of a pickaninny fastened upon him, hurried through the entrance. Hanging upon the walls were red and green pods and bunches of dried herbs of unquestionable virtue belonging to the old crone's pharmacopœia. Mauville slowly ascended the dark stairs and reached his retreat, a small apartment, with furniture of canework and floor covered with sea grass, the ceiling low and the windows narrow, opening upon a miniature balcony that offered space for one and no more.

"Is dat yo', honey?" said an adoring voice on the landing.

"Yes, auntie," replied the land baron as an old crone emerged from an ill lighted recess and stood before him.

"Any one been to see me, mammy?"

"Only dat Mexican gemmen—dat gemmen been here befo' who take yo' message about de troops; when dey go from New Orleans; how many dey am."

"You know that, auntie?" he asked quickly. "You know that!"—

"Yes, honey," she answered, shaking her head. "Ye' be berry careful, Mar's'r Edward."

"What did he want?" said the land baron quickly.

"He gib me dis." And the crone handed her visitor a slip of paper on which a few words were written. "What dat mean?"

"It means I am going away, mammy," pushing back his chair.

"Gwine away," she repeated. "When's yo' gwine?"

"Tomorrow; perhaps tonight even; down the river, auntie," rising and surveying himself in a mirror.

"How long yo' gwine away foh?"

"Perhaps forever, auntie."

"Not foh good, Mar's'r Edward, not foh good?" He nodded, and she broke into loud wailings. "Ye's gwine and yo' old mammy 'll nebber see yo' no mah—no mo'! I knowy dat yo's gittin Mar's'r Edward. She been a-talkin' about her in yo' sleep. She'll stay, and yo' mammy has a love charm foh yo'. Dem she'll yo's foh sho'."

"Tshaw, mammy! Do you think I would fly from a woman? Do I look as though I needed a charm?"

"No. She mus' worship yo'!" cried the infatuated crone.

"We're losing time, mammy," he exclaimed. "Stop this nonsense, and go pack a few things for me. I have some letters to write."

The old woman reluctantly obeyed, and the land baron penned a somewhat lengthy epistle to his one time master in Paris, the Abbe Moreau, whose disapproval of the Anglo-Saxon encroachments—witness Louisiana—and zeal for the colonization of the Latin races are matters of history. Having completed his epistle, the land baron placed it in the old crone's hand to mail with. "If that man calls again to-night I'll meet him tonight," and leaving the room, shot through the doorway, once more rapidly walking down the shabby thoroughfare. The aged negro woman stumbled out upon the balcony and gazed after the departing figure.

Soldier Boys' Christmas.

"There was never any fighting on Christmas day during the civil war," said the late General Hampton when asked for some reminiscences. "It has been a long time ago, and I cannot remember much of those Christmas times. We of the army had other things to occupy our attention. But Christmas was one day on which there was no fighting. The men received messages and boxes from home, and camp life got an inspiration on that day.

"I remember that on one Christmas the ground was covered with snow. The men pelted themselves on sides like schoolboys, and a tremendous battle ensued. For a long time the contest raged. The lines changed and were broken, formed again and endeavored to execute strategic movements. Finally the sport became so exciting and so spirited that two men had their arms broken, and I had to go into the fight and declare a truce."—Washington Star.

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

So uniformly successful has Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription proven in all forms of Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb, and Leucorrhea, that, after over a third of a century's experience in curing the worst cases of these distressing and debilitating ailments, Dr. Pierce now feels fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in cash for any case of these diseases which he cannot cure.

IT STANDS ALONE.—The "Favorite Prescription" stands alone, as the one and only remedy for these distressingly common forms of weakness, possessed of such positively specific curative properties as to warrant its makers in proposing, and binding themselves to forfeit, as we, the undersigned proprietors of that wonderful remedy hereby do, to pay the sum of $500 in legal money of the United States in any case of the above diseases in which after a fair and reasonable trial of our treatment, we fail to cure. No other medicine for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments is backed by such a remarkable guarantee; no other medicine for woman's ills is possessed of the unparalleled curative properties that would warrant its manufacturers in making such an offer; no other remedy has such a record of cures on which to base such a remarkable offer.

Therefore, insist on having Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and turn your back on any unscrupulous dealer who would insult your intelligence by attempting to foist upon you some inferior substitute, under the plea that "it is just as good." Insist on having the article which has a record of a third of a century of cures and which is backed by those willing to forfeit $500 if they cannot cure you.

In cases attended by a leucorrheal drain a solution of Dr. Pierce's Lotion Tablets should be used conjointly with the use of the "Favorite Prescription." They are sold by all druggists, or sent post paid to any address, on receipt of 85 cents in stamps. Send 50 cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. Address WORLD'S DISPENSARY, Buffalo, N. Y.

Weak and sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

A CHRISTMAS BUNCH OF PETERBOROUGH BOYS

Gathered From Far and Near for the Christmas Turkey.

There's nothing like Christmas to bring the wandering boys to the parental roof-tree. The savour of the Christmas turkey draws like a forty horse power magnet. On Saturday after Christmas a group of eight Peterborough boys, home for the Christmas holidays, happened to form on a street corner. They were from every point of the compass and had come a long ways to eat the Christmas turkey at the domestic hearth. Roundly estimated, they had travelled in the aggregate 17,000 miles to reach home for a few days' renewal of old associations. There was Howard Hughes, Montreal; Geo. Stenson, Dawson City; — Roberts, Saginaw City; Joe Cochrane, Kaslo, B. C.; ——————, Los Angeles, Cal.; Geo Riley, New Orleans; Hal. Dumble, Winnipeg; Will Connal, Philadelphia; Harry King, New York.

POLICE COURT.

Edward O'Brien certainly had hard luck. He got through Christmas day all right but violated the Sabbath by getting drunk. Had he been found in that condition on Christmas day the penalty would only have been $2.00. But Sunday makes a great deal of difference. His fine was $5.00, and there were no costs included.

H. P. Kennedy, nominated by J. J. Turner and F. J. Bradd.

Jas. Stevenson, nominated by W. Langford and Dr. Burnham.

After the close of the nominations for Mayor, it was decided to allow the nominees fifteen minutes each in which to address the electors on civic questions.

The Mayor was the first to speak and said that while he appreciated the honour done him by nominating him for a second term, had it not been for the fact that there were peculiar circumstances, he should prefer to withdraw from the nomination. The year just closing had been a most prosperous one in the history of the town, and the council had done a great amount of work, while it does not claim credit for the general prosperity.

Among the many things of importance which came up for settlement during the year was the union of Peterborough and Ashburnham. The council had been able to do what all previous councils had been unable to do. He believed that the union would be of benefit to both municipalities. The feelings of Ashburnham should be considered in this union, because they were losing their individuality, but he believed that the different interests would soon unite and that all concerned would be satisfied. He thought that the new ward should be given representation. He would like to see two councillors from Ashburnham to make sure that that portion would have a fair representation.

Another matter which has caused much discussion is that of the street railway and street lighting contracts, and he said that there had been so much dust thrown in the people's eyes that the matter should be presented to the people as it really stood. He said that Mr. Stuart's first plan was to form one company to undertake both the lighting and railway contracts, and that Hon. G. A. Cox was to furnish the additional capital required to finance the project. The promoters therefore made the proposition to the council that if they were given the street lighting contract at $90 per lamp per year they would undertake to construct the street railway. At the same time the Otonabee Power Co. offered to do the lighting at $35 per lamp per year. The council saw the great difference in price, and made an offer to Mr. Stuart to give him the street lighting at $50 per lamp provided the street railway were built and operated. This was done after an effort had been made to get the Otonabee Power Co. to offer a street railway contract. The negotiations made with Mr. Stuart culminated in the agreement being made out in the name of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company at Mr. Stuart's request, upon which he had an option. He assumed that Mr. Stuart was still willing to carry out his contract with the town, and he believed that if the people want the railway on these terms it can be secured.

Mr. Wm. Yelland was the next speaker and said that he had not much intention of becoming Mayor. He wished to say a few words with reference to some matters with which he had been displeased. He thought too much money had been spent in entertaining, and instanced the case of the visit of the Scotch Curlers. In the many years he had served as Councillor and Mayor he had tried to do his best. Mr. Yelland said that the people had not been taken into the confidence of the Council in the street railway and lighting matters and said that the people did not want to be kept in the dark. He did not want to criticise the council particularly.

Mr. Metheral spoke in favour of Mr. Best's candidature, saying that Mr. Best had been one of the most valued men on the council board and deserved the sympathy of the electors. He paid a high tribute to Mr. Yelland's ability, while he was Mayor, and said that the taxes were lower then than at present.

He said taxes had been raised and bylaws had been passed by the wagon load.

Ald. McWilliams asked Mr. Metheral for particulars as to matters of expenditures in which he had been charged with advocating, and said in explanation that he had nothing to do with it.

Mr. John Sawers was the next speaker and asked the Mayor what assurance the town had that the Street Railway Company and the American Cereal Company were connected in any way. If Mr. Stuart's name was connected with the street railway he would support the proposition, but he was opposed to giving it to the old company.

Speaking of the street lighting contract he said he would vote against the bylaw, and said that the Mayor had admitted that the Otonabee Power Company had a good financial standing and believed that the difference in price of light would amount to about $2,000. Public opinion had forced the council to submit the question to the people.

HORSE WAS KILLED BY G. P. R TRAIN.

But the Driver, Mr. W. Crowe Escaped Uninjured.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Norwood, Dec. 28th.—Mr. Walter Crowe, son of Mr. C. Crowe, Clarina, had a very narrow escape from death a few days ago while driving from Havelock to Norwood.

He had reached the Lagoon crossing over the C.P.R. in Belmont Township, and was just in the act of driving across the track when his horse was struck by the engine of the local. Mr. Crowe was not unaware of his danger, as he stopped before attempting to cross the track to listen for the train, knowing that it was about due. Hearing no sound, however, he concluded that it was safe to proceed, which he did with the result that his horse was instantly killed and thrown about one hundred feet. The cutter was smashed in pieces and it, with the occupant, thrown forty feet from the track.

Fortunately Mr. Crowe was uninjured beyond a few bruises. The horse and cutter were valued at $140.

Too Late For Xmas

Brass Goods and Art Noveau Metal Goods arrived too late for Christmas, and as we do not carry goods from one season to another, we will clear them out this week at such reductions as to ensure a ready sale. These Brass Goods consist of Brass Mirrors, Brass Clocks, Brass Candleabras, Brass Candlesticks, Brass Sconce (being candlesticks and mirrors combined), Brass Ink Stands, Brass Ash Trays and many other articles too numerous to mention. See them in our south window. The price will tell and everybody will tell the price.

Our Christmas sale of Art Novelties in the line of Framed Pictures has been one of the most appreciated lines we carried this season. Our customers showed their appreciation in the most striking manner possible and that was by securing their favourites. We have a few left and only a few splendid subjects and most artistically framed. These we have decided to clear out at substantial reductions this week. To quote prices would be out of the question. You will have to see the merit of the subjects offered and learn the price to appreciate their value. We would like to have you call on us and be convinced that our pictures are works of art and our prices are artless.

SHOW APPERCIATION OF TEACHER'S WORK.

Members of Mr. S. R. Armstrong's Class Present Him With Fur Gauntlets and Fountain pen.

A pleasing incident in connection with the services of the George street Sunday school yesterday afternoon was a presentation made to Mr. S. R. Armstrong by the members of his young men's Bible class. After the lesson for the day had been taught, Mr. Armstrong was called to the front, and the following address was read by Mr. J. W. Hilburn:—

Mr. S. R. Armstrong:

Dear Teacher.—At this season of general good wishes and grateful remembrances we desire to convey to you some measure of our appreciation of your able and faithful services in our behalf and to assure you of the high place you have justly earned in our affections and esteem. We fully recognize that we are especially fortunate in having as our teacher one who is eminently fitted by nature and culture for the responsible and difficult position you hold. To conduct successfully a young men's Bible class is to fill one of the most important offices in the gift of the church; at the same time it is to possess a capacity owned by but few. You have, by years of painstaking, effort and zealous support shown your devotion and loyalty to the George street Sunday school.

But it is in the relation you sustain to your class in particular that we here speak. Your lessons are both educative and interesting; your methods clear and impressive, and your manner sympathetic and inspiring. You are greatly aided in your instruction by your familiarity with the Bible, your general knowledge, quick insight and natural zeal, while no small part of your success is due to your exemplary and consistent character. You are always prompt and regular in attendance, unflagging in your efforts to build up the membership of your class, and patient and forbearing in face of frequent discouragement. We can assure you that if we were as faithful and earnest as we should be, there would be no room for disparagement, and we beg you to overlook and forgive our many delinquencies. We hope to do better in the future.

In connection with this imperfect expression of our regard for you as a teacher and a gentleman, we request you to accept from us this gift, not for its intrinsic worth, as that is altogether inadequate, but as a tangible indication of our sincerity. We unanimously join in this acknowledgement of our gratitude and appreciation, and we unite in wishing you, Mrs. Armstrong and your family, God's bounteous blessings. Accept also our best wishes for a bright and joyous New Year.

Mr. J. Middleton presented Mr. Armstrong on behalf of the members of the class, with a pair of Persian lamb gauntlets and a fountain pen.

Mr. Armstrong, who was taken completely by surprise expressed his appreciation of the gifts presented, and the spirit which prompted them.

There was a particularly large attendance at the class yesterday, and the event was one of the most pleasant in the annals of the George street school. Mr. Armstrong has for a number of years been teaching the Young Men's Bible Class, and under his teaching it has grown both in numbers and influence.

Signed on behalf of the class by

J. BROWN,
GEO. RUTH,
R. McCLELLAN,

A MAD GALLOP DOWN GEORGE STREET.

A Runaway on Thursday Night—Christmas Parcels Scattered.

For a few moments on Thursday night great excitement prevailed among the crowds which thronged the streets, it being caused by a runaway horse. The animal was one of McKercher's livery horses, and was was hired for the Christmas season by Mr. C. G. Routley for the delivery of his goods. It had previously been quiet, but while the driver was looking at the parcels by the sleigh, the animal started off leaving him standing on the sidewalk. That was on Dunnistoun avenue, while the horse was not caught until near the C.P.R. station. During its mad career down George street many vehicles and foot passengers narrowly escaped the runaway, while many parcels were lost by being pitched from the rig. About $50 worth of goods were destroyed. Just south of Charlotte street the wiffletree broke and the horse continued on alone. The vehicle was badly smashed up and will take about $12 to be repaired.

Mr. Routley, when seen by the Examiner, stated that those few who had been disappointed by not getting their parcels on Thursday would oblige him by calling at his store.

Christmas Business.

The Singer Supply Company did a good Christmas trade, in common with all the other business establishments in town, and no doubt a feature which contributed to the success of this firm is the excellent goods kept and the low prices asked for them. Recently the windows have contained articles of special interest to the children.

MELTON LOSEY DIES FROM FALL ON ICY PAVEMENT.

His Skull Fractured by Violent Contact With Ice Bound Walk.

Picked up Unconscious and so Remain ed till Death.

This morning at 6.30 Melton Losey, 13 Cambridge street, died as the result of a fall on an icy sidewalk on George street, on Saturday. With his father, Mr. Asaph Losey, corner of Reid and Smith streets, his brother, and an uncle, he was passing down George street on Saturday. When near the Point St. Charles mills, Mr. Losey, who was walking behind with his uncle, slipped on the icy walk, his feet went from under him, and he fell full length, striking the back of his head with fearful violence and fatal effect, upon the pavement. He was picked up unconscious and at once conveyed to his home. It was discovered that his skull was fractured and he never for a moment gained consciousness, and only once did he raise his hand as high as his head. He died this morning. The accident seems to have been something in the way of a fatality. The deceased was a young active man in good health. He was wearing at the time of the accident new rubbers, and seemed to be, in this respect, in a position to maintain his footing securely.

The deceased, who was 27 years of age, was married, and leaves behind him a widow and two small children.

Funeral from the family residence, 13 Cambridge street, on Wednesday December 30th, at two o'clock to the Little Lake cemetery.

DEATH OF AN OLD RESIDENT.

Mr. Patrick Donoghue Died on Sunday —Peterborough Resident 50 Years.

One of the best known residents of Peterborough died yesterday, Mr. Patrick Donoghue, who for thirty years has been a respected resident of this town, and news of his death, at the age of 88 years, will come as a shock to those who knew him. He has been in comparatively good heal h all his life, and until a week of his death, with the exception of a single attack of asthma.

The immediate cause of his death was heart failure induced by asthma. His death occurred at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. Chas. Dunn, Water street, where the deceased has been living.

The late Mr. Donoghue was born in Grannith, county of Longford, Ireland, and came to Canada with his father and two brothers when 10 years of age. The family settled at Gananoque, where the deceased lived until his removal to Peterborough 30 years ago. There remains of the family three sons and three daughters, Mrs. Donoghue having died eight years ago. The sons are John and Daniel of Peterborough, and Thos., of Gananoque; and the daughters, Mrs. J. Carew, Emsmere, Mrs. Chas. Dunn, Peterborough, and Mrs. Jos. Griffin, Rochester.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday morning at nine o'clock from St. Peter's cathedral.

CHILDREN ENJOYED CHRISTMAS DAY

At the Barnardo Home—Nicholls Hospital and Protestant Home Observe the Season.

NICHOLLS HOSPITAL.

The Nicholls Hospital was largely decorated for Christmas day with holly and mistletoe, and everything was done to make the lot of the patients as happy as possible. The children especially had an enjoyable time and heartily appreciated their magnificent Christmas tree. The employees of the hospital were remembered, each one received some gift from the Christmas tree which was in the hall.

THE PROTESTANT HOME.

Christmas day passed off quietly at the Protestant Home. The twenty inmates after enjoying an excellent Christmas dinner listened to some Christmas music by Mrs. K. Hardley-Wilmot and Miss Archer.

THE BARNARDO HOME.

The thirty children at the Barnardo Home had a truly delightful day, yesterday. The Home was prettily decorated for the event, the main part being the annual Christmas dinner, to which about forty children sat down, some, however, being visitors.

NORTH RENFREW.

The result of the bye-election in North Renfrew on Saturday, was the return of the Opposition candidate by a large majority. The result was not unexpected, nor, indeed, surprising, when one considers the circumstances. Personality more than politics, was a prominent element in the result. The Liberal party was handicapped by the loss of the late Mr. Munro, who died a few days after his election in 1902. He was an exceptionally strong candidate and had a very pronounced personal as well as political influence in North Renfrew, was regarded as the local leader of the Liberal party, and was a most important factor in determining results in both Dominion and Provincial politics.

Mr. Thomas Murray, M. P., was another important factor in local politics, and his enforced withdrawal from the fight had no doubt a large adverse influence. Ill-health compelled his retirement just on the eve of the contest, and, therefore, his influence and assistance were not available. As to the two candidates, while both were eligible, Mr. Dunlop, the Conservative candidate, had the advantage of greater geniality of manner and personal suavity, which he used to advantage during a long personal canvass. He had also the advantage of being early in the field and was making a persistent personal canvass months before the Liberal candidate was even nominated. This, with his great personal popularity, gave Mr. Dunlop a very decided advantage. All these matters were in favour of the Opposition candidate, but the most potent factor in bringing success to the Opposition side was the persistent and unblushing corruption that fastened itself on the riding ten months before the date of the election in the person of the Conservative arch adept at corruption, Mr. Robert Birmingham, who has been for years facile princeps in the origination and administration of corrupt political methods, in behalf of the Conservative party. He knows how to train, and keep, so to speak, on tap, the most unscrupulous and adept corrupt workers. He is ready at any moment to place his hand on a "first-class man" for such nefarious work. Mr. Birmingham personally undertook the task of conducting the crooked work of corruption in North Renfrew. He camped on the ground ten months ago and has since been conducting a campaign of corruption, which for unblushing audacity has, it is safe to say, never been equalled in Canada in political history. If fact so high ran the carnival of impurity that the local ministers called a meeting to denounce the flagrant corruption that was being practiced. The hypocrisy that accompanied this riot of corruption was one of its prominent features. No sooner had suitable thugs and party heelers been secured in Montreal or the Soo or elsewhere, and summoned to the scene of action than a lying proclamation was issued that "Grit hoodlers were on the way." In other respects, the campaign was one of scandal, villification and vindictive abuse. In conducting this obscene campaign the Mail, the World and Ottawa Citizen newspapers, held the truth as the least consideration in their attacks. The most outrageous charges were made and at a time when, in the interests of their party, the most unblushing and flagrant corruption was being professionally practiced. Mr. Whitney and the Opposition have been making much of charges of corruption against the Liberal party, but the manner in which North Renfrew was won, shows that this cry was being raised to cover the nefarious work being done in his interests. It is to be hoped that the details of the miserable campaign of corruption conducted in North Renfrew will be laid bare so that the public may know how the hypocritical preachers of political purity have played the game.

ANNUAL CONCERT AT FOURTH LINE SCHOOL.

Smith School Children Enjoy Themselves.

The annual concert of the fourth line school, which was held on the evening of Dec. 22nd, in the Temperance Hall, proved a delightful evening. The hall was filled with an interested audience who expressed themselves much pleased with the entertainment. The programme was varied and interesting, and won loud applause from the listeners. The patriotic songs and flag drill were given with a spirit truly inspiring. Few people were forgotten in the distribution of gifts from the splendid Christmas tree. Among the many beautiful presents received by Miss Courtney, the teacher, was a handsome china cocoa pot, conveying the best wishes of the pupils for the ensuing year;

Deafness Cannot be Cured
by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. SEVEN FAT YEARS OF LIBERAL RULE

Contrasted With Eighteen Years of Conservative Administration.

How the Laurier Government has Stimulated Immigration—Prosperous Condition of the Agricultural Industry.

(Fifth Paper.)

Through the efforts of the Hon. Mr. Fisher, the Quarantine on Canadian cattle exported to the United States was abolished. This has proved a great boon to our farming community. It opened up a fine market for a class of young stockers which would otherwise have been practically unsaleable.

Consider the results! During the four and a half years that the Quarantine was in operation, only 5,763 cattle, of a total value of $52,026 were exported by us to the United States, whereas for the same period, immediately succeeding the abolition, the exports were 249,293, of a value of $5,239,518;

COLD STORAGE.

(4) Cold Storage facilities for the shipment across the ocean of perishable products such as butter, cheese, eggs, fruit, poultry, etc., were greatly extended and developed to a high point of perfection. The Conservatives claim the credit for initiating cold storage. It is true that they had taken up the idea, but they only played with it, and that, notwithstanding the fact that a thorough equipment of mechanical cold storage was then in use by Australian and American shippers. The truth is that during the latter years of Conservative rule, the Tory Cabinet Ministers were too busy fighting each other to give any attention to the public needs. Hon. Mr. Montague, M. D., was then Minister of Agriculture, and as every body knows, he was in the forefront of the fight within the Tory ranks.

Under the Conservative plan a small number of steamers were fitted with insulated chambers to be cooled by ice, and a few refrigerator cars were placed on railways. This was the extent of the cold storage facilities, and they were very unsatisfactory. The Liberals adopted the mechanical cold storage system, and provided for it on 17 ocean steamers the first year,—now increased to about 30. By co-operation with Railway Companies, refrigerator cars were placed on all railways converging to Ocean Ports. Refrigerator plants were, by the assistance of bonuses established at points of shipment to Great Britain, and by the same method, refrigerator chambers were provided in Creameries.

The result is that butter for export is kept cool from the moment it is made or produced until it reaches the British market, and other perishable products may be shipped, with the certainty that they will not depreciate on the voyage.

During the season of 1902, 144 sailings were made to Great Britain from Montreal, by vessels having mechanical cold storage or cooled air equipment. The shipments made in cold storage consisted of butter, cheese, poultry, lard, bacon and fruit.

The Hon. Mr. Fisher has also provided officers to supervise cold storage shipments, both at the points of embarkation in Canada and landing in Great Britain.

Aside from the cold storage question, the Department of Agriculture has been very much alive under the direction of the Liberal Minister, and innumerable steps have been taken to benefit the agriculture, dairying and live stock industries. The following are only by way of illustration;

An elaborate system of experiments was made to determine the causes that produce soft pork. The results, which are most valuable, have been published for the information of the farmers of the country.

The Minister having ascertained that there was a good market for Canadian poultry—in proper condition—in Great Britain, caused experiments to be made in methods of fattening and preparing for market, —the results of which were widely disseminated throughout the country.

Experts were also appointed to instruct farmers in the business.

A Live Stock Commissioner, was appointed.

More effective measures were taken to stamp out and prevent the spread of hog cholera and cattle tuberculosis.

A new laboratory was installed at the Ottawa Experimental Farm, and the staff of the Chemistry Branch there was largely added to.

Since the Liberals came into office the exports of the produce of the Farm have expanded in a ratio which is most gratifying and encouraging. For instance, during the seven years, 1890 to 1896 inclusive, farm products to the value of 331 millions dollars, were shipped out of the country, while for the seven following years the shipments amounted to 578 millions. While it would be absurd for any one to claim that the entire credit for this happy state of affairs is due to the Liberal Government, it is generally conceded that the actions of the Government have constituted a very important factor in stimulating and developing the trade.

The publication entitled "Ice and Cold Storage" of London, England, wrote as follows, in May, 1900:—

"When the history of Canada's agricultural interests comes to be written up, its progress of a truth must date from the year 1896."

DETAILS OF EXPORT.

We will now look at the details of the principal exports:—

Butter, 1896... ... ...$1,052,089
" 1903... 26,964,618

Price in 1896, 15c. per lb.; in 1903, 29 2-5c. per lb.

Butter, 7 years 1890 to 1896.$ 6,149,331
Butter, 7 years 1897 to 1903. 29,868,710

Without the mechanical cold storage (which was commenced in 1897) it would be utterly impossible for our butter to be placed on the British market in a condition which would command prices high enough to encourage the trade.

Cheese, too, shows splendid increases:

Exports, 1896 ... ...$13,956,571
" 1903... 24,712,943
" seven years, 1890 to 1896... ... ...$ 87,626,658
Exports, seven years, 1890 to 1896... ... ...$ 87,626,658
Exports, seven years, 1897 to 1903 133,979,276

It is worthy of note that the exports of cheese from the United States decreased by fourteen million dollars in the six years from 1890 to 1896, while Canadian exports increased 20 millions.

In butter, United States exports increased 9 millions for the said six year period, as against an increase of 16 millions in Canadian butter.

Bacon, Hams and Pork.

Exports 1896 ... ... $ 4,446,894
" 1903 16,039,289
Exports, seven years, 1890 to 1896 ... ...$ 15,752,798

CROW'S NEST PASS RAILWAY.

(3) By the granting of a subsidy amounting to $3,630,000 the Government secured the speedy construction of the Crow's Nest Pass Railway, by which one of the richest mineral sections of the country was opened up and the trade connected therewith diverted from American to Canadian Channels. It also provided a fine market for the agricultural produce of the North West Territories, and since the construction of the road, the dairy and live stock interests of the Alberta District have enjoyed a measure of prosperity never before known.

The Government made it a part of the bargain with the C. P. R., that the said company would grant substantial reduction in freight rates, ingoing and outgoing, to the farmers of the West. It was conservatively estimated that these reductions effected a saving to the farmers of $750,000 on grain and flour alone in 1899. Spread this reduction over a few years, and you would see it would recoup the public for the whole amount of the subsidy.

Further it was a part of the contract that the C.P.R. would turn over to the Government 50,000 acres of coal lands in the neighbourhood of the Crow Nest Pass. These lands formed one fifth of a grant by the British Columbia Provincial Government to another railway company whose charter had been acquired by the C. P. Railway. The object of the Government in securing these lands was to enable it to control the price of coal to the mining industries of British Columbia and others. It is a provision of the act that the coal from such lands shall be disposed of at a reasonable price, not exceeding $2 per ton f.o.b. at the mines.

The Government also secured control and supervision of rates over the new road, and has grant running powers over it to other railways.

REDUCTION IN POSTAGE RATES.

(6.) The domestic rate of postage on letters was reduced from 3 to 2 cents.

The rate between Canada and the Mother Country and from Canada to every part of the empire, was reduced from 5 to 2 cents per half ounce.

Still further the rate on letters from Canada to the United States was lowered from 3 to 2 cents per ounce.

MORE POSTAL REFORMS.

A Postal Note System was adopted, which affords a cheap and convenient means of remitting money —small sums particularly.

A Special Delivery Stamp was inaugurated, which ensures letters upon which a special ten cent stamp is affixed, being immediately delivered by a messenger on arrival at the office of destination. In some cases this is as good as the telegraph service.

EXTENSION OF INTERCOLONIAL RAILWAY.

(7) The Intercolonial Railway was extended from Levis to Montreal —the commercial centre of the country. It has also been more modernly equipped, and it is now the equal of the best railways on the continent.

IMMIGRATION AND DEVELOPMENT OF THE NORTH WEST.

It is we think very well understood and generally believed that the tide of immigration has at last turned our way and that the great North West is being quite rapidly settled. In these particulars we do not consider that any proof is required to convince the public, but we think an inspection of the records will be both interesting and inspiring. The opening up of that rich territory of almost boundless extent marks an epoch in the history of Canada. It is the dawn of a new era, and, as we believe, a more prosperous one than we have ever experienced. The wealth which will be produced from that great district in increasing measure each succeeding year as development proceeds, will radiate all over the country — and every industry will be benefitted by it. Had we no other resource than that rich territory a prosperous future would be assured us. The rapid settlement of these fertile lands means that correspondingly rapid progress will be made in manufacturing industries that supply the wants of the farmers and ranchers.

We will now ask you to look at the figures, and note please the progress made during the last seven years.

First, we will take the Immigrants.

Seven years, 1890 to 1896 inclusive... 271,216
Seven years, 1897 to 1903 inclusive... 366,946
Increase last seven years... 95,730

Next we will examine the record as to the importation of settlers effects, which is as follows:

Total value of settlers' effects imported for seven years 1890 to 1896, inclusive... ... ...$10,670,440
Total value of settlers' effects imported for seven years 1897 to 1903 inclusive... ... ...$20,897,603
Increase last seven years under Liberals... ... ...$ 9,221,163

Now look, please, at the records of Homestead Entries:

For the year 1896 they numbered only 1,857—whereas last year they were 21,263.

During the seven years 1890 to 1896 inclusive, they totalled 21,813, as compared with 75,339 for the succeeding seven years — 1897 to 1903 inclusive.

Further and still more striking. It is an actual fact that nearly 12,000 more Homestead entries for land were made during the seven years the Liberals have been in office than during the whole 18 years of Conservative rule. Examine the figures

Total for 18 years, 1879 to 1896 inclusive... 52,661
Total for seven years 1897 to 1903 inclusive 75,339

What better evidence could you want as to the vigour, the wisdom, and the success of the Government's immigration policy?

LAND SALES BY RAILWAY COMPANIES.

But we have another test to submit, namely the record of Land Sales made by railway and other companies holding grants of land made to them by the Conservative party when they were in power, and also sales by the Hudson's Bay Company. During the last four years such sales were:

Acreage... 7,760,212
Value... ... ...$28,842,150

Whereas the record for the last four years of the Conservative Government was—

Acreage... 411,603
Value..$ $1,144,350

N.B. — We quote only four year periods in this instance because the returns of such sales were not published by the Government prior to 1899.

(8). A most vigorous immigration policy has been pursued with splendid results. In previous paragraphs we have given striking figures illustrating the increase in the number of immigrants, Homestead Entries, Land Sales, etc. Suffice it therefore to say now, that the progress that has been made in the last few years, gives the strongest possible assurance, that the longed talked of national desire to populate the great West will be realized in greatly increasing measure each year to the advantage of every industry in the country.

The Hon. Mr. Sifton, Minister of the Interior, undertook the work of his portfolio with the great advantage of knowing the needs and aspirations of the western country thoroughly. His policy from the start was bold, energetic and intensely practical. He realized what his predecessors failed to do, viz., that the landing of immigrants in the country was only the commencement of good immigration work, and that to ensure the best results, every reasonable effort must be put forth to make the newcomers perfectly satisfied and contented. Towards that end land regulations have been simplified and made more generous in a variety of ways too numerous to mention. He saw the weak points that had given rise to dissatisfaction in the past, and supplied the necessary remedy. The settler is now welcomed, instead of being practically neglected on his arrival, and is made to feel that he is among friends. In short, it be aim has been to make it as easy as possible for the immigrant to get settled—the fertility of the land will do the rest.

Space forbids our entering into anything like a lengthy description of the efforts to secure immigration. Very little has been left undone. The record is one of persistent, intelligent and enthusiastic effort, particularly in great Britain and the United States. The great influx of people from the latter country into Canada has attracted the attention of the press of the world.

ST. LAWRENCE CANAL SYSTEM.

(9.) When the Liberal Government assumed the reins of power they found that at the rate of progress that had been made under the Conservative Government the St. Lawrence Canal System would not be completed for at least ten years. Recognising the importance of the work in the interests of the country, and particularly of the great West, the Government determined to rush it to completion. This was done, and by 1900 a clear channel of 14 feet was available from the Great Lakes to the ocean ports in Eastern Canada.

FRANCE AND RUSSIA.

As a Combination, Appeals to Foreign Minister Delcasse.

Paris, Dec. 28.—During a discussion of the Foreign Office budget in the Senate yesterday, Foreign Minister Delcasse justified the intervention of Russia and Austria in Macedonia. He declared the powers were resolute in their purpose to apply reforms there. Regarding the Far East he said that nothing had occurred to cause him to place faith in the alarming reports published daily.

Reviewing the various groupings of the powers in Europe, he said that none appeared to him more ideal than that of France and Russia from the point of view of national interests and sympathies.

Canadian Doctor Dies in Italy.

Berlin, Dec. 28.—Word was received here yesterday from Rome, Italy, of the death of Dr. S. D. Bowlby, of Berlin, who left here on a trip to Italy for his health a few weeks ago. Deceased was 77 years old, and was widely known in the county. The body will be brought to Berlin for burial.

Situation is Grave.

Cape Haytien, Dec. 28.—Governor Morales, acting president of Santo Domingo, is returning to Santo Domingo, where he will seek reinforcements and attack Puerto Plata. The situation in Santo Domingo is grave, and the consuls have called for warships.

One in Four Persons.
One person in every four suffers more or less from itching piles. Some do not know the nature of their ailment and others have never heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment, as the only absolute and guaranteed cure for this distressing disease. If you are a sufferer ask your neighbours about this great preparation. It has grown popular as a result of the news of its merits being passed from friend to friend.

Not a minute should be lost when a child shows symptoms of croup. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears will prevent the attack. It never fails, and is pleasant and safe to take.

JAP JINGOES MULTIPLY.

The Fighters of the Flowery Kingdom Daily Grow in Numbers.

Pekin, Dec. 28.—The opinion entertained by the best informed diplomats in Pekin, that war between Russia and Japan is probable and almost inevitable, remains unchanged. Nothing has been received here to coroborate the special despatches from Tokio, which said that the Japanese Government was adopting an imperative tone in pressing for a speedy reply to its last note. The report is not believed.

Official communications received here from high sources say that the Japanese war party is growing in strength, and is bringing all its influence to bear upon the Government.

An Ominous Sign.

London, Dec. 28.—The Daily Mail's Kobe correspondent asserts that the Japanese army authorities have requested the newspapers to refrain from publishing news concerning the movement of troops or to carry on warlike preparations. In an editorial, The Daily Mail says it regards this as a practical censorship and an ominous sign.

Editorials in other morning newspapers express concern over the movement of foreign warships towards the Far East, and particularly over the statement that United States marines have been ordered to Corea, fearing some unforseen incident may precipitate events.

The Morning Post's Pekin correspondent says that all classes of Chinamen unite in believing that in the event of war they must help the Japanese, and if this help is not given there will be a patriotic insurrection against the Manchuria dynasty.

M'GRATH AND HUDSON BAY.

Canada Will Maintain Sovereignty of Lakes to the Pole.

London, Dec. 28.—(C. A. P.—The Leader, referring to Mr. McGrath's articles on Hudson Bay, says the situation suggests Dogberry and the watchman in "Much Ado About Nothing." If, however, as is not unlikely, Washington insists upon the old ground coast disputes, England will have great difficulty in maintaining the wholly British character of Hudson Bay.

Mr. McGrath tells the simple truth when he says that the bay, if opened for general commerce, would divert great quantities of grain from United States sea ports. Canada is not troubling her head about fiscalities or any point, but that she owns Hudson Bay and will be mistress from the lakes to the pole or know the reason why.

Scores Col. Denison.

The Leader takes Col. Denison to task for imputing lack of honesty to the British opponents of Mr. Chamberlain. His opponents have pointed out what is true, namely, that there is no Canadian demand for a preference, and Canadian manufacturers will not tolerate any reduction in the duties on British manufactured articles. Col. Denison cited Sir Wilfrid Laurier as being in favor of Imperial reciprocity, and The Leader, using Col. Denison's words, says he must know better.

The Times prints a long article pleading for Imperial education.

YOU WILL BE ALL SMILES AGAIN.

Forget Your Stomach and You'll Have a Santa Claus Face.

HOW TO DO IT.

If there is one thing more than all others that will give a man a forlorn and friendless appearance and and make him morbib and "cranky" and disagreeable, that thing is dyspepsia. It makes one forget his friends and become morose and irritable. He is so wrapped up in his own misery that he is inconsiderate of every one else. Relieved of this terrible and depressing ailment, he again becomes a good fellow and a man among men.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are beyond question the most effective and popular remedy ever offered to the sufferers of this terrible disease. The thousands and thousands of cures they have brought about and the enormous increase of their sales fully attest the truth of this statement.

They are, above all, a natural remedy. They possess exactly the same properties that the gastric juices and other digestive fluids of the stomach possess and they actually do the digestive work of the stomach and enable that organ to rest and recuperate and become sound and well. They act in a mild, natural manner and cause no disturbance in the digestive organs. They prevent any fermentation of the food which causes sour stomach. In fact, under their influence the subject forgets that he has a stomach and his resulting cheerfulness presents a great contrast to his former dejection.

Millions of boxes of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold annually and they are but in the dawn of their popularity. Every mail brings letters of thanksgiving from grateful ones who have been cured of this terrible disease. The following is one of hundreds received each week:

Rev. J. R. Hoag of Wymore, Neb., writes: "For six years I have been troubled with dyspepsia. Last fall I became very much alarmed at some symptoms of heart trouble and came to believe there was a sympathetic relation between the two diseases, rather, that the stomach trouble was the cause of the heart disturbances. I hit upon Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets for a remedy and invested a dollar and a half for three boxes which lasted me three months and I can eat any kind of food I want and have a good, vigorous appetite. Although I am 77 years old, I now feel perfectly well and without being requested by any one I make this statement as a compliment to the virtues of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets."

LATEST NOMINATIONS.

E. D. Smith, M.P., was nominated on Saturday by the Conservatives of the new riding of Wentworth. His was the only name mentioned.

DUNLOP WAS VICTOR

Big Conservative Majority in North Renfrew.

CAUSES OF THE TURN-OVER

The Influence of Mr. Gamey in the Contest—Main Cause of the Landslide Was to Be Found in the Personality of the Two Candidates—Result Not a Condemnation of the Ross Government.

Pembroke, Dec. 28.—Mr. Dunlop, the Conservative candidate, was elected in North Renfrew by about 560 majority. This was certainly an extraordinary change since eighteen months ago, when the late Mr. Munro carried the riding for the Liberals by 459. It will, no doubt, be proclaimed by the Conservatives as a condemnation of the Ross Government, but nothing could be farther from the truth. The record of that Government, its merits and its defects, had very little part in the result. The main cause of such a landslide was to be found in the personality of the two candidates.

Dunlop's Long Still Hunt.

Mr. Dunlop had been actively at work for the past ten months, assisted by Mr. Robert Birmingham, the chief organizer of the party. Together they visited every portion of the riding, and Mr. Dunlop became personally acquainted with the great majority of the electors. He kept at work during the campaign, and spoke and canvassed day and night. Mr. Hale, on the contrary, allowed the summer and fall to pass by in inactivity, and it was only when the date of the election was announced that his committee tried to make up for lost ground. His committee found in their canvass that this was a serious obstacle. The electors, especially in the country, would recall the fact that Mr. Dunlop had visited them, and add that they had never seen Mr. Hale.

Mr. Hale, too, was handicapped by the delay in the issue of the writ. When the date of the election was finally announced, the time was too short to allow them to unite their forces and overtake Mr. Dunlop. To enable them to get their organization into shape it was necessary to bring in a number of outsiders, and then those who had fought the battles of the party forty years felt they were over-looked. Until quite recently election fights in North Renfrew were conducted without outside assistance, by local men, and, like many other innovations, this one was resented.

The Candidates' Views.

This is the view of both candidates. Mr. Dunlop after the election repeatedly expressed his gratitude to "the people," and had little other reason to give to his victory. Mr. Hale attributed his defeat to a general drift of public opinion in favor of his opponent, and to a feeling of resentment among the old supporters of the party at the importation of so many outside organizers. He said, however, that he meant no reflection on Mr. Vance and his assistants. This was nothing more than just to the the Liberal organization, which was thorough and worked without a hitch on the day of trial. But the organizers could not be expected to have an intimate knowledge of local conditions, and country people, as is well known, are chary of expressing their real opinions to comparative strangers. Mr. Thomas Mackie, M.P., was out of the riding on business for the greater part of the three weeks preceding the election, and Mr. Thomas Murray, M.P., was in California for his health.

Effect of Slander.

The torrent of slander and abuse poured out by Conservatives had also considered effect. The old saying that if enough mud is thrown some of it is sure to stick was realized. The Liberals tried to conduct the campaign on a higher level and endeavored to present to the electors questions of public policy, but were invariably driven to devote more or less time to the refutation of the slanders of their opponents. Mr. Gamey, M.P.P., was, of course, the chief offender, but the effect of his speeches is doubtful. Many respectable Conservatives resented his presence in the riding, but doubtless voted for Mr. Dunlop when the time came. He was regarded as a curiosity, and hundreds went to hear him merely for that reason. Mr. Stratton was admitted to have made most effective replies. The returns show that the greatest turnover was in South Algona, where Mr. Gamey did not speak at all.

Dunlop Praises Gamey.

Mr. E. A. Dunlop said to a press correspondent: "I attribute my success to the fact that the Liberals depended too much on the machine, and it threw them down. Gamey did us a world of good. I want to say how much I appreciate the work done by the members of the Legislature and others who spoke for me."

DISTINGUISHED ITALIAN DEAD.

Guiseppe Zanardelli Passes Away at Age of 77 Years.

Rome, Dec. 28.—Former Premier Zanardelli died Saturday evening at Maderno, near Brescia (sixty miles from Miram), aged 77. Guiseppe Zanardelli, who had previously served one term as Premier of the Chamber of Deputies, was re-elected to the Chamber in May, 1895, and Dec. 14, 1897, was appointed Minister of Justice. In February, 1901, Signor Zanardelli was appointed President of the Council of Ministers, and in April, 1903, he became so seriously ill that he fainted as he was leaving the Quirinal. Signor Zanardelli announced the resignation of the Cabinet in the Chamber, June 18, 1903, and was asked to form a new Cabinet Oct. 20, he resigned, with his whole Cabinet, owing to ill-health. The news of the former Premier's death, although expected, produced a profound impression here, Rome considering him a son of her citizens.

SIR C. H. TUPPER.

Withdraws From Federal Politics—May Go Into Provincial Arena.

Vancouver, Dec. 28.—Sir Charles H. Tupper announced yesterday that he did not intend to stand for any constituency at the approaching elections, having declined nominations from both his old constituency of Pictou and Yale and Caribou, B.C., the reason being that he could not devote time from his legal business. If the party wanted it, he said, he might consider the matter of taking an active part in provincial politics at a future date.

Willy Mullah Fools Italians.

Rome, Dec. 28.—News has been received here that Captain Bisco, commander of the Italian squadron in Somaliland, arrived at Obbia on the flagship Cristophero Colombia, from which point he sent emissaries to the interior, having been given to understand that the Mullah was disposed to treat with Great Britain through the Italians. The Mullah is believed to be in an almost desperate condition owing to the lack of a good base. It is thought the Mullah's alleged disposition to treat is merely a strategem to obtain time.

Duel Over Dreyfus.

Paris, Dec. 28.—A duel with swords was fought yesterday morning between Captain Levy of the Fifth Regiment of Engineers and Henry McMoiroy, a leading anti-Semite. Captain Levy was wounded in the arm. The traditional results of French duels were not followed in this case, for the opponents remain unreconciled. The duel was the outcome of a violent altercation over the Dreyfus' case.

Prof. Sparling Dead.

Montreal, Dec. 28.—Prof. George B. Sparling, mathematical master of Upper Canada College, Toronto, who arrived in the city Thursday to spend Christmas with his daughter, Mrs. Fred. J. Shaw of Arlington avenue, passed away very suddenly on Saturday afternoon.

The Evidence You Value.

By word of mouth from friend to friend Dr. Chase's Ointment has received more unsolicited recommendation than probably any medicine you can mention. The fact that it is an absolute cure for piles has put it in a class all by itself as a preparation of inestimable value and people recommend it knowing that it is a certain cure.

CHRISTMAS SERVICES IN TOWN CHURCHES.

Bright and Appropriate Celebrations of the Joyous Day.

Details of Different Services—Music an Important Feature of the Day's Devotions.

Christmas services were held in all the town churches yesterday and in spite of the somewhat strenuous weather conditions congregations were large in all the churches, and the services in each case were appropriate to the joyous season. Decorations were profuse, holly, of course, predominating.

The pulpits for the most part were filled by local clergy. Rev. Mr. Langfeldt, however, was out of town, and the services in St. Luke's were conducted by Rev. W. L. Armitage in the the morning, and Rev. F. Sawers in the evening.

The music was a special feature of these services, and it is doubtful if at any previous Christmas as pleasing music has been rendered as that which delighted those who attended the services yesterday.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

Yesterday was St. John, the Evangelist's day, and at the evening service in St. John's church, Rev. J. C. Davidson referred to that saint. He preached from Proverbs chapter 22, verse 11: "He that loveth pureness of heart, for the grace of his lips the king shall be his friends."

Mr. Davidson began by saying that to-day was the festival of St. John, to whom this church is dedicated. Let us try and gather some message from his life and character. He was the disciple that Jesus loved more than all the others. He came into closer contact with our Lord than did the others, and our Lord fixed his attention on him and loved him. His character was one of purity and love, and on account of his purity Jesus loved him, and singled him out for his confidence. The Virgin Mary is the example of purity for women, and St. John for men. In the first case we have the mother of our Lord, and in the second His confidant. It is the pure of heart who are able to love our Lord Jesus Christ. It is the pure in heart who shall see God. Not in vain was St. John nearest the heart of Jesus Christ. As after the resurrection he out-ran St. Paul, in inwardness he out-ran all others. He was the greatest Christian apostle, and we should study his wonderful character. He loved his God first, and his fellow man second. Some men love those around them best; not so St. John. He always gazed upwards to his Saviour. He was the most privileged and blessed of all the disciples, which points us to the necessity of purity. Purity gives everything to young persons. The centre of attraction of womanhood is her purity. It is a treasure. There are persons in this world who have great sorrow of which they do not speak. Our greatest sorrows are not those things of which we talk. But there is a world of courage and inspiration by looking to Him. Beyond the dark cloud is the light; trust Him who calls upon you in His own mysterious way. Speak to Him and let Him wash away your sorrows. Throw yourself into life, and follow him who so zealously followed the Lord.

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH.

Rev. F. J. Sawers, of Trinity College, of Port Hope, preached at All Saints' church yesterday morning. There was special Christmas music. The choir sang Read's Te Deum, with an arrangement of the Adeste Fidelis. Miss Mary Rush took the solo part of Schilling's Jubilate. The anthem was "We have seen his Star." Miss Rickey took the solo.

In the evening the sermon was preached by Rev. W. L. Armitage from Joshua chapter 3, vs. 11 "Ye have not passed this way heretofore."

Rev. W. L. Armitage referred, describing the historical setting of the text, to the closing of the old year, and the opening of the new. The preacher also referred to the choice of a future pastor. At this service the morning anthem was repeated.

A Children's Service was held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, at which Rev. Mr. Armitage preached.

GEORGE STREET METHODIST.

The morning service yesterday was conducted by Rev. T. G. Lewis, B.A., pastor of Mark street church, who exchanged pulpits with Rev. J. P. Wilson. Mr. Lewis spoke on the birth of Christ and its significanse to the world. Many interesting historical facts were elicited in the course of the sermon, which was much enjoyed.

The music for the service consisted of special Christmas hymns, also: Antham, "The First Christmas Morn," Newton.

Carol, "Angels from the Realms of Glory."

Anthem, "Adeste Fideles," by Novello.

Solo, "The Dawn of Hope," Mr. F. Turner.

At the evening service the pastor, Rev. J. P. Wilson, B.A., preached, his sermon dealing with the practical value of the birth of Christ, to the world. Speaking of the revelation made to the shepherds and the wise men, who were first told of the birth of the Saviour, he said that the important news was imparted to them while at their regular work, and the speaker said that it was the same to-day, and that the greatest blessings come to men when they are pursuing their regular duties.

The music at this service was of a particularly pleasing nature, the special numbers being:—

Anthem, "Worship the King," Maunder.

Solo, "The Anthem Celestial," Jos. H. Adams, Mr. A. L. Davis.

Carol, "There was Silence in Bethlehem's Fields," Stainer.

Anthem, "God From on High," Maunder.

Solo, ladies' quartette and chorus, "Long Ago," Hawthorn, G. W. Mulligan, Misses Parnell, Sperry, Hill and Gray and full choir.

The organ voluntaries by Mrs. Mowat were also in keeping with the general tone of the services, and the whole musical programme was one especially appropriate and was thoroughly enjoyed.

CHARLOTTE STREET CHURCH.

The special music at the Charlotte street Methodist church yesterday attracted large congregations. Rev. W. J. Jolliffe conducted both services. The music was as follows:

Morning.

Carol, "It came upon the Midnight Clear"

Anthem, "O Holy Night" .....Adams

Solo by Mr. Mitchell and obligato by Miss Belleghem.

Solo, "The Heralds of Heaven"..... Schnecker

Miss Belleghem.

Evening.

Carol, "Hark! the Herald Angels Sing"... Mendelssohn

Anthem, "O Zion that bringest good Tidings"... ... ...Stainer

Solo, "The First Christmas Morn" Mr. R. Norman Jolliffe

Solo, "The Star of Bethlehem"..... Adams

Mr. Fred Routley.

ST. LUKE'S.

Rev. W. L. Armitage conducted the morning service at St. Luke's church yesterday, while Rev. F. J. Sawers of Port Hope preached in the even. There were large congregations at both services.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

Rev. J. G. Potter conducted both services at St. Andrew's church yesterday. In the morning he preached from St. John chapter 1, vs. 14, "And the Word became flesh." He pointed out that in Jesus Christ there was realized the very presence and power of God among His people, and in Him there was a perpetual living participation in all human affairs. Around that Tabernacle was going to cluster all nations.

In the evening the text was taken from St. John 18, verse 37. The preacher said that the definite purpose of Christ's mission upon earth was to establish a spiritual and not a temporal kingdom, and as it was the closing service of the year the action of Pilate in handing over Christ to the popular choice, (set out in the text,) gave the preacher an opportunity of appealing to all to to make Christ their choice for the year 1904.

The music was as follows:

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

Dr. Torrance preached at St. Paul's church in the morning on the subject, "The Prince of Peace." He showed that the Prince of Peace draws man nearer to God, and man to man. He dwelt at some length on the burying of family, social, political and church feuds with the ending of the year. He referred especially to the municipal feud in Peterborough during the past few weeks. He showed how unseemly it was for the followers of the Prince of Peace to be at rivalry with each other, and towards the close of his sermon touched upon the war cloud in the Far East.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS

First church of Christ Scientist Sunday School review and concert tomorrow, (Tuesday) night, at 8 o'clock, in the church edifice, 378 Aylmer street. The public welcome. Silver collection at the door.

THE LATEST NEWS OF LOCAL SPORT

HOCKEY.

The first hockey match of the season will take place to-morrow night, when the Lindsay Collegiate Institute team and the Peterborough Junior O.H.A. team will cross sticks. This should be an interesting game, as the local team is playing as good hockey as that which won the Junior O.H.A. championship. The Collegiate team is a fast bunch and there is good reason for believing that the opening game of the hockey season in Peterborough will furnish excitement and interest.

Comfort for the Aged.

Judging from the letters of people up in years there is no medicine which so promptly frees them of aches and pains and insures regularity of the liver, kidneys and bowels as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Even when all other means have failed old people can turn to this great medicine with full assurance of relief and cure.

AULD BRIG O' AYR.

Tottering to Its Fall—Rebuilding Fund Is Tied Up.

Not a Scotchman merely, but all admirers of Burns will be sorry to learn that the Auld Brig o' Ayr, which Burns immortalised in a poem, is in danger of collapsing. It was the spirit of the Auld Brig, which, when reviled by the spirit of the new Brig in the poem, made the remarkable prophecy:

"I'll be a Brig when yere a shapeless cairn, said the Auld Brig to the new."

The prophecy has turned out true now, twenty-five years after, and the Auld Brig is tottering on its old foundations, how old it is difficult to say. Cut deep into the wall are the figures 1252. There are people who say the date is mythical, but Architect James Norris, who is an expert archaeologist, and who is interesting himself in stirring up the Burgh Council to spend the $3,500 necessary to restore the Auld Brig, believes there is nothing improbable in the date. The Ayr Council is beset by one difficulty in the matter, and that is, why should they spend $3,500 of the public funds if they can get the money required for nothing? It seems that about a quarter of a century ago a man named Templeton left $50,000 at interest, which at the death of his two sisters was to be devoted to rebuilding the Auld Brig. But the will was a holiograph, written on a small piece of paper, and other distant relatives took proceedings disputing the will. Now the Ayr Council will have to ascertain their legal status towards the money, but the wheels of the law revolve slowly and meanwhile the Auld Brig may fall.

A Devourer of Novels.

The Hon. Alfred Deakin, the Prime Minister of the Commonwealth, whose recent illness caused so much concern, was a few weeks ago entertained by the "Melburnians"—in other words, his brother old boys of the Melbourne Church of England Grammar School, says The London Daily Chronicle. He opened his speech with the remark that when it fell to the lot of a man to win any of the prizes of life he always thought first of his mother and next of his old school. Like a number of other men who became famous in after life, Mr. Deakin did not shine resplendently at school. In his own words, his progress had been by slow and easy stages, and his position in class was invariably nearer the bottom than the top. He was, indeed, once imprisoned in the school lockup, but as he had managed to smuggle in a sensational novel under his waistcoat the agonies of incarceration were appreciably mitigated. The Prime Minister is still an insatiable devourer of novels, and never enters the legislative chamber without one or two. He settles down comfortably into a corner of the Treasury bench and reads away when business is dull.

The Shade He Wanted.

Delacroix, the painter, was walking out one day in Paris with a friend of his when he fell into a brown study.

"What is up with you now?" said the friend.

"I can't get a certain shade of yellow," replied the artist.

"What sort of yellow?"

Just then a cab drove past.

"The very thing!" the painter gasped out. "Stop, stop!"

"I am engaged," the cabby replied without stopping.

Delacroix started in pursuit and at a steep place in the Rue des Martyrs overtook the cab. Opening the door, he said in tones of entreaty to the passenger inside:

"Do please tell your driver to stop. I want your complexion for a painting on which I am at work. There is a color merchant close at hand. I shall not detain you above five minutes, and in acknowledgment of the service you render me I will present you with a sketch of my picture."

The bargain was struck. Delacroix got his yellow, and a few months later the "fare" received a sketch of his "Assassination of the Archbishop of Liege."

A Year and a Day.

"I always feel a pity for the poor young men of Greenland, those Eskimo chaps, you know," said Clarence. "No matter if those poor fellows keep their New Year's resolutions a whole year people would throw it up to them that they could hardly stand by their principles for two days. Sad, isn't it? Very."—Chicago Tribune.

Years and Men.

The year is dying; soon 'twill lie
Behind us in the fading past.
We watch it going, and we sigh
To think it couldn't always last.
All pensive for a little while
We count the vanished years and fret,
Then greet the new one with a smile
And hurry onward and forget.

The passing years are like the men
We have to serve—they pass away.
We mourn the master dead, and then
The new one welcomes and obey.
We soon forget, if he is kind.
The virtues of the kindly dead;
We do not mourn the years behind
If hope lies in the one ahead.

NAMES HIS SUCCESSOR.

General Booth Only Man Who Knows Who Will Follow Him.

When a Paris correspondent asked General William Booth of the Salvation Army what he thought of the prospects for world peace his answer was characteristic in its practicability.

"Let two nations—say England and the United States, or England and France—unite for permanent peace. This will be a tremendous step. Then let them urge a third State to join them. When this is done, other Governments will be forced to do the same.

"Would it be hard for two great nations to be generous—to say, in case of a dispute, 'Let them have it; we can do without it and they want it,' instead of saying, 'No, rather than surrender one square yard of territory we'll fight, we'll shed blood, we'll make widows and orphans?'

"If but two nations would resolve to act as civilized beings should act they would treat each other in the way of Christ; and in this respect the Salvation Army, I believe, is doing its work. It is a great combining force. It is reaching out into all the world and teaching a lesson of sacrifice and love."

Has Named a Successor.

"General," I asked, "will the work go on, say fifty years from now, as it does to-day?"

He caught my meaning and answered: "It will. My going will not affect the army. There will be some regret, I hope, but you know the cry "The King is dead; Long live the King!" My successor is already chosen. I have the right to appoint my successor, just as he will after me."

"Who will he be?"

"No one knows but I. Not even the lawyers know. His name is sealed up in an envelope, and the lawyers know where to get it. When my death is announced the envelope will be opened, and the new general proclaimed."

Dad and Daughter.

The strange forgetfulness of a father who could not tell the name of his grown-up daughter is related by a Birmingham solicitor, who conducted a case at one of the towns in the Black Country. Desiring to put the girl in the box as a witness, he enquired her name from the father. The latter, a rough-cut boilermaker, scratched his head with a puzzled air, and confessed that for the life of him he could not recall the particular name with which his daughter had been christened. "It were one o' them new-fangled 'uns o' my wife's picking," said he, rather awkwardly, "and we've always called her 'Tom,' because her's so lad-like." The mother was consulted, and it turned out that the child had been entered on the church register as "Gwendoline."

The Law's Delay.

After waiting 134 years, the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts has been awarded by the Court of Chancery £244, all that remains of a big estate that was left to it by a testator who died in 1769. The bulk of the bequest has been spent in the propagation of the law.—Montreal Star.

MUST REPLY TO JAPAN'S LAST NOTE.

Rumour That Japan has set Time for Russia's Reply.

News Generally is More Warlike—Japan is Strengthening Her Position in Corea—Russia Said to Have Placed Large Orders for Food—Extraordinary Meeting of Privy Council at Tokio.

London, Dec. 29.—Rumor continues busy with the Russo-Japanese crisis. The latest report credits Japan with insisting that Russia shall reply to its last note before Jan. 10, on the ground of the rapid approach of Russian naval reinforcements to the scene of action. Enquiry in the best-informed Japanese quarters, however, fails to find support for this statement. Baron Hayashi, the Japanese Minister, paid a long visit to the Foreign Office yesterday. When seen afterwards he said he had no further information.

Outbids the Russians.

According to The Daily Chronicle the Japanese Government outbid the Russian Government and actually purchased the warships Moreno and Rivadavia, both of which are now nearing completion at Genoa.

Other papers print a report that the Japanese Ministerial Council has decided to transfer $25,000,000 of the educational fund for emergency purposes.

The Daily Telegraph's Tokio correspondent says that after the meeting of the Ministerial Council the Emperor entertained the Councillors at luncheon. The Cabinet then held a sitting, which was prolonged until late at night. The correspondent says that the Finance Minister on Sunday entertained the leading bankers at dinner for the purpose of discussing with them the best means of meeting the emergency.

Russia's Long Delay.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 29.—In official circles here the delay in presenting Russia's reply is not regarded as ominous. On the contrary, the fact that Russia, in accordance with Japan's request, is actually reviewing the matters in dispute, is regarded as a favorable sign. It is pointed out that had Russia replied immediately unfavorable deductions might have been drawn, and although Russia believes her proposals were extremely conciliatory, containing all the concessions she can make, this does not exclude the possibility of finding alternative propositions in some portion of the general scheme of settlement which may more closely coincide with Japan's wishes. If careful reconsideration discloses the possibility of such a course, it is said that there is every reason to believe it will gladly be embraced.

Privy Council Meets.

Tokio, Dec. 29.—An extraordinary meeting of the Privy Council yesterday approved the issue by the Cabinet of an emergency ordinance authorizing the guarantee of the principal and interest of an issue of 10,000,000 yen debentures for the purpose of expediting the work on the Seoul-Fusan Railway, which is expected to be finished by the end of next year. The ordinance also provides for all possible military expenses for the protection of the railway and other interests.

It is believed that unless Russia modifies her reply Japan will immediately safeguard Corea, though such a step will not necessarily mean war with Russia.

MESS MEAT FOR BEAR'S ARMY.

Russia Places Million Pound Orders With Yankee Firms.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 29.—The Russian Government has just placed an order with Armour & Co., of this city, for a million and a half pounds of mess meat for immediate shipment to San Francisco. The order calls for the delivery of the meat at San Francisco by Jan. 22. The meat, it is said, is for the use of the Russian army, and its destination is said to be Port Arthur.

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 29.—The Cudahy Packing Company of South Omaha is in receipt of a rush order for 1,000,000 pounds of extra mess meat for the Russian Government. The shipment must reach San Francisco before Jan. 26, when two Russian ships will sail with beef and other supplies.

British Jackies For Active Service.

London, Dec. 29.—An Admiralty order issued at Portsmouth requires the officers and men of the British Naval Reserve to notify the authorities of the addresses where telegrams can be sent in case of emergency should they be required for active service. The order is generally connected with the rumors that the fleet in the Far East is to be strengthened.

DEVIL'S ISLAND PRISONER.

Some Evidence That Dreyfus Depends Upon For Vindication.

Paris, Dec. 29.—The grounds upon which Dreyfus depends for vindication and restoration to the army have been communicated to the Associated Press. Dreyfus charges that a telegram from Col. Schwartzkoppen, the late German Military Attache here, to Col. Panizzardi, formerly Italian Military Attache at Paris, as presented to the court-martial at Rennes, bore the date of April, 1894, when he was occupied with the details of the mobilization of troops, of which the telegram treated, whereas the actual date of the telegram was the last of March, 1895, after he (Dreyfus) had been tried.

A copy which has been found has established the correctness of Dreyfus' claims, in the opinion of the commission, which recommended a revision of the case. The statement of the case against Dreyfus, containing the telegram when it arrived at the Ministry of War, was dated April 1, 1895, which Dreyfus claims shows the telegram was written in the latter part of March that year. The late Col. Henry clipped off a corner of the telegram and thus the actual date disappeared. Then Col. Henry, in his own hand, annotated the telegram, April, 1894. The colonel, however, neglected to remember that the month of April had only 30 days, for in the document there is a mention of the thirty-first of the current month.

The unauthenticity of the telegram could have been established had the court at Rennes appreciated the importance of the error. Finally it developed that in the telegram, where the words "ce Canaille de d——" appeared, the initial "d" had been substituted for the letter "p." The original copy, written by M. Gribelin, the keeper of the archives of the War Office, carried the letter "p." The scratching upon the paper was apparent, but M. Bertillon, the handwriting expert, testified that the letter "d" was correct. It is now claimed he was in error.

SHOCKING SARNIA TRAGEDY.

St. Clair Tunnel Track Walker Boyd Shot Wife and Self.

Sarnia, Dec. 29.—Joseph Boyd, a track walker in the St. Clair tunnel, yesterday morning shot his wife and then put a bullet into his own head. The screams of their three little ones attracted the attention of neighbors. Mrs. Boyd was found lifeless in the kitchen, dish towel in hand, and in a front room lay Boyd, clasping a 38-calibre pistol. The bullets had instantaneous effect, passing through both skulls.

Boyd was 40 years old. He came home from work in his usual good spirits yesterday morning, and the authorities and the neighbors are unable to find a cause for the crime. Two years ago Boyd built the comfortable two-storey home in which he lived, and his neighbors without exception give testimony to his industrious and exemplary behavior. The family of five had had no sickness, and the father had steady employment. But friends think that Boyd's mind was affected. Severe exposure to the atmosphere in the tunnel at times has been known to have a weakening effect on the intellect for various periods, and doctors do not hesitate to say that Boyd was thus demented when he committed this terrible deed. Boyd carried no insurance, but Mrs. Boyd lately joined the Lady True Blues. She has no relatives, but three brothers of Boyd lived in London.

JEWS AGAIN IN DANGER.

Ignited By Manifesto Mob Begins Attack at Kishineff.

New York, Dec. 29.—The New York American prints the following, dated Kishineff, Dec. 25: The outbreak against the Jews has already begun. Incited thereto by the latest propaganda for a second massacre on the Greek Church Christmas Day, Jan. 7, and by the violent anti-Semitic manifestoes which have been distributed broadcast, the populace has passed from jeering and insulting the Jews to breaking the windows of the Jews' houses and menacing them with personal attack. Threatening crowds gather at the street corners, and the attitude of the Christians is such that the real difficulty is to keep them from precipitating a general assault on the Semitics before the appointed day. That which seems to have excited the populace most is the declaration of Gen. Uruseff that troops would protect the mob if the Jews resisted. The temper of the people is also known by the fact that the prisoners acquitted at the recent trial have been escorted to their homes in triumph, including the rich student, Kawerin, who undoubtedly murdered the Jew Kalman Waljovitch.

The only safety for the Jews seems now in flight, and already those of Kishineff, and indeed of all Bessarabia, are preparing to emigrate.

No One to Blame.

Pittsburg, Dec. 29.—Supt. B. W. Duer of the Pittsburg Division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railway has made a complete investigation of the cause of the wreck of the Duquesne Limited last Wednesday night, near Dawson, Pa. He has found that no employe of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was responsible for the accident, which is declared to have been unavoidable. A few unidentified dead still remain at Connellsville.

Something to Seven Days.

Toronto, Dec. 29.—Messrs. Clergue, Shields, Coyne, Irving and other Soo promoters, assembled at the King Edward last night, after having been away since the day before Christmas. Mr. Clergue observed with something of emphasis in his tone that within seven days there would be some important developments, or perhaps on the seventh day.

Indians on the Warpath.

Chicago, Dec. 29.—A despatch from Hermosillo, Mexico, says that the Seri Indians, who occupy Tibourn Island, in the Gulf of California, have gone on the warpath, and are raiding ranches and committing depredations on the mainland. The Seris are said to be cannibals, and the fastest runners in the world.

England Wants Canadian Tobacco.

Windsor, Dec. 29.—The Canadian commercial agent stationed at Manchester, England, has written the Canadian Department of Agriculture for samples of Canadian-grown tobacco, with prices and other information regarding freight and shipment.

SEVEN

SUTHERLAND SISTERS HAIR GROWER

The Great Hair Tonic is a Positive and Thorough Antiseptic

and will quickly eradicate all trace of scalp bacteria, which is the cause of hair falling, dandruff and baldness. NO SCALP CAN BE HEALTHY AND PURE WITH DANDRUFF IN EXISTENCE. SHAMPOOING ALONE WITH SUTHERLAND SISTERS' HAIR GROWER AND SCALP TREATMENT ARE THE REMEDIES THAT WILL EFFECTUALLY DESTROY THESE GERMS. They penetrate the scalp thoroughly, carrying with them all the necessary properties to be quickly reassimilated by the impoverished parts. They rebuild the lost tissues of the scalp and renew the growth of the hair in every case. A few applications will make the hair fluffy and wavy with new life and vigor. They make healthy hair grow twice to three times as fast as it does normally.

SNOWSHOEING.

One of The Globe's Best Sporting Articles —Good Exercise for the Pleasure-Loving Canadians.

Snowshoes were originally used by the Indian as a means of travel and in the pursuit of game. While they are still used for the same purposes by his white successor, it is as a means of enjoyable exercise that the resources of snowshoeing are inexhaustible.

The use of snowshoes is confined more particularly to the country and small towns of the north, and it is to be regretted that the young people (and the older ones also) living in our larger cities are so handicapped by their surroundings that they cannot enjoy the pleasures which this sport offers to its devotees. For the enjoyment of this pastime parties are formed, and, as in most sports, the companionship is the great secret of its popularity. Each member of the party is not only physically benefited by the exercise, but is also socially benefited by the companionship.

In snowshoeing districts evening parties find particular favor. A number of young people meet, and, having gone for a long walk over the snow-covered fields, they return, and, after several minutes of brushing and drying, having discarded "toque and centre sash," their host entertains them with luncheon and games. A moonlight night is the ideal night for such a party. What could be more sublime than the picture presented by the silver moon, the fleecy clouds and scintillating snow? Far away looms the dark woods, and nearer the shadowy movements of straggling members of the party. Here and there in the distance is seen the twinkling light of a lonely cottage; and over and around it all the stillness—the solemn stillness of a winter's evening—broken occasionally by the baying of a distant watch-dog.

It is the custom on the afternoon of New Year's Day to form parties, and the beauties of the sunset viewed from across the level expanse of snowy whiteness more than repays the pleasure-seeker for any slight fatigue he may feel after the prolonged walk. A sunset in winter is pencilled in harder lines and dyed in deeper colors than a summer sunset, but the deep crimson of the clouds and the darkening haze of the horizon make a picture which any lover of nature cannot fail to appreciate.

A level expanse of snow is the easiest battle ground for a beginner, but as he becomes more proficient he adds to his enjoyment the climbing and descent of hills and long wanderings through the fields. Snow is white—and white is the emblem of purity—and nothing is more beautiful than a wide expanse of spotless snow, unbroken in its sameness, save for here and there a straggling fence with its fringe of alders and withered mullen stalks, and occasionally a solitary tree, rising up as a monument to the beauties of the summers which are past and a herald of these which are past and a herald of these which are yet to come.

The best stretch for an easy run is over the snow-covered ice of a lake or stream. Traveling in the woods is next to impossible because of the danger of tripping over underbrush, but by following the windings of a stream in its sinuous course through a forest one has the double advantage of traveling on the level and of seeing the beauties of the woods on either hand. The lower boughs of the evergreens, snow-laden, dip down to touch the snow beneath and sometimes a limb high up loses its fleecy load, which, falling softly, scatters into a silver shower as it descends. All is still save for the breathing and laughter of the snowshoers and the crackling of an occasional twig. Sometimes the dry leaves still clinging to a beech rustle in the wind like the whisperings of the dead. A "pee-wee" twitters from a brush heap, and on the colder days, when the smaller forms of life are quieted, the crack of the frost in the trees serves to show us that nature's forces are not dead, but only sleeping.

Snowshoeing, like other pastimes, has its accidents to add zest to the sport—just enough danger to keep the snowshoer wide awake. The beginner usually has the habit of walking on his own shoes and precipitating himself headforemost into the soft, yielding snow. His frantic efforts to free himself of his shoes and extricate himself from the snow appear very ridiculous to the less unfortunate members of the party, and the victim himself usually appreciates the situation and has a good hearty laugh at his own expense. Even the experienced, if they are not cautious, may trip over a hidden brush or come to grief in climbing a fence. It is an old trick for a snowshoer a few feet in advance of the other members of the party, when passing under a tree, to shake down a shower of snow on those behind.

Snowshoeing embodies all the healthful exercise of walking, with the additional development of those muscles particularly employed in walking with snowshoes. Besides giving us a good exercise at the time of the year when it is most needed it also develops the pleasure-loving and humorous sides of our natures. The delights of a long walk in the exhilarating atmosphere of a winter's day are not soon forgotten and the mirth-provoking incidents linger long after. Snowshoeing, teaching us to control our bodies and our minds, holds a foremost place among the winter sports, and some there are who say that it is king.—W. C., in The Globe.

His Account Book.

A firm of masons in an Irish town employ a laborer whose novel method of keeping account of his time was brought to light lately by a queer circumstance. He went one evening to his employer's home with the sad intelligence that he had lost his account book. He said that the pigs had unfortunately got in and eaten it up.

"What sort of an account book did you keep?" asked his employer.

"Why, I had an empty barrel, and when I worked a whole day I put in a potato, and when half a day half a potato, and the pigs ate them all entirely."—Pearson's Weekly.

INTERVENTION OF GINGER

By JEANNE OLIVE LOIZEAUX

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

There is a spot along the Des Moines river which stands out vividly in my memory not for its extreme beauty or because it was one of the places where Morris proposed to me, but for the reason that I came very near accepting him there. It was too stifling an evening to spend in the heart of the city, so we rode out to escape the heat. I took a wicked delight in making Morris ride, for he knew nothing at all about horses and was rather afraid of them.

He was very big and awkward and very much in earnest. As he had come all the way from Washington to visit a distant cousin whom he detested, I naturally supposed that he had come to ask again the question he had asked me in our senior year at college, three times afterward in letters and once in person during his vacation of the summer before.

It was the last night of his stay, and, as yet he had not broached the subject. He had proposed a drive, but I refused, knowing its sentimental possibilities, and had insisted on riding my little brown mare Ginger and leading him Doctor, father's solemn old back. We saddled the horses ourselves and started from the driveway behind the barn.

In the soft dusk we trotted westward over the river and past the residences till we reached a wooded bend of the stream beyond the viaduct. It was quiet and cool, and we stopped near the edge of the bank, turning our horses' heads so that we could look across at the myriad lights of the city. We had been laughing and chatting, but now we were silent. I could hear the beating of my own heart, for I wondered if I was quite ready to give him the answer for which he longed.

There was no moon, and the night was dark but for a splendor of stars.

BEFORE I REALIZED IT WE WERE THUNDERING OVER THE BRIDGE.

From the city came the deadened roar of the traffic and travel we had left behind. Here there was a slight wind, and a sleepy bird call sounded from the trees. My heart sank a little. What if he were not going to speak after all? What if the gayety which assumed to hide that I really cared had driven him from me? I dared not look at him, but he moved a little, and then I felt his hand on mine where it lay in my lap, for Ginger knew my ways, and the reins lay on her neck. I did not look up because I could not, but I did not take away my hand.

"Nan," he said quietly, "is this time to be like all the others? It is to be the last time, for you know I cannot keep forcing myself upon you. You know your own mind by this time. I think you do love me, dear. Can you not say so and make me"— A sudden wild shriek drowned his voice, and a passenger train whizzed and roared over the bridge below. Then—I have never known quite how it happened, but Ginger bolted. She did not mind my voice, and the reins were dangling over her head out of my reach. I had only kept my seat by the quick instinct of a skilled horsewoman. Before I realized it we were thundering over the bridge. The mare's hoofs clattered on the pavement as she tore wildly past the residences. I could do nothing but keep my balance and thank fortune that the saddle girth was tight.

My own agonized thought was for Morris. It would be terrible for him. He was helpless, for he could not have overtaken me even if he had a good mount, and Doctor was old and stiff, though he had made a good record in his youth. Ginger was utterly terrified. I spoke to her quietly again and again to no avail.

I am quite sure that I was not afraid, but I never hoped to reach home safely. The downtown streets were full of vehicles, and then cars were still running. I would be dashed against something or thrown from the saddle.

As we sped along I did not think at all. I only felt in a sudden flash of recognition that my life had been useless. I had been always taking, taking, and giving nothing. I had not even told Morris that I did love him and always would. As we swerved swiftly and safely past a whizzing car I realized for the first time the speed at which we were going. Could Morris be anywhere in pursuit? I knew it was impossible, but I longed for a chance to say "yes" over and over again till even he should be satisfied.

Suddenly a new fear seized me. I should never tell him now. The mare was making for home, frantic to get back to her stall. For all my agonized effort, I could not remember if we had shut the barn door. I thought it must be open. I would be dragged off. I began with quick numbness to see my own death as the death of another and to wonder why I should die in this particular way.

It was only a few blocks from home. For an instant I was glad that I had no mother. I could just remember her. A line or two of a little hymn she had taught me as a child ran through my mind.

I thought I heard the beating of hoofs behind me and turned in the saddle to look, but saw no one. I do not know if I had some vain hope that Morris would do something yet. I only wanted to tell him. If he had been in sight I am sure I should have called out to him if all the world had heard.

"Yes. I love you! I love you!"

We swung around the corner and toward the driveway. I think I must have lost consciousness for a moment, for I saw nothing more till a sudden stop threw me from the saddle, and I opened my eyes to find myself in Morris' arms.

"Yes," I said. "Yes, I do; I do!"

"What?" he asked. "Are you hurt? Are you hurt?" But I only kept on saying, "Yes, yes"—

He lifted me like a child and was carrying me bodily to the house, but I struggled to my feet and stood clinging to him. He was trembling and his voice was unsteady as he tried to put back some of my long hair.

"I came on the street north—I kept you in sight," he said. "I dared not come up behind you for fear of frightening her worse. I had to get here first. The door—I got it shut just in time. Are you hurt?" re repeated. I laughed a little hysterically.

"Yes," I replied. "But I wouldn't be if you had not forgotten what you asked me and then pay no attention when I say 'yes!' I want to get it said for good and all before anything else gets a chance to happen. My bones are all right—it's only my heart that hurts."

"Do you happen to mean it?" he asked solemnly, holding me close to him.

"Yes," I continued, "I'm afraid I do. There is no hope for you unless you want me to take it back."

Then Morris did what I am sure he had been longing to do for several years. He took me by the shoulders, held me off at arm's length and shook me till I crept so close that he couldn't.

But to this day he has not told me how he got old Doctor there in time to get that barn door shut.

Slot Machines in Spain.

Shortly after the Spanish-American war, says the World's Work, among the first American novelties sent to Spain were the nickel in the slot machines, the musical kind. Unluckily the first machines played American airs. They were quickly demolished. When the next lot of machines were imported it was carefully advertised in advance that these contrivances would play Spanish airs only. This was taken as a sort of national compliment, and the American slot machines jumped into sudden favor, especially the gambling varieties, as the Spaniards are very fond of all games of chance. In a place like Malaga there are now more than forty such machines, each earning $3.50 daily on the average.

New Year's Cookies.

Beat to a cream three-quarters of a pound of butter and a pound of sugar. Add three eggs and beat them through the butter and sugar till thoroughly mingled. Then add half a pint of sour milk and a level teaspoonful of saleratus dissolved in a tablespoonful of hot water. Next put in a gill of caraway seeds and a level teaspoonful of mace. Stir in flour till the dough is stiff enough to roll out thin. After it is rolled as thin as pie crust cut the cookies out with a scalloped round cutter, lift them with a pancake knife from the pastry board, put them in a dripping pan, sprinkle over each cooky a little sugar and bake them in a moderate oven.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Quoted Lower—Demand Quoted Very Light at Montreal.

London, Dec. 28.—Live cattle slow at 10¾c to 11¼c per lb. for American steers, dressed weight; Canadian steers, 10c to 11c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 9¾c per lb. Sheep, 11c to 12c per lb. Lambs, 15c, dressed weight.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, Dec. 28.—About 500 head of cattle, 10 calves and 150 sheep and lambs were offered for sale at the East End Abattoir to-day. The severe cold weather helped to make a dull market more dull, and sales were slow, as the butchers require but little beef for some time to come. About 20 extra cattle, which were held on this market for over a week, were sold to-day at 4¾c to 5c per lb., or a ¼c less than the prices at which they were held last Monday. Prime beeves sold at 4¼c to 4½c per lb., good mediums at about 4c, and poor mediums at 3½c per lb. The calves were small veals, and sold at from $3 to $7 each. Sheep sold at 3c to 3½c, and the lambs at 4½c to 4¾c per lb. About 300 fat hogs were offered at the stock yards to-day, and good lots sold at 5c to 5¼c per lb.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, Dec. 28.—Cattle—Receipts, 2500 head; active; 15c to 25c higher. Prime steers, $5.15 to $5.25; shipping, $4.50 to $5; butchers', $3.40 to $4.90; heifers, $3.45; cows, $2.50 to $4; bulls, $2.50 t $4; stockers and feeders, $2.50 to $4; stocker heifers, $2.25 to $2.75; choice, fresh cows and springers, $3 to $3 per head higher; good to choice, $45 to $57; medium to good, $33 to $45; common, $20 to $30.

NEW YORK LIVE STOCK.

New York, Dec. 28.—Beeves—Receipts, 2633 head; steers steady at last week's closing prices; bulls and cows 10c to 15c higher; steers, $3.60 to $5.30; one car extra, $5.40; stags, $4.55; bulls, $2.50 to $3.90; cows, $1.50 to $3.50; extra fat, $4. Shipments to-day, none.

You Cannot Rely on Imitations.

When Threatened With Bronchitis, Asthma, Pneumonia or Serious Lung Troubles be Sure to get the Genuine

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE.

For generations the value of turpentine as a remedial agent in all affections of the bronchial tubes and lungs has been well known.

It remained for Dr. Chase to so combine turpentine, linseed and half a dozen other ingredients as to not only make a wonderfully successful medicine, but also one that is so pleasant to the taste as to be sought for by children.

The sale of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is more than three times that of many similar remedies. The result of this success is a host of imitations.

When attacked by coughs and colds which threaten to reach the lungs and prove serious; when awakened by children with croupy coughs, gasping for breath, you cannot afford to trust to imitations.

Mr. John Pollard, Echo Bay, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled last winter with a very bad cold, which was beginning to settle on my lungs. I was so hoarse that I could scarcely speak, and had a nasty hacking cough, which I could not get rid of. One bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine cured me, and I can heartily recommend it."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is sold by all dealers at the advertised price, 25 cts. a bottle, family size, three times as large, 60 cents. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every bottle.

Cured When all Else Failed

"Could I live my early life over, this testimonial would not be necessary, though I was no more sinful than thousands of other young men. Early indiscretions, later exposure to contagious diseases all helped to break down my system. When I commenced to realize my condition I was almost frantic. Doctor after doctor treated me but only gave me relief—not a cure. Hot Springs helped me, but did not cure me. The symptoms always returned. Mercury and Potash drove the poison into my system instead of driving it out. I bless the day your New Method Treatment was recommended to me. I investigated who you were first, and finding you had over 25 years' experience and responsible financially. I gave you my case under a guarantee. You cured me permanently, and in six years there has not been a sore, pain, ulcer or any other symptom of the blood disease."

CHAPTER XXX.

ON a certain evening about a month later the tropical rains had flooded the thoroughfares until St. Charles street needed but a Rialto and a little imagination to convert it into a watery highway of another Venice, while, as for Canal street, its name was as applicable as though it were spanned by a Bridge of Sighs.

Straws, editor and rhymester, was seated on the semioriental, semi-French gallery of the little cafe called the Veranda sipping his absinth and smoking a cheroot. Before him was paper partly covered with well nigh illegible versification and a bottle of ink, while a goose quill, tool of the tuneful nine, was expectantly poised in midair.

"Confound it!" he said to himself. "I can't write in the attic any more since Celestina has gone, and apparently I can't write away from it. But I must stop thinking or I'll never complete this poem. Now to make my mind a blank, a fitting receptacle to receive inspiration."

The bard's figure swayed uncertainly on the stool. In the lively race through a sonnet it was often of late a matter of doubt with Straws whether Bacchus or Calliope would prevail at the finish, and tonight the jocund god had had a perceptible start.

"Nappy, eh?" said a voice at his elbow as a dripping figure approached, deposited his hat on one chair and himself in another. The newcomer had a long, Gothic face and a merry-wise expression.

The left hand of the poet waved mechanically, imposing silence. The quill dived suddenly to paper, trailed twice across it and then was cast aside as Straws looked up.

"Yes," he replied to the other's interrogation. "It's all on account of Celestina's leaving me. You ought to see my room." The poet sighed. "And you, Phasma; how are you feeling?"

"Sober as a judge."

"Then you shall judge of this last couplet," exclaimed Straws quickly. "It has cost me much effort. The editor wanted it. It seemed almost too sad a subject for my halting muse. There are some things which should be sacred even from us, Phasma. But what is to be done when the editor in chief commands? 'Ours not to reason why!' The poem is a monody on the tragedy at the theater."

"At the St. Charles?" said Phasma musingly. "As I passed it was closed. It seemed early for the performance to be over. Yet the theater was dark; all the lights had gone out."

"More than the lights went out," answered Straws gravely. "A life went out!"

"I don't exactly—oh, you refer to Miss Carew's farewell?"

"No; to Barnes'!"

"Barnes'!" exclaimed his surprised listener.

"Yes; he is dead; gone out like the snuff of a candle! Died in harness, before the footlights! He acted as if he were dazed while the play was in progress, and I could not but notice it, standing in the wings. The prompter spoke of it to me. Even Miss Carew rallied him gently between acts on his subdued manner.

"'This is our last performance together,' he said absently. She gave him a reproachful look and he added quickly: 'Do I appear gloomy, my dear? I never felt happier.'

"At the end of the second act he seemed to arouse himself, when she, as Isabella, said, 'I'll fit his mind to death, for his soul's rest.' He gazed at her long and earnestly, his look caressing her wherever she moved. Beginning the prison scene with spirit, he had proceeded to

"Reason thus with life:
If I do lose thee I do lose a thing
That none but fools would keep"— when suddenly he threw up his arms and fell upon the stage, his face toward

Miss Carew rushed to him.

the audience. With a cry I shall never forget Miss Carew rushed to him and took his head in her arms, gazing at him wildly and calling to him piteously. The curtain went down, but nothing could be done, and life quickly ebbed. Once only his lips moved—'Your mother—there!—where the play never ends!' and it was over."

"It is like a romance," said Phasma finally at the conclusion of this narration.

CHAPTER XXXI.

THE sudden and tragic death of Constance's foster father, which occurred virtually as narrated by Straws, set a seal of profound sadness on the heart of the young girl. "Good sir, adieu!" she had said in the nunnery scene, and the eternal parting had shortly followed. Her affection for the old manager had been that of a loving daughter. The grief she should have experienced over the passing of the marquis was transferred to the memory of one who had been a father through love's kinship. In the faraway past, standing at the bier of her mother, the manager it was who had held her childish hand, consoling her and sharing her affliction, and in those distant but unforgotten days of trouble the young girl and the homeless old man became all in all to each other.

Years had rolled by. The child that prattled by his side became the stately girl, but the hand clasp at that grave had never been relinquished. She could not pretend to mourn the death of the marquis, her own father. Had he not ever been dead to her—as dead as the good wife (or bad wife) of that nobleman—as dead as Gross George and all the other honored and dishonored figures of that misty past? But Barnes' death was the abrupt severing of ties strengthened by years of tender association, and when his last summons came she felt herself truly alone.

In an old cemetery, amid the crumbling bricks, Barnes was buried, his sealed tomb above ground bearing in its inscription the answer to the duke's query, "Thy Best of Life Is Sleep."

Constance remained in New Orleans. There the old manager had found his final resting place, and she had no definite desire to go elsewhere. Adrift in the darkness of the present, the young girl was too perplexed to plan for the future, so she remained in the house Barnes had rented shortly before his death. An elderly gentlewoman of fallen fortunes, to whom this semirural establishment belonged, Constance retained as a companion, passing her time quietly, soberly, almost in solitude. This mansion, last remnant of its owner's earthly estate, was roomy and spacious, nestling among the orange and inviting seclusion, with its pretentious wall surrounding the grounds.

The old fashioned gentlewoman, poor and proud, was a fitting figure in that ancient house, where in former days gay parties had assembled. But now the principal callers at the old house were the little fat priest, with a rosy smile, who looked after the aged lady's soul, of which she was most solicitous in these later days, and the Count de Propriac, who came ostensibly to see the elderly woman and chat about genealogy and extraction, but was obviously not unmindful of the presence of the young girl nor averse to seeking to mitigate her sorrow. Culver, the lawyer, too, came occasionally to talk about her affairs, but often her mind turned impatiently from figures and markets to the subtle rhythm of Shakespeare. She regretted having left the stage, feeling the loneliness of this simple existence, yet averse to seeking diversion and shunning rather than inviting society. As the inert hours crept by she longed for the forced wakefulness and stir of other days—happy days of insecurity, fleeting, joyous days, gone now beyond recall!

But while she was striving to solve these new problems of her life they were all being settled for her by fate, that arrogant meddler. Calling one morning, Culver, nosegay in hand, was obliged to wait longer than usual and employed the interval in casually examining his surroundings and incidentally himself. First, with the vanity of youngish old gentlemen, he gazed into a tall mirror framed in the fantastic style of the early Venetians, a glass which had belonged to the marquis and had erstwhile reflected the light beauty of his noble spouse. Passing about as long as it would have taken a lady to adjust a curl, he peeped into a Dutch cabinet of ebony and mother of pearl and was studying a charming creature painted on ivory, whose head, like that of Bluebeard's wife, was subsequently separated from her lovely shoulders, when a light footstep behind him interrupted his scrutiny. Turning, he greeted the young girl and with stately gallantry presented the nosegay.

"How well you are looking!" he said. "Though there might be a little more color perhaps, like some of these flowers. If I were a doctor I should prescribe less cloister, more city!"

She took the flowers, meeting his kindly gaze with a faint smile.

"Most patients would like such prescriptions," he went on. "I should soon become a popular society physician."

But, although he spoke lightly, his manner was partly forced, and he regarded her furtively. Their brief acquaintance had awakened in him an interest half paternal, half curious. Women were an unknown but beautiful quantity. From the vantage point of a life of single blessedness he vaguely but quixotically placed them in the same category with flowers, and his curiosity was no harsher than that of a gardener studying some new variety of bud or blossom. Therefore he hesitated in what he was about to say, shifting in his chair uneasily when they were seated, but finally coming to the point with:

"Have you read the account of the engagement between the Mexican and the American forces at Vera Cruz?"

"No, not yet," she admitted.

"Nor the list of—of casualties?" he continued hesitatingly.

"The casualties!" she repeated. "Why"—

"Saint-Prosper has no further interest in the marquis' soul," he said quickly.

She gazed straight before her, calm and composed. This absence of any exhibition of feeling reassured the attorney.

"He is—dead?" she asked quietly.

"Yes."

"How did he die?"

"Gallantly," replied the caller, now convinced she had no interest in the matter save that of a mere acquaintance. "His death is described in half a column. You see he did not live in vain."

"Was he—killed in battle?"

"In a skirmish. His company was sent to break up a band of guerrilla rancheros at Antigua. They ambushed him; he drove them out of the thicket, but fell—you have dropped your flowers; allow me—at the head of his men."

"At the head of his men!" She drew in her breath.

"There passed the last of an ill fated line," said the lawyer reflectively. "Poor fellow! He started with such bright prospects, graduating from the military college with unusual honors. Ambitious, light hearted, he went to Africa to carve out a name in the army. The same ship that took him out carried back, to the marquis, the story of his brother's disgrace"—

"His brother's disgrace!" she exclaimed.

Culver nodded. "He sold a French stronghold in Africa, Miss Carew."

Had the attorney been closely observing her he would have noticed the sudden look of bewilderment that crossed her face. She stared at him with her soul in her eyes.

"Ernest Saint-Prosper's brother?"

The turmoil of her thoughts held her as by a spell. In the disruption of a fixed conclusion her brain was filled with new and poignant reflections. Unconsciously she placed a nervous hand upon his arm.

"Then Ernest Saint-Prosper who was—killed in Mexico was not the traitor?"

"Certainly not!" exclaimed Culver quickly. "Owing to the disgrace, I am sure, more than to any other reason, he bade farewell to his country—and now lies unmourned in some mountain ravine. It is true the marquis quarreled with him, disliking not a little the young man's republican ideas—but my dear young lady, you are ill!"

"No, no!" she returned hastily, striving to maintain her self possession. "How—do you know this?"

"Through the marquis himself," he replied, somewhat uneasy beneath her steady gaze. "He told me the story in order to protect the estate from any possible pretensions on the part of the traitor. The renegade was reported dead, but the marquis nevertheless remained skeptical. He did not believe in the old saw about the devil being dead. 'Le diable lives always,' he said."

The visitor observed a perceptible change in the young girl, just what he could not define, but to him it seemed most to lie in her eyes, where something that baffled him looked out and met his glance.

"His brother was an officer in the French army?" she asked, as though forcing herself to speak.

"Yes; ten years older than Ernest Saint-Prosper, he had already made a career for himself. How eagerly, then, must the younger brother have looked forward to meeting him; to serving with one who, in his young eyes, was all that was brave and noble! What a bitter awakening from the dream! It is not those we hate who can injure us most; only those we love can stab us so deeply!"

Mechanically she answered the lawyer, and, when he prepared to leave, the hand given him at parting was as cold as ice.

"Remember," he said admonishingly, "less cloister, more city!"

Some hours later the old lady, dressed in her heavy silk and brocade and with snow white hair done up in imposing fashion, rapped on Constance's door, but received no answer. Knocking again, with like result, she entered the room, discovering the young girl on the bed, her cheeks tinted like the rose, her eyes with no gleam of recognition in them and her lips moving, uttering snatches of old plays. Taking her hand, the old lady found it hot and dry.

"Bless me!" she exclaimed. "She is down with a fever." And she at once prepared a simple remedy which soon silenced the babbling lips in slumber, after which she sent for the doctor.

ONE STEP MORE

Will be fatal to the sleep-walker. Will he draw back or will he take the final, fatal step? A great many people are in peril like the sleep-walker. They are diseased. The disease is progressing day by day. The time comes when one more step away from health is fatal. The man who has suffered from indigestion or gastric trouble goes some night to a dinner and returns home to find he has taken that last step from health which can never be taken back.

To neglect the cure of indigestion or some other form of stomach trouble is dangerous. It is also inexcusable. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It purifies the blood, stimulates the liver, cures biliousness, and eliminates bilious poisons from the system.

"The praise I would like to give your 'Golden Medical Discovery' I cannot utter in words or describe with pen," writes Jas B. Ambrose, Esq., of 1305½ Mifflin St., Huntingdon, Pa. "I was taken with what our physicians said was indigestion. I doctored with the best around here and found no relief. I wrote you, and you advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took three bottles and I felt so good that I stopped—being cured. I have no symptoms of gastric trouble or indigestion now."

If you ask your dealer for "Golden Medical Discovery" because you have confidence in its cures, do not allow yourself to be switched off to a medicine claimed to be "just as good," but which you did not ask for and of which you know nothing.

Accident to Mr. H. Toms in Sutcliffe's Store This Morning.

Mr. Howard Toms, a clerk in the employ of Messrs. J. Sutcliffe & Sons, narrowly escaped serious injury this morning while doing his work.

When carrying a glass show case up-stairs his foot slipped, and he fell, the show case dropping heavily on top of him. With his head through the glass, of which the jagged pieces were pricking his throat, he found himself in an awkward position, unable to withdraw his head. Fearing he had sustained serious injury, Mr. John Potts, window dresser, who happened to be standing a few yards away, immediately ran to his assistance and carefully extracted him from his dangerous position. Mr. Toms was found to be comparatively unhurt, and was able to attend to his duties. The affair created considerable excitement in the store for some time.

JOINT INSTALLATION OF MASONIC OFFICERS

Officers of Corinthian and Peterborough Lodges, A. F. & A. M.

Enjoyable Event in Masonic Temple Last Night—Banquet Succeeded the Installation.

December 27th, the Masonic Festival of St. John the Evangelist, Patron Saint of Freemasonry, falling on Sunday this year, the Peterborough fraternity celebrated the special features of the event on Monday evening in their handsome suite of rooms in the Masonic Temple. The day is regularly set apart by the fraternity for the installation of the newly elected officers for the ensuing year, as well as for social re-union around the festive board and for the outward manifestation of that fraternal feeling which is characteristic of the Freemason in no matter what what part of the world his lot may be cast.

Early in the evening the local brethren of Corinthian Lodge, No. 101, and Peterborough Lodge, No. 155, began to assemble in response to the summonses from their respective lodges. Many visiting brethren also arrived from different parts of the district to be participants in the occasion, and to witness the impressive ceremonial of the joint installation of the officers of the two prosperous local lodges. Among the visiting brethren who registered were:—

C. Fisher, Percy Lodge, Warkworth.

D. Paterson, Shamrock and Thistle Lodge, No. 275, Glasgow, Scotland.

J. Kilgour, Quinte Lodge, No. 241.

Alex. K. Richardson, Clementi Lodge, Lakefield.

Jas. Lang, St. Barchar Lodge, No. 156, Kilbarchan, Scotland.

W. Houston, Royal Blues Lodge, No. 899, Kilburnie, Scotland.

R. T. Simpson, Builders Lodge, No. 177, Ottawa.

A. F. Bookhout, Middleburg, Lodge, No. 663, Middleburg, N.Y.

W. J. Jolliffe, Cedar Lodge, No. 270,

A. H. Greig, Woodhall, St. John's Lodge, Bellshill, Scotland.

Jas. Kay, Airdie, St. John's, No. 166, Airdie, Scotland.

John McIntosh, St. Columba, No. 729, Govan, Scotland.

W. T. Irvine, St. Columba Lodge, No. 729, Govan, Scotland.

Richard Lees, Ben Clough Lodge, No. 782, Telecountry, Scotland.

Wm. Nicoll, Blarr Lodge, No. 314

John S. Quartermaine, Royal Navy Lodge, No. 9, London, England.

THE INSTALLATION.

The customary routine business of both lodges having first been disposed of, the insignia of his office was handed to V. W. Bro. H. C. Winch, P. M. Corinthian Lodge, the Installing Master, who was assisted by Rt. Wor. Bro. W. H. Walkey, P. D. D. G. M., with Rt. W. Bro. H. Rush, Past Grand Junior Warden, in the south, and W. Bro. Robert J. Kingen, in the west.

The respective representatives of the positions of honour in the two lodges for the ensuing twelve months were then severally invested with the official badge of their office, as follows:—

The handsome Blue Room was inadequate to hold the brethren and the adjoining Red Room was thrown open to afford comfortable seating for the large assemblage of craftsmen.

This concluded the "business on the summons," when the lodges were closed down, after which the members adjourned to their spacious refreshment room "in the middle chamber."

THE BANQUET.

The banquet which took place in the spacious dining hall was a grand success. It was exceptionally well attended, and the speeches were of a high order.

The chair was occupied by the installing officer, Very Worthy Bro. H. C. Winch, and the vice chair was occupied by Right Worthy Bro. H. Rush. To the right sat newly installed Worthy Master of Corinthian Lodge, Bro. Henderson Nesbitt, while to his left sat the newly installed W. M. of Peterborough Lodge, Bro. John G. M. Wilson.

After ample justice had been done to the excellent spread provided, the toast list was proceeded with.

The toast to the "King and Craft" was heartily honoured by all singing the National Anthem.

The toast of the "Grand Master and the Grand Lodge of Canada" was proposed by Rt. Wor. Bro. H. Rush and was responded to in an excellent speech by Rt. Wor. Bro. Walkey, who reveiwed in a brief manner the work of the Grand Lodge during the past year. He emphasized the desirability of all the brethren contributing to the semi-centennial fund, and made suitable reference to the symbolical work of the Masonic Order generally.

Mr. Fred Lount rendered a vocal selection in an acceptable manner.

Rt. Wor. Bro. Dr. Boucher, one of the veterans of Corinthian Lodge, proposed the toast of the newly installed officers. In doing so he recited some little historical incidents of the early growth of Masonry in Peterborough.

Rt. Wor. Bros. Nesbitt and Wilson replied in fitting terms, thanking the brethren for the honour conferred upon them and the speaker for his complimentary references in their behalf.

Bro. Gilbert Scott favoured the gathering with a vocal selection.

In a rousing speech, Rt. Wor. Bro. Armitage proposed the toast of "The Visiting Brethren."

Rt. Wor. Bro. F. D. MacKay replied in his old time manner, alluding to the pleasure he felt in being amongst the Peterborough Masons for an evening again.

Bro. Anson next gave a vocal selection.

Rt. Wor. Bro. R. E. Wood introduced the toast of the "Retiring Officers." In doing so he paid a warm tribute to the character, work and zeal of Rt. Wor. Bros. Walker and Orano.

Rt. Wor. Bro. Dr. T. N. Greer, who represented Rt. Wor. Bro. Walker, replied in his behalf, and Rt. Wor. Bro. John Crane thanked his brethren for the assistance he had received during his term of office.

A song from Rt. Wor. Bro. Stockdale, was followed by the toast of "The Installing Master," proposed by Rt. Wor. Bro. Alex. Gibson.

Very Wor. Bro. Winch, in reply, reviewed his long connection with Masonry in Peterborough, and expressed his appreciation of the honour conferred upon him in being appointed Installing Master on the present occasion.

The affair closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Bro. W. J. McCallum was the caterer on this occasion, and won the general praise of his guests for his satisfactory spread.

ACT OF HONESTY BY YOUNG GENTLEMAN.

Found Money and Returned it to Owners Without Reward.

Saturday's issue of the Examiner contained the notice of a loss which two young ladies, who were coming from Toronto to spend Christmas with their widowed mother, sustained. One of them lost her pocket book containing a considerable sum of money.

Fortunately, however, the purse was found by an honest person, and itt was only a few hours after the paper was issued until a young man came into the office to say that the purse and money had been found.

The young gentleman, for he was one in the truest sense of the word, returned the money to the young ladies the same evening, and would accept no reward. His name could not be learned, but he certainly is worthy of the name of gentleman.

A BEAUTIFUL PICTURE.

The Work of a Canadian Artist.

Mr. John Gibson, barrister, has received a beautiful and unique Christmas gift, unique not only in its artistic excellence, but unique in subject. It is a fine water colour painting, made by a Canadian amateur water colour artist. This lady, with her friend, visited the spot on July 18th, 1903, and has since painted the picture from a sketch made at the time. This picture of the "midnight sun" at Hammerfest, Norway, shows the sun a dull, red, rayless globe resting upon the water in a perspective formed by flanking slopes of dark empurpled rocks sloping upward mountain high, and as bare of vegetation as the sun itself. Hammerfest is within the Arctic Circle, latitude 71 degrees north, and is the highest inhabited point in the world. The sole subsistance of the 2,000 inhabitants is whale and other fishing. The picture itself is a strikingly effective bit of artistic work.

A Run on Flowers.

Cobb's Aylmer street Greenhouses are thronged daily during the Xmas sale of plants and flowers. Prices are still reduced on fine begonias and other choice flowering plants. Boston palms, ferns and foliage plants at specially cut prices. Dainty ferns in fern pots from 25 cents to $2 each. Cheapest place in town for bouquets, sprays, carnations and choicest cut bloom. LIST OF CANDIDATES BECOMING DEPLETED.

Three of This Year's Aldermen Will not Stand for Re-election.

The probabilities are that the list of aldermanic candidates will be materially reduced by to-night at 8 o'clock, when the time limit for withdrawal expires. Up to noon to-day seven of the nominees had withdrawn, including Messrs. E. A. Peck, D. O'Connell, J. J. Turner, Jas. Lynch, John Corkery and Adam Dawson. The latter gave as his reason for retiring the fact that public service was not appreciated, and said that after an alderman had spent the year in the town's interests, giving four or five nights each week to town business, all he received was abuse.

At that hour the three mayoralty candidates were still in the field. Mr. Yelland, who was seen and asked if he were going to stand for election, said significantly, "Well, I haven't withdrawn yet."

Up to the time of going to press three of this year's Aldermen had withdrawn from nomination, viz:—Messrs. Corkery, O'Connell and Shortly.

Messrs. N. T. LePlante and W. H. White and B. F. Ackerman have also signified their intention not to become candidates.

Too Late For Xmas

Brass Goods and Art Noveau Metal Goods arrived too late for Christmas, and as we do not carry goods from one season to another, we will clear them out this week at such reductions as to ensure a ready sale. These Brass Goods consist of Brass Mirrors, Brass Clocks, Brass Candleabras, Brass Candlesticks, Brass Sconce (being candlesticks and mirrors combined), Brass Ink Stands, Brass Ash Trays and many other articles too numerous to mention. See them in our south window. The price will tell and everybody will tell the price.

Our Christmas sale of Art Novelties in the line of Framed Pictures has been one of the most appreciated lines we carried this season. Our customers showed their appreciation in the most striking manner possible and that was by securing their favourites. We have a few left and only a few splendid subjects and most artistically framed. These we have decided to clear out at substantial reductions this week. To quote prices would be out of the question. You will have to see the merit of the subjects offered and learn the price to appreciate their value. We would like to have you call on us and be convinced that our pictures are works of art and our prices are artless.

SHOW APPERCIATION OF TEACHER'S WORK.

Mr. A. E. Nelson Made Recipient of Traveling Case.

On Tuesday afternoon, December 22nd, Many of the parents of S. S. No. 4, Dummer, assembled at the school house to show their appreciation of their teacher, Mr. A. E. Nelson, and to bid farewell to him before he left their midst. The scholars, under the direction of the teacher, gave a short programme, for which they received much applause from those present. Mr. David Madill in a spirited address, then voiced the sentiments of the people, and their grief at losing such a faithful worker and popular member of the community, and their best wishes for a bright and prosperous future for him. Miss Laura Jory and Miss Ada Payne, on behalf of the school, presented the teacher with a handsome travelling case in Russia leather and the following address:

Mr. Albert Nelson:

Dear Teacher,—As we learn with regret that our relationship as teacher and pupils is about to close for the present, it is our wish to show in some way our appreciation of your work among us for the past year and one half.

We feel that you have earnestly striven to help us to become intelligent boys and girls, thus laying the foundation for usefulness of the coming man and women of the future.

We wish to be remembered by our teacher in his preparation for a more advanced position and wish that every success may attend his future efforts.

As a slight token of our respect we would ask you to accept this travelling case, not for its intrinsic value, but for the good wishes of your pupils, not for this life only, but also for that future which has no ending.

We extend to you our gratitude for the interest taken in our studies, and wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Signed on behalf of the school,
LAURA M. JORY,
ADA M. PAYNE.

Mr. Nelson, who was completely taken by surprise, replied with much emotion, saying that he would cherish with fondest remembrance the days spent in the section, and would ever have a warm corner in his heart for those scholars whom he was forced to leave. The same evening a farewell party was given Mr. Nelson by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cerveth, and he leaves the section with the best wishes of a host of friends.

VERY CREDITABLE COLLEGE MAGAZINE.

"Acta Victoriana" Largely Edited by Peterborough Young men.

One of the most creditable College Magazines published is that issued by the students of Victoria University. The Chrsitmas number of "Acta Victoriana" has been said to some to be the best number of any college paper in America. The issue contains 150 pages of reading matter, exclusive of the advertising section, and the articles appearing are of more than ordinary excellence. Some well known Canadian writers have contributed to this number, among them being Dr. W. H. Drummond, John Charlton, M.P., and Lally Bernard. An article of special interest is one written by Mr. A. J. Brace, who is known to many in Peterborough. He is a son of Rev. A. H. Brace, and writes on "A Forty Days' Canoe trip to Hudson Bay."

Peterborough is well represented on the editorial staff of "Acta Victoriana," Mr. Alex. Elliott, being local editor; Mr. H. H. Cragg, personals and exchanges, and Mr. T. P. Campbell, sporting editor. Each of these departments is well edited and a credit to the publication.

THE NOMINATIONS IN SMITH TOWNSHIP.

Reeve Elected by Acclamation—Contest for Councillors.

Nominations for Reeve and Councillors for the Township of Smith, were held in Bridgenorth yesterday.

Mr E. M. Elliott was elected Reeve by acclamation, and the following were nominated for councillors:—

William M. Bell, farmer.
James A. Fowler, farmer.
Thomas H. Graham, farmer.
Joseph Harvey, farmer.
Robert N. Scott, farmer.

Four of these will be elected at the elections on Monday, January 4th, 1904.

NORTH MONAGHAN.

The nomination proceedings held in the Town Hall to-day were unusually quiet. The old council were the only nominations received and were therefore declared elected by acclamation. They are,—Reeve, Mr. Jos. Madill; Councillors, Jonathun Smith, John Brown, Robt. Fowler and James Morrow.

The historical diary has been continued this year and also enlarged. A vast amount of interesting and useful information of various kinds will be found within the covers. It contains 440 pages, and the price in paper covers is 35 cents.

MR. STUART MAKES AN ANNOUNCEMENT.

Will Take Over Franchise and Operate Street Railway

If the Citizens Support the Bylaws at the Polls on Monday—Mr. Dennistoun's Letter.

Mr. Robert Stuart has telephoned the Mayor and Mr. Dennistoun that he stands by his position, and will take over the Radial Railway franchise and build the railway, if the citizens approve the action of the Council next Monday.

Mr. Stuart's representative says that they cannot undertake to conduct a campaign at the polls, and will leave the matter in the hands of the citizens.

The following letter from Mr. Dennistoun explains the position of Mr. Stuart:

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir, — I am authorised by Mr. Robert Stuart to state that he has arranged for the assignment to his syndicate of the Radial Railway franchise, and will build and equip the railway if the citizens support the bylaws by their votes next Monday. This will enable the council to carry out the arrangement made with Mr. Stuart last summer.

We must expect strong opposition at the polls from the Otonabee Power Company, and the liverymen, who are opposed to the street railway.

Mr. Stuart is unwilling to enter into an election contest, and leaves it to the Mayor and Aldermen, and the citizens generally, to deal with the matter as they consider in the best interests of the town.

Yours truly,
R. M. DENNISTOUN.

THE CHILD DIED FROM PNEUMONIA.

Inquest Held by Coroner Gray in Police Court Last Night

Regarding the Sudden Death of Little May Wilson Jury Returned Verdict on Doctor's Report.

The adjourned inquest into the death of little May Wilson, the one-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson, of Sharbrooke street, was held in the Police Court room last night, with Coroner Dr. Gray presiding. The affair excited but little interest and there were only a few persons in the room besides the jury and witnesses.

County Crown Attorney R. E. Wood appeared for the Crown, while Mr. F. T. Medd was present in the interests of the father and mother of the deceased child, who, it was falsely rumoured were negligent regarding its care. The jury was composed of Wm. Smith, (foreman,) Wm. Stock, S. R. Percy, A. White, Geo. O'Brien, R. Maitland, W. S. Warne, S. A. Oke, J. Theobald, E. White, G. M. Walton, J. Ruth, F. O'Conner and J. Shea.

The verdict ran as follows:—

"We, the undersigned jury empannelled to inquire into the circumstances connected with the sudden death of the infant child, May Wilson, return the following verdict, based upon the report of the post mortem examination:—That the said infant, May Wilson, died from acute pneumonia."

The following evidence was taken:

THE EVIDENCE.

Mrs. Wm. Traynor sworn—I live in Peterborough. The deceased was transferred into my possession two weeks ago last Friday in writing. The mother fetched the child to me on the Friday. On the following Monday Mrs. Wilson came up town with me, and on that day I got the written agreement. I kept the child in my possession until Tuesday evening, and was not sick during that time. On the Tuesday evening I went to see if Mr. Wilson would sign the agreement, but he refused to do so, saying he wanted the child back again. I said that I was quite willing to give it up, and later that evening she came to my house for it and took it home. On the Monday evening following, while the child and mother were at my place I and Mrs. Wilson went to the Salvation Army Barracks. To soothe the child and prevent it crying while we were away the mother gave it a draught out of the bottle produced. She told me the bottle contained peppermint. The effect of this drink was that the child slept until Tuesday evening and only awoke when my little girl picked it up. Mr. Wilson came to me on the evening of the death of the child and told me that it was dying and asked me to go and look at it. When I reached the house the baby was dead ,and both father and mother admitted to me that they had not called in a doctor. Mrs. Wilson said that she had asked her husband to fetch a physician, but that he refused to do so. Fearing the child had diphtheria and that I might carry the disease I went to Dr. Bradd, who sent me to Dr. Gray. On one occasion after the child was dead, Mr. Wilson told me that the baby was better dead than alive. When I found the dead child it was quite cold and I should judge had been dead for about an hour and a half.

SMOKE-WATER.

I heard that the parents used to administer tobacco smoke water to the child. This I know is not harmful as I have given it to my own children. On the day of its death the child was apparently in perfect health until tea time, but died within two hours after that. Mr. and Mrs. Whitehead, with whom Mr. and Mrs. Wilson live, went out after tea and on their return the child was dead. In death the eyes and mouth were closed. I received no remuneration for the keeping of the child, which I took out of charity as Mrs. Wilson said that she had no wood or food.

Nellie Traynor sworn — Regarding the death of the child I know that it was well two weeks ago last Friday. On the Saturday next, while passing their house Mrs. Wilson called me in. The baby was then undressed and Mrs. Wilson was drying its clothes. I learned that the child had been undressed for some hours. When my mother had charge of the baby Mrs. Wilson on more than one occasion gave it some stuff out of a bottle, which invariably sent it to sleep.

Witness corroborated her mother's statement regarding the child being unconscious for more than a day, and added that when it came into their possession it appeared to be scalded all over its body, and that blood was running from its arms.

Dr. McClelland was next called and filed his report on the post mortem examination which he conducted. The report was of some length, but concluded with "The post mortem evidences point conclusively that the cause of death was acute pneumonia."

This the jury thought sufficient and brought in the above verdict.

'Saturday Night" Scores the Bogus Philanthropists.

(Saturday Night.)

No matter how carefully laws are made, they are sometimes the means of inflicting something which appears like hardship, if not brutality. An Ottawa despatch tells of a woman whose husband deserted her eighteen years ago. For twelve years she waited for his return, and then married again. Six years after her second marriage her husband returned and caused the woman he had so badly treated to be arrested, together with her second husband, both of them being thrown into jail without a preliminary trial, if the facts are correctly reported. Certainly this is using the law against bigamy with a harshness never calculated by its makers, and unexpected by the great majority, who believe that a husband or wife from whom no tidings has been heard for seven years is legally dead. Where are the politics in this?

A man named Mitchell has just been released from Kingston penitentiary, where he had been incarcerated for the past eight months, serving a seven-year term for criminal assault. He was convicted on the unsupported testimony of the woman in the case, who recently demonstrated most undeniably the looseness of her character by giving birth to a black child. The facts being laid before the Minister of Justice, Mitchell was immediately released. The Minister of Justice is a politician, and the "World" should have him slated!

These two incidents, both of recent date, indicate the difficulty of punishing the bad and protecting the innocent. Regardless, however, of all the difficulties involved in the proper administration of the law, some of our local dailies need but the slightest excuse to attack the judiciary if by any accident some taint of politics creeps into the case. Last Saturday the "World" worked itself into a state of frenzy over the fate of Mrs. Callaghan, the wife of the man sent down for sixty days for stealing the price of a piano from his employer. Her poverty was depicted, the shame she and her children felt hysterically pictured, and the whole story made to read like a brutal onslaught made by a heartless Government upon an innocent family in order to neutralize the effect—there really was no effect—of the affidavit that Callaghan had gratuitously made, apparently for the purpose of extorting money to cover up his failure to make good the sum he had taken. The article winds up with the enquiry, "Was Callaghan's crime that of theft or of daring to publish the affidavit criticizing the Government?" It must seem to everybody that this is not a fair question. The court punished the theft and refused to let the affidavit feature enter into consideration. Such attacks made upon the judiciary are thoroughly despicable, for if they are believed the bench becomes besmirched and the administration of our laws is brought into contempt. All this is done for the sake of political advantage, for it can do neither Callaghan nor his family anything but harm. The polity of the home, depicted in yellow and black, must certainly be charged to Callaghan, not to the court. The sorrow of the wife was brought upon her, not by the court, but by the misconduct of her husband, and unless she has been very much misquoted, in fact if the report has not been regardless of truth, she must have been posing for the purpose of giving effect to Callaghan's attempt to make his conviction appear like political persecution — at any rate it brought her coal, cash, and sympathy, all of which she accepted as her right. The police absolutely deny what the "World" makes her assert, that her husband was handcuffed, stripped, measured, photographed, and his picture placed in the rogues' gallery, with those of felons, "even when he had merely been charged with theft, when the law, they told me, still supposed him to be an innocent man." If the police are telling the truth when they say none of these things were done to him either before or after his conviction, the "World" must either stand up and admit an attempt at the dirtiest kind of yellow journalism, or leave Mrs. Callaghan in the light of wildly asserting what was untrue. The reporter in defending what was published tells about what the police told him; he forgets that Mrs. Callaghan was the one to make the charge; the reporter and Mrs. Callaghan are, apparently, for declamation's sake, one and the same.

Is the community to be made any bettter by trying to whitewash a convicted criminal with the tears of his wife, or by an attempt to create sympathy for him by false claims of ill-treatment by the police? When a paper like the "World" charges the Government with the petty malice of pursuing a man who has made an affidavit, it should certainly keep its statements within the limits of what can be proved to be true, rather than, as in the present instance, raising a wild cry to attract the attention of the public to what has been at once demonstrated as the absolute falsehood of its own assertions, or those made by one whom it would endeavour to make conspicuous as an object of sympathy. Those responsible for getting Callaghan into the affidavit business, as the "Telegram" has pointed out, are largely responsible for his unhappy situation, and it seems to me that the "World" is responsible for opening up the domestic life of the Callaghan family, and for the putting into a very false and serious light a woman who was no doubt quite distracted with grief. Everything points to the prudence of people minding their own business and accepting the verdict of the court in a matter of theft as a result merely of the theft, and not as an outcome of political spite. Not satisfied with his newspaper's guff, Billy Maclean seems to have taken the case into the Conservative convension spilt some more of his tears there, tion, where he was nominated, and What an unscrupulous mischief-maker the beggar is to be sure."

The above can mutatis mutandis be applied to the venerable steersman of the Review, who plays second fiddle to the World with all his vicious might. If his sympathy would take a practical turn, he might send the bones of his Christmas turkey to the Callaghan family. They would be about as nourishing as his crocodile tears of sympathy are sincere.

THERE IS A WAY OUT OF IT.

Catarrh, the Offensive and Dangerous Disease, can be Cured.

Catarrh is a disease that afflicts a majority of the people of the United States. It comes without warning, and from its offensive nature causes intense suffering and humiliation. Its complications are often dangerous and fatal, dyspepsia, bronchitis and consumption frequently resulting, if catarrh is allowed to run its course unchecked.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets have done more good and effected more cures among catarrh sufferers than any known remedy. They never fail to cure even the most aggravated cases where their use is adhered to. They thoroughly renovate the system and cleanse it of all impurities. Under their influence all catarrhal poisons are thrown off and the cure is complete and permanent.

A prominent lawyer and public speaker of Pittsburg, says: "I have been troubled with catarrh of the head and throat for 12 years. In this climate it seems impossible to get rid of it. The continual dropping of mucus from the nose into the throat causes irritation and hoarseness, seriously interfering with my public speaking. It took me an hour or more of coughing, gagging, expectorating and sneezing every morning before I could settle down to work, and this condition gradually brought on catarrh of the stomach, causing loss of appetite, poor digestion and a foul breath, which annoyed me exceedingly. My physician advised me to try Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and I took them for two months and was astonished to find how quickly they cured my head, throat and stomach, and I have no hesitation in recommending them. They are not only pleasant to take, but they seem to get at the very root of the trouble, because since using them I have had no trace of catarrh."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box. They have done so much good and the demand for them is so great that no druggist ever fails to keep them in stock although there are other remedies which yield him a greater profit. Druggists know, however, that they would be making a great mistake and endangering their business to be without Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

Found Dead in His Shop.

HOME-GROWN JINGO

Glasgow Herald Criticizes Col. Denison's Recent Remarks.

FULL OF IMPERIAL PROMISE

Broad Arrow's Opinion on the Steps Already Taken to Cement the Various Colonies With the Mother Country—British Farmers Feel Canadian Competition—No Pay, No Preference—Emigration League.

London, Dec. 29.—(C.A.P.)—Col. Denison's remarks regarding the honesty of Chamberlain's opponents have aroused the anger of The Glasgow Herald, which says that while no man shouts for the Empire louder, he is not a representative Canadian, but a home-grown jingo, and many Britons resent his impertinence. The Herald suggests that the economic commission to perambulate through Canada exhibiting an hypothetical preference should take notes pro and con.

R. Cremer, M. P., received a congratulatory letter from Andrew Carnegie in New York. "The concluding of a preferential tariff with Canada," he said, "would change feeling here considerably. There was no doubt that but fortunately this would not be until after an appeal to the country."

Full of Imperial Promise.

The Broad Arrow says the greatest steps toward Imperial unity during the last few years have been the fiscal policy and the presence of Sir Frederick Borden on the Defence Committee. Canada realizes her Imperial obligation and the steps are full of magnificent Imperial promise.

Lal Ghose in his Presidential address to the Indian National Congress at Madras, wanted Mr. Chamberlain to say if Canadian wheat is to be protected against Indian grain.

George Gissing, the novelist, died of consumption yesterday at St. Jean de Lux, in the Pyrenees. He was born at Wakefield, Eng., in 1857.

Feels Canadian Competition.

The Manchester Guardian devotes a column to a letter signed "Son of the Soil," who fails to see how the Chamberlain proposal to tax foreign corn and dairy produce and admitting colonial products free is going to help the British farmer. It makes no difference to "Son of the Soil" whether his competitor is Canadian or German; what he does feel is the increasing severity of his competition. The colonies, not us, are expecting to benefit financially. Because they loved the Motherland the colonies would have helped whatever Government had been in power. For many years the Bramhall district in Cheshire has been one of the great hay-growing districts, but competition, principally from Canada, has reduced the price to such an extent that it is difficult now to make ends meet. The farmers as a body are strong, unbending protectionists, but they will want a lot of persuasion before they are convinced that Mr. Chamberlain's proposals will improve their position.

No Pay, No Preference.

The Westminster Gazette says: "Colonel Denison is very eloquent in denunciation of the statement that Canada is not in favor of Mr. Chamberlain. These are fine words, but they butter no parsnips. The test of Canada's support is whether she is able to live up to the standard. 'No payment, no preference.'" Referring to Colonel Denison's saying that the Canadian Manufacturers' Association resolution was in support of Mr. Chamberlain, The Westminster Gazette says: "General support is of little use; what is wanted is evidence that Canada is willing to pay."

Emigration League.

An emigration league has been founded, the object of which is to promote legislation offering free training, emigration and a colonial farm to one member of a family on reaching the age of 18, the emigrants to be provided with outfit, passage out and money placed to their disposal, their training to be completed under the direction of the colonial Governments.

OFFICERED BY BULGARIANS.

Turkey Threatened By Macedonians and Vigilance Ordered.

Salonica, European Turkey, Dec. 29.—The authorities are informed that 4,000 Macedonian revolutionists, under the leadership of eighty Bulgarian officers, are ready to invade Turkish territory.

An order was issued here yesterday requesting the Turkish officers to exercise extreme vigilance.

It is rumored that the second army reserve will again be called out.

No Satisfactory Answer Expected.

Washington, Dec. 29.—Although Secretary Hay has not replied to the note of General Reyes, preparations are rapidly going on for the closing of the Colombian Legation and the departure of Colombia's representatives for home. They have little hope of a satisfactory response by the United States Government.

Don't Want to Fight, But ——

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 29.—The United States auxiliary cruiser Dixie sailed from the League Island Navy Yard yesterday en route for Colon, carrying two battalions of marines, including 600 men, and five months' living and fighting supplies for 1,000 men.

Ratified By Canada Southern.

St. Thomas, Dec. 29.—The agreement between the Canada Southern Railway and the Pere Marquette Railway for running rights was ratified by Canada Southern shareholders at the annual meeting held here yesterday.

OUT OF PARLIAMENT.

Hon. A. G. Blair as Chairman—His Appointment to the Railway Commission to Be Announced.

Ottawa, Dec. 29.—Hon. A. G. Blair has resigned his position as member for St. John and his appointment as Chairman of the Railway Commission will shortly be officially announced. Who his colleagues will be is not yet known. Mr. Blair leaves for New York to-day to collect information in connection with his new office.

A CRITICAL SITUATION.

Provisional Government Has No Money to Defend San Domingo.

San Domingo, Dec. 29.—The situation here is extremely critical. The provisional president, General Morales, is absent from the city, and the provisional Minister of Foreign Affairs, in terror has resigned, as a consequence of which the council of ministers is incomplete. The provisional Government endeavored to secure a loan of $20,000 for the purpose of defending the city against the insurgents; but, being without resources, the Government could not guarantee the loan nor the city against pillage by the insurgents.

It is reported that Gen. Gelistier has formed a Provisional Government at Azuade Compostell presided over by himself, and that the inhabitants of Barahoi have joined in the movement, and that the two forces are jointly marching on this city. Consequently there are now two Provisional Governments in the republic.

Another Revolt.

Washington, Dec. 29.—The State Department yesterday received the following undated despatch from Minister Powell, regarding the progress of the revolutions in San Domingo:

"Another revolution at Azua and Barahona, with another Provisional Government there. This makes two revolutions and a couple of Governments, one in the north and centre, and one in the south."

ATLAS LOAN AFFAIRS.

Judgment Given Against National Trust For Retention of Stock.

Toronto, Dec. 29.—Judgment was given at Osgoode Hall yesterday by Chancellor Boyd, awarding the London & Western Loan Company, damages of $7,100 against the National Trust Company of Toronto, liquidator for the Atlas Loan, arising out of the detention of 525 shares Dominion Coal and 50 shares Dominion Iron and Steel by the National Trust which had been deposited by the Elgin with the Atlas, instead of turning them over to the London & Western on demand. The prices afterwards depreciated, and it was sought to recover the amount lost.

The Chancellor said that all things considered, 105 was a fair price to estimate the selling figure of the coal stock as against 98, or $6,800. The steel selling figure was placed at 58, as against 42, and the loss estimated at $800. Interest should also be paid by defendants on the dividends collected from the time of receipt until payment to plaintiffs, and the costs of the litigation.

BRIGHT AND EARLY

Premier Ross At His Office Receives Pressmen Cordially.

DID NOT MAKE A STATEMENT

Hon. G. W. Ross Does Not Give Any Indication That He Regards the North Renfrew Vote as Seriously Significant—The Situation as It Is—Seven Protests Pending—House May Meet January.

Toronto, Dec. 29.—The Premier was in his office bright and early yesterday. He received press representatives cordially, but declined to be interviewed as to the result. His manner held little indication that he regarded the result as seriously significant. During the forenoon he called on the Lieutenant-Governor, who now has an office in the Parliament building. But that is not an unusual occurrence, and it was stated that the visit had nothing to do with the political situation.

The only other minister in the building was Hon. F. R. Latchford, but he instructed his Private Secretary to say that he was not receiving callers.

Nothing Revolutionary to Be Done.

Conservatives claim that the Government should resign on the strength of the result, and Cabinet changes are also being discussed. It does not seem probable, however, that the immediate future contains developments of any revolutionary nature. The situation in the House now is:

Liberals, 51.
Conservatives, 47.

Deducting the Speaker, the Government has a voting majority of 3. That North Renfrew would return a Conservative was not unexpected by the Government, although, of course, no politician gives up hope of winning a riding until the ballots are counted. And the situation in the House that now presents itself was accordingly not unexpected.

Seven Election Protests.

The relation of the parties is further complicated by the existence of seven election protests against members elected in recent bye-elections. Five protests are against Liberals, as follows:

Hon. E. J. Davis, in North York.
A. G. Mackay, in North Grey.
John Brown, in North Perth.
A. M. Little, in North Norfolk.
C. N. Smith, in Sault Ste. Marie

There are also two protests against Conservatives one against Hugh Clark, in Centre Bruce, and one against A. Mahaffy, in Muskoka.

The House will likely be called together as soon as practicable, probably early in the new year, and the members will have a chance of throwing what light they can on the situation.

There is a disposition among local supporters of the Government to throw the responsibility for the North Renfrew result on the candidates. They decline to accept it as having any special significance as far as popular confidence in the Government is concerned, because, they say, Renfrew has always been fickle in its allegiance, and follows local likes and prejudices.

Mr. Dunlop's Majority 602.

Pembroke, Dec. 29.—Complete returns give E. A. Dunlop a majority of 602.

PILES

Cured Quickly and Without Pain

There are pile remedies without number, but there is only one cure, and that is the Pyramid Pile Cure, which is in the form of a suppository, and is applied directly to the seat of the trouble.

Any physician will tell you that for the proper treatment of Piles nothing can compare with a suppository, whereas the greater number of preparations that are offered to you for the treatment of this disease are lotions, salves and ointments. Why? Because they are not so expensive as a suppository, which is bound to contain more costly ingredients, and which require special machinery to make it; moreover, a suppository inserted up the rectum, comes in direct contact with the cause of the complaint and no other form of treatment does so.

Wallace Cookman, Hallerton, P.Q., Canada, writes, "I have had two surgical operations for piles and they were not a success; after using only three boxes of Pyramid Pile Cure I feel as though I never had piles, and they have afflicted me for twenty-five years.

B. H. Palmer, Windsor, Calif., "After suffering from piles for 15 years and trying different salves and ointments in vain I was completely cured by the use of two fifty cent packages of Pyramid Pile Cure."

These and thousands of similar letters go to show that piles can be cured, are cured; cured to stay cured: cured so they won't come back; cured without cutting; cured without danger; cured without pain; cured without detention from work; cured without indelicate examinations; cured in privacy of home; cured by a self applied treatment; cured with very little expense; cured without the dread and publicity of waiting your turn at the surgeon's office; cured without a dangerous surgical operation, its period of enforced invalidism, tedious convalescence and heavy expense. You simply buy and apply a cheap and convenient remedy—it does the rest.

All druggist sell Pyramid Pile cure at fifty cents a package, and we urge all sufferers to write the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., for their little book on "The Causes and Cure of Piles," which is sent free for the asking.

Petrolea Hotel Burned.

Petrolea, Dec. 29.—The old Anderson House, which was established 85 years ago during the oil excitement, was burned yesterday. Thos. Edis, the proprietor, loses mostly all, but carries insurance to cover. The building, which is also insured, is owned by Thos. Huggard of Toronto.

Collieries Resume.

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 29.—Work was resumed at all the Delaware and Hudson Company's collieries yesterday. The Ontario and Western Company started up its washeries and all of the individual operators resumed mining.

Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure

Costs Nothing if it Fails.

Any honest person who suffers from Rheumatism is welcome to this offer. For years I searched everywhere to find a specific for Rheumatism. For nearly 20 years I worked to this end. At last, in Germany, my search was rewarded. I found a costly chemical that did not disappoint me as other Rheumatic prescriptions had disappointed physicians everywhere.

I do not mean that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure can turn bony joints into flesh again. That is impossible. But it will drive from the blood the poison that causes pain and swelling, and then that is the end of Rheumatism. I know this so well that I will furnish for a full month my Rheumatic Cure on trial. I cannot cure all cases within a month. It would be unreasonable to expect that. But most cases will yield within 30 days. This trial treatment will convince you that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure is a power against Rheumatism—a potent force against disease that is irresistible.

My offer is made to convince you of my faith. My faith is but the outcome of experience—of actual knowledge. I know what it can do. And I know this so well that I will furnish my remedy on trial. Simply write me a postal card for my book on Rheumatism. I will then arrange with a druggist in your vicinity so that you can secure six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure to make the test. You may take it a full month on trial. If it succeeds the cost to you is $5.50. If it fails the loss is mine and mine alone. It will be left entirely to you. I mean that exactly. If you say the trial is not satisfactory I don't expect a penny from you.

Write me and I will send you the book. Try my remedy for a month, if it fails the loss is mine.

Address Dr. Shoop, box 47-9, Racine, Wis.

Mild cases not chronic are often cured by one or two bottles. At all druggists.

FLYNN IN TIGHT FIX.

Recommended Ida Crane to Negro Woman For Criminal Operation.

Hamilton, Dec. 29.—It looks as though the verdict of the coroner's jury that investigated the death of Ida Crane, the domestic, who died last Saturday as a result of an illegal operation, would make trouble for at least two people. The jury found that the unfortunate girl came to her death from inflammation produced by an operation performed by Hattie Waters, to whom she had been referred by John Flynn, 61 Peter street, who, the girl told Dr. Edgar, was responsible for her trouble. The dead girl made no ante-mortem statement to the authorities, but made a confession to Dr. Edgar in the presence of a nurse at the City Hospital, after the doctor had told her that she could not live.

More Work at Less Pay.

Pittsburg, Dec. 29.—Notices were sent out by the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel and Tin Workers that the vote of the sheet lodges on the proposition to reduce the base of the wage scale from 3 to 2½ cents, thereby cutting wages 10 per cent., has been accepted. The new rate will result in the starting of a large number of union sheet steel plants that have been idle for a long time.

To Extradite Abeel.

New York, Dec. 29.—Application was made yesterday to Governor Odell by District Attorney Jerome for extradition papers to bring James M. Abeel from Canada. The application sets forth that Abeel is wanted here on the charge of forgery in the third degree, and requests the Governor to seek proper extradition from the authorities at Washington.

PANAMA AND COLOMBIA.

If Independence is Recognized New Republic Will Assume Its Share.

New York, Dec. 28.—Mr. Bunau-Varilla, Minister of Panama to the United States, stated last night that he had notified Sir H. Mortimer Durand, British Ambassador to the United States, of Panama's willingness to assume part of the exterior debt of Colombia in proportion to the population of Panama, compared with that of Colombia. The Minister says this will be done as soon as the independence of Panama is recognized by Colombia.

The total amount of the exterior debt with interest added is about $15,000,000, and Panama has a population of one-fifteenth of that of Colombia, so that Panama will take upon itself the payment of a million dollars if the conditions are carried out.

Panama's First Election.

Panama, Dec. 28.—Elections for members of the constitutional convention took place. The results are not yet known, but telegrams from the interior report the apparent triumph of the candidates proposed by the popular junta. For the first time in the history of the Isthmus the elections in the City of Panama have been conducted without any attempt of bribery or other illegalities.

BRITISH STEAMER BURNED.

Captain and Crew Reached Porto Rico Completely Exhausted.

San Juan, P.R., Dec. 28.—The British steamer Lady Joicey, Capt. Smith, bound from Chilean ports to Savannah, Ga., Wilmington, N.C., and New York, with a full cargo of nitrate of soda, took fire, and sunk 70 miles south of Porto Rico last Wednesday. The fire was caused by an explosion in the cargo, and the vessel went down within two and a half hours.

Captain Smith, with his crew and one passenger, arrived at Ponce in two small boats completely exhausted and almost naked, having made their way through terrible seas. There were no fatalities and the only serious injury was suffered by one sailor, who had his leg broken.

EMPIRE EXTENSION.

Thrilling Tale of How British Supremacy Was Maintained Against Overwhelming Odds by West African Pioneers.

Mr. C. Braithwaite Wallis, late Acting District Commissioner of the Sierra Leone Protectorate, tells a story of heroism, resource and administrative genuis equalled by few chapters in the history of the Empire, and the stirring events which it details took place no further back than 1898.

It was in that year that the recently formed Protectorate over Sierra Leone and the Hinterland or back country of West Africa was convulsed by an insurrection of the native races, who refused to pay the very moderate and reasonable hut-tax imposed by the Government.

It was a crisis in our Imperial history resembling in its tragic episodes the horrors of the Indian mutiny, and it was here in the pestilential swamps of West Africa that in 1898, and a part of the year succeeding, a handful of British troops fought grimly to maintain the supremacy of the old flag, many gallant officers and men losing their lives either by the bullets and spears of the savages or by that scourage of this tropical country—the deadly malaria.

Here some of the most treacherous and horrible murders recorded in history occurred, preceded by diabolical tortures which the depraved mind of the African bush savage only could conceive.

Most impressing is the sublime audacity and the iron nerve of those young Englishmen, who, as district commissioners, had to uphold the authority of the Government. The author describes one typical scene in which the commissioner of the Karene district calls a "palaver."

This man was in a district seething with rebellion, and had with him but a small battalion of Haussas. Yet when the chief came at his summons with 1,000 followers, while 2,000 of his people waited outside the town watching the turn of events, the commissioner spoke as if he had a British army behind his back, and when the chiefs refused compliance with his commands, he actually arrested them, and sentenced them to varying terms of imprisonment with hard labor. And remarkable is it to learn that his stern courage awed the natives of the district into submission.

One of the most exciting and heroic episodes of this "little war" was the defence of Kambia by Commissioner Braithwaite Wallis himself, who narrates his adventures with becoming modesty but no lack of vigor.

The total strength of fighting men was one sergeant, one lance-corporal, and 25 privates, or 28 in all, including Commissioner Wallis. This little band of heroes was attacked by vast hordes of blacks on three sides at once, and as hour after hour went by one by one dropped dead under the hail of fire poured into the stockade. It was only a remnant that escaped by boat when complete annihilation was near at hand.

There were many other such episodes related in this book, and finally such indomitable bravery had its reward, and the native races tendered their submission.

Besides the narrative of the war, the book contains much valuable information as to the commercial prospects of West Africa.

A "Kangaroo's Money"

Andrew Carnegie brings each year from Scotland a new collection of Scottish stories. One of last year's gathering concerns an ignorant farmer.

This farmer, over a glass of whiskey, sympathized one day with the complaints of an old friend of his, a peddler. The peddler said the times were always hard in Scotland; the people had no money there; it was a poor place to get along in.

"What you say it true," the farmer agreed. "Why don't you emigrate to Australia, Tavish? Australia's grand place, by all accounts."

"It used to be," the other returned, "but it is so no longer. Australia is as overcrowded now as any other land."

"The coast may be," the farmer admitted, "but the interior, I'm sure, is not. Go to Australia, Tavish, and push into the interior."

"D——n the interior!" said the peddler. "There's nothing there but kangaroos."

The farmer thought the kangaroos were some farsign race of people. "Well, Tavish," he said, reproachfully, "isn't a kangaroo's money as good as any other man's?"

A Whistler Joke

An artist, returned from abroad, tells this story of the late James MacNeill Whistler.

A group of artists were discussing the manifold perfections of the late Lord Leighton, president of the Royal Academy.

"Exquisite musician—played the violin like a professional," said one.

"One of the best dressed men in London," said another.

Danced divinely," remarked the third.

"Ever read his essays?" asked a fourth. "In my opinion they're the best of the kind ever written."

Whistler, who had remained silent, tapped the last speaker on the shoulder.

"Painted, too, didn't he?" he said.

Trenton, N. J.—A graded reduction of wages from 1 to 20 per cent. has taken effect at the Trenton plant of the American Bridge Company. Seven hundred employes are affected.

Chicago.—Jos. Drice, 50 years old, conductor on an "owl" car, was shot and probably fatally wounded by a stranger in a quarrel over the issuance of transfers. The man escaped.

Globe, Ariz.—Two sheepmen near the Gisela settlement have been killed as a result of a feud between cattlemen and sheepmen. Deputy sheriffs later captured Zaes and John Booth, at their home near Gisela, charging them with the killing.

Taroma, Wash.—Jacky Smokalam, a Siwash Indian, killed his wife, either by the use of his fists or with a stick of wood. The woman's chest and face were beaten into a pulp. The Indian remained in his shanty with the corpse for 24 hours, when he was placed under arrest.

250 Homes Destroyed.

Manila, Dec. 29.—Fire in the Pueblo of Calumpit destroyed 250 homes. Several lives were lost and 1,000 persons were rendered homeless. The loss is $75,000.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighbourhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of his children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost in case of croup as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup known as hive syrup, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw off the phlegm quicker and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as a croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to use. For sale by all druggists.

TO THE ELECTORS

Having received nomination as alderman for the Town of Peterborough, I respectfully solicit your votes and influence, and if elected will use my best endeavours to advance the interests of my town. It will be impossible for me to make a personal canvas, but as I have had an experience of five years in the Ashburnham council, I am willing that I should be judged thereby.

Yours truly,

W. J. JOHNSTON,

501 AYLMER STREET.

TO THE ELECTORS

of the Town of Peterborough:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—Having had the honour of being nominated for one of the Aldermen for the Town of Peterborough for the year 1904, I wish to thank my nominator and seconder, Mr. John Sawers and N. T. Laplante, and also all the electors who so kindly offered to support me, but I have decided not to be a candidate for the year 1904.

Wishing one and all a Happy and Prosperous New Year, I remain,

J. J. TURNER, SR.

Respectfully Yours,

TO THE ELECTORS

of the Town of Peterborough, including Ashburnham, now part of Peterborough:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—Having received nomination as Alderman for our prosperous town, I respectfully solicit your votes and influence.

It will be impossible for me to make a personal canvass, and therefore I wish to state that I am opposed to giving the contract for lighting to the Peterborough Light and Power Co., at $50.00 per lamp as long as the town can get as good lighting for $35.00 per lamp, from the Otonabee Power Co., which has done so much to bring down the price of lighting, and whose tender shows a saving of over $14,000.00 in ten years. I am also opposed to the present street railway by-law, but will support and vote for a good and up-to-date street railway, operated by good business men, but without a bonus, and I will do my best, if elected, to advance the general interests of our prosperous town.

Wishing you all a Happy New Year, I am,

Your obedient servant,

JOHN SAWERS.

THE S. A. BAND THANKS ALL FRIENDS AND CITIZENS.

In a Grateful Letter—Concert to be Given in Ashburnham.

The Examiner has been handed the following letter from the Salvation Army brass band for publication. They will also give a concert in the Ashburnham Town Hall on December 30th, for which tickets can be obtained at the price of ten cents:—

Dear Friends and Citizens,—We, the members of the Salvation Army Band, wish you, one and all, on the eve of the New Year, the compliments of the season. We wish to take this opportunity to thank you all for the way you assisted us in our $500 Instrument Fund. We are pleased to be able to say that we shall go over that amount when the instruments arrive, the exact amount we cannot say, as some donations are to be collected upon their arrival. The total amount collected and expended will be published later.

But this is our serenading season. You helped us nobly in our Band Fund and this year, as usual, we will make our regular calls, and in a measure, try and repay you for your kindness in your support by playing you a serenade during the Christmas week.

Again wishing you the compliments of the season.

J. M. GREENE,
Bandmaster.

THE LATEST NEWS OF LOCAL SPORT

HOCKEY.

The T.A.S. hockey team will practice to-night from 7 to 8 o'clock. The night having been changed on account of the game on for to-morrow night.

* * * * *

A meeting of the T.A.S. Junior team will be held to-night immediately after practice.

* * * *

Lovers of Canada's National winter game will be treated to an interesting programme of games this week. To-night the juniors play the Lindsay Collegiate Institute team, and to-morrow night a game is slated for the seniors against the fast senior team from Queen's University, Kingston.

This will be a game worth seeing, as the visiting team is one of the best in the business. The best the Belleville Intermediate O. H. A. team could do with Queen's was to tie the score on the former's ice, so that those who enjoy fast hockey will do well to see this game. This will be the first public appearance for the senior team this season, and the results of the practices that have been held will be seen in the game to-morrow night. Queen's will send up its strongest team and that the game will be a fast one goes without saying.

* * * *

The hockey season will be open to-night, when the Lindsay Collegiate Institute team will play Peterborough's junior O.H.A. team. The local team has been putting in some good practice work recently and the form displayed has surprised the supporters. The prospects for a good fast game to-night are excellent, and no doubt a large crowd will be on hand to see the first game of the season. Peterborough's team will be:—Goal, VanEvory; point, Moore; cover point, Parkor; forwards, Kennedy, Ferguson, McFarlane, Hall, while the visiting team will be chosen from the following players:—Killen, (Captain) Koyl, Duffern, Ross, Brady, McHugh, McDonald, McGrath, Sylvester, Armour. The game will start at 8.15.

* * * *

Visit the rink to-night and see the junior O.H.A. team in the first match of the season.

* * * *

Advance sale of seats to-morrow for Queen's game, as follows:

Gallery tickets, 50c., 80 issued.

Limited sale tickets, 35c., 200 issued.

On sale at Ormond and Walsh's. When the above number of tickets has been sold there will be no further sale for this portion of the rink, and they serve the purpose of a reserved seat.

The general admission or 25c. seat tickets will be on sale at Fred Clarke's. It will be better to secure your tickets early.

THE CHURCHES.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

The musical services at St. Paul's have been of an especially interesting nature of late. With the addition of Miss Davies to this excellent choir, the musical service has been greatly enhanced. Last Sunday the music was of a Christmas character. In the morning Miss Davies sang Newton's "First Christmas Morn," and the choir gave Hall's "Hark, the Glad Sound." In the evening, in addition to Neidlinger's "Birthday of a King" by the choir, Miss Davies and Miss Lillian Moore gave "He Shall Feed His Flock," and Come unto Me," both excerpts from the "Messiah." Miss Moore is the possessor of a charming mezzo voice which under the direction of D. Ham, of Toronto, she is beginning to use with fine effect.

Rev. J. A. Wilson conducted the evening service at St. Paul's church on Sunday, and preached on "The Secret of Success." He showed how pre-eminently the Bible was the secret of success, and urged his hearers as they were about to enter upon a new year to take the word of God as their guide.

ST. PAUL'S MISSION.

Rev. J. A. Wilson preached in the morning on Sunday, on the following text, "Teach me thy word, O Lord, and lead me in a plain path, because of mine enemies." The preacher showed that the Lord was the great Teacher, and the Bible the text book.

The evening service was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Torrance. His subject was "The Prince of Peace."

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH.

A special meeting of both companies of the Church Boys' Brigade will be held on Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock.

A watch night service will be held in the church on Thursday evening at 11.30 p.m.

The anniversary service will be held next Sunday when the Ven. Archdeacon Allen of Millbrook, will preach. All the active members of the congregation are especially invited to the communion at 8.30 a.m.

The annual Christmas treat will be held on Jan. 6th.

Rev. W. L. Armitage will preach his farewell sermon on Jan. 10th. He will be leaving town for Picton about Jan. 14th.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

Morning Service.

Organ, "Pastoral Symphony" and "Hallelujah", (from the "Messiah") Handel.

"Te Deum Laudamus," Berthold Tours.

Anthem, "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night," (Sir Geo. Martin.) Solo parts by Miss Miller.

Organ Postlude, "Adeste Fidelis," (Improviso.)

Evening Service.

Organ, "Angels Serenade," Braga.

Carol, "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing," (Old English.)

Solo, "The First Christmas Morn," Newton, Miss Miller.

Anthem, "Like Silver Lamps," Barnby. Solo parts by Mr. Herbert Jackson.

Quartette, "Crossing the Bar," H. M. Lloyd.

Organ, "Hallelujah, for the Lord God Omnipotent Reigneth," Handel.

MARK STREET CHURCH.

Rev. J. P. Wilson, B.C., preached with great acceptance in Mark street church on Sunday morning. Mr. Lewis the pastor, occupied his pulpit in the evening.

The music was an especial feature of the services and under the direction of Mr. Miller, was much enjoyed.

The annual Christmas tree and entertainment of the Sunday School is to be held in the town hall this evening.

PARK STREET BAPTIST.

A watch night service will be held in the Baptist church, Park street, on Thursday evening, commencing at eleven and closing at 8 minutes after twelve. Special music, including a solo for the New Year. The public generally will be welcome.

NEW OFFICERS FOR ST. PAUL'S Y. P. S. C. E.

THE SALISBURY CO.

LAKE WRECK RECORD.

Loss of the Emerald Recalls Various Disasters in Ontario—1880 Was the Black Year.

The loss of the schooner Emerald with all hands, has served to recall to the memory of mariners, vessel owners, and others interested in lake shipping, some of the many similar disasters of which Lake Ontario has been the scene. Whenever two or three old lake sailors have been gathered together recently, the talk has turned naturally from the sad fate of the Emerald, and its brave master and crew, to other disasters which have come to the notice of the narrators, either from the lips of others or through their own personal experience.

Lake sailors have a theory of their own that the waters of the various lakes possess a distinct individuality, which they ascribe to the variance in depth of these big bodies of water. They say that a vessel passing from one lake to another, will without any changes whatever in the cargo, be found to ride fully one inch higher in the waters of Lake Ontario than on Lake Erie. Their explanation is that this is due to the increased density of the water of Lake Ontario, because of its greater depth. They say, too, that while Lake Erie is much more unruly on account of its shallowness, its waves do not possess the same force as those of Lake Ontario, and if given their choice of lakes on which to weather a storm of given violence, they would choose Lake Erie. They do not pretend to harmonize their views with the teachings of science, they only present them as their own personal belief, says The Mail and Empire.

The loss of the schooner Picton, two years ago, with all hands, is still fresh in the memory of the public. It was a parallel to that of the Emerald in that the master and his son went down together. The Picton was at one time owned by Captain McMaster, and he sailed her for over five years, disposing of her when he bought the Emerald.

One of the most mysterious disasters in the history of Lake Ontario was that of the propeller Zealand, which sailed with a cargo of flour from Toronto for Montreal in the early part of November, 1880. A fierce gale raged on the lake after the vessel's departure, but no anxiety was felt for its safety until it was so long overdue that it became apparent that it had gone down. Its fate could only be conjectured, however, for not one of the crew of sixteen came ashore, either alive or dead, and not a sliver of wreckage was found to indicate how or where the vessel had been sunk.

The same year, 1880, was one of the worst in the history of the Great Lakes, and mariners still speak of it in impressive tones as a proof that lake sailing, although less romantic, may be fully as dangerous an occupation as a life on the high seas. In 1880 the total loss of life on the lakes was 456, which was in excess of that of any previous season since 1860, the year of the Elgin horror.

In the same November gale which sent the Zealand to the bottom, the schooner Belle Sheridan went down near Kingston with Capt. James McSherry, his three sons and two other seamen, only one member of the crew being saved. The schooner Norway foundered in the same storm, all the crew of ten men being lost.

In April of 1880 the schooner Northman capsized ten miles off Port Credit, and the captain and nine men all perished. In the following September the schooner Olive Branch foundered between the Main Ducks and the False Ducks, and Captain Cook and his crew of five were lost.

The ill-fated name "Emerald" appears more than once in the marine chronicle of 1880. On Jan. 26 Wm. Brown, a seaman, was drowned off the schooner Emerald in Lake Ontario. In May the propeller Oswego Belle had its name changed to Emerald at Collingwood, and a month later one of its sailors, Patrick Elliott, fell from the mast and was killed.

Fifteen years ago the schooner Nellie Hunter went to the bottom on her second trip. She was bound with coal from Oswego to Toronto, and carried a crew of seven men, as well as two passengers. None of them were ever seen again.

War Relics.

Workmen making excavations at the Old Fort, Toronto, for a road being constructed through the property discovered three human skeletons. They were lying head to foot about ten feet from the surface. Owing to the position of the remains only the extremities have been unearthed, the rest remaining buried in the bank. Some loose bones, part of a set of teeth, in a remarkably good state of preservation, a metal button, some coins and a bullet have been taken from the same spot. The coins were an American coin dated 1796, and a copper piece with no date, and stamped with the American eagle. Near the remains also was found part of a chain-shot, together with a smaller cannon shot. The theory is that these are the remains of American soldiers who fell at the capture of York (Toronto) in 1813.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Joke on Mr. Tarte.

A good story is being told in Montreal, says The Witness, illustrative of the high spirits and keen wit of the Premier. At the Laval students' dinner recently, so the story goes, Sir Wilfrid met Mr. Tarte. The Prime Minister cordially greeted his former Minister of Public Works, and laying his hand sympathetically on his shoulder remarked slyly: "My dear fellow, how you are ageing. You are getting quite gray and worried looking. You will have to take great care of yourself, or we shall be losing you some of these days." Considering that this remark was made by the man who was said to be dying a year ago, and addressed to the man who was understood to be a believer in the statement, it was repeated as one of the best political stories of the year.

Comfort for the Aged.

Judging from the letters of people up in years there is no medicine which so promptly frees them of aches and pains and insures regularity of the liver, kidneys and bowels as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Even when all other means have failed old people can turn to this great medicine with full assurance of relief and cure.

A Courageous Corporal.

When Lord Rawdon was in South Carolina he had to send an express of great importance through a part of the country filled with Continental troops.

A corporal of the Seventeenth dragoons, known for his courage and intelligence, was selected to escort it.

They had not proceeded far when they were fired upon, the express was killed and the corporal wounded in the side. Careless of his wound, he thought only of his duty. He snatched the dispatch from the dying man and rode on till, from the loss of blood, he fell. Then, fearing the dispatch would be taken by his enemy, he thrust it into his wound until the wound closed upon it and concealed it. He was found next day by a British patrol, with a smile of honorable pride upon his countenance and with life just sufficient to point to the fatal depository of his secret.

In searching the body the cause of his death was found, for the surgeon declared that the wound in itself was not mortal, but was rendered so by the irritation of the paper.

Thus fell this patriot soldier. In rank a corporal, he was in mind a hero. His name was O'Lavery, and he came from the parish of Moira, in County Down, Ireland.

THE TRAGIC END OF ONTARIO M. P. P.

Death of Mr. Andrew Pattullo, of Woodstock, in London.

Brooded Over Press Criticism, and the End was Hastened by Excruciating Pain Driving Him to Desperation—Sketch of His Journalistic and Parliamentary Career—Tribute to Deceased by Premier Ross.

London, Dec. 30.—Yesterday Andrew Pattullo, M.P.P. for North Oxford, when taking medicine, by mistake obtained a bottle supposed to contain strychnine. The swallowing of the dose caused such great pain that he was evidently unable to bear it, and committed suicide. A relative of his here says that the mother of the deceased met death also by suicide, several years ago.

Mr. Pattullo for some days past had been in a nervous condition. He had cancelled his speech to be delivered before the Tariff Reform League at Ipswich. Barlow Cumberland spoke in his stead. He seemed to be excited over the English papers' criticism of his speech delivered a few days before his rash act. He had no financial difficulties. He had but recently received $500 from Canada.

His nephew, a newspaper man in London, who was stopping with his uncle at 11 Montague Place, says: "Mr. Pattullo woke up early gasping for breath like a person in heart trouble. I administerd a dose of medicine prescribed by Dr. Will Ross, son of Premier Ross. He felt better and went to sleep. In the morning he was very cheerful and arranged to attend a fancy dress ball on Thursday with me. He showed such strength and cheerfulness that I went to my newspaper, did one and a half hours work and returning found the door locked and Mr. Pattullo dead inside with his throat cut with a razor."

Mr. Pattullo's speeches made great hits in England. He spoke to the point, and his audiences admired his outspoken criticisms, though he was exhausted physically by each effort.

Regret in Woodstock.

Woodstock, Dec. 30.—Throughout the entire city of Woodstock and the riding of North Oxford there are evidences of feelings of regret over the sudden death in London, England, yesterday afternoon of Andrew Pattullo, M.P.P. It is the intention of the relatives to have the remains brought here for interment.

The late Mr. Pattullo was 53 years of age. He was born in Peel County, and removed to Oxford when a very young boy, settling with his father in Blenheim township. He was educated in the public school and in the Dundas High School and the St. Catharines Collegiate Institute. After winning the Gilchrist scholarship, he commenced the study of law in London, but was compelled to give it up on account of ill-health.

In 1875 he entered upon a newspaper career with The Woodstock Sentinel. In 1880 he assumed control of the paper, which afterwards became The Sentinel-Review. For twenty years he was recognized as one of the ablest editors west of Toronto. He was president of the Canadian Press Association in 1890, 1891 and 1892. For years he was a power in the Reform party in the political campaigns in Oxford, and was a very able platform speaker. In 1898 he succeeded the late Sir Oliver Mowat as the member of the Provincial Legislature for North Oxford, and has since represented this riding in the Ontario House. Three months ago Mr. Pattullo retired from his newspaper duties and proceeded to England as an observer of the Chamberlain campaign. There, however, he entered upon the work of assisting Mr. Chamberlain, and for the past month has been addressing meetinbs in support of the fiscal policy advocated by Mr. Chamberlain.

Mr. Pattullo is survived by one brother, G. R. Pattullo of Woodstock, and three sisters, Mrs. Laidlaw of Hamilton, Mrs. Findlay of Barrie and Mrs. Short of Chicago. His wife, formerly Miss Isabel Balmer of Oakville, died in 1895. Apart from his newspaper work, Mr. Pattullo interested himself five years ago in the system of good roads, and addressed many meetings in the province. He was also an active member of the Dairymen's Association, and did much towards developing the dairying industry in Oxford. When he proceeded to England it was stated by his closest friends that he proposed to enter English politics and did not intend returning to Canada. A letter received yesterday, however, said he would return in six weeks, after speaking in support of Mr. Chamberlain in Scotland.

The announcement of Mr. Pattullo's death was received by Registrar Pattullo from his son, G. R. Pattullo, jr., of the staff of The London Express. It simply read: "Andrew Pattullo is dead." Friends here surmise that the cause of death was heart failure. Particulars were immediately wired for.

A Eulogy By Premier Ross.

Toronto, Dec. 30.—The news of Mr. Pattullo's death in London created a distinct shock here. Hon. G. W. Ross paid the following tribute:

"I have known the late Mr. Pattullo for many years. I made his acquaintance in connection with journalism, in which he achieved more than ordinary distinction. He was a terse and polished writer, and took a comprehensive and fair-minded view of public questions. The late Premier, Sir Oliver Mowat, owed a great deal to Mr. Pattullo for the strong hold he secured on the electors of North Oxford, as Mr. Pattullo, through his paper, was able to keep Sir Oliver's constituents well-informed as to the policy of Sir Oliver's Government, and his methods of administration a few years ago. He was well known as a capable debater in addition to his journalistic experience, and on several occasions—perhaps last session—even more notably than at any previous session—he impressed the House with his powers as a debater and the lucidity of his exposition. He was a Liberal thoughly in sympathy with his party policy and in regard to municipal matters was in many respects in advance of a great majority of his fellow members. Personally, I feel his loss very much. He was in the vigor of a well-matured manhood and gave promise of many years of usefulness as a publicist and parliamentarian. I am sure that this regret is shared in by my colleagues as well as the majority of the members of the House."

SAINT ANDREW'S SUNDAY SCHOOL

Enjoyed Their Treat Last Night—A Good Programme.

The Christmas festivities for the Sunday school of St. Andrew's, began last night, when the Kindergarten and Primary Classes enjoyed their annual Christmas treat. Tea was served from 5.30 to 7.30, after which games were indulged in to the full extent by the juniors.

About 7.30 a short programme was given, consisting of a chorus by a number of girls, recitation, by Jessie Stevens, a solo by Carrie Potter, a recitation by Gordon Stevens, a dialogue by four girls. Then followed the distribution of diplomas to those promoted from the Kindergarten and Primary Departments. A cantata was then given, introducing Santa Claus, who presented to each child a beautiful embossed folding calendar and a cornucopia of candy.

Miss Williamson and Miss E. Tully have done faithful service in Kindergarten work, while Mrs. Geo. Laing has been most successful with the primary.

The names of those receiving diplomas will be published with the list of prize winners to-morrow.

The senior departments will assemble to-night at 5.30 to 7.30 for tea and at 8 p.m. there will be a rich treat, as a good programme has been arranged by the different classes. All parents and friends are invited to enjoy the programme. The school hall has been very tastefully decorated for the occasion. Silver collection for the Library Fund.

EXCELLENT RECORD OF 14TH BATTERY.

Has won First Place for Firing and Second for General Proficiency.

The Cobourg World has the following on the record of the 14th Field Battery: "Notwithstanding the fact that the 14th Midland Field Battery were handicapped over 30 points on account of absentees at camp, they have won the proud distinction of being the second most efficient Field Battery in the Dominion. Hurrah for the 14th! Three years ago the 14th Field Battery ranked the lowest in the Dominion. This year it has attained first place for firing and also second place for General Proficiency. This speaks volumes for its capable commander, Major N. F. MacNachtan, and the men who under his efficient instruction have attended faithfully and willingly to duty. Again, we say, hurrah for the 14th. They have won high honour and they have richly deserved it, both commander and men. For efficiency they were awarded the Lansdowne Cup, and in the firing competition at Deseronto they won the Oswald and Montizambert Cups. Is not that a record to be proud of?"

New Years Day.

A general reception to young men and all citizens of the town as well, will be given at the Y.M.C.A. from 3 to 6 p.m. on New Year's Day. All will be gladly welcomed at the building at that day.

NEWS OF TO-DAY.

An Index to Prominent Paragraphs in this Issue.

Ottawa street car service is tied up.

A C.P.R. conductor was killed west of Fort William.

Separate school trustees were elected by acclamation.

The Ontario Legislature will be called together on Jan. 14th.

The last meeting of the Ashburnham council was held last night.

English bankers are said to be opposed to Jos. Chamberlain's scheme.

Mr. W. R. Gowie and Miss Collins both of town, were married this morning.

An employee of Welch's tannery at Hastings had a narrow escape from death.

Already $1,300,000 has been received from the sale of timber by the Ontario Government.

Letters from "Old Citizen" and "Progress" appear in this issue, dealing with civic matters.

Sir Richard Cartwright will not seek re-election in North Oxford but will run in an eastern constituency.

A pretty wedding took place in Cobourg, when Mr. John R. Bothwell was married to Miss Nellie Victoria Western.

Lindsay Collegiate Institute was defeated here last night in the Peterborough Junior O.H.A. team by a score of 9 to 4.

A very enjoyable evening was spent in the Ashburnham town hall last night when the annual Christmas entertainment of Mark street Sunday school was held.

The first senior hockey match of the season will be played to-night, when the Peterborough team will meet the Queen's University team.

Mr. J. A. Fife gave an interesting address on Northern Ontario at the Young Men's Guild meeting in the George street church last night.

Andrew Pattullo, M.P.P., for North Oxford, who has been in England for some weeks speaking on the Preferential Trade question, died suddenly in London.

Mayor Roger has been elected by acclamation, the other Mayoralty candidates withdrawing from the contest. There are eighteen candidates for aldermen.

The United States Congress at the next session will attempt to secure a repeal or a modification of the section of the Rush treaty which limits the use of naval vessels on the Lakes.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PUPILS KINDLY ENTERTAINED.

Miss May Edgar Hospitably Entertains Her Pupils.

Last night Miss Mary Edger, who teaches a class in the George street Sunday School, carried out the happy idea of giving a little home entertainment to her pupils. They were invited to "The Pines," the residence of Miss Edger's father, Smith Township.

The evening was passed in the enjoyment of games, phonograph selection, and what is not of least importance to youngsters, a bountifully spread table. Altogether Miss Edger's kindly hospitality was greatly appreciated by the young people.

CANADIAN'S THEORY

ABOUT RADIUM PROVED BY EMINENT BRITISH SCIENTIST

"Atomic Disintegration Is the Mot de L'enigme in the New Canadian Theory, and the 'Canadian' Theory for the Present Holds the Field"—Interesting Experiments With the Wonderful Rays.

Radium's rays have pierced through the walls that seemed to mark the bounds of science and have flung a strong light far beyond them. The mysterious metal has been the means of showing that there is much more in space than was dreamed of in the atomic theory of Dalton or in Faraday's conception of the ether. Scientists, the least prone of mankind to dogmatize, have been taught by it to suspend judgment about many things they formerly scouted or derided. Speculations once regarded as fanciful or mad, theories long exploded or condemned as humbug, are no longer treated as necessarily preposterous, but are being respectfully investigated by some of the most distinguished physicists. The gaseous emanations from radium, given off continuously without appreciable loss of substance or change of structure in the mass, along with rays that penetrate thick walls of lead, recall the principle of "phlogiston" which Lavoisier drove out of chemical science. The disruption of the atom brings back old ideas of a primal element. The provod convertibility of radium into helium diminishes our contempt for the alchemist of the Middle Ages. And if the knowledge recently obtained of this metal's properties has made some of the discredited assumptions of the past seem less impossible, it makes some newer guesses about the stuff of nature seem more probable. Its phenomena lent support to the view that matter and force are identical.

Atoms and Electrons.

Sir William Ramsay, professor of chemistry in University College, London, announced the other day that he had actually changed one element into another. From the simple substance radium he had obtained the equally simple and markedly distinct substance helium. What might not be done after that? Might not the experimentalist hit upon the magic of so breaking up the atoms of iron and so reassociating the ultimate particles as to change the base metal into the precious? For, atoms, till lately thought indivisible, are now known to be resolvable into electrons. That was discovered before the wonders of radium attracted attention. Sir William Lockyer long held that the elements were broken up in the fiery mass of the sun, thus disputing the theory that the combining unit is undecomposable. But it is neither to astronomers nor to chemists that we owe the discovery. It is the result of investigations into the nature of electricity. It is thirty years since Sir William Crookes began his observations of the effects of electricity in vacuum tubes. They led him to the conviction that there is another state in which matter may exist besides the gaseous, liquid and solid, and to this fourth state he gave the name of "radiant matter." It is the result of electrical action on the residual gases in the vacuum tube. Its constituents are neither atoms nor molecules, and whatever kind of gas they were produced from their properties are the same. So Sir William not only broke up the atom but seemed to have got to the fundamental element, the constituent of all matter. Whatever doubts may have been left by Sir William Crookes were pretty completely cleared away by Professor J. J. Thomson, who showed that the atom is burst into a thousand fragments in a vacuum. These are electrons, and the hypothesis now adopted is that an atom consists of an aggregation of electrons in orbital revolution. Rays somewhat resembling the Rontgen and cathode rays produced by electricity in the imperfect vacuum are produced spontaneously by radium.

Transmutation.

Sir William Ramsay's lecture has much in common with a splendid article that was published in the last number of the Edinburgh Review. He is probably the writer. The fact, announced in the lecture, that radium could be changed into helium is one for which the scientific world was prepared. In the Edinburgh Review article we find this sentence: "Recent discoveries, however, compel a suspension of judgment as to the feasibility of some modified kind of transmutation." Further on in the article is the following passage about radium and thorium: "Remarkable, above all, is their association with their better-known relatives of the inert family. Sir William Ramsay and Mr. Soddy obtained decisive spectroscopic evidence that the gases evolved from radium bromide by solution in water include helium. It seemed, moreover, to develop from the emanation. A number of characteristic helium rays, at first invisible, were derived from a tube in which a radium gas had been collected, and allowed to stand four or five days. Prof. Rutherford is of opinion that the emergent helium was really made fresh from the emanation. For this is apparently a fleeting form of matter; it is breaking up into others, and its break-up is accompanied by the emission of Alpha-rays. Now Alpha-rays are, as we have said, atomic in composition, and the weight assigned to the atoms composing them possibly agrees with the atomic weight of helium. That they are, in fact, helium atoms the Canadian investigator is persuaded, and we can rely upon his neglecting no experimental device for testing the truth of so significant a view."

Professor Rutherford.

The Canadian investigator's theory has been proved, not by himself, but possibly by the very writer of the foregoing passage, by Sir William Ramsay at any rate. He stated in an interview that Prof. Rutherford and Mr. Soddy were co-operating with him in his investigations. The great services rendered by these physicists are freely acknowledged in The Edinburgh Review article. In that article we are told that the analysis of the effects manifested by radio-activity has been largely due to the splendid work carried on at Montreal by Prof. Rutherford, with the able co-operation of Mr. Soddy. "He (Prof. Rutherford) employed, for the first time in such researches, a quantitative method. He precisely measured results. The scale by which he gauged their intensity was the ionisation, in a certain interval, of a given quantity of air. And this in turn was known by the readings of an electrometer. The rate of leakage of electricity, then, under the influence of emitted rays, supplied the standard for determining their efficiency. And it is one eminently trustworthy and refined. The electric test for radio-activity is of almost preternatural delicacy. Quantities of matter can, by its aid, be detected five thousand times smaller than those revealed spectroscopically." Credit is given to Prof. Rutherford for elucidating "with brilliant success," the nature of the emanations, "'Atomic disintegration,'" we are told, "is the mot de l'enigme in the new 'Canadian' theory; and the Canadian theory, for the present holds the field." "A gramme of radium, according to Prof. Rutherford's indisputable statement, contains a store of power sufficient to raise 500 tons a mile high."

SCHOOL GARDENS.

Nature Study Engaging the Department of Education Just Now.

The establishment of school gardens is engaging the attention of the Education Department. Some explanation of their purport was given recently by Mr. John Millar, Deputy Minister of Education.

"School gardens," said the Deputy Minister, "have been in existence in some other countries for several years. In the Eastern States much attention has been given to the movement, and much advantage is said to be the result. Any movement is deserving of consideration which tends to make children fonder of the country and less disposed to feel that everything pleasant is to be found only in the city.

"In the establishment of a school garden a fair-sized site would be desirable, but much may be accomplished with the present school grounds if the matter is taken up with interest. Portions of the school grounds may be cultivated in common by the pupils under the teacher's direction, or, what is probably better, plots may be assigned to different scholars, who will then display much pride in having the price of ground kept in good shape. Flowers and vegetables are grown in such school gardens, and in a few places the products have been sold and have realized quite a little revenue, which is spent for the improvement of the school.

"The subject of Nature Study, which is engaging so much attention, could be taken up with much greater zeal if school gardens became general. It would be exceedingly desirable if the operations of agriculture could be made more attractive to pupils in the rural districts. Nature study will do much in this direction, and, with the establishment of a school garden, a teacher will have additional facilities for making a success of the subject.

"That the Legislature is alive to the importance of this matter is shown by the fact that $1,000 was voted last year for the purpose of making a beginning. Already much has been done to create an interest in school gardens in the County of Carleton by Inspector Cowley. It is intended to make a grant to each school that establishes a satisfactory school garden. Too often the school grounds are far from being attractive. Much has been done already by tree-planting on Arbor Day, but it still remains for such grounds to be put in still better shape by the establishment of school gardens. The farmers of the community will doubtless be ready to assist teachers in this movement. Certainly the way is open for doing much for children living in the country."

Hydraulic Lift Lock.

The students of the School of Practical Science, Toronto, recently paid a visit to Peterboro. To them the wonders of the hydraulic lift lock on the Trent Canal, the highest lock in the world, and the peculiarities of its construction and working, were explained fully by the enthusiastic chief of the engineering staff, Wm. Rogers, assisted by his staff, two of whom are graduates of the school, viz., Messrs. Francis and Easson. Standing on the top of the central tower, which has a very pleasing outline, it was very hard to believe that the lift is only 65 feet. It is simply a tremendous height, and it is marvellous to think that it is proposed to lift a vessel up this with one lock. This must revolutionize the system of canal construction, and it is pleasing to think that Canada should be leading the world in its advanced system of inland navigation. This novel lock, with its massive masonry, its graceful lines and proportions, its pretty grassy slopes and tasty white fences combine to make a sight that is very pleasing and impressive.

MANHUNTING BY DOGS.

Bloodhound Trials to Be Held in the English Midlands.

The third series of working trials of the Association of Bloodhound Breeders is to be held within the next few days in a remote part of Warwickshire, and although Croxton Smith has not been inundated with applications to witness the trials, as was the case on the occasion of the gathering on the Yorkshire Wolds in 1898, sportsmen and women—as well as police authorities—in various parts of the country have shown interest in the meeting by asking for particulars of the place where hounds throw off in the two stakes scheduled for decision. For many reasons a crowd is not desirable, and although Croxton Smith is issuing invitations to those really interested, every effort is being made to avoid the collection of a local crowd.

There are nine entries in the two stakes, the larger one being that for single hounds, to be tested over a line of three miles on a trail one hour cold. In this stake the hounds will run in couples, and there is little doubt that emulation thus created will heighten interest in the competition, for hounds will naturally race for the lead.

The second stake will be in the shape of a change test for single hounds, an arrangement having been made by which the line originally laid will be crossed and re-crossed by a strange runner, with a view to testing the ability of the competing hounds to hold a line of three miles laid an hour previously. This is quite an innovation, and so rigid a test should be of the greatest utility, for at previous trials there has been a doubt at one stage or another as to whether the original line, having been crossed, had been held.

An Irish sportsman, who for some years has used bloodhounds for hunting up red deer in Tipperary and then tracking the wounded, has entered a couple, and hopes to make a good show; but, for the first time since the institution of the trials, E. Brough, of Scarborough, who has done so much towards improving the breed, will not be represented directly, although most of the competing hounds are of his strain.

It was Mr. Brough, by the way, who at the time of the "Jack the Ripper" scare in Whitechapel offered the use of a couple of his hounds after they had given proof of their ability to track a man on a cold line by running "to earth" Sir Charles Warren, then Chief Commissioner of Police, in Hyde Park. The idea that the bloodhound can pick one trail out of a hundred after any interval of time and any amount of disturbance, and devour its quarry, more particularly if a man, at the end of the hunt, is exploded. That much might be done in the detection of crime were bloodhounds kept as adjuncts to country police stations is indisputable, but they must be put on the line of the suspect as soon as possible.—London Daily News.

Romance of a Relic.

According to a London writer no Roman relic has met with so remarkable a fate as the tomb of Avilius Teres, the celebrated jockey of the time of Domitian. At the end of the third century it was first removed from its original site by an unknown patrician, whose epitaph was engraved on the back of the slab; second, a Christian named Aurelius Romanus made use of it for his grave and that of his sisters.

When the Church of St. Maria Transpontis was built in the eighth century near the Castle of St. Angelo part of the slab was made use of in laying the marble pavement. The church was demolished in July, 1564, by Pius IV. to make room for the new fortifications of the castle, and when Pope Urban VIII., in 1627, built the pentagonal bastion two fragments of the inscription came to light, one of which was lost, the other being removed to Florence, where it is still to be seen in the Uffizi gallery.

In the course of a general restoration of the castle with a view of transforming it into a museum of artillery many other fragments were found of which Urban VIII. had evidently made use in his structure.

The Witch Hazel's Gun.

The propulsive power of the Witch Hazel seed pod is extraordinary. It flies open with a click like a rifle, and fires its seed to a distance of several yards. Naturally the Witch Hazel knows its own business, and has sufficient reason for this strange behavior. It desires to start its seeds in new and unoccupied spots, where they will root and start out in life for themselves. It is a cunning plant.

We have got it fixed in our stupid human heads that plants do not think and plan, or have the power of locomotion. Here at our very doors is the refutation of this belief. —Pharos, in The Globe.

ROSEBERY AS FARMER.

What He Was Doing When He Was in the Lonely Furrow.

At last we have a true, full and particular account from Lord Rosebery of what he did in his "lonely furrow." Replying to a toast to the successful exhibit at the Fat Stock Club dinner for December, Lord Rosebery said:

"Well, what am I going to say about the successes which I have achieved to-day? Only this, that it is by personal, careful, and daily attention to the beasts on my part, by wakeful nights devoted to the corpulence of a particular animal, by handing to every beast his appointed oil cake from my own hand; it is only by these means I have been enabled to obtain success.

"And when I walked in to the show and saw these prize animals, which have increased at the rate of three and one-half to four pounds per day for many weeks past, looking at me with proud eyes, and, I also thought, a languid and bilious eye, I felt my time had not been spent in vain and that though others might prefer the field of politics or letters, I myself had been more usefully employed. I know it is said that personal attention is everything, and I think I exemplify that moral. I confess I do a great deal of my agriculture by deputy, but on this occasion I am able to boast that every one of my animals which has won a prize has been my particular pet and particular charge."

Kipling and Force.

It is not a strange thing, when one thinks of it, that Kipling's verse should be oftener praised or condemned for its political content than for its more strictly poetical qualities. Thus Mr. Perry, the editor of The Atlantic Monthly sums up the philosophy of "The Five Nations:"

"To read him, after reading the political poetry of Milton or Shelley, of Lowell or Whittier, is to be conscious of a startling and radical difference, not merely on the specific issue of human liberty, but also in the general conception of life and destiny. Mr. Kipling's gospel is very simple. It is the Neolithic one of carrying a big stick, and the finest poem he has ever written was inspired by a mood of meditation—all too rare in him—upon the vast responsibilities entailed upon the possessors of superior physical force."

You Cannot Rely on Imitations.

When Threatened With Bronchitis, Asthma, Pneumonia or Serious Lung Troubles be Sure to get the Genuine

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE.

For generations the value of turpentine as a remedial agent in all affections of the bronchial tubes and lungs has been well known.

It remained for Dr. Chase to so combine turpentine, linseed and half a dozen other ingredients as to not only make a wonderfully successful medicine, but also one that is so pleasant to the taste as to be sought for by children.

The sale of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is more than three times that of many similar remedies. The result of this success is a host of imitations.

When attacked by coughs and colds which threaten to reach the lungs and prove serious; when awakened by children with croupy coughs, gasping for breath, you cannot afford to trust to imitations.

Mr. John Pollard, Echo Bay, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled last winter with a very bad cold, which was beginning to settle on my lungs. I was so hoarse that I could scarcely speak, and had a nasty hacking cough, which I could not get rid of. One bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine cured me, and I can heartily recommend it."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is sold by all dealers at the advertised price, 25 cts. a bottle, family size, three times as large, 60 cents. Edmanson, Bates & So., Toronto.

To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every boittle. 9

CHAPTER XXXII.

"ADJUTANT, tell Colonel Saint-Prosper I wish to see him."

The adjutant saluted and turned on his heel, while General Scott bent over the papers before him, studying a number of rough pencil tracings. Absorbed in his task, the light of two candles on the table brought into relief, against the dark shadows, a face of rugged character and marked determination. Save for a slight contraction of the brow he gave no evidence of the mental concentration he bestowed upon the matter in hand, which was to lead to the culmination of the struggle and to vindicate the wisdom and boldness of his policy.

"You sent for me, general?"

An erect, martial figure stood respectfully at the entrance of the tent.

"Yes," said the general, pushing the papers from him. "I have been studying your drawings of the defensive works at San Antonio Garita and find them entirely comprehensive. A council of officers has been called, and perhaps it will be as well for you to remain."

"At what time shall I be here, general?"

"It is about time now," answered the commander in chief, consulting his watch. "You have quite recovered from your wounds?" he added kindly.

"Yes, thank you, general."

"I see by the newspapers you were reported dead. If your friends read that it will cause them needless anxiety. You had better see that the matter is corrected."

"It is hardly worth while," returned the young man slowly.

The commanding general glanced at him in some surprise. "A strange fellow!" he thought. "Has he reasons for wishing to be considered dead? However, that is none of my business. At any rate, he is a good soldier." And after a moment he continued: "Cerro Gordo was warm work, but there is warmer yet in store for us. Only Providence, not the Mexicans, can stop us. But here are the officers," as General Pillow, Brevet General Twiggs and a number of other officers entered.

The commander in chief proceeded to give such information as he had touching the approaches to the city. Many of the officers favored operating against San Antonio Garita, others attacking Chapultepec. Saint-Prosper when called on stated that the ground before the San Antonio gate was intersected by many irrigating ditches and that much of the approach was under water.

"Then you would prefer storming a fortress to taking a ditch?" said one of the generals satirically.

"A series of ditches," replied the other.

"Colonel Saint-Prosper is right," exclaimed the commanding general. "I had already made up my mind. Let it be the western gate then."

And thus was brought to a close one of the most memorable councils of war, for it determined the fate of the City of Mexico.

Saint-Prosper looked older than when seen in New Orleans, as though he had endured much in that brief but hard campaign. His wound had incapacitated him for only a few months, and in spite of the climate and a woeful lack of medical attendance and nourishing supplies his hardy constitution stood him in such stead he was on his feet and in the saddle, while his comrades languished and died in the fierce heat of the temporary hospitals. His fellow officers knew him as a fearless soldier, but a man reticent about himself, who made a confidant of no one. Liked for his ready, broad military qualities, it was a matter of comment, nevertheless, that no one knew anything about him except that he had served in the French army and was highly esteemed by General Scott as a daring and proficient engineer.

After leaving the commanding general's tent Saint-Prosper retired to rest in that wilderness which had once been a monarch's pleasure grounds.

When daybreak again penetrated the mountain recesses and fell upon the valley he arose to shake off a troubled slumber. An unhealthy mist hung over the earth, like a miasma, and the officer shivered as he walked in that depressing and noxious atmosphere to a little adobe house which the natives had built near the trail that led through the valley. As he approached this hut he encountered a dismal but loquacious sentinel tramping before the partly opened door.

"This is chilly work, guard?" said the young man, pausing.

"Yis, colonel," replied the soldier, apparently grateful for the interruption; "it's a hot foight I prefer to this cool dooty."

"Whom are you guarding?" continued the officer.

"A spy, taken in the lines a few days ago. He's to be executed this morning at 6. But I don't think he will moind that, for it's out of his head he is with the malaria."

"He should have had medical attendance," observed the officer, stepping to the door.

"Faith, they'll cure him at daybreak," replied the guard. "It's a medicine that niver fails."

Saint-Prosper pushed open the door. The interior was so dim that at first he could not distinguish the occupant, but when his eyes became accustomed to the darkness he discovered the figure of the prisoner, who was lying with his back toward him on the ground of the little hut with nothing but a thin blanket beneath him. The only light revealing the barren details of this Indian residence sifted through the small doorway or pierced timorously down through a narrow aperture in the roof that served for a chimney. As Saint-Prosper gazed at the prostrate man the latter moved uneasily, and from the parched lips fell a few words:

"Lock the doors, Oly-koeks! Hear the songsters, Mynheer Ten Breeches! Birds of prey, you Dutch varlet! What do you think of the mistress of the manor? The serenading antirenters have come for her." Then he repeated more slowly: "The squaw Pewaschi For seventeen and one-half ells of duffels! A rare principality for the scornful minx! Lord, how the birds sing now around the manor—screech owls, catbirds, bobolinks!"

The soldier started back, vivid memories assailing his mind. Who was this man whose brain, independent of the corporeal shell, played waywardly with scenes, characters and events indissolubly associated with his own life?

"Do you know, Little Thunder, the Lord only rebuked the Pharisees?" continued the prostrate man. "Though the Pharisee triumphs after all! But it was the stroller I wanted, not the principality."

He stirred quickly, as if suddenly aware of the presence of another in the hut, and, turning, lifted his head in a startled manner, surveying the figure near the doorway with conflicting emotions written on his pallid countenance.

Arising deliberately, his body, like a machine, obeying automatically some unconscious power, he confronted the officer, who recognized in him, despite his thin, worn face and eyes, unnaturally bright, the once pretentious land baron, Edward Mauville. Moving toward the door, gazing on Saint-Prosper as though he was one of the figures of a disturbing phantasm, he reached the threshold, and, lifting his hand above his head, the prisoner placed it against one of the supports of the hut and stood leaning there. From the creation of his mind's eye, as he, doubtlessly half conscious of his weakness, designated the familiar form, he glanced at the sentinel and shook as though abruptly conscious of his situation. Across the valley the soldiers showed signs of bestirring themselves, the smoke of many fires hovering earthward beneath the mist. Drawing his thin frame proudly to its full height, with a gesture of disdain for physical weakness, and setting his keen, wild eyes upon the soldier, Mauville said in a hollow tone:

"Is that really you, Mr. Saint-Prosper? At first I thought you but a trick of the imagination. Well, look your fill upon me! You are my Nemesis come to see the end."

"I am here by chance, Edward Mauville; an officer of the American army."

"And I a spy in the Mexican army. So we are authorized foes."

Rubbing his trembling hands together, his eyes shifted from the dark birds

He lifted his head in a startled manner.

to the mists, then from the phantom forests back to the hut, finally resting on his shabby boots of yellow leather. The sunlight penetrating a rift in the mist settled upon him as he moved feebly and uncertainly through the doorway and seated himself upon a stool. This sudden glow brought into relief his ragged, unkempt condition, the sallowness of his face and his wasted form, and Saint-Prosper could not but contrast pityingly this cheerless object, in the garb of a ranchero, with the prepossessing, sportive heir who had driven through the Shadengo valley.

Apparently now the sun was grateful to his bent, stricken figure, and, basking in it, he recalled his distress of the previous night:

"This is better. Not long ago I awoke with chattering teeth. 'This,' I said, 'is life, a miasma, cold, discomfort.' Yes, yes, a fever, a miasma, with phantoms fighting you—struggling to choke you—but now"— He paused and, fumbling in his pocket, drew out a cigarette case, which he opened, but found empty. A cigar the other handed him he took mechanically and lighted with scrupulous care. Near at hand the guard, more cheerful under the prospect of speedy relief from his duties, could be heard humming to himself:

"Oh, Teady-foley, you are my darling!
You are my looking glass night and morning"—

Watching the smoker, Saint-Prosper asked himself how came Mauville to be serving against his own country or why he should have enlisted at all, this pleasure seeking man of the world, to whom the hardships of a campaign must have been as novel as distasteful.

"Are you satisfied with your trial?" said the soldier at length.

"Yes," returned Mauville, as if breaking from a reverie. "I confess I am the secret agent of Santa Anna and would have carried information from your lines. I am here because there is more of the Latin than the Anglo-Saxon in me. Many of the old families"—with a touch of insane pride—"did not regard the purchase of Louisiana by the United States as a transaction alienating them from other ties. Fealty is not a commercial commodity. But this," he added scornfully, "is something you cannot understand. You soldiers of fortune draw your swords for any master who pays you."

The ash fell from the cigar as Mauville held the weed before his eyes.

"It is an hourglass," he muttered. "When smoked, oh, for the power of Jupiter to order four nights in one, the better to pursue his love follies! Love follies," he repeated, and as a new train of fancy was awakened he regarded Saint-Prosper venomously.

"Do you know she is the daughter of a marquis?" said Mauville suddenly.

"Who?" asked the soldier.

"The stroller, of course. You can never win her," he added contemptuously. "She knows all about that African affair."

Saint-Prosper started violently, but in a moment Mauville's expression changed, and he appeared plunged in thought.

"The last time I saw her," he said, half to himself, "she was dressed in black, her face as noonday, her hair black as midnight, crowning her with languorous allurement!"

He repeated the last word several times like a man in a dream.

"Allurement, allurement!" and again relapsed into a silence that was half stupor.

By this time the valley, with the growing of the day, began to lose much of its evil aspect, and the eye, tempted through glades and vistas, lingered upon gorgeous forms of inflorescence.

As he surveyed this prospect, the brief silence was broken by a bugle call and the trampling of feet.

"The trumpet shall sound and the dead shall arise," said the prisoner, turning and facing the soldiers calmly. "You have come for me?" he asked quietly.

"Yes," said the officer in command. "General Scott has granted your request in view of certain circumstances, and you will be shot instead of hanged."

The face of the prisoner lighted wonderfully. He drew himself erect and smiled with some of the assumption of the old insolence, that expression Saint-Prosper so well remembered. His features took on a semblance to the careless, dashing look they had borne when the soldier crossed weapons with him at the Oaks, and he neither asked nor intended to give quarter.

"I thank you," he observed courteously. "At least I shall die like a gentleman. I am ready, sir! Do not fasten my hands. A Mauville can die without being tied or bound."

The officer hesitated. "As to that"—he began.

"It is a reasonable request," said Saint-Prosper in a low tone.

Mauville abruptly wheeled. His face, dark and sinister, was lighted with envenomed malignity. An unnaturally clear perception replaced the stupor of his brain, and, bending toward Saint-Prosper, his eye rested upon him with such rancor and malevolence the soldier involuntarily drew away. But one word fell from the land baron's lips, low, vibrating, full of inexpressible bitterness—"Traitor!"

"Come, come!" interrupted the officer in command of the execution party. "Time is up. As I was told not to fasten your hands, you shall have your wish. Confess now, that is accommodating."

"Thanks," returned Mauville carelessly, relapsing into his old manner. "You are an obliging fellow. I would do as much for you."

"Not much danger of that," growled the other. "But we'll take the will for the deed. Forward, march!"

* * * * * * *

After the reverberations, carried from rock to rock with menacing reiteration, had ceased the stillness was absolute. Even the song bird remained frightened into silence by those awful echoes. Then the sun rested like a benediction on the land, and the white cross of Cortez was distinctly outlined against the blue sky. But soon the long roll of drums followed this interval of quiet.

"Fall in! Attention! Shoulder arms!" And the sleeping spirit of the Aztec war god floated in the murmur which, increasing in volume, arose to tumultuous shout.

"On to Chapultepec! On to Chapultepec!" came from a thousand throats; arms glistened in the sun, bugles sounded resonant in the air, and the pattering noise of horses' hoofs mingled with the stentorian voices of the rough teamsters and the cracking of the whips. Like an irresistible, all compelling wave the troops swept out of the valley to hurl themselves against castle and fortress and to plant their colors in the heart of the capital city.

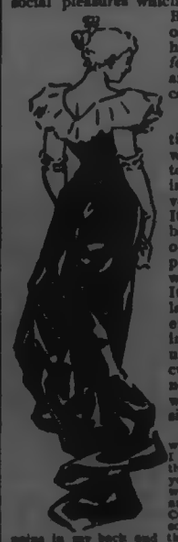
The Price of Pleasure.

It is hard for a lovely woman to forego the pleasures of the life which she was created to enjoy and adorn. She may have to be busy all day in office or in store, yet she cannot deny herself the social pleasures which are offered her.



But the fatigue is often too great for her, and she suffers from headache and backache as a consequence of over-exertion.

Women who are tired and worn out will find a perfect tonic and nervine in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures headache, backache and the other aches and pains to which women are subject. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"I am so pleased with your instructions, I hardly know what thanks to give you for your kind favors," writes Mrs Milo Bryant, of Lots, Thomas Co., Ga. "I suffered so much with great pains in my back and the lower part of my stomach and palpitation of the heart, that at times I could hardly lie down. Could hardly get up in the morning, but after using three bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and two vials of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, I am like a new woman."

Sick women, especially those suffering from diseases of long standing, are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

OTONABEE POWER COMPANY'S LETTER

Says Town has no Written Agreement With Mr. Stuart.

The Contract Still With the Old Peterborough Radial Railway Company.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—We desire to place clearly before the fate payers the position we take in respect to the street lighting contract.

We are prepared to enter into a contract with the Town of Peterborough to do the street lighting for $1,400.00 a year less than the Council are prepared to pay to the Peterborough Light and Power Company. In ten years this will mean a saving to the ratepayers of $14,000.00. In view of the fact that our assessments have been increased and that our taxes have been increased we feel satisfied that the ratepayers will not support any Council who would pay $14,000.00 more for street lighting than it is worth.

If any ratepayer votes for the by-laws it means that he is in favour of paying this extra $14,000.00 to the Peterborough Light and Power Company, and then the Peterborough Light and Power Company are in a position to drop the railway and stick this extra amount in their own pockets.

The ratepayer need not be mistaken about the meaning of his vote for this by-law because since Mr. Dennistoun's letter has appeared we went to the Town Clerk's office for the purpose of ascertaining if Mr. Robert Stuart had entered into any contract in writing with the Town in respect to this, and we could not find that the Town had "the scratch of a (pen" to bind Mr. Stuart to take over the street railway if he got this extra $14,000.00 for street lighting.

We further found in the Town Clerk's office that the Peterborough Radial Railway Company have a binding contract in writing with the Town giving them a thirty year franchise of the streets.

The parties represented by the Peterborough Radial Railway Company are the ones who put the old street railway under the ground. Moreover, the affidavits of Mr. T. S. Bradburn, Mr. Joseph Shook and Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, filed in Court show that Mr. Robert Stuart has not one cent's worth of interest in the Peterborough Radial Railway Company. Mr. R. M. Dennistoun now claims that it has been "arranged."

Why should the ratepayers of Peterborough pay $14,000.00 more for street lighting because it is pretended that it is "arranged" to have Mr. Stuart operate the railway? As soon as it is "arranged" to get the street lighting at this extra $14,000, Mr. Stuart is not bound in writing by the Town to operate the street railway.

Yours truly,
OTONABEE POWER COMPANY,
W. G. FERGUSON,
President.

MAYOR ROGER GETS A SECOND TERM.

By the Withdrawal of the Other Nominees.

EIGHTEEN FOR ALDERMAN.

Three of This Year's Council Will not stand for Re-election—Contest in only one Ward for School Trustees.

Mayor Roger will be given a second term in the office of Chief Magistrate of the town without a contest. The other candidates for the Mayoralty, Henry Best and William Yelland, withdrew from the nomination before nine o'clock last night, which left the present Mayor alone in the field. This is but following out the custom adhered to in the past, in Peterborough, of giving the Mayor a second term without having to go to the trouble and inconvenience of a contest.

During the last year the council has undertaken a heavy programme of work, some of which has been carried to completion, and a portion still remains to be carried out. By placing the Mayor again in the chair it will help the new council to grapple more readily with the unfinished ends of business.

There will be no contest for the office of Water Commissioner, Dr. Eastwood having withdrawn, which elects Mr. W. H. Moore by acclamation.

There will be a spirited contest for Aldermen, however, eighteen candidates being still in the field. Three of this year's council board members will not stand for re-election, viz:—Messrs. Shortly, O'Connell and Corkery.

Those whose whose names will go to the poll are:—

JOHN SAWERS,
RALPH BRAUND,
JAS. EDGCUMBE,
M. A. MORRISON,
E. F. MASON,
H. BEST,
WM. SCOTT,
WM. J. JOHNSTON,
F. ADAMS,
R. F. McWILLIAMS,
JOS. BATTEN,
ROBT. HICKS,
JAS. FINNIE,
JOHN KYLIE,
WM. GIBBS,
ROBT. CLINKSCALE,
H. RUSH,
M. H. QUINLAN.

Of these eighteen candidates twelve are to be elected, each elector may vote for twelve names, but can only mark his ballot once for each man, no plumping being allowed. The addition of Ashburnham to the town gives one extra Alderman, making twelve with the Mayor.

The votes of the duly qualified electors of the town of Peterborough will be taken on Monday, the 4th day of January, 1904, commencing at the hour of nine o'clock in the forenoon, and closing at the hour of five o'clock in the afternoon, of the same day, at the following polling places, and before the following deputy Returning Officers, respectively, that is to say:

Ward No. 1.

Polling Sub-division No. 1—At M. H. Halpin's shop, No. 39 George street. Angus Williams to be Deputy Returning Officer.

Polling Sub-division No. 2 — At Lewis Spry's shop, No. 210 Stewart street. Jos. Lundy to be Deputy Returning Officer.

Ward No. 2.

Polling Sub-division No. 3—At the Town Council Chamber. Chas. Cameron to be Deputy Returning Officer.

Polling Sub-division No. 4 — At Greene Bros. store, No. 352 Charlotte street. J. M. Greene to be Deputy Returning Officer.

Ward No. 3.

Polling Sub-division No. 5 — At J. & W. Metheral's shop, No. 464 Aylmer street. Jos. Metheral to be Deputy Returning Offficer.

Polling Sub-Division No. 6 — At Wm. McCall's shop, No. 329 McDonel street. John Irwin to be Deputy Returning Officer.

Ward No. 4.

Polling Sub-division No. 7 — At Wm. Lee's shop, Smith street. John Kincaid to be Deputy Returning Officer.

Ward No. 5.

Polling Sub-division No. 8 — At the Village Council Chamber. John T. Wright to be Deputy Returning Officer.

Polling Sub-division No 9 — At the Village Market Building. Thos. Q. Quartermaine to be Deputy Returning Officer.

For School Trustees there will be a contest in only No. 3 Ward, where one of the following gentlemen will elected:—W. S. Robinson, R. P. Boucher, Jas. Stevenson.

THE LATEST NEWS OF LOCAL SPORT

HOCKEY.

There were all kinds of hash dished up at the game between the Lindsay Collegiate Institute and the local junior O.H.A. team, which was played in the Brock street rink last night. The attendance was small, but the amount of slashing the reverse. It was thought that the game would be a pretty tight one, as the visitors came to town with the reputation of being a speedy septette. However, it was seen as soon as the Lindsayites took the ice that they did not stand much of a show. The visitors looked cumbination. That cavalry-sword slashing may give a fine effect, but it doesn't keep the pot of goals a-boiling. The home team was certainly the better one. They showed the effects of ardent practice, but there is plenty of room for improvement yet. The local team is decidedly a fast one, and show the makings of excellent hockey players.

The game began well on time, and ended 9 to 4 in favour of Peterborough. The home team got a firm hold on the puck right at the start and placed one between the flags in a very few minutes. Five minutes later MacFarlane scored, while a short time after Hall was lucky in getting a shot between the flags. The score then stood at 3—0 in favour of Peterborough. After several minutes of scuffling in front of the home goal, Ferguson broke away and scored. Just before half time Killen scored for Lindsay. This made the score 4—1 in favour of the local team.

In the second half the Lindsay forward line made a decided change in their tactics, playing a combination game instead of the individual trick. In a few minutes they scored. Later in front of the Peterborough goal Lindsay succeeded in pushing one through. At this period of the game when it looked as if Lindsay were going to catch up Kennedy became hero of the ice, by scoring two goals within as many minutes, thus bringing the score up to 6—3. At this juncture the play began to verge upon the "dirty." Lindsay then scored their last goal a few minutes later. Towards the conclusion of the game the home team rushed another through which was quickly followed by a successful shot from MacFarlane, while a few minutes before time Parker rushed one through and scored. This brought the score up to 9—4 for Peterborough.

All the members of the home team did very creditably, while Killen and Williams put up the best game for the visitors.

The teams lined up as follows:

Lindsay.	Peterborough.

McGrath	VanEvery

Koyle	Moore

Duffus	Parker

The first senior game of the season will be played to-night when the fast Queen's University senior team will meet the Peterborough seniors. This will be the first time the locals' new team will be seen in action, and there is certain to be a great crowd to witness the game. The locals have been putting in some good stiff practice work of late, and should be in good condition to put up a good argument.

The visiting team is a strong one, having played the fast Belleville O. H. A. team a tie game on the latter's ice. The team to represent the University here to-morrow night will be the best they can send, and it will be a battle of the giants. The visitors may have a slight advantage from the fact that they have already been in action this season, and have played together in games. But whether this advantage will be a very material one or not remains to be seen. The home team will make a good effort to start off this season with a win.

Dr. Lionel King of Detroit, will referee the game, which will be called at eight o'clock sharp. The Peterborough team will line up as follows:

Goal, Mercer.
Point, Howell.
Cover point, Cavanah.
Rover, Harold Armstrong.
Forwards, Fred Whitcroft, Roy Armstrong, Harry Morgan.

Too Late For Xmas

Brass Goods and Art Noveau Metal Goods arrived too late for Christmas, and as we do not carry goods from one season to another, we will clear them out this week at such reductions as to ensure a ready sale. These Brass Goods consist of Brass Mirrors, Brass Clocks, Brass Candleabras, Brass Candlesticks, Brass Sconce (being candlesticks and mirrors combined), Brass Ink Stands, Brass Ash Trays and many other articles too numerous to mention. See them in our south window. The price will tell and everybody will tell the price.

Our Christmas sale of Art Novelties in the line of Framed Pictures has been one of the most appreciated lines we carried this season. Our customers showed their appreciation in the most striking manner possible and that was by securing their favourites. We have a few left and only a few splendid subjects and most artistically framed. These we have decided to clear out at substantial reductions this week. To quote prices would be out of the question. You will have to see the merit of the subjects offered and learn the price to appreciate their value. We would like to have you call on us and be convinced that our pictures are works of art and our prices are artless.

IN THE INTERESTS OF "OUR YOUNG CITY".

"Progress" Makes Some Suggestions to the New Council.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir, — In view of the coming municipal elections there are two or three questions which I think ought to be discussed by the candidates, and are worth serious consideration by every citizen who has a vote.

In the first place the sad death recorded in the papers this week as resulting from a fall on an icy sidewalk, is a timely warning to us that something must be done to protect the rest of us from a similar fate. The condition of the sidewalks at this time of the year, even in the busier streets, would be regarded as a public disgrace by many a village one-tenth the size of Peterborough, and yet most of our citizens are content to climb out into the middle of the road, like a lot of backwoods farmers, because they are too lazy, or indifferent, to clean their sidewalks. Surely after the willing horse with the corporation plough has taken off the heaviest part of the snow, it would be an easy task to shovel off the rest; and when our "granolithics" get coated with ice, which won't come off, what's the matter with sifting a few coal ashes, or some sand, on it? We boast of our right to be called a city — where is our city pride? It seems to me that somebody ought to be responsible and liable to an action for damages for such an accident as happened this week on George street.

Then, while we are on the subject of our streets, it is about time that something was done to stop the disfiguring of our otherwise beautiful streets with a forest of unsightly poles, of all sorts and shapes. True, some of those lately erected are fine and straight, as poles go, but there are too many of them. I have counted as many as seven at one street crossing! Wouldn't it be a good idea for the town to get possession of all these, cut down about one-half of them, and let the power companies pay a rental for them? Then we would have one row of neatly wired and painted poles on the street, instead of the forest of crooked stumps we now have. Then there is the danger in case of fire on our business streets from the tangle of wires, a bird could hardly get through, to say nothing of our firemen.

Then this brings up the question of street lighting. We have had our railway and lighting business all mixed up and set back by the obstruction of an opposition company, whose only object seems to be to embarrass those interested in the railway and get the control of our street lighting business. But their offer at $35.00 a lamp is a good one, providing they can give us an uninterrupted service. As it is now they would have us depend solely on a single generator, nearly five miles away, with a long line subject to breakage and other interruptions. If they are willing to equip and maintain ready for service in case of break downs, an auxiliary generating plant at the town end of their line, then they are giving us a very good offer, but if we are to be at the mercy of their one machine they cannot in reason guarantee a steady service. This provision is made in all up-to-date contracts and the parties who contract to light our streets should have more than one generator, each independent of the other, so that one is always ready for service. The city of Hamilton has been left in the dark twice recently because the power failed at the other end of their long transmission line.

Just one more suggestion with regard to the placing of lamps on the streets. Would it not be a good plan to have them hung farther out over the streets? In summer when the trees are dense a lamp is of little value perched on a pole, surrounded by trees. In Cobourg and other places I have visited, the lamps are hung so as to shine down the centre of the street. Then it would help matters if a few "series incandescent" lamps were placed on poles in some of the darker corners, for instance along the crossings of the Grand Trunk, where one can hardly see a freight car moving along in the dark, and other places where the arc lamps are far apart, or the foliage too dense.

There are a few points which I think our new council would do well to think about. Thanking you for your valuable space, I am, yours, in the interests of our young city.

"PROGRESS."

A LETTER FROM AN OLD CITIZEN.

Endorses the Action of the Council of 1903.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—It is very gratifying to know that there is such an abundance of good material for Aldermen, and it is hoped that the people will make a wise selection. I am sure the people of Old Peterborough will be glad to vote for representatives of the fifth ward. Such tried and prudent men as Frank Adams and Wm. Scott will be an acquisition to our council. Then there are of last year's council, some good men, who last year, by their painstaking work, showed they could be safely trusted with the great interests of the town. Mayor Roger well earned the second term which by usage the Peterborough people accord to their Mayors—Mr. Yelland should not forget this—as it secured him his second term.

Now, Mr. Editor, I find that there has been a systematic and continuous attempt to charge the present Council with making an improvident bargain for the public lighting. The Council studied the two offers long and carefully and after examination of the two offers realized that the Otonabee Power Company's offer was for a light that would call for one-third more lamps than the number required under the Peterborough Light and Power Company's offer, and so what appeared at first like the best offer was in fact the worse offer as it would fill our streets with posts and cost as much money. I have seen the lamps offered by the Otonabee Power Company in a number of places and I unhesitatingly say the conclusion of the Council was right. But it is said the Otonabee Power Company finally, at the last moment, offered the lamp now in use at the lower price—yes they did, but no one took any stock in them—and then to accept their offer meant filling the streets with posts and losing the street railway! And what a dishonest howl has been made about giving the street railway franchise to the Radial Railway Company. Who else could it have been given to? They had the charter, they had bargained to sell their stock to Mr. Stuart; he would only buy their stock if they had the franchise. He was not personally qualified by law to take the franchise and the only way he could get it was from the Radial Railway Company. The Council did right, and the people would have supported them if a vote had been taken and they will support them now. We have waited long for some one to resurrect the railway. The Otonabee Power Company won't touch it—no Company having to buy power will do it. Mr. Stuart controls the power and is willing; we would be fools to let the chance go by.

This is a turning point in our history. Shall we put in progressive men equal to the occasion, or shall we be talked out of our chance by carpers or interested people who care nothing for the interest of the town—only their own? Fault finding is easy—anyone can do it, but constructive men, who have brains enough to construct and move on are better than obstructionists who sit and find fault, and hinder and let the moss grow on their backs. Let us be up and doing. Throw aside the small obstructionists and the axe grinders, and give us honest, patriotic, progressive men, and let the town loose to go on to that great future which Mr. Stuart says is before her.

Yours truly,
"OLD CITIZEN."

LAST MEETING OF VILLAGE COUNCIL.

Ashburnham Council met Last Night to Close up Years Business.

The last meeting of the Ashburnham Village Council was held last night in the Council Chamber, when there were present Reeve, Adams, and Councillors Faint, Scott and Gibbs.

Very little business was transacted beyond ordering the following accounts to be paid, on motion of Messrs. Faint and Scott.

J. E. A. Fitzgerald	$10 00
R. Hicks & Co.	3 75
S. Clancy	75
T. B. Maniece	2 50
C. H. Moore	13 00
G. Wheeler	13 00
Reporters' grant	15 00
Grand Trunk, rent	1 00

A bylaw providing for the exemption from taxation, excepting school taxes, of the property of the Dickson Company, was given its second and third readings. The bylaw however will have no effect or force until it has been sanctioned by the Legislature. This provision was made at the request of the council of Peterborough.

This ended the business of the village council of Ashburnham, which on Friday will be merged into one Greater Peterborough.

Vote for W. J. Johnston, as Alderman—Energetic, alive, progressive, experienced in council work, a thorough practical mechanic, a credit to his craft.

Art Novelties.

We have had a successful year and we want a Garrison finish. We know you will help us. Come early and often. All welcome. A. H. Stratton & Co., 417 Gorge street.

I will sell by public auction on Saturday, January 2nd next. A first class single cutter with a small seat in front, sale on the market square at 10.30 o'clock.

JOHN HAGGART,
Auctioneer.

MAYOR ROGER.

The Examiner has much pleasure in congratulating Mayor Roger on his re-election by acclamation. This is to be taken as evidence of the fact that in the discharge of his responsible duties he has met, as he deserved to do, with the approval of the electorate. He has very faithfully and efficiently discharged his duties and with an honest regard to advancing the best interests of the town. His experience of the past year and his strict attention to civic business have fitted him for more efficient service which it is hoped he will, aided by an efficient council, be given health and opportunity to give.

MEETING OF THE LEGISLATURE

The Ontario Legislature is summoned to meet in its second session on Thursday, January 14th. There are good and sufficient reasons for the calling of the Legislature. The interests of the province demand it. The advance policy of the Government requires that as early as possible parliamentary sanction should be had to ask for tenders for the construction of the Temiscamingue Railway to intersect the Grand Trunk Pacific, the surveys for the extension being sufficiently advanced to warrant asking for tenders. If Ontario is to get the full benefit of the traffic resulting from the construction of the new transcontinental line, we must be in readiness to connect the Ontario Government railway with it at the earliest possible moment.

Then, again, there is a necessity to vote supplies for the carrying on of the public service. There have not been voted sufficient appropriations for the month of January, and without these are voted there are no means of carrying on public business, unless by the warrant of the Lieut.-Governor, a means evidently only to be resorted to in case of necessity.

The Mail, which voices the views of the Opposition, of course objects to an early session, holding, in effect, that the House should not be called while several seats are under protest. The House must be called by June, at the latest, and there is no certainty that the protest cases, especially in the event of appeals, will be disposed of by the date mentioned, so that it is possible that to come within constitutional requirements the House must have to be called with all the election cases undecided. The Mail also insists that there is no necessity for an early session. There is, as has been shown, necessity in the public interests. And, besides, early sessions have been the rule. Since Confederation there have been held 36 sessions. Of these 8 have been called before January; 15 during January, and 8 before January 14th, the date fixed for the next session. In 1877 the House met on January 3rd; in 1878 and 1879 on January 9th; and in 1880 on January 7th, and in 1881 and 1882 on January 12th and 13th respectively.

In calling the House to meet on January 14th, Hon. Mr. Ross is pursuing no unusual course, and no unconstitutional course. He has a majority in the Legislature, and is still charged with responsibility in respect of the administration of provincial affairs. He is simply meeting his responsibility. It is not his duty to consult the Opposition as to how or when he shall discharge his trust, so long as he is acting in a constitutional manner, and within his duty as premier of the Province.

NO SMOKING.

Smoking is enjoyed by millions and like anything else, practiced in moderation, can yield the maximum of pleasure to its devotee, and when practised under proper conditions and at proper times and places, the minimum of annoyance to the millions who object to tobacco smoke.

A hockey rink at the time of a match is an evidently improper place to indulge in smoking.

In the first place it interferes with with the wind of the players who need all the breath they have to help them in their work.

Then in proportion to the extent to which smoking is carried on, the rink becomes filled with a semi-opaque haze, which intereferes first with the view of the players and also with the view of the spectators.

Then the odour of the smoke of tobacco of all degrees of strength and quality and fragrance, is distasteful not only to those who are not smoking, but to those whom it tends to make ill sometimes and always uncomfortable.

It is said to be the practice of many and a habit of others to smoke their pipes or cigars during hockey matches with all the evil and undesirable results mentioned. It is to be hoped that they will consider it the decent thing to refrain. A man who has no more self denial, who is so much the slave of appitite and habit that he cannot do without smoking for the short period of a hockey match should not frequent a place where indulgence in his habit works injury and annoyance to others. He goes to church (perhaps) or to a concert and has to get on without smoking. He can do so equally well at a hockey match.

When the management of the hockey rink places placards, "No Smoking," the person who buys a ticket, tacitly accepts the condition that he shall not smoke and if he persists in breaking the implied contract he exposes himself to the penalty of breach of contract or the adoption of more or less heroic means that may be necessary to see that the players and the guests of the rink shall not be subjected to the annoyances arising from the practice of smoking during matches.

Vote for W. J. Johnston, as Alderman—5 years experience, level-headed, moderate and capable.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. J. T. Priest, of McMaster University, Toronto, preached a Christmas sermon in the Indian River and Warsaw churches on Sunday, Dec. 27th. His subject was, "The Birthday of the King of Kings," and he spoke of the world's preparation for His coming, how He came, why He came, and our duty towards Him.

The sermon was much appreciated by attentive, though not over numerous audiences in both places.

Rev. P. E. Baker, our former pastor, will again be in our midst on Sunday, Jan. 3rd, to preach the anniversary sermon in the Baptist church. It is needless to say that a visit from Mr. Baker will be much appreciated by all the residents of Indian River and vicinity, as he was student pastor of the church at the time of its organization, 1901. Mr. Baker is now located at Grimsby, Ont.

The annual Christmas tree held in the church on Christmas night was a huge success. The programme was excellent and the proceeds amounted to about $19.00. Santa Claus arrived about 8.30 o'clock and immediately set to work at the heavily laden tree. The presents were numerous and nearly everyone wore a smile for the pleasant surprises which greeted them.

Rumors of two weddings about to take place in the near future are being circulated throughout the neighbourhood.

Miss Lily Minore spent Xmas with her brother, Mr. M. B. Minore.

Mr. Ben Fife, of Toronto, is home for his holidays.

Mr. Geo. Patterson intends to leave next week for a course in the Business College at Toronto.

Dr. Evans reports that lagrippe this year is more severe than formerly.

YOU WILL BE ALL SMILES AGAIN.

Forget Your Stomach and You'll Have a Santa Claus Face.

HOW TO DO IT.

If there is one thing more than all others that will give a man a forlorn and friendless appearance and and make him morbid and "cranky" and disagreeable, that thing is dyspepsia. It makes one forget his friends and become morose and irritable. He is so wrapped up in his own misery that he is inconsiderate of every one else. Relieved of this terrible and depressing ailment, he again becomes a good fellow and a man among men.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are beyond question the most effective and popular remedy ever offered to the sufferers of this terrible disease. The thousands and thousands of cures they have brought about and the enormous increase of their sales fully attest the truth of this statement.

They are, above all, a natural remedy. They possess exactly the same properties that the gastric juices and other digestive fluids of the stomach possess and they actually do the digestive work of the stomach and enable that organ to rest and recuperate and become sound and well. They act in a mild, natural manner and cause no disturbance in the digestive organs. They prevent any fermentation of the food which causes sour stomach. In fact, under their influence the subject forgets that he has a stomach and his resulting cheerfulness presents a great contrast to his former dejection.

Millions of boxes of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold annually and they are but in the dawn of their popularity. Every mail brings letters of thanksgiving from grateful ones who have been cured of this terrible disease. The following is one of hundreds received each week:

Rev. J. R. Hosg of Wymore, Neb., writes: "For six years I have been troubled with dyspepsia. Last fall I became very much alarmed at some symptoms of heart trouble and came to believe there was a sympathetic relation between the two diseases, rather, that the stomach trouble was the cause of the heart disturbances. I hit upon Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets for a remedy and invested a dollar and a half for three boxes which lasted me three months and I can eat any kind of food I want and have a good, vigorous appetite. Although I am 77 years old, I now feel perfectly well and without being requested by any one I make this statement as a compliment to the virtues of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets."

SOME LIVES MAY BE LOST.

Severe Windstorm Passed Over Washington, Ind., Friday.

Washington, Ind., Dec. 26.—A severe windstorm passed over this vicinity yesterday afternoon. A new five story building of the Cincinnati Heating Company was levelled to the ground, and it is possible that some lives were lost. The fire department is conducting a search of the ruins

STEEL PLANT WILL START UP IN SPRING

An Investigation has Proved That It can be Operated With Profit.

(Sault Ste. Marie News.)

The steel plant will be reopened in the spring, just as soon as it is possible to get on the ground a sufficient amount of ore to insure continuous operation of the blast furnaces. This statement will apply whether Speyer & Co. retain possession of the plants or whether the reorganization committee of the old company pay up the Speyer loan and secure possession, or whether the plant is sold to some separate corporation.

The foregoing statement was made positively to The News by a man who is perfectly familiar with Speyer & Co's plans and who knows just what the result of the investigation into the question of whether steel rails could be manufactured profitably in the Algoma Steel company's mill demonstrated that they could be made at a good profit, irrespective of whether the ore used came from Canadian mines or not.

As a matter of fact when the steel plant starts in the spring, it will be with ore from the Michigan or Minnesota ranges. Later, if good Bessemer ore is found in sufficient quantities in Canada, well and good, there will be so much the more profit in it, but the salient fact that must not be lost sight of is that the steel plant can be operated profitably under any conditions and that this conclusion has been reached after a most careful investigation by experts in the employ of the receiver, himself a practical iron and steel man.

The fears expressed that the threatened litigation is going to result in the closing down of all of the plants are also without foundation.

On the contrary, Speyer & Co. are fitting up the wood pulp mill with needed machinery and otherwise planning for its continuous operation.

The present shut down is due solely to the lack of pulp wood, but a buyer is out now buying up pulp wood with which to keep the mill running until men can be put to work in the company's camps along the Algoma Central and the wood can be transported to the Soo.

The saw mill is running at full capacity and a contract has been closed with one timber operator who will supply the mill with logs enough to keep the mill running 50 per cent. of the time, and it is expected enough more logs will be gotten out by the company itself to keep the mill in full operation. The veneer plant is running with a force large enough to get out the orders for veneer as fast as they come in and a strong effort is being made to increase the amount of orders until the mill is in full operation.

On the American side all difficulties with the Union Carbide Company have been adjusted and not later than Jan. 1st the power house will be delivering power to the latter company, who will put their big plant into full operation, giving employment to several hundred men.

The generous proposal of Speyer & Co. to take in all of the old stockholders upon the same basis as that proposed by the reorganization committee, is good evidence that the Speyer syndicate feel disposed to treat the old stockholders liberally, and there is every likelihood that a large number of the stockholders will avail themselves of this opportunity. The only difference between the proposal of the reorganization committee and that of the Speyer syndicate is that in the latter the control of the properties is with Speyer while if the reorganization committee's plan had succeeded the reorganization committee would have been at the helm.

The news from Philadelphia and New York is to the effect that this proposal of Speyer & Co. to take in the stockholders on the same terms as those offered by the reorganization committee had had the effect of disposing effectually of much of the talk of litigation on the part of the stock-holders and that practically the only difficulties which might be encountered were those resulting from litigation over unpaid claims.

Steps have already been taken to secure funds to dispose of all of the claims outstanding against the two street railway companies and it is expected the money will be forthcoming for this purpose early in January.

Summed up the situation now as far as the two Soos are concerned is decidedly the best seen since the slump of the Consolidated and there is every reason for believing that under the management of Speyer & Co. next spring will see every plant owned by the company which is capable of producing profits in full and continuous operation.

OUR NAVY CAUSES TROUBLE.

Heartburnings at Washington Over an Ottawa Despatch Concerning Proposed Warships on the Great Lakes.

Washington, Dec. 30.—An Ottawa despatch containing a statement credited to Under Secretary of State Pope, regarding the presence of warships on the Great Lakes, has been printed here. The American State Department has not been informed up to this moment that the Canadian Government contemplates placing an armed cruiser on the lakes in addition to the few small national vessels now maintained there.

Recently the Canadian Government laid down a couple of revenue cutters for lake service, and although these were better vessels than those heretofore employed the construction was not regarded as violating the treaty. Attention was called to the matter by some of the Congressmen from the Great Lakes section, and a United States naval officer visited the place and examined the vessels under construction, which gave rise to some feeling on the part of the Canadians.

As soon as Congress re-convenes there will be a renewal of the attempt to secure a repeal or modification of that section of the Rush treaty between the United States and Great Britain that limits the use of naval vessels on the lakes.

The activity of Representative William Alden Smith of Michigan, has excited a corresponding move in Canada. He has heard that the Canadian Government is about to enter a formal protest against the location of the proposed United States naval training station on the Great Lakes. Mr. Smith is prepared to renew the attack upon the Rush treaty, holding that it has had a paralyzing and disastrous effect upon the shipbuilding industries of the Great Lakes.

Death Was Accidental.

Hamilton, Dec. 30.—Coroner Griffin finished the inquest on the death of the late Alex. McPherson, who was killed by a street car Saturday. The jurors decided that death was accidental, but that the fatality would have been prevented had the motorman dropped his fender. They recommended that in the future motormen should be instructed not to wait for the fender to work automatically, but to drop it as a first precaution, when such a mishap seemed imminent.

51 Officers and Men Lost.

Paris, Dec. 30.—It is feared that the collier Viennie of the French navy, manned by 51 officers and men, which left Rochefort for Toulon, has been lost. The vessel is nineteen days out, and though in the track of steamers, has not been reported.

May Not Convict.

Hamilton, Dec. 30. — Yesterday morning Mrs. Hattie Waters, charged with aiding in a criminal operation, was remanded till Saturday. The police have little hope of securing a conviction, on account of the fact that no ante-mortem statement was taken.

Explosion Victim Dead.

London, Dec. 30.—Private Thomas Warswick of the R.C.R.I., injured in the boiler explosion at Wolseley barracks on Sunday, died yesterday morning. This is the second death. Warswick's brother, Walter, is still in a serious condition.

Twenty First Victim Dead.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 30.—Gerritt Mottman died yesterday at the United Benevolent Association Hospital from injuries sustained in the Pere Marquette wreck Saturday night. Mottman is the 21st victim.

WHITE LABOR TOO DEAR.

Cape to Cairo Railway, as Described By Sir Percy Girouard, Who Will Finish It In Three Years.

London, Dec. 30.—(C.A.P.)—Sir Percy Girouard says he will carry out his new railway scheme in South Africa in three years. He will require 60,000 natives. White labor is too dear. The Mines Association is supplying 50,000 men. He says Rhodes' scheme of a line from Cape to Cairo was an effective picture, but there was no necessity of joining the northern and the southern by rails, as the White Nile is navigable 1,000 miles below Khartoum.

THE TARIFF COMMISSION.

Sir Robert Herbert Has Accepted the Chairmanship.

London, Dec. 30.—(C.A.P.)—A list of 17 additional members of Joseph Chamberlain's tariff commission, was issued last evening, including representatives of colonial interests, and it was announced that Sir Robert Herbert, formerly Under Secretary of State for the Colonies, and at one time Agent-General for Tasmania, has accepted the chairmanship of the commission.

The list just issued includes Sir John Cockburn, formerly Premier and Chief Secretary of South Australia; Francis Elgar, the well-known naval architect; Sir George Ryder, chairman of the Customs' Commission; Sir Cecil Smith, formerly High Commissioner for Borneo, and Sarawak, and Henry D. Marshall, member of the Council of the Royal Agricultural Society.

The remainder of the list comprises leading representatives of the trade of the United Kingdom.

Entitled to a Return.

The Westminster Gazette says: "Mr. Chamberlain insists that the colonies did not ask us to make any sacrifice. That being so, we are entitled to ask for evidence of any colonial offer which shall give us an equal measure in return, which Mr. Chamberlain inferentially admits we are entitled to."

Bankers Against Joseph.

Herbert Gladstone, speaking at Chester last night, declared that he did not know a single banker of any eminence who had given any adhesion to Chamberlain's policy.

HIS SPURS UPSET HIM.

Emperor Francis Joseph Hurt His Head and Back.

Vienna, Dec. 30.—Reports which reached Vienna yesterday of an accident to Emperor Francis Joseph has created much alarm. It appears that during the Emperor's customary Christmas visit to his daughter, the Archduchess Maria Valeria at Wallse, was ascending a stairway when his spurs became entangled in the carpet. He fell forward, but arose immediately without assistance. The Emperor has returned to Vienna and his doctors say that the injuries sustained by the accident are quite unimportant, some muscles of the back being slightly strained and the forehead bruised. The doctors recommend that he rest for a few days, but they consider no further medical treatment necessary. It has, however, been announced that the audiences fixed by His Majesty for New Year's Eve may be postponed.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O

Conductor Henry's Fall.

Port Arthur, Dec. 30.—A distressing accident occurred yesterday morning on Wabigoon division of the O.P.R. by which Conductor Albert Henry lost his life. He has been running out of Fort William to Ignace, but was transfered to the next division west for the trip, and was in charge of a freight train. At Dinorwick station he had occasion to walk along the train, and in the darkness, it being shortly before 5 o'clock, did not notice a flat car and stepped from the roof of a box car, falling directly between the two cars. One of his legs was severed, and he received other terrible injuries, which caused instant death.

Legislature Has Been Called to Meet on January 14.

REASONS FOR EARLY SESSION

Appropriations, the Premier Says, Are Quite Inadequate to Carry on the Work of the Province—Will Avoid Necessity of Asking the Warrant of the Lieutenant-Governor—Railway Extension.

Toronto, Dec. 30.—At a meeting of the Council held yesterday afternoon Premier Ross and his colleagues decided to call the Legislature together on Thursday, the 14th of January next.

Mr. Ross stated that an early session was rendered necessary by the fact that the appropriation voted by the Legislature would carry the Government only until the close of the year. The small appropriation which was voted for the month of January was quite inadequate to meet the expenses of that month, and supplies must, therefore, be voted by the House in order to avoid the necessity of asking the warrant of the Lieutenant-Governor until a vote of credit could be passed.

The Government contemplate the extension of the North Bay & Temiskaming Railway up to the point at which it is expected to meet the Grand Trunk Pacific, and the survey being now well under way, the House must be asked for legislation in order to call for tenders for the work of construction.

A PECULIAR REQUEST.

Liberal-Conservative Candidate in North Wellington May Exercise Independence.

Arthur, Dec. 30.—The Liberal-Conservatives of North Wellington yesterday met in convention and nominated John McGowan, M.P., for the Commons. He was at his own request granted the right to exercise his independence on all matters that might come up for his consideration in the campaign or in the House of Commons.

Ald. Ames Accepts.

Montreal, Dec. 30.—Ald. Ames has accepted the Liberal-Conservative nomination for the St. Antoine division of Montreal.

Sir Richard Cartwright.

Ottawa, Dec. 30.—Sir Richard Cartwright will not offer himself for re-election in South Oxford, but will seek election in an eastern constituency. The state of his health is given as the reason for the change. Sir Richard is too much crippled by rheumatism to permit him to look after the interests of a constituency so far from Ottawa.

Coleman For Selkirk.

Stonewall, Man., Dec. 30.—W. W. Coleman of this place has been nominated by the Conservatives of Selkirk for the Commons.

Banker Telford Nominated.

Owen Sound Dec. 30.—W. H. Telford, banker, was nominated by the Liberal convention here yesterday afternoon to contest North Grey for the House of Commons. Mr. Telford accepted with reluctance. He has passed the allotted span of life and plainly stated that he feared to face a winter campaign in his present condition of health.

Hit By a Train.

Iroquois, Dec. 30.—About 4 o'clock yesterday morning a teamster named Thos. Karin was found in an exhausted condition and with a leg broken and otherwise injured. He had been struck by a train and thrown into the ditch. He lay there for some time in a semi-conscious condition until able to crawl along the snow and call for help. He had moved about a hundred yards when found. The thermometer was well below zero.

Ten Thousand Affected.

McKeesport, Pa., Dec. 30.—Notices of a wage reduction were yesterday posted at the local plants of the United States Steel Corporation. The cut includes every employe and will graduate down from heads of departments to laborers, the latter receiving but a slight reduction. Ten thousand men are affected, but the reduction will be generally accepted.

Young Corbett Winner.

San Francisco, Dec. 30.—Last night the fight for featherweight championship at 129 pounds, was pulled of at the Mechanics' Pavilion. There was an enormous crowd present. The contestants were Young Corbett and Hanlon, and the latter lasted 10 rounds, when the decision was given to Young Corbett.

Died at Kingston.

Kingston, Dec. 30.—The death took place yesterday morning of Ernest J. Wells, for this session tutor in botany at Queen's University. For three weeks he was a sufferer from typhoid fever. He was gold medalist in 1903 in botany. The deceased, who came from Morristburg, Ont., was only 21 years of age.

Ottawa Without Cars.

Ottawa, Dec. 30.—Ottawa is without a street car service. The combined severe weather accentuated the trouble from anchor ice, and to cap the climax the armature of the auxiliary plant broke last night. It will be several days before the trouble is remedied, and it is not likely that the city will have more than one car on each line.

CANADA IS NOT COMING.

Uncle Sam to Canada: "Either come in or stay out, but don't keep me waiting."—New York World.

As I went up the frontier way
I heard the bleatering people say,
"Our land is wide and richer far
Than all the golden Indies are.
Our fathers' lives are past and spanned,
Our fathers' glorious swords are sheathed,
Then shall we fling away the land
The God of Hosts to them bequeathed?
From sea to sea, to sun and snow,
The answer thundered southward, "No!"

As I stood on the frontier way
I heard the indignant people say
"Who fought and bled to save our rights
At Chateauguay and Queenston Heights?
Who is it 'neath each silent grave
That marks the hill and dots the plain?
The dust of patriots true and brave,
Who, if they lived, would cry again,
'You're welcome as the flowers in May
To Queenston Heights and Chateauguay'."

As I went up the frontier way
I heard the patriot people say,
"No alien flag shall ever wave
Above the hero's honoured grave;
No alien host shall o'er our dead
Each green and grassy mound tread;
No crawling serfs shall wreath of vile
The shelter of our swords from them.
Their names shall never pass away
From Queenston Heights and Chateauguay!"

As I stood on the frontier way
I heard the dauntless people say,
"God loves a patriot people—He
Despises those who won't be free
Shall traitors our proud ensign drag?
Shall we submit to foul and frown?
If they should have the grand old flag
They'd better come and pull it down."
"They're welcome as the flowers in May"—
Roar Queenston Heights and Chateauguay.

THE DARKY'S NEW YEAR SONG

MISTER NEW YEAR, come oriong;
Make a mighty show!
Singin' er de same ole song
Ever'body know:

"Howdy, howdy do, suh;
Happy days ter you, suh!
Lots er money,
Weather sunny,
En de whole sky blue, suh!"

Mister New Year trompin' 'long,
Trompin' crost de snow;
Say he gwine ter right de wrong;
Make de roses grow!

"I TOO WISH FER YOU, SUH!"

"Howdy, howdy do, suh;
Heah's my love ter you, suh!
Give you money,
Milk en honey,
Make dat ole coat new, suh!"

Mister New Year, go yo' ways!
I done had my schoolin';
Seen a lot er New Year days;
I too old fer foolin'!

I too wise fer you, suh,
Wid yo' "Howdy do, suh!"
Talk too cheap;
Go new en reap
Sumthing dem skieg er blue, suh!

NEW YEAR'S IN OMAR'S DAY

It Was Celebrated in the Springtime Nine Centuries Ago.

Now the new year reviving old desires,
The thoughtful soul to solitude retires;
Ah, my beloved, fill the cup that clears
Today of past regret and future fears.

So sang old Omar, the Persian poet, nine centuries ago, and we of today can but echo his thoughts at this New Year's season of resolution and festivity, though kingdoms have risen and fallen, old nations have decayed and new ones sprung up and we live in a country where sentiments of freedom and justice abound, for the human emotions remain much the same whatever the time or clime in which we live, whatever the religious influences which govern us. Of course in the time of Omar in most countries the new year was celebrated in March, that being the beginning of the vernal equinox, and as it is the season when everything in nature is given new birth the ancients probably for this reason considered it a suitable time to begin their year also. Christianity, however, made a distinct break, and finally in the sixteenth century Jan. 1 was settled on by common consent in all continental countries.

These New Year Resolutions.

Every 1st of January that we arrive at is an imaginary milestone in the turnpike track of human life, at once a resting place for thought and meditation and a starting point for fresh exertion in the performance of our journey.

The man who does not at least propose to himself to be better this year than he was last must be either very good or very bad indeed.

And only to propose to be better is something. If nothing else it is an acknowledgment of our need to be so, which is the first step toward amendment.

But, in fact, to propose to oneself to do well is in some sort to do well positively, for there is no such thing as a stationary point in human endeavors. He who is not worse today than he was yesterday is better, and he who is not better is worse.—Charles Lamb.

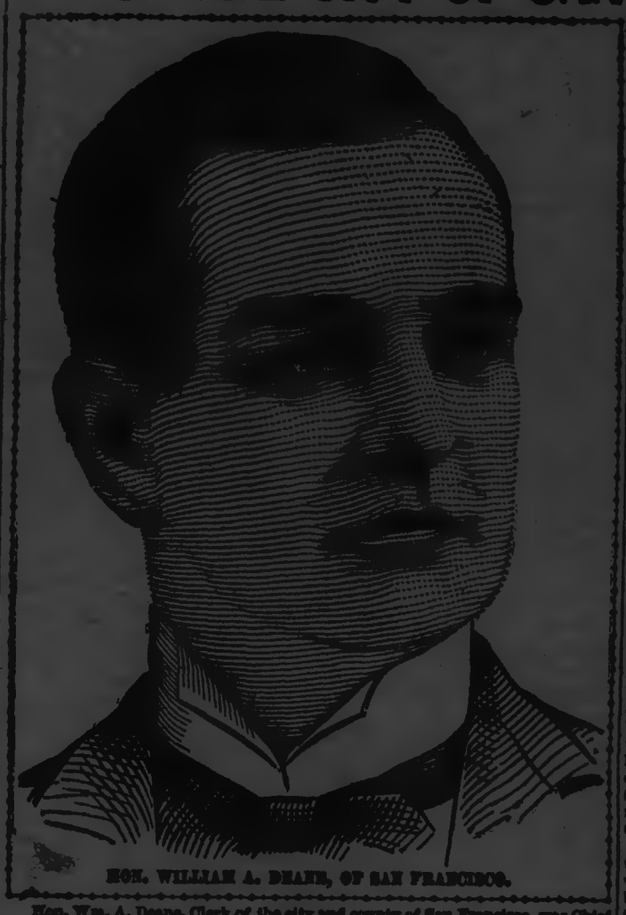
THE POPULAR COUNTY CLERK OF THE CITY OF SAN FRANCISCO.



HON. WILLIAM A. DEANE, OF SAN FRANCISCO.

Hon. Wm. A. Deane, Clerk of the city and county of San Francisco, was Chief Deputy in the office of his predecessor during the latter part of his term. He is a Native Son, having been born and raised in the city of San Francisco, and has for many years been prominently identified with the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, as well as other fraternal organizations. He is an exceptionally popular young man, socially and politically also, as evidenced by the ballots cast at the late election, he having defeated his opponent for the office of County Clerk by nearly 5,000 votes.

In a letter written January 22, 1899, from San Francisco, to Dr. Hartman, Mr. Deane has the following to say of Peruna:

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Gentlemen:—"I would not be without Peruna, as I have found it to be the best remedy for catarrhal complaints that I have ever used. I have tried most all of the so-called catarrh remedies advertised, and can conscientiously say that of all the remedies for catarrhal complaints recommended to me none have been so beneficial as Peruna."—WILLIAM A. DEANE.

CATARRH assumes different phases in different seasons of the year. There is, therefore, four quite well-marked varieties of catarrh. Winter catarrh, spring catarrh, summer catarrh, and autumn catarrh. In each of these varieties different organs seem to be the principal seat of the catarrh.

In the winter the catarrh is more frequent in the head, throat and respiratory organs. In the spring the catarrh seems to chiefly affect the stomach and nervous system. In the summer the bowels suffer the offensest; while in the autumn the liver and kidneys seem to be particularly subject to the ravages of catarrh.

Of course it is not meant by this that catarrh is absolutely confined to these parts of the body during the season to which we have assigned them. Catarrh may attack any organ in any season of the year, but the liabilities are so much greater for catarrh to attack particular organs in certain seasons that these four distinct varieties have become recognized.

Mr. Robert Douglas, Homeopathic Specialist, cor. 6th and F Sts., N. W., Washington, D. C., in a recent letter to the Peruna Medicine Co., of Columbus, O., has the following to say concerning their noted catarrh remedy, Peruna:

"I have been a practising physician for some years, during which time I have administered Peruna to a number of my patients for colds, catarrh and general debility with great benefit to them. I have paid particular attention to its effects, and I have absolute confidence in its curative qualities, and have no hesitation in giving it a most emphatic endorsement."

Hon. Clement M. Hammond is one of the best known newspaper men in New York City. He was for years editor of one of the principal papers in Hartford, Conn., later was prominently connected with the New York Recorder and New York World. He has traveled extensively and is known all over the United States for his talent as a newspaper man. Writing to The Peruna Medicine Co., he says:

Hon. C. M. Hammond

"For about six years I have had trouble every fall and winter with my voice. At times it has extended to my bronchial tubes and lungs. I think all this trouble came from whooping cough, which I had when I was about twelve years old, and which left me with catarrh. Since I have taken Peruna, my voice has been clearer than in over two years, all of which I am willing to testify to." Mr. Hammond's address is "The Arlington," 64 Montague street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Peruna is an internal remedy—a scientific remedy for catarrh. It cures catarrh wherever located. Because last, Peruna gives strength by stopping waste. By saving the tissues it enriches the blood. By cleansing the mucous membranes it preserves the vital forces.

No remedy can possibly supply the place of Peruna. Insist upon having Peruna. Take no other remedy. There is no substitute for this catarrh medicine. Send for a free book on catarrh. Address the Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

AN ADDRESS ON NORTHERN ONTARIO

Given by Mr. J. A. Fife Before George Street Young Men's Guild.

A most interesting meeting of George street Young Men's Guild was held last night in the Sunday School room, when Mr. J. A. Fife, of the Collegiate Institute staff, gave an address on "Northern Ontario, in the course of which many new incidents of his trip were recounted. The audience was deeply interested in the address from which a great deal of information with reference to the newer parts of the Province was gained.

THE Y. M. C. A. BOYS APPRECIATE KINDNESS.

Of the Otonabee Power Company in Furnishing Electric Light Free.

The lights for the out-door hockey rink for the boys of the Y.M.C.A. are being put in position to-day. Through the large-heartedness of the directors of the Otonabee Power Co. the poles for the lights are being supplied and the wiring done at cost, while the company will furnish the light free to the boys during the season. The boys are of course deeply grateful to Mr. W. H. Meldrum and the other gentlemen associated with him in such a practical expression of interest in their welfare. They wish through the Examiner to thank them for their kindness.

TO THE ELECTORS OF GREATER PETERBOROUGH.

Your Votes and Influence are respectfully solicited on behalf of

FRANK ADAMS,

for ALDERMAN for 1904.

MR YELLAND AND THE SCOTTISH CURLERS.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Don't you think, Mr. Editor, that Mr. Yelland was rather hard up for something to say against the council of 1903, when he said that "too much money had been spent in entertaining the Scottish Curlers." I'm an Irishman of the first water, and I think I'll get lots of my own nationality in town, as well as the Scotchmen, to back me up in saying that the visit of the Scotch Curlers was one of the best advertisements the town of Peterborough ever had. It was no ordinary honour conferred on Peterborough to have them come here, and it took a lot of hard work to have Peterborough included in their list of stopping places in their Canadian tour. Besides, it is known to many of our citizens that what they saw and heard of our live town, as they were being shown around our large manufacturing industries and places of public interest, was talked about in other parts of the Dominion where they afterwards visited. And when they returned home to the "old sod" again, didn't the Glasgow and other Scottish papers refer in glowing terms to the reception their curlers got in Peterborough, the enterprise of our people, the flourishing factories we had, and the good openings there were for Scottish capitalists and labourers here. Isn't that worth something? Why, some of those clear-headed Scotch Curlers could tell their people at home more about how Quaker Oats made such good porridge than most of our own townspeople.

Yours truly,

M. C. TOOLEY.

P. S.—Since their visit I have received numerous letters and Scotch papers from Mr. Mark Sanderson, of "Hermitage Park," Leith, one of the stalwart curlers, who never tires speaking about Peterborough and "Should Auld Acquaintance be Forgot?"

"SANTA CLAUS" AT MARK STREET.

Annual Christmas Entertainment Last Night.

Good Programme Rendered by Members of Mark Street Sunday School—A Successful Event.

The annual Christmas entertainment of Mark street Sunday school was held last night in the town hall, fifth ward, and was not only well attended but was a success in every way. The children who took part in the programme, and who were remembered with gifts certainly enjoyed themselves and the parents and friends, of whom there were a great many, enjoyed the evening equally well.

Rev. J. G. Lewis, the pastor of the church was the Chairman, and took opportunity after the opening chorus, by the school, to speak briefly on the work of the Sunday school, and its relations to the church. He expressed his pleasure at seeing such a large number of parents and others present, betokening as it did their interest in the school, and its work. The last year had been a most successful one, and he hoped that during the coming year even greater interest would be manifested, and, as a result a larger degree of success would attend the work of the school. He concluded by wishing them the compliments of the season.

The programme, which was rendered by members of the school, was a very creditable one, particularly so since it had been in course of preparation but a short time. A Christmas Carol, "The Bells," by members of the choir followed the chairman's address, after which recitations were given by Omar Girvin and Maggie Records, after which a musical exercise by the primary class was given. This was an especially pleasing number, and evidenced careful training. Master Clarence Miller recited, after which a dialogue, "The Secret" by Neva Davey and Addie Dixon was heard. Mr. Miller rendered a cornet solo, which was succeeded by a Christmas Carol sung by members of the school. Two recitations by Rex Castles and Hunter Lewis were next on the programme when a humorous dialogue, "Pious," in which W. Hawthorne, C. Dodds and E. Hawthorne participated, was given.

A very pleasing number was a vocal solo given by Miss Maud Titterson. This number elicited warm applause. And after its rendition the singer and her sister, who accompanied her on the organ, were presented with handsome bouquets.

Readings were then given by Miss Martha Murray and Wm. Hooper, which was followed by a chorus by Miss Spier's class. Dewart Lewis was heard in a recitation, followed by a song by three little girls.

Miss Maud Titterson gave a recitation, which proved to be so much appreciated that she had to respond to an encore demanded. A dialogue, "Aunt Katty's Shopping," by Lizzie Hawthorne, F. Noyes, L. Crowe and M. Anderson, and a song, "Santa Claus" ended a most enjoyable programme.

Mr. Harnett, superintendent of the school, made a brief address, thanking the friends of the school for their interest displayed, and expressed the hope that the progress which the school was making would continue and that a deeper interest in the work would be taken by the parents.

Santa Claus then made his appearance to the great delight, of the children, and dispensed the beautiful gifts with which the large tree on the platform was laden, and at the close the younger portion of the audience was treated to candies.

The affair was a most successful one in every way and that it was enjoyed by those present was amply evidenced.

TO THE ELECTORS

Having received nomination as alderman for the Town of Peterborough, I respectfully solicit your votes and influence, and if elected will use my best endeavours to advance the interests of my town. It will be impossible for me to make a personal canvass, but as I have had an experience of five years in the Ashburnham council, I am willing that I should be judged thereby.

Yours truly,

W. J. JOCHNSTON,
321 AYLMER STREET.

TO THE MUNICIPAL ELECTORS

Of Peterborough and Ashburnham

Ladies and Gentlemen,—In deference to the numerous representations made to me since my nomination, I have decided to splace myself at your disposal as a candidate for Alderman for 1904.

While I cannot lay claim to all qualifications which an Alderman should have, such business capacity for the office as I do possess is cheerfully placed at your service. I, therefore, ask your support in the effort to assist in maintaining the position and standing as well as to advance, the welfare of our already progressive city.

As regards the Street Railway By-law, that, I understand, is definitely disposed of—the contract having been signed—and the people are only asked to express an opinion on the subject, and the result can only effect the action of the old council.

In regard to the Street Lighting By-law, if the appeal against the judgment quashing it should not be sustained, and the question be reopened, I shall favour the making of a contract for street lighting, which will be to the best interests of the town, both as regards the quality of light and cost of service.

The union of the municipalities of Peterborough and Ashburnham adds to the responsibility of an Alderman; and the new ward of the town — No. 5 — deserves at the initial stage of our municipal partnership, special attention to its interests, which, if elected, I then propose to give; believing as I do, that to make the union successful, and in the interests of both parties, justice and fair play, irrespective of locality, should be the watchword of every Alderman, irrespective of residence.

As I do not approve of canvassing for votes, I ask the electors to accord me their voluntary support at the polls.

Respectfully yours,

R. HICKS.

Peterborough, December 6th, 1903.

TO THE ELECTORS

of the Town of Peterborough, including Ashburnham, now part of Peterborough:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—Having received nomination as Alderman for our prosperous town, I respectfully solicit your votes and influence.

It will be impossible for me to make a personal canvass, and therefore I wish to state that I am opposed to giving the contract for lighting to the Peterborough Light and Power Co., at $30.00 per lamp as long as the town can get as good lighting for $25.00 per lamp, from the Otonabee Power Co., which has done so much to bring down the price of lighting, and whose tender shows a saving of over $14,000.00 in ten years. I am also opposed to the present street railway by-law, but will support and vote for a good and up-to-date street railway, operated by good business men, but without a bonus, and I will do my best, if elected, to advance the general interests of the prosperous town.

Wishing you all a Happy New Year, I am,

Your obedient servant,

JOHN SAWERS.

30th December, 1903.

TO THE ELECTORS

Of the Joint Municipality of Peterborough.

Having been nominated as Alderman for the Council of 1904, your vote and influence is respectfully solicited.

WM. SCOTT,
Coal Merchant.

TO THE ELECTORS

Of Peterborough and Ashburnham

Ladies and Gentlemen,—As I have been honoured with the nomination for Aldermain for 1904, I have accepted the same, and respectfully solicit your votes and influence.

Should you elect me to assist in the management of your municipal affairs, I will use my best judgment in the united interests of Peterborough and Ashburnham.

I have been a working man all my life and have had a good schooling in economy, which I think can be used to a greater extent in the management of our municipal affairs.

If the question of street lighting is re-opened as the result of the appeal now before the courts, I shall, if elected, give the matter that serious attention which its importance deserves.

Wishing you, ladies and gentlemen, a very Happy New Year, I remain,

Your obedient servant,

JOHN KYLIE.

Peterborough, Dec. 30th, 1903.

Your Vote and Influence

Respectfully Solicited for

M. H. QUINLAN

As Alderman for 1904.

ELECTION OF ALDERMEN

To the Municipal Electors of Peterborough and Ashburnham:

Having been favoured with the nomination for Alderman for our new city, I have consented to become a candidate. I think I can, with confidence, look to you for a continuance of your kind support. My record in the Council for the past four years is before you. Should you do me the honour of electing me for another term, I will continue to aim at the general welfare and progress of the municipality as a whole.

With thanks for your confidence in the past, and wishing all the Compliments of the Season, I remain,

Yours truly,

R. OLINKSCALE.

CHICAGO VISITED BY AN APPALING FIRE.

Hundreds Were Killed in the Iroquois Theatre, Chicago.

Many Slain in the Mad Flight to Escape—Women's Faces and Bodies Trampled Into Pulp—Numbers of the Victims may Never be Identified—Fire Escapes Were Death Traps.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—In a fire in the Iroquois Theatre, the newest, the largest, and, as far as human power could make it, the safest theatre in Chicago, it is estimated that 550 lives were lost in the panic and fire. Estimates of the dead and injured vary. The police account of the dead is 536. The estimate of the newspapers is 562. Besides this there are 55 people missing at midnight, the majority of whom are probably among the dead in the morgue and various undertakers' establishments. Four hundred and six of the dead have been positively identified. Ninety-two persons are known to be injured.

A few of these people were burned to death by fire, many were suffocated by gas and scores were trampled to death in the panic that followed the mad plunge of the frightened audience for the exits. It will be many hours before the number of dead is accurately known and many days before all of them will be identified.

There are bodies lying by the dozens in the undertaking rooms, in the police stations and in the hospitals, from which nearly everything that could reveal their identity to those who knew them best is gone. Their clothing is torn to rags or burned to cinders, and their faces have been trampled into an unrecognizable state by the crowd that fought and trampled them down as they fled for safety.

The fire broke out during the second act of the play "Mr. Blue Beard," the first production in the theatre since its erection. The theatrical company, which was very large, escaped to the street in safety, nearly all of them, however, being compelled to flee into the snow with no clothing but their stage costumes. A few members of the company sustained minor injuries, but none were seriously hurt.

Live Electric Wire Broke.

The accounts of the origin of the fire are conflicting, and none of them certain, but the best reason given is that an electric wire near the lower part of a piece of drop scenery broke and grounded, setting the scenery ablaze. The fire spread rapidly toward the front of the stage, causing the members of the chorus who were engaged in the performance to flee to the wings with screams of terror. The fire itself up to this time was not serious, and possibly could have been checked had not the asbestos curtain failed to work.

As soon as the fire was discovered, Eddie Foy, the comedian of the company, shouted to lower the curtain. It descended about half way and then stuck. The fire was thus given precisely a flue through which a strong draught set to the door, which had been thrown open in the front of the theatre. With a roar and bound the flames shot out through the opening over the heads of the people on the first floor and up to those on the first balcony, caught them and burned them to death.

Explosion of Gas Reservoirs

Immediately following this rush of flames there came an explosion, which lifted the entire roof of the theatre from its walls, shattering the great skylight into fragments. As soon as the flames first appeared beyond the curtain a man in the rear of the hall shouted "Fire, fire," and the entire audience rose as one person and made for the doors. It is believed that the explosion was caused by the flames coming in contact with the gas reservoirs of the theatre, causing them to burst. Will J. Davis, manager of the theatre, said after the catastrophe that if the people had remained in their seats and had not been excited by the cry of fire, not a life would have been lost. This, however, is contradicted by the statements of the firemen, who found the bodies of numbers of persons sitting in their seats, their faces directed toward the stage, as if the performance was still going on. It was the opinion of the firemen that these people were suffocated at once by the flow of gas and fire which came from behind the asbestos curtain.

Thirteen Hundred in Theatre.

As near as can be estimated at the present time, about 1,300 people were in the theatre. Three hundred of these were on the first floor, the balance being in the two upper balconies and in the hallways back of them.

The theatre is modelled after the Opera Comique in Paris, and from the rear of each balcony there are three doors leading out to passageways towards the front of the theatre. Two of these doorways are at the end of the balcony, and one being in the centre. The audience in its rush for the outer air seems to have, for the greater part, chosen to flee to the left entrance and to attempt to make its way down the eastern stairway leading into the lobby of the theatre.

Outside of the people burned and suffocated by gas it was in these two doorways on the first and second balconies that the greatest loss of life occurred. When the firemen entered the building the dead were found stretched in a pile reaching from the head of the stairway at least eight feet from the door, back to a point about five feet in the rear of the door.

This mass of dead bodies in the centre of the doorway reached to within two feet of the top of the passageway. All of the corpses at this point were women and children.

The bodies were in such an inextricable mass and so tightly were they jammed between the sides of the door and walls that it was impossible to lift them one by one and carry them out. The only possible things to do was to seize a limb or some other portion of the body and pull with main strength.

Strong Men Overcome.

Men worked at the task with tears running down their cheeks, and the sobs of the rescuers could be heard even in the hall below, where this awful scene was being enacted.

A number of men were compelled to abandon their task and give it over to others, whose nerves had not yet been shaken.

As one by one the bodies were dragged out of the water-soaked blackened mass of corpses the spectacle became more and more heartrending. There were women whose clothing was torn completely from their bodies above the waists, whose bosoms had been trampled into a pulp and whose faces were marred beyond all power of identification.

There were scores and scores of people whose faces had literally been trampled completely off by the heels of those who rushed over them.

No Escape in the Rear.

The theatre had been constructed but a short time and all its equipment was not yet in place. This was unfortunately the case with a fire-escape in the rear of the building. The small iron balconies to which the ladders were to be attached were up, but the ladders had not yet been constructed. When the panic was at its height a great number of women ran for these fire-escapes only to find as they emerged from the doorway upon the little iron platform that they were 30 to 50 feet from the ground, a fire behind and no method of escape in front. Those who reached the platform first endeavored to hold their footing and to keep back the crowd that pressed upon them from the rear. The effort was utterly useless and in a few moments the iron ledges were jammed with crowds of women, who screamed, fought and tore at each other like maniacs. This lasted but a brief time and the rush from the interior of the building became so violent that many of them were crowded off and fell to the granite pavement below. Others leaped from the platform, fracturing legs and arms, and two were picked up at this point with fractured skulls, having been instantly killed.

Calcium Light Exploded.

It was declared last night by the management of the theatre that the fire was not caused by the grounding of an electric wire or to any defect in equipment of the theatre. It started, they claim, by the explosion of a calcium light apparatus. This blew out the skylights, it is said. This statement is contradicted by many people, who were in the theatre, and who declare before the explosion occurred they saw flames in a narrow streak creeping along the wall near the upper part of the drop curtain.

Bishop to the Rescue.

Among the hundreds of persons who rushed to the rescue when the call of fire was heard on the streets, was Bishop Samuel Fellows, who happened to be passing the theatre. He made his way through the smoke to the top gallery and assisted in carrying out the victims.

"God forbid that I ever again see such a heartrending sight," said the Bishop last night. "I have been in wars and upon the bloody field of battle, but I have never seen anything half so horrible as the sight in that balcony. There was a pile of twisted and bleeding bodies ten feet high."

Lost Track of Dead.

Sheriff Barrett and a score of deputies from his office assisted in carrying out the injured people and in keeping order among the mob of frantic relatives who thronged the streets.

"On all sides were heaps of mangled and charred humanity," said Sheriff Barrett. "We carried out so many injured and dead that at last they grew so numerous that we were unable to keep track of them."

Two Horses Could Not Move It.

One large truck, ordinarily used for conveying freight to depots, was so heavily loaded with dead in front of the theatre that the two large horses attached to it were unable to start, and the police were compelled to assist by tugging at the wheels.

While the police and firemen were carrying out the dead and injured, Will J. Davis, one of the proprietors of the theatre, was indefatigable in his efforts to alleviate all suffering. He said: "There was no need, so far as I know, of a single life being lost. There were over forty exits to the theatre, and if somebody had not screamed 'Fire' I think that all could have reached the street in safety. As far as we have learned, everybody on the first floor except three escaped. The great loss of life was in the first and second balconies. As far as I can estimate, the balconies held between 750 and 800 people. The top balcony was the most crowded, and it is here that the crowd found most difficulty in struggling toward the exits."

CANADIANS WHO PERISHED.

Daughter of Rev. H. P. Welton and Brother of R. H. Cousins.

Many inquiries have already been received by the police department by telegram from outside places, asking for names among the dead and injured. Among the long list of missing has been reported the name of Miss Alice Welton of Toronto, Ont., a teacher in one of the Chicago schools.

Toronto, Dec. 31.—R. H. Cousins, another victim, was a brother of George W. Cousins of 287 East Gerrard street. The deceased had lived in Chicago about 14 years, though he was born in Toronto, where his parents still reside. About five years ago he married Miss Wright of Churchill avenue, this city, and besides her leaves two children to mourn his loss. His brother George leaves this morning to bring home the body. He was informed by telegram from a Chicago undertaker last night of his brother's death.

Miss Welton, whose name is announced as among the missing, is the daughter of Rev. H. P. Welton, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church, who last night also received a telegram from friends in Chicago, saying that Miss Welton had attended the performance and had not been home. Miss Welton is 30 years of age and has been teaching in the Chicago schools for about ten years. Rev. Mr. Welton will go to Chicago to-day.

TOTAL DEATH LIST OVER SIX HUNDRED.

Latest Statement From Chicago on the Great Calamity.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 31. — To-day brought only a legacy of yesterday's monumental calamity, and the prediction that the list of fatalities in the Iroquois will run over six hundred when information is complete. The latest statement of deaths at the various morgues is 554, and it is stated at the various hospitals and hotels to which the injured were removed that of the 357 people who were injured, probably one-third cannot live. The missing to-day were estimated at 314, but it is expected that many of these will be accounted for.

MADE EIGHT DOLLARS JUST BY ADDING A CIPHER

Young Man Alleged to Have Raised a Cheque on the C. G. E. Co.

Police Constable Stewart is in Cobourg executing a warrant for the arrest of C. W. Throop of that town, who is charged with altering a cheque on the Canadian General Electric Company, raising the amount from $1.25 to $9.25.

Throop was employed at the C.G.E. works for a short time. When he was paid off one of his cheques amounted to $1.25. This, it is alleged, he altered to $9.25. This is said to have occurred about two weeks ago. Throop is about 20 years of age.

LIQUOR LAW EQUIVOCATION.

A few days ago Mr. L. F. Clarry barrister of Hastings, wrote a letter to the Globe setting forth his experience of the difficulty of securing convictions for breaches of the License Law and consequently the difficulties of properly enforcing the law. In comment upon this letter the Globe says:—"A letter from Mr. L. F. Clarry, of Hastings, published recently in the Globe, gives a good idea of the difficulties met with in enforcing the laws restrictive of the traffic in alcoholic beverages. In two out of four cases for infractions of the license law, prosecuted by him at Campbellford, he secured convictions and the other two were dismissed. One witness testified on oath that he had been "treated" on Sunday in a room near the hotel bar, but he did not know what liquor he drank; and that he had then treated in turn, but again, though he had paid for and drunk the liquor brought, he could not say what kind of drink was served.

All this is so contrary to the ordinary experience that it is hard to see how such a witness can avoid the suspicion of perjury. If his testimony was not false it was at least so equivocal as to inspire a general disbelief in his credibility. It will be hard to convince the general public that a man who goes to a hotel to drink cannot tell the taste of alcohol when he is swallowing a beverage containing it. The whole history of liquor prosecutions goes to show that many men who would scorn to utter a falsehood in any other connection or for any other purpose will perjure themselves to shield from punishment the men who have sold them intoxicating drink.

"Those who do this incur the risk of prosecution for perjury, which would be a very serious matter for them, whether they are found guilty or not. But even if they are not prosecuted they can never again occupy a good position in the opinion of their respectable neighbours. The Nemesis of contempt and mistrust is sure to overtake them, and they can never outlive it. The finger of scorn will point to them as long as they live, and they will leave behind them a dishonoured name as a sad inheritance to their children. Of course the best way to keep out of this kind of trouble is to avoid participating in breaches of the law; but if one has been guilty of a lapse of this sort, then he should never yield to the temptation to deny on oath his share of the discreditable incident." Those who cavil at the authorities for insufficient enforcement of the law should remember the immense difficulties which confront those charged with the duty of administering the law, and at least give credit for earnest and honest effort.

A WELSHMAN'S IMPRESSIONS

A despatch says that "Principal Reichel, of University College, North Wales, who went with the Mosely Commission to Canada, expresses himself as immensely impressed by what he saw in Canada, especially the Agricultural College at Guelph, which, Mr. Reichel says, is generally admitted to be the highest and most successful institution of the kind on the American continent. The greatest question that interested Reichel, the question fraught with the greatest consequences to the British Empire, was the settlement of northwestern Canada. The question was whether these provinces shall become Americom or stay British." We do not wish to discredit the justness of Principal Reichel's impressions. In regard to national matters he seems to have observed with a loyal eye, but in regard to the future destiny of Canada, his judgment is at fault. There is no question whether "these provinces" shall become American or stay British. Whether or not they remain British, will very largely depend upon the British themselves. At present Canada's loyalty to the Imperial relation is unquestionable, but it will not take many wrenches like that represented by the Alaska boundary decision, to make a decided rift in the lute. Whatever national destiny may be ahead of Canada, that of becoming "American" is the most remote. There is no community of interest, sentiment or aspiration between "Americans" and Canadians, looking to any more decided rapprochment than possibly greater trade intimacy. Of national amalgamation, there is on the part of Canadians no desire or intention. The most that can be definitely asserted in regard to Canada's future status is that if she ever ceases to be "daughter in her mother's house," she will continue to be "mistress in her own."

PITHY PARAGRAPHS COME FROM HAVELOCK.

An Interesting Letter From the Eastern Village—The Municipal Nominations.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Havelock, Dec. 29.

Mr. Geo. Matheson is spending the holidays at his home in town.

Mr. Geo. Swan and Alex. Matheson from the West, are spending the holidays at their respective homes.

Mr. W. H. Cown, of Ottawa, was the guest of his brother Mr. J. Cown, for the past few days.

Mr. Ben. Chambers, of Buffalo, is spending the holidays at home.

Miss May and Minnie Walton, of Toronto, spent Christmas at their home here.

Miss Graham, of Bethany, has been the guest of Mrs. J. W. Bryans, for the past few days.

Master J. Christie is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Campney.

Mr. and Mrs. Deramo, of North Bay, are visiting friends in town.

Miss Welsh, of Springbrook, is the guest of Miss Jessie Copp.

Mr. Wm. Gorman, of Peterborough, spent Christmas in town.

Mr. John White, boilermaker for the C.P.R. here, was badly burned one night last week, caused by a piece of waste getting on fire in his pocket. His hands and right side suffered most. He has been in bed ever since, but is doing as well as could be could be expected under the circumstances.

Master H. Taylor, of Peterborough, is visiting friends in town.

Mr. Arthur. Fennell, of Napanee, was the guest of his brother, Mr. Md. Fennell, for the past few days.

Instead of having an entertainment the Presbyterian Sunday School enjoyed a drive to Norwood and back on Christmas Eve.

The Citizens' Band will be giving a concert in the town hall in the near future.

Mrs. Webb, of Toronto, is spending Christmas week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Graham.

At the nomination meeting in the town hall, Monday evening, Mr. Jos. Knox, Reeve for the past year, was re-elected by acclamation for Reeve for the coming year.

Those running for Councillors will be Mr. Geo. Young, who is the only man in the west ward; and Messrs. Jas. Campney, Fern Haig, Wm. Cooper, Jas. Thompson and Jas. Beaty.

We expect it will be a very exciting election as they are all determined to be elected.

Mr. Jas. Thompson in his speech took up the fire protection question, and if by electing him it will be put through, he certainly will beat the top of the poll, as it is the next thing wanted to light. But we think that a bye-election will be necessary to decide the question.

Those running for Trustees will be Messrs. Wm Matheson, Jas. Black, H. Williams, T F Patterson, I. Barlow.

In Mr. Matheson's speech, as chairman of the School Board, he gave a statement of the financial standing which was very low, considering the staff and quality of the teachers now on. But he thinks that it will be higher next year on account of them asking for higher salaries, and think that the people of the village would gladly raise their salaries before they would lose them.

Mr. F. Chiles is relieving Mr. Cowan as operator for the C.P.R. on account of the latter's illness.

We are glad to hear that Mrs. St. Croix is improving somewhat in her condition.

Miss Lila Carey, of Toronto, is the guest of Miss Bessie Enos.

Miss Emma Reinholt and father are the guest of Mr. and Mrs. I. Barlow, of town.

A very pleasant party was given by Miss Elgin Watson to a number of her friends, Monday evening.

Mrs. Lottie Chiles gave a party to her friends Tuesday evening, when they enjoyed themselves to the utmost.

An "At Home" is to be held in the Town Hall on New Year's night. The young people are looking forward to a very pleasant evening.

The English church is holding their Christmas entertainment next Thursday evening, New Year's Eve. By the way the young people of that congregation are practising it looks as the fair side of a success.

THE CLOSING EXERCISES OF BRIDGENORTH SCHOOL

Presentation to the Popular Teacher was Made.

Bridgenorth school closed their term very happily with a Christmas party.

After the pupils had enjoyed some old fashioned games for an hour, the following programme was given:—

Song. "My Grandfather's Clock" ... by School

Recitation ..... George Coon
" ..... Olive Robinson
" ..... Melville McWilliams
" ..... Wesley Nicholls
" ..... Charlie Avery
" ..... Blanche Mann
" ..... Melville McWilliams
" ..... Ruth Mann

Song. "We are Little Daisies" by six Girls.

Recitation ..... Charlie Avery
" ..... Flora Reid
" ..... Gordon Nicholls
" ..... Ray Robinson

Trio. "Happy Christmas" ... ...

Recitation ..... Charlie Avery
" ..... James Reid
" ..... Vida Robinson

Song ..... Ada Ilsack

Recitation ..... Marcus Fowler
" ..... Walter Jones

Reading ..... Luella Bell

Recitation ..... Roy Robinson
" ..... Florence Forsythe
" ..... Marion Robinson
" ..... Ethelbert Morrison

At the close of the programme their teacher was quite pleasantly surprised by the pupils bringing forward as a Christmas gift a silver mounted pickle cruet and a sugar and cream set, accompanied by the following address:—

Dear Teacher,—We, the pupils of Bridgenorth school, take this opportunity of publicly expressing the respect and esteem which we entertain for you as a teacher and friend. We have had the privilege of receiving instruction from you for the past two years. Let us assure you that the care and patience which you have manifested in imparting knowledge to us is appreciated by all.

The weighty and often times perplexing duties of the teacher, you have discharged in such a manner as to win the affection and confidence of your pupils, and the approval of those who have our best interests at heart. And now at the end of the year we desire to express to you, in some more tangible way than mere words, our appreciation of your services as teacher. Please accept the pickle cruet and china as a slight token of our sincere gratitude and affection, with the prayer that you may long be spared with us to discharge the duties of the profession in which you have been so successful during the past two years. We all join in wishing you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Signed on behalf of the school,

LYMAN BALL,
MAY ROBINSON,
HARRY JOPLING.

Miss McEwen replied briefly thanking the pupils for their kind remembrance and grateful words of appreciation.

Then came the lighting of the Christmas tree and the distribution of Santa's candy bags from it. The event closed by the singing of "Jolly Christmas Kins" in such lusty tones as truly evinced the children's delight in their Christmas party.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Robt. Bowles Died in North Monaghan.

There passed away on Friday, at the family residence, North Monaghan, Mrs. Robert Bowles, and by her death the community has lost a respected resident and her family a beloved wife and mother. Born in the township of Cavan forty-eight years ago she became united in marriage to her now bereaved husband in the year 1876.

For some months Mrs. Bowles has been unwell and although every effort was made to restore her health all was of no avail. She bore up, however, with true Christian fortitude, being always willing to follow the command of Him who knoweth what is for our good. In religion deceased was a Presbyterian, and her great aim was that all her family should so live and walk that when the last call should come she and they would meet were partings are no more. Three daughters and two sons, along with the bereaved husband, mourn the loss of a kind mother and a beloved wife. The sons are William, Albert and Robert Walter, and the daughters, Elizabeth Evelyn, Euphema Alberta and Lota Pearl, all residing at home.

The funeral, which was largely attended by sympathising friends, took place on Sunday to the Little Lake Cemetery. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. G. Yule of Springville, and Rev. Mr. Bennett of Peterborough.

THE MYRTLE CHEESE FACTORY'S SEASON

Was Very Successful at the Annual Meeting—Old Officers Were Re-elected.

A meeting of the patrons of Myrtle Cheese Factory was held on Thursday the 10th inst., in the Town Hall, Enniamore. Mr. Martin Doran acted as chairman.

The secretary's report showed that during the season 8,061,75b lbs. of milk were delivered, from which 198,-816 lbs. of cheese were made. The average price received for the cheese was 10 3-8 cts. per lb. Number of pounds milk required to make one lb. cheese was 10.51. The total value of the cheese made was $20,070.00.

This report, together with that given by Mr. Paul Costello, who filled, so well, the office of salesman for the season, showed that the past has been one of the most successful seasons in the history of the factory.

All the old officers were re-elected for next year as follows:—

President—Mr. Peter Flood.
Salesman and Treasurer — Mr. Paul Costello.
Secretary—Mr. Jno. Flood.
Directors—Messrs. P. Flood, C. O'Reilly and E. Murphy.

An Attack of Pneumonia Warded Off

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold. She complained of pains in the chest and had a bad cough. I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, according to directions, and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail," says James Prendergast, merchant, Annato Bay, Jamaica, West India Islands. The pains in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly warded off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold towards pneumonia. For sale by all druggists.

FRANKVILLE TEACHER WAS REMEMBERED.

By her Pupils at the Closing Exercises

On Tuesday afternoon shortly before the school closed for Christmas vacation, the pupils of Frankville school presented their teacher, Miss Fair, with a handsome glove box and a pretty booklet, entitled "Kindly Light," also the following address:—

Miss Fair:

Dear teacher,—We, the pupils of your entrance class, think we would be very ungrateful, indeed, if we did not acknowledge in some way our sincere thankfulness to you for your good teaching and guidance, also your kind words of encouragement, for it was owing to these sterling features of yours that so large a class came through the late examination successfully, and we are sure that one and all will look back with fond remembrances on these days which we spent together.

We therefore ask you to accept these small presents as a token of the love and respect we have for you as friend and teacher.

Signed by your entrance pupils:

CLARA ATCHISON,
MAMIE WHITFIELD,
VIOLET CAMPBELL,
JANET WATERMAN,
ETHEL ARMSTRONG,
AMY BOWLBY,
BERTHA WHITFIELD,
BRUCE FISHER.

Miss Fair, although it was a complete surprise to her, thanked the pupils for their kind address, and beautiful presents, then wished all the pupils a great Christmas and happy New Year.

SOME HAPPENINGS IN THE NORTHERN TOWN.

Personal Mention and Other Items of Interest at Lakefield.

Mrs. S. Henderson, of Toronto, is visiting her brother, Mr. J. H. Sherin, who is suffering from an attack of appendicitis.

Mr. Robt. English, who has been in Winnipeg for the past summer, is back to the village.

James Campbell, of Toronto, spent Christmas day with his father in the village.

Mr. Fraser, of Toronto, spent Christmas day with his uncle, Dr. D. Fraser, Lakefield.

Wm. Campbell, of Warsaw, spent Christmas in Lakefield with his parents.

Mr. Frank Pullen, who spent a few days at his home in Oakville, is back to the village.

Miss M. Kennedy, of Keene, is home for a few days' visit with her parents in the village.

A meeting of Clementi Lodge, A.F. & A.M., was held in their lodge room Monday evening, Dec. 28th when the installation of officers took place.

On Monday, Dec. 28th, nominations of the Councillors and School Trustees for the Village of Lakefield, for the year 1904, were held. The following persons were nominated:

Reeve—Mr. J. F. Lillicrap, elected by acclamation.

Councillors—Messrs. A. J. Kidd, H. A. Tanner, F. J. Burgess, Robt. Lennox, Dr. W. A. Baker.

The latter having since handed in his resignation, the first four named above are the councillors for the year 1904.

Messrs. J. W. Stuart and Dr. D. Fraser were elected by acclamation as School Trustees.

The formalities of the nominations being over, the Village Clerk, Mr. Wes. Sherin, was voted to the chair, and called upon the members of the old council to give an account of their stewardship for the past year.

The Reeve, Mr. H. G. Fitzgerald, being absent, the first one called upon was the Chairman of the Finance Committee, Mr. H. A. Tanner, who made some remarks concerning the finances of the village. He stated that he was pleased to be able to report a sound condition of the village funds, and that the year was ended with a comfortable balance on hand after discharging all due debts and making provision for payment of county rate for this year as well as last year. He stated that not much money had been expended on the village streets, but the council felt plank walks were a thing of the past, and that the time was not opportune for cement walks, owing to the high price of cement, and the diversity of opinion in regard to methods adopted in laying of walks.

Mr. T. J. Burgess also spoke of his department of work, namely, the Street and Sidewalk Committee.

The local hockey team expects to meet the T.A.A. boys in their first league match of the season on January 4th, in Lakefield. The boys are going to give the visiting team a run for honours, just the same.

The Methodist Sunday School Christmas entertainment, which was held in the church on Christmas night, was much enjoyed by the large number who turned out to see the little ones perform. The programme consisted of songs, recitations, dialogues, etc., also a military drill conducted by Mr. R. Brevender. All of which were much appreciated by the audience.

OBITUARY.

Death of William Gifford at the Age of 99 years 9 Months.

On Thursday, December 24th, Wm. Gifford, died at his home, lot 6, con. 2, Enniamore, at the age of 99 years and nine months. The late Mr. Gifford has been a very healthy man, and his death was due to old age. He had been a resident of Enniamore for 52 years, and during the half century has seen many changes.

He was born in the town of Burton, in Westmoreland county, England, in March, 1804, and came to Canada in early life, and settled in Dannville, Que., with his three brothers, Jas., David and John. He removed to Enniamore 52 years ago, and remained there ever since. His wife died three years ago. Four sons survive him, James and Thomas of Montreal, William and Lawrence at home. Five children have died.

The funeral was held on Saturday from St. Martin's church to the Chemong Lake cemetery.

Cannot do Without it.

Once Dr. Chase's Ointment becomes known, it is indispensable in the home because of the scores of ways in which it can be used. While this ointment is best known as a positive cure for eczema, salt rheum, itching piles, and the most torturing diseases of the skin, it is also unsurpassed as a treatment for chafed, irritated skin, pimples, blackheads, poisoned skin, scalds, burns and sores of every description.

DRIFTING INTO WAR

Situation at This Moment is Unbearable to the Japanese.

DESPERATE; NOT HOPELESS

Fast Developed at Council That No Time Limit Has Been Set For Russia's Reply to Japan's Note—Final Preliminaries For Placing the Country on a War Footing Taken By Japan.

Berlin, Dec. 31.—The Lokal Anzeiger, without reserve, says: "The Japanese Government has informed the representatives of the powers at Tokio that the situation at this moment is unbearable, and that Japan must strike if Russia does not accept the propositions Japan has submitted, as Japan can no longer wait for a final decision."

Paris, Dec. 31.—It is learned in diplomatic circles that the Japanese Government has informed the foreign diplomats that the situation with respect to Russia is desperate, but not hopeless. It is believed this information was communicated to the French Government for presentation at St. Petersburg.

No Time Limit Set.

Yokohama, Dec. 31.—At an extraordinary meeting of the Privy Council yesterday the fact was developed that no time limit had been set for Russia's reply to the last official note from the Japanese Government. A strong opposition is now publicly manifested to the Cabinet, owing to the dilatory tactics they are pursuing.

The latest ordinance announced invests the commander of Formosa with full authority to act in case war is declared.

Demands Reduction of Fleet.

London, Dec. 31.—The Daily Mirror asserts that Japan's note to Russia demands a material guarantee of honest intentions with regard to Corea by a reduction of the Russian fleet in far eastern waters to half its present strength.

Pessimistic Editorials.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 31.—The foreign despatches received here Tuesday afternoon were reflected yesterday in more pessimistic editorials. The Novoe Vremya begins its leader with "There is no war to-day. To-morrow there may be war."

War Will Come.

Washington, Dec. 31.—The Japanese Minister yesterday said: "You ask me if I think war is inevitable. I can only say that Japan is waiting the arrival of the Russian reply to her last note. Japan will wait as long as circumstances seem to justify, but not longer."

Want Another Million Pounds.

New York, Dec. 31.—Negotiations by cable are in progress between the Russian Government and the Schwarzschild and Sulsberger Company of this city for about 1,000,000 pounds of mess meat for immediate shipment to Port Arthur.

HESITATING SPAIN.

Would Like to Have Alliance With Some Nation.

London, Dec. 31.—The correspondent of The Times at Madrid says the political year in Spain ends in profound pessimism. Maura has been entrusted with the Premiership less to secure the passage of the naval bill than to make another attempt to arrest the progress of Republicanism. The rebuilding of the fleet is generally regarded as subordinate to establishing a consistent foreign policy, but Spain is in doubt whither to turn, and is hesitating between Britain and France. The majority of the leaders urge an alliance with both. The Correspondence de Espana says: "It would be foolish to try to build a fleet. No nation is likely to be attracted to an alliance by the fleet of seven ships which Spain may have three years hence. If Premier Maura's bill carries we should fortify Ceuta and other places, and then we would have something to ally we could make use of."

May Be a Wreck Victim.

Windsor, Dec. 31.—Capt. Frank Crapp of Walkerville has been missing since last Thursday, and although the police of Milwaukee have made every effort to find him no trace has been found, and the latest theory is that he was a victim of the Pere Marquette wreck near Grand Rapids Saturday night.

Fire at Lucknow.

Lucknow, Dec. 31.—The shop on Campbell street, Lucknow, owned by Mrs. George Graham, Goderich, and occupied by A. Ross, harnessmaker, was totally destroyed by fire early yesterday morning. Cause unknown. Loss of Mr. Ross on stock, $1,500; insurance, $500. Loss on building covered by insurance.

Fire in St. Catharines.

St. Catharines, Dec. 31.—A fire occurred early yesterday morning at the home of J. R. Long of The Journal. The origin of the fire was either an overheated stove or the exploding of an oil lamp. Damage was done to the extent of $800.

Canada Should be Consulted.

London, Dec. 31.—Richard Haldane, M.P., says that if Canada is to remain in the Empire she cannot have the power to make her own treaties, but Canada should be consulted.

Remanded Till Jan 5.

Welland, Dec. 31.—James Steel was remanded till Jan. 5.

Note Your Weight.

By noting your increase in weight while using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food you can prove for a certainty that new firm flesh and tissue is being added to the body. This is the surest test you can apply to any treatment and proves the superiority of this great restorative prescription of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous Receipt Book author.

BRIDES BEREAVED.

Two Brothers on Way to Be Married Injured—Latter Can Bind and Other May Not Recover.

Arnprior, Dec. 31.—While Alexander and George Drummond were on their way to be married yesterday afternoon to two young women near here their horses took fright at the eastbound Canada Atlantic train and became unmanageable, dashing into the engine. The brothers were fearfully injured. They were taken to the Ottawa General Hospital and may die.

One of Them Dead.

Ottawa, Dec. 31.—Alex. Drummond, who was injured in an accident on the C. A. Railway at Arnprior yesterday morning, died yesterday afternoon in the hospital. His head was frightfully crushed. His brother George, also injured, was thought at first only to have suffered a slight scalp wound, but later an examination revealed that a piece of bone was pressing on the skull. An operation was performed, and, while he has a chance for recovery, his case is serious. The men were driving a team which became frightened by the train and ran into it.

Boy Burned to Death.

Galt, Dec. 31.—Robert Easton, son of John Easton, Glenmorris, was burned to death yesterday morning. The boy was left alone in the house while his mother went to the barn to do the milking. On her return she found the lad wrapped in flames. Before she could extinguish the boy's clothing he was burned to a crisp. It is thought that the clothing caught fire from a stove in the room.

THERE IS A WAY OUT OF IT.

Catarrh, the Offensive and Dangerous Disease, can be Cured.

Catarrh is a disease that afflicts a majority of the people of the United States. It comes without warning, and from its offensive nature causes intense suffering and humiliation. Its complications are often dangerous and fatal, dyspepsia, bronchitis and consumption frequently resulting, if catarrh is allowed to run its course unchecked.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets have done more good and effected more cures among catarrh sufferers than any known remedy. They never fail to cure even the most aggravated cases where their use is adhered to. They thoroughly renovate the system and cleanse it of all impurities. Under their influence all catarrhal poisons are thrown off and the cure is complete and permanent.

A prominent lawyer and public speaker of Pittsburg, says: "I have been troubled with catarrh of the head and throat for 12 years. In this climate it seems impossible to get rid of it. The continual dropping of mucous from the nose into the throat causes irritation and hoarseness, seriously interfering with my public speaking. It took me an hour or more of coughing, gagging, expectorating and sneezing every morning before I could settle down to work, and this condition gradually brought on catarrh of the stomach, causing loss of appetite, poor digestion and a foul breath, which annoyed me exceedingly. My physician advised me to try Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and I took them for two months and was astonished to find how quickly they cured my head, throat and stomach, and I have no hesitation in recommending them. They are not only pleasant to take, but they seem to get at the very root of the trouble, because since using them I have had no trace of catarrh."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box. They have done so much good and the demand for them is so great that no druggist ever fails to keep them in stock, although there are other remedies which yield him a greater profit. Druggists know, however, that they would be making a great mistake and endangering their business to be without Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

MORGAN DOWNED BY ROCKEFELLER.

Standard Oil Said to Now Control U.S. Steel Corporation.

New York, Dec. 31.—Control of the United States Steel Corporation, the greatest industrial concern in the world, is now completely and absolutely vested in the Rockefeller group of capitalists, and Henry Clay Frick, the enemy of Andrew Carnegie, says The World. John D. Rockefeller and Mr. Frick have fully worked out their plans. These provide for the complete elimination of the Morgan-Perkins-Schwab-Carnegie parties from active leadership in the affairs of the Steel Corporation.

Standard Oil methods are hereafter to be employed. The first to feel this will be the men who are drawing salaries of from $12,000 to $25,000 a year. These employes must either stand for a reduction in salary or get out.

Control of the Steel Corporation was accomplished quietly. The alliance of Frick with Rockefeller is said to be of recent origin.

The ultimate purpose is to put the Steel Corporation in the same class of conservative management as the Standard Oil Company, and to attain that end none of the necessary surgical operations in finance will be spared.

MR. BLAIR'S VALEDICTORY.

Late Minister of Railway Gives Reasons For Retiring.

Ottawa, Dec. 31.—Hon. A. G. Blair has sent a letter to the chairman of the Liberal Executive Committee at St. John, N. B., in which he announces his retirement from political life and his reasons therefore. He states that he intimated to the Prime Minister his intention to resign a month before the last session of Parliament closed, and recently was tendered, and accepted, the Chairmanship of the Railway Commission.

Desire Pillage of Jews.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 30.—The correspondent of a Russian news agency at Kishineff, Bessarabia, telegraphs a denial of the statement that the Jewish population is being pillaged by the Russians.

Prefer to Pay in Full.

Toronto, Dec. 30.—The recent sale of timber limits has already brought in $1,800,000 cash, the lumbermen not all availing themselves of the terms of purchase, many preferring to pay in full.

LOSS TO THE CAUSE

Tributes to Memory of the Late Member for North Oxford.

MR. PATTULLO'S LAST LETTER

Telegrams of Regret From Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, M.P., and Henry Chaplin, M.P.—"His Speeches Were Most Able, Eloquent, Patriotic, Full of Argument, Humor and Instruction"—Times' Tribute.

London, Dec. 31.—(C. A. P.)—The Tariff Reform League had made many dates for Andrew Pattullo, and when his nephew left him Tuesday he was in excellent spirits.

Right Hon. Jesse Collings, M. P., has telegraphed the Canadian Associated Press, expressing great regret at this sad and severe loss to Canada and the mother country. He refers to the speechs of Mr. Pattullo as "most able, eloquent, patriotic, full of argument, humor and instruction."

The late member for North Oxford left a letter of three words, addressed to his nephew:

"Forgive me, George. A. P."

Henry Chaplin, M. P., has telegraphed to the Canadian Associated Press saying that Andrew Pattullo's death is greatly regretted by the tariff reformers, and will be a great loss to a cause which he so ably supported while here.

Pattullo an Able Speecher.

The Times, refering to the late Andrew Pattullo, M.P.P., says he was a very able speaker, and that one of his chief claims to the gratitude of his fellow citizens was his formation of the Ontario Good Roads' Association.

Is To Be Denied.

Woodstock, Dec. 31.—It is denied that Mrs. Pattullo committed suicide, as did her son. The report gained currency through a cable despatch.

THE FISCAL FIGHT.

Canada Will Not Lessen Preference Nor Lower Manufacturers' Tariff—Free Trade is a Dream.

London, Dec. 31.—(C. A. P.)—The News says that those who think it possible to establish a further preference with Canada should study Geo. Drummond's advocacy of raising a barrier and also the report of the United States Consul at London, Ontario, to his Government, stating that no matter what economic revolutions occur in the British Empire, Canada will not lessen the preferential duties in favor of the Motherland nor lower the tariff on Manufactured goods.

Free Trade is a Dream.

Charles Booth, a prominent member of the fiscal commission has an article on fiscal reform in the current National Review. He objects to any revision of the trade within the Empire, and wishes some degree of protection for home production with a gradual modification of excessive obstruction to international trade. He characterises free trade within the Empire as a dream and proposes as a remedy a uniform inter-Imperial 5 per cent. preference.

The Monterey Wreck.

The Board of Trade report just issued contains the statement urged before the Monterey wreck court that it be represented to the French Government as most desirable that a gun be fired as soon as the fog begins and firing continued until the siren sounded. The sounding should commence as soon as possible.

The Australian Elections.

The final detailed result of the Australian elections to the Senate shows Ministerialists 5, Opposition 4, labor 10, House representatives 1, Ministerialists 30, Opposition 26, labor 12.

Another Chance For Canada.

Ottawa, Dec. 31.—The Department of Trade and Commerce is in receipt of a communication from a large importing firm in Wellington, New Zealand, in which they state that the new tariff bill, giving a preference to British or colonial goods, will affect to a very large extent their importations heretofore received from the United States.

Regarded Unfavorably.

Vienna, Dec. 31.—The proposition of the Jews to induce foreign countries to make representations to the Russian Government, calling upon it to prevent a repetition of the Kishineff massacres, is regarded unfavorably here.

Women in This Cashel Case.

Ottawa, Dec. 31.—The trial begins in Calgary to-day of John Cashel for assisting in the escape of his brother Ernest, who was under sentence of death for murder. There is a woman in the case.

In to the Asiatics.

Pretoria, Dec. 31.—After three days' debate in the Legislative Council a motion in favor of the introduction of Asiatic labor in South Africa was carried by a vote of 22 to 4.

To Investigate Steel Electric Process.

Ottawa, Dec. 31.—Thomas Cote, assistant census commissioner, will go along with the commission which goes to Europe to investigate the electro process on making of steel.

Wayward Son of Good Man.

Windsor, Dec. 31.—Edward Slaughter, the 23-year-old colored man, accused of the murder of John Huddens on Oct. 16, is the son of a Methodist clergyman of Indianapolis.

The Evidence You Value.

By word of mouth from friend to friend Dr. Chase's Ointment has received more unsolicited recommendation than probably any medicine you can mention. The fact that it is an absolute cure for piles has put it in a class all by itself as a preparation of inestimable value and people recommend it knowing that it is a certain cure.

Park Street Church.

A series of evangelistic services will commence Sunday next at the Park street Baptist church. The Rev. T. T. Shields, of Hamilton, a clever and successful evangelist, will be in charge. His grasp of the Old Testament is phenomenal. He is a preacher of unusual style, frequently using allegories, which are very effective. It has been said, "His is the preaching of a Bunyon, with all the sanctified imagination of the old Puritan." Peterborough is privileged to have his services for two weeks.

An Acknowledgment.

The superintendent of Dr. Barnardo's Home acknowledges with thanks the following Christmas gifts: Mr. Dubbin, $5.00; Mr. Stock, $5.00, bag of flour, 500 cents for the children; Mr. J. J. TEA AND CONCERT BY THE MISSION BAND.

Of the Murray Street Church Held on Tuesday Night with a Good Attendance.

The Mission Band in connection with the Murray street Baptist church held their annual tea and concert in the school room on Tuesday evening last. The special feature of the evening was the Christmas tree, which was lighted up with candles of various hues, and also prettily decorated with little fancy bags in which each member had enclosed his or her Christmas offering.

After tea had been served the following programme was given:—

Instrumental solo... ... ...Mr. Atkins
Recitation ....Gladys Yelland
Recitation ... ...Ada Kitchen
Song .... Budd Miller
Recitation ....A. Armstrong
Recitation... .... Mary Evans

Recitation ... ...Mr. Lee

The large audience heartily appreciated the excellent programme.

The offering amounted to $6.90. The Mission Band is certainly to be congratulated on the excellent entertainment.

SUNDAY SCHOOL GAVE A GOOD ENTERTAINMENT.

A Pleasant Affair in St. Andrews S. S. Room Last Night—The Programme.

The senior classes of St. Andrew's Sunday school, held their annual tea and entertainment in the Sunday school room last night, and in spite of counter attractions, were greeted by a large attendance, who went away highly delighted with the evening's programme. The room was very prettily decorated with flags, bunting and evergreens, which gave the place a look of freshness. The tea began at six o'clock, and it was fully two hours before all had been served. Good as was the tea, the programme was even more appreciated. The latter was excellently arranged, and the individual numbers were much enjoyed. Several numbers were encored, while all were very heartily received. The programme was as follows:

Hoop drill... ...Miss VanEvery's class
Song... ... ...Mary Potter
Recitation... ... ...Adeline Potter
Dialogue... ... ...Mr. Girrard's class

Rev. J. G. Potter fulfilled the duties of chairman in an excellent manner and congratulated the Sunday school on the success of the affair.

MISS ETHEL WRIGHTON MARRIED YESTERDAY

To Mr. B. H. Brooks of Dayton, Ohio—Ceremony Performed by Rev. J. P. Wilson.

The wedding of Miss Ethel Valentine Wrighton to Mr. Burton Hotchkiss Brooks, M.E., of Dayton, Ohio, took place yesterday evening at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Wm. H. Wrighton, 196 McDonel street, town, the celebrant being Rev. J. P. Wilson, pastor of the George strast church. The event was a very elaborate affair and the house was artistically decorated with smilax, Christmas holly and cut flowers. Miss Georgie Smith, town, attended the bride, while Mr. Walter Brooks, brother of the groom fulfilled the duties of best man.

The bride was charmingly attired in a gown of white satin charmeuse, trimmed with accordeon pleating of chiffon and silk lace. She carried a lovely bouquet of white roses and wore a sun-burst of pearls and diamonds, the gift of the groom. The bridesmaid's gown was of pale green silk voile over cream taffetta, trimmed with cluny lace. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and wore a beautiful pearl pendant, the gift of the groomsman.

During the ceremony Mrs. Ralph Ross, of Pembrooke, and sister of the bride, played Mendlesthorn's wedding march, while afterwards a very pretty wedding dejeuner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Brooks left on the 9 o'clock train for the West and after their honeymoon will reside in Dayton, Ohio. The groom is the general superintendent and consulting engineer of the Home Telephone Company of Dayton.

The display of wedding presents is extremely pretty, evidencing the popularity of the contracting parties.

Among the many invited guests were: Mrs. and the Misses Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Grubbe, Mr. and Mrs. McEwan, Mr. T. Fortye, The Misses Burns, Miss Clara Flood, Dr. McFall, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Cox, Mr. Dixon Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Cameron, Mr. Walter Smythe, Mrs. and Miss Hall, Rev. and Mrs. Edmison, Rev. Mrs. Wilson, Hon. and Mrs. J. R. Stratton, Miss Clementi, Mr. and Mrs. Wilgar, Miss Maud Clarke, Mr. Harry Grubbe, Mr. Eustace Grubbe, Mr. and Mrs. Gould, Mr. Oakley, Mr. H Edmison and Mr. Mahon.

AN END THE YEAR WEDDING.

Miss Ethel Gertrude Clarke was Mar to mr. David W. Mosher.

At her home, 191 Brock street, the residence of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Lowery, a very pretty, but quiet wedding took place at 2 o'clock, Dec. 30th, when Mr. David W. Mosher, of Springbrook, Ont., and Miss Ethel Gertrude Clarke were united in matrimony in the presence of a large company of relatives and friends.

The ceremony was conducted by Rev. J. Bastow, M.A., assisted by Rev. W. H. Clarke, a cousin of the bride. The bridesmaid was Miss Warde, of Belleville, a cousin of the bride, and the groom was assisted by Mr. E. G. Clarke, of town.

The house was prettily decorated with holly and evergreens brightened by cut flowers, and the ceremony took place under a large bell of holly and mistletoe. After the ceremony a delightful wedding dinner was served.

Amongst many handsome gifts to the bride was a choice tea set of china, given by the teachers and officers of Murray street Baptist Sunday school, where the bride was a prominent worker.

The best wishes of a host of friends will follow the happy pair to their new home at Springbrook for which place they left on the C.P.R. evening train.

A PRETTY WEDDING.

Pleasing Ceremony Performed Yesterday Afternoon at Residence of Mr. D. Thornton.

A pleasant wedding was solemnized yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mr. David Thornton, 344 Aylmer street, when his eldest daughter, Victoria, was married to Mr. John Henry of Peterborough, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. G. Potter.

The bride's dress was made of stole grey voile trimmed with chiffon and applique, while her travelling suit was made of dark green cloth, with a velvet hat to match.

After a sumptuous wedding supper the young couple left on the 5.30 G.T.R. train for points west.

THE OLD YEAR AND THE NEW.

To-night at midnight the bells will toll the death of the old and herald the birth of the new year. We, in Peterborough, can look back with general satisfaction upon a prosperous and progressive twelve-month. The people have all round enjoyed a very prosperous year. Employment has been abundant with good wages. Our merchants have flourished exceedingly, while our industrial establishments have been profitably busy. The public health has been on the whole good, and while death has invaded and darkened many of our homes no great epidemic or calamity has visited us, and we have every reason to regard last year and its benefits with gratitude, and to look forward with hopeful hearts to another year of prosperity and happiness. With a bright past and an inviting future, it is with encouraging warrant that the Examiner can send down with the town generally — Greater Peterborough — and its many readers a

"HAPPY NEW YEAR!"

HYPOCRISY.

The Opposition newspapers, bound to find fault with everything the Ontario Government does, are now shrieking denunciation because a session is brought on while election petitions against Liberal supporters of the Government are pending. Whose fault is it that these election petitions are not disposed of long ago?

The elections protested took place as early as January 7th, a year ago, and it is due to the delay brought about by the Conservatives themselves that the trials were not held long ago. Now they have the hypocritical effrontery to claim that the summoning of the House is a "cowper time for the House to meet and if the Conservatives had not procured the holding over of the election trials as a "bluff," they might have been already decided. A year lacking a few days has elapsed since the elections, now under protest, were held, and in any civil cause, in anything except a political trial, where delay has been obtained for effect, trial and decision would have been reached long ago. If the election protests, the Opposition are now wailing over, had been well founded, if their had been evidence to support the charges upon which they were based, why have the Opposition sought to delay the trial of these petitions unless to have something to find fault with? Could hypocrisy go further?

THE LATE ANDREW PATULLO.

The tragic death of Mr. Andrew Patullo removes one of Premier Ross' ablest supporters, and one of the most brilliant and forceful orators in the Legislature. Not only is the death of Mr. Patullo a loss to his chief, and his party, but a distinct loss to the higher elements of honourable public life. As an editor, as an orator, as a big and broad-minded public man, always on the side of popular right, always energetic and able in his advocacy of public interests, his loss is, speaking generally, irremediable. Hundreds who heard him speak in the opera house, Peterborough, two years ago, can bear testimony to his ready eloquence, to the lucidity of his argument, and the deep fund of information from which he drew his facts. Andrew Patullo showed the possession of unusual abilities as a public man, and all who knew him will agree that his untimely taking off closed not only a useful career, but a career that under favouring circumstances would have ended in enranking him with the foremost publicists of Canada.

NEW PRIEST GOES TO TROUT CREEK.

MR. BATTEN CONFIDENT.

He is in the Field as an Aldermanic Candidate.

Mr. Jos. Batten is again a candidate for Alderman, and he states that this is his fourth year, that his record is before the people and he still believes he has their confidence. He claims that he has done his best to advance the town's interests, and that he deserves some degree of credit for the marked improvements he has made in the town buildings. His experience at the Council Board, his practical knowledge of the town's needs, conjoined with his interest in the progress of the town and with his earnest desire for its progress justify, he thinks, a renewal of public confidence.

Too Late For Xmas

Brass Goods and Art Noveau Metal Goods arrived too late for Christmas, and as we do not carry goods from one season to another, we will clear them out this week at such reductions as to ensure a ready sale. These Brass Goods consist of Brass Mirrors, Brass Clocks, Brass Candleabras, Brass Candlesticks, Brass Sconce (being candlesticks and mirrors combined), Brass Ink Stands, Brass Ash Trays and many other articles too numerous to mention. See them in our south window. The price will tell and everybody will tell the price.

Our Christmas sale of Art Novelties in the line of Framed Pictures has been one of the most appreciated lines we carried this season. Our customers showed their appreciation in the most striking manner possible and that was by securing their favourites. We have a few left and only a few splendid subjects and most artistically framed. These we have decided to clear out at substantial reductions this week. To quote prices would be out of the question. You will have to see the merit of the subjects offered and learn the price to appreciate their value. We would like to have you call on us and be convinced that our pictures are works of art and our prices are artless.

GREAT JANUARY DISCOUNT SALE

for January, 1904, we have decided to inaugurate a Genuine Discount Sale, a Sale without a parallel in this town—not few items picked out here and there and laid out as baits, as done by some stores, but a genuine discount sale in which everything, positively everything, in our immense store full of goods will be reduced.

We intend to make this a semi-annual event and a sale that Peterborough citizens will look forward to with pleasant recollections of past purchases.

Your appreciation of our efforts to give you better qualities at the same prices and the same qualities at lower prices than elsewhere enables us to make very liberal reduction for the month of January, and anyone requiring anything in the Dry Goods line should take advantage of these wonderful reductions. Don't hesitate because you have not been a regular customer here. We extend this offer to everything. Come and share in these genuine reductions. When you see the qualities we give at these very low prices, you will be a regular customer here.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 2ND

This sale will open Saturday, January 2nd and continue for the month of January. Space will not permit us to give an itemized list. Come and see genuine liberal reductions all over the store.

SUNDAY SCHOOL GAVE AN ENTERTAINMENT.

Christian Scientists' Concert was Largely Patronized.

The annual Sunday School entertainment in connection with the First Church of Christ Scientist, Aylmer street, was held last Tuesday, when there was present a large and appreciative audience. The evening's entertainment consisted mainly in a long programme of vocal and instrumental selections as well as recitations, all of which were loudly applauded by the audience. The chief items on the programme were the singing and playing of Miss MacMaster, of Toronto, who was repeatedly encored.

A VERY PRETTY HOME WEDDING

Was Celebrated on Wednesday Evening When Miss Nellie Miller Became Mrs. Ernest Ruth.

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Wednesday at 6.30 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Miller, 167 Aylmer street, being the marriage of their eldest daughter, Nellie, to Mr. Ernest Ruth of Toronto.

The bride was assisted by her sister, Maud, while Mr. George Blake of Toronto, acted as groomsman. Miss Marjory Latimer was the little flower girl.

The bride entered the parlour, which was very prettily decorated with evergreens, holly and white bells, on the arm of her father, to the strains of the wedding march played by her sister, Miss Emily.

The bride looked very pretty in her dress of white silk sublime with veil and orange blossoms, carrying a bouquet of white carnations and smilax. The bridesmaid wore a white silk dress and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. The flower girl looked very sweet in her dress of white organdie over pink silk, and carrying the wedding ring in a basket of flowers.

After the ceremony the guests sat down to a sumptuous repast.

The bride's travelling suit was blue ladies' cloth, with hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruth left on the nine o'clock train for Port Hope and Toronto, amid showers of rice and best wishes.

Vote for W. J. Johnston, as Alderman—5 years experience, level-headed, moderate and capable.

MR. STUART WILL BUY THE RAILWAY

Providing the Town Stands by its Contract.

Statement Made by the Solicitor to this Effect—Will take over Peterborough Radial Railway Franchise.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir, — The letter of the Otonabee Power Company, published in your issue of last night, makes it necessary for me to repeat what I said on Tuesday.

I am authorized to state that Mr. Stuart is prepared to take over the railway franchise granted to the Radial Railway Company, and will build and operate the railway under the charter of that company, provided the ratepayers vote in favour of the bylaws next Monday and the council carry out their wishes.

It is true that the Radial Railway Company is composed of the Dickson Company and Mr. Bradburn, as stated by the Otonabee Power Company last night.

It is also true, as sworn to by Mr. Shook, Mr. Bradburn, and myself, that Mr. Stuart has no stock in the Peterborough Radial Railway Company.

Further, if the bylaws are defeated on Monday, it is also true that Mr. Stuart will never have any interest in the railway project, so far as we can now tell.

On the other hand, the Dickson Company and Mr. Bradburn state publicly, as shown by their letter published in this paper, that they have agreed to transfer their charter, capital stock, franchise, and all their railway assets to Mr. Stuart, and Mr. Stuart has authorized the statement to be made in the most public and emphatic manner, that he is prepared to carry out to the letter the promises made by himself and Senator Cox to the council of 1903.

In any event, the ratepayers may safely vote for the bylaws, and trust next year's council to safeguard the interests of the town when the contracts are being signed.

Mr. Stuart has lived up to everything he ever promised the town in the handsomest possible way. He has proved himself a man of his word, to the fullest possible extent. Surely it is good policy to anchor him down in Peterborough so that his energy and capital may be spent among us, and help build up our town.

Mr. Stuart is in Chicago, and there is no way of bringing these matters before the electors except by appealing to the judgment of the people through the press.

We have been before the town authorities since last March, and have been blocked and hindered at every step. Monday will settle it. After that we will, at the direction of the voters, take up the railway, or abandon it for good.

Yours truly,
R. M. DENNISTOUN.

STATEMENT OF DICKSON COMPANY.

In connection with the above letter, the following letter has been received from Mr. Bradburn and the Dickson Company:

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir, — In connection with the street railway question we beg to say we are under contract to sell to Mr. Robert Stuart the franchise recently granted in the name of the Radial Railway Company by the town, also the rolling stock, plant, and equipment of the old Street Railway Company.

Yours truly,
T. E. BRADBURN,
THE DICKSON CO'Y, of Peterborough, (Limited,)

"CITIZEN" IN FAVOUR OF RAILWAY BYLAW.

The Town's Chance to Secure a Modern Street Railway.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I was much leased to see your paper state that Mr Stuart has agreed to build the street railway.

I did think at one time the by-laws not satisfactory, but this entirely changes my opinion and I will do what all should do, i. e., vote in favour of giving the Railway to Mr. Stuart.

If we do not carry the by-laws the old street railway company will keep the contract which they now have. We want no more underground railways, and this is our chance to secure a strong wealthy syndicate to build up our town.

An up-to-date town should have an up-to-date railway. All progressive citizens should vote for the by-laws and show Mr. Stuart that they welcome his efforts to develop Peterborough.

Let us remember that every vote for the by-laws advances the interests of Peterborough.

Yours truly,
CITIZEN.

MR. MELDRUM MAKES REPLY TO CORRESPONDENT

Says he has no Interest in the Cordage Company.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—Permit me to answer a letter which appeared in last night's Review, wherein it is claimed that Messrs. Meldrum, Hall and Company, have imported thirty Italians into the Cordage Works at 90 cents per day.

I might say that I have not one dollar's worth of interest in the Canadian Cordage Company, and have never had anything to do with the management of that Company.

I find upon inquiry at the Canadian Cordage office that there never has at any time been thirty Italians in their employ.

The Company are giving employment now to about two hundred hands and of this number it appears that eleven of them are Italians, who obtained employment in the factory after the completion of the dam for the power plant of the American Cereal Company. If it is wrong for the Canadian Cordage to give employment to Italians, surely it is equally wrong for the American Cereal Company to give employment to many times the number, even though it is for the laudable purpose of constructing a dam to operate a street railway.

I find that beginners in the Canadian Cordage Company get from $1.00 to $1.25 per day, for ten hours and are allowed double time for work, over ten hours per day.

The Review correspondent evidently wrote the letter for the purpose of prejudicing the citizens of Peterborough against the Otonabee Power Company. The Otonabee Power Company have been the means of reducing the cost of electric lighting in town to such a figure that every working man in Peterborough can obtain electric light cheaper than he can burn coal oil. In consequence of the Otonabee Power Comany reducing the cost of house lighting, the Peterborough Light and Power Company were forced to reduce their prices. The result of the whole matter is that the citizens of Peterborough are making a saving in domestic lighting alone of over $20,000.00 per year.

Every person that uses electric light knows that since the Otonabee Power Company came into the field to supply electric light, that the price of electric light is less than half of what it was when the Peterborough Light and Power Company enjoyed their monopoly.

It does seem strange that the town council for 1903, are engaged in a law suit to test whether or not the town cannot legally pay $14,000.00 more for street lighting than the Otonabee Power Company are willing to supply the same light for. Evidently they think that the citizens of Peterborough do not appreciate competition in electric lighting and that they are most anxious that there should be a monopoly in the sale of electric light.

Yours etc.,
W. H. MELDRUM.

EXPLANATORY.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—Will you permit me, through the medium of the Examiner, to correct a wrong impression, conveyed by the wording of Mr. W. J. Johnston's appeal to the electors for their votes, because of his "experience of four years in the Ashburnham Council."

Many are under the impression from reading Mr Johnston's appeal that he is a representative of No. 5 ward, whereas he is a resident of No. 3 ward, having removed from Ashburnham some time in 1902.

I feel sure that Mr Johnston did not intend by the wording of his notice to mislead the public, and it is only necessary to call the attention of the people to the fact, to have the wrong impression removed.

There are only three candidates from No. 5 ward—Messrs. Scott, Gibbs and Adams.

Yours,
NO. 5 WARD.

NEWS NUGGETS.

—There was no Police Court this morning.

—A string of bells awaits an owner at the Police Station.

—The Examiner wishes its readers a Happy New Year.

—There will be no issue of the Examiner to-morrow.—New Year's Day.

—The rink will be reserved for hockey to-night. There will be skating to-morrow however.

See announcement of whitewear sale at J. Sutcliffe & Sons in Saturday's Examiner, also watch for bills being delivered.

—Rev. W. L. Armitage, Rector of All Saints' church, will give a New Year's address to young men at the Y.M.C.A. on Sunday. The All Saints' quartette will sing.

—The Christmas rush clearly demonstrated the need in Peterborough of an establishment entirely devoted to pictures and framing. The "Framery" 423 George street, is the new only store entirely devoted to these lines.

—The gentleman, or otherwise, who borrowed a copy of the "Book-lovers' Magazine," from the Examiner sanctum, is requested to return it. It is wanted by the owner, not only for its intrinsic value, but because its absence breaks the integrity of the file.

VOTE FOR GIBBS.

To the Municipal Electors of Peterborough and Ashburnham:

Ladies and gentlemen, — At the request of many ratepayers I have decided to offer myself a candidate for Alderman for 1904. I have been a member of the Ashburnham Council and am familiar with the live questions before the electors of the village as well as the important questions engaging the attention of the town of Peterborough. If elected I will give these and all other matters that may come before the council my careful consideration. As a workingmen I will be particularly anxious to keep down taxation and curtail all useless expenditure of the people's money.

Hoping to receive your cordial support at the polls,

I remain, yours truly,
WILLIAM GIBBS.

THE PUBLIC CALMED

By the Promulgation of Japanese Cabinet Ordinances.

DIPLOMACY IS TERRIFIED

Bennett Burleigh's Sum-Up of the Situation—Says War Trembles in the Balance, and Indicates That the Blame of Precipitating a Conflict Just Now Would Belong to Russia.

Tokio, Dec. 30.—Another Cabinet Council was held yesterday, lasting nearly four hours. The ordinances passed Monday authorizing a guarantee of the principal and interest of an issue of 10,000,000 yen debentures, also authorized the Government to utilize 50,000,000 yen, the proceeds of the Chinese war indemnity, which hitherto has been devoted to educational and other purposes, as a war fund. In addition authorization is given to issue treasury notes repayable in five years and to raise loans repayable in two years, to an unlimited extent.

The Seoul-Fusan Railway becomes virtually a Government enterprise. The Government guarantees the capital of 10,000,000 yen and 6 per cent. interest, and will nominate the directors.

The new Military Council will be composed of the Ministers of War and Marine, and the chiefs of the military, naval and general staffs, and leading generals and admirals.

It is stated that at Monday's luncheon the Emperor unreservedly invited the senior statesmen and the Councillors to give their advice on the existing crisis.

The promulgation of the ordinances has had great effect in calming public impatience.

DIPLOMACY TERRIFIED.

War Correspondent Bennett Burleigh Sees War Trembles in the Balance.

London, Dec. 30.—Mr. Bennett Burleigh, in a cable message to The Daily Telegraph from Tokio, says:

"Peace and good will have not come with the season's greeting from Holy Russia to Japan, but instead there is a confident truculence still further provocative to war direct from St. Petersburg.

"I confess my inability to see in her present attitude any other meaning than to precipitate a conflict.

"To be precise, my Manchurian tour showed me that Russia is not fully ready and cannot for at least three months be able to maintain her position if determinedly attacked. Time, therefore, is essential to her, unless she utterly despises the prowess of Japan.

"It is true Count Lamsdorff long ago openly declared that Russia considers the Manchurian occupation to be a matter only concerning herself and China. Instead of temporizing she has employed the same language to Japan.

"Over a fortnight ago Russia again emphasized the same response at Tokio. Yet the Japanese statesmen have since asked her to reconsider her refusal to exclude discussion on Manchuria and have pressed for a reply thereto within a reasonably brief time.

"Such is the situation.

War Trembles in Balance.

"War trembles in the balance, if it has not already tilted the scale, for report affirms that Russia on Saturday answered, declining Japan's request.

"Diplomacy is terrified as to what will happen in China if there is war between Russia and Japan.

"It is agreed and Pekin despatches show that the Chinese imperial authorities are on the alert and will attack Russia. Their best generals are eager to engage the enemy in Manchuria, but the real key to the seriousness of the situation is in the question, Will there be further terrible outbreaks against foreigners in China? or in the equally dangerous problem, What steps will Germany and France take if disturbances break out? Probably some understanding exists. Great Britain and America should be prepared also to see that if Japan wages a successful war she is not prevented from reaping the fruits of the victory."

Japan Outbids For Ships.

The Daily Telegraph in editorial adds: "Mr. Bennet Burleigh has had experience of war and rumors of war beyond any other member of his profession. He is no alarmist, but an acute observer of events. When, therefore, he states that war trembles in the balance, and that the responsibility for the tilting of the scale rests with St. Petersburg, we are in a position to judge of the gravity of the crisis."

The Daily Chronicle says that Japan is purchasing the Argentine warships. The Russians were in treaty for them, but the Japanese outbid them.

Coals For Japan.

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 30.—The British steamship Knight Errant, an immense tramp steamer, arrived yesterday and will begin to take a cargo of 11,511 tons of Pocahontas coal for Japan. The coal goes from Lambert's Point pier and is the variety which is mainly burned by United States warships.

The Best Remedy for Croup.

From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.

This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighbourhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whoop from one of his children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost in case of croup as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup known as hive syrup, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better and does not cost so much. It causes the patient to "throw off the phlegm quicker and gives relief in a shorter time. Give this remedy as soon as a croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails and is pleasant and safe to use. For sale by all druggists.

AUTUMN IN THE GARDEN.

When the frosty kiss of Autumn in the dark
Makes its mark
On the flowers, and the misty morning grieves
Over fallen leaves,
Then my olden garden, where the golden
Through the toil
Of a hundred years is mellow, rich, and deep,
Whispers in its sleep.

'Mid the crumpled beds of marigold and phlox,
Where the box
Borders with its glossy green the ancient walks,
There's a voice that talks
Of the human hopes that bloomed and withered here,
Year by year,—
Dreams of joy, that brightened all the laboring hours,
Fading as the flowers.

Yet the whispered story does not deepen grief:
But relief
For the loneliness of sorrow seems to flow
From the Long-Ago.
When I think of other lives that learned, like mine,
To resign,
And remember that the sadness of the Fall
Comes alike to all.

What regrets, what longings for the lost were theirs!
And what prayers
For the silent strength that nerves us to endure
Things we cannot cure!
Pacing up and down the garden where they paced
I have traced
All their well-worn paths of patience, till I find Comfort in my mind.

Faint and far away their ancient spirit appear;
Yet how near
Is the tender voice, the care-worn, kindly face
Of the human race!
Let us walk together in the garden, dearest Heart,—
Not apart!
They who know the sorrows other lives have known
Never walk alone.

—Harry Van Dyke.

Sir Charles Scott.

Sir Charles Scott, the British Ambassador at St. Petersburg, whose position, in view of the Far East situation is one of extreme difficulty, has passed forty-five years in the diplomatic service, which he entered when a youth of twenty. His record of work covers no fewer than fourteen capitals great and small. A graduate of Trinity College, Dublin, he began his career as an attache at Paris, and worked his way from capital to capital until, in 1893, he became Ambassador at Copenhagen, where there is little to do but plenty to report. He remained five years at the Danish Court, when he was selected for the important position at St. Petersburg in 1898, and has since gone through some exciting episodes in connection with Russia's flanking movements in Manchuria. He was made a G.C.M.G. in 1899.

Reconcentration of Wales.

A conference of delegates from various county councils of Wales was held recently at Haverfordwest to consider the question of establishing a school of forestry. Mr. Robinson, of North Pembroke, pointed out that there were a million acres of waste land in Wales which if planted with trees would in 30 years be worth forty or fifty million pounds, while the total outlay of planting would not exceed £5,000,000. A single acre could be planted for £6, and in 30 years' time it would be worth £40 to £50. It was resolved to establish a school of forestry for the principality.

New Year's on the Old Plantation

CHRISTMAS was never celebrated to any great extent in the south back in the good old days "befoh de wah." New Year's day took its place among the masters, and the prolonged, rollicking "co'n shuckin'" supplied the slaves of Kentucky and Missouri especially with all the jollity they desired. It was an institution peculiar to the south, peculiar not in being confined to those sections, but peculiar in the manner in which it was conducted, for husking bees have been known in New England since the mind of man remembers and Indian corn has been gathered.

When a "co'n shuckin'" was decided upon notices were sent out to the slaves of all adjoining plantations stating that on a certain night Judge B. or Squire B. would give a corn shucking of so many thousand bushels and that all colored people, male and female, were invited to attend. Great preparations were made by "ole massa" and "ole missus" for this event, for, while they expected a good night's work in the shape of wagon loads of yellow corn, pleasure was to be the main part of the programme.

Supper was always provided on a large scale and generally consisted of two or three roasted pigs, turkeys and chickens, with side dishes of vegetables, in equal proportion. Bushels of sweet potatoes were baked, boiled and fried, and hundreds of rich, golden pumpkin pies were turned out of the ovens, done to a mouth watering brown.

A band of musicians was engaged, or an Irish chanter would be complete without it. On those nights negroes worked not happily save to the twanging of the banjo and wailing of the fiddle.

A corn shucking always lasted three nights continuously on one plantation, and then the negroes moved on to the next, where three more were devoted to the corn of the owner, and so on until all the maize of the neighborhood had been husked.

About twilight the darkies began to arrive from all over the country, the "boys" clad in their suits of jeans, with that pride of the darky's heart, his "long tailed clawhammer blue." Every negro who made pretensions to being "anybody" possessed one in more or less condition of wear.

The female portion of the gathering was equestrianly dressed in linsey woolsey frocks, with their heads tied in flaming red bandanna handkerchiefs, the redder the better, and with a white handkerchief dressed upon their breasts.

They came in groups, and each party of huskers from a neighboring plantation was announced long before it arrived by the well known tunes prevalent in those days floating down the road and over the fields as the happy boys and women hastened to the gathering. A favorite tune was this:

Yas, we's gwine to de shuckin',
Yas, we's gwine to de shuckin',
We's gwine to de struckin' of de co'n,
An' we'll be dar in de mo'nin',
An' we'll be dar in de mo'nin',
We'll be dar in de mo'nin', shuah as yo's bo'n.

As soon as the darkies were all assembled the oldest slave present went to "ole massa" and begged a piece of silver money. This was always expected, and a plantation owner would as soon have thought of having a "shuckin'" without corn as to be unprepared to produce the bit of silver on the first evening.

Taking this piece of silver, the ancient darky returned to the field and there performed a ceremony the exact meaning of which has not come down to us. Whetting his jackknife upon the silver, he solemnly pronounced an invocation for a bountiful crop of corn the following year. And it is doubtful if the "ole massa" would have been any more willing to allow the husking to proceed without this kindly prayer than would his white haired servitor, who by its means thus once a year stood in the attitude of high priest to the family he served.

After the preliminary prayer the "twelve wise men" were chosen, and their first duty was to select two of the brawniest negroes in the company, who, when called out, with much pride at their distinction, indulged in a good humored contest of strength, which was known as "rasslin' fo' de capt'in." The victor became the master of ceremonies, and upon him devolved the duty of seeing that no one shirked in work or entertainment.

The matter of the captaincy being decided, the "twelve wise men" chose their big fellows, who formed a "push saddle" by crossing their hands and the captain was elevated upon it and carried half a dozen times around the heaps of corn, while the darkies sang this melody or something akin to it:

When our days am done
Don't we darkies hab a time?
When our days am done
Don't we darkies eat a shine?

Back to our cabin we will go,
Back in the early mo'n,
But we'll be here in de ch'nin'
To do de shuckin' oh de co'n.

Then the corn shucking proper began. Stacks of fuel had been placed at intervals of a few yards near the corn, and after they had been lighted, under the supervision of the "twelve wise men," the fun began. As the corn was husked it was thrown into piles and would be hauled away in the morning. Twelve workers were selected for each heap of unhusked corn, and, as back in New England, the red ear was eagerly sought for, but with a different purpose. When a man got it he shied it at a big nigger's head, and if he hit the mark the unfortunate darky would not "marry for ten years." If by shrewd dodging he missed it his happiness would be crowned within the year. If a dusky belle secured a red ear she had the option of choosing a sweetheart from any of the darkies around the corn pile.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

THE NEGROES WORKED HAPPILY TO THE MUSIC OF BANJO AND FIDDLE.

NEW YEAR'S CARDS.

They Originated in Japan, Where They Are Now Obsolete.

In Japan originated the art of making and the custom of exchanging New Year cards. Today both are as obsolete in the Flowery Kingdom as is New Year's calling in the United States. More charming art, more delightful custom, are not numbered among the good things that have passed away to suffer in their time, let us hope, a happy revival.

For more than a hundred years the designing and coloring of New Year cards occupied the attention of the foremost draftsmen and wood engravers of Japan. They were made at the command of the noblemen of the emperor's court. In size they were from six to eight inches, and each was inscribed with a poetic sentiment dictated by the noble giving the order. They were printed from five or six blocks, each color requiring, as in modern color printing, a separate block. The blocks were the property of the noble, who retained or destroyed them at will. No reprints for another were ever permitted. A nobleman's New Year card was like his coat of arms or his sword. The surimonos, as Japan's New Year's cards were called, were designed specially to please some lady-love.—New York Press.

Watery Blood, Declining Health.

Strength and Vigor Can Only be Maintained by Means of Pure, Rich Blood.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

For many generations doctors have realized the importance of the blood as the source of life and health but it is only in more modern times that science has discovered the best means of forming new blood and so rebuilding the wasted tissues.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the result of careful study of this problem and has proved by far the most successful method of restoring weak, watery blood to a healthful condition.

Anaemia, chlorosis, nervous exhaustion and prostration, and each and every disorder which arises from insufficiency in the quality or quantity of the blood are readily cured by the regular and persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

By noting your increase in weight while using this great food cure you can prove beyond dispute that new firm flesh and tissue are being added.

Mrs. Smeaton, 191 Rubidge street, Peterborough, Ont., and whose husband is employed with the Canadian General Electric Co., states:

"My little son was very much run down in health, had no colour in his face and was quite nervous. As his appetite was poor and he seemed tired and listless, we became anxious about him, and began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It was not long before I noticed a marked change in his appearance. His appetite improved, his appetite became better, and his health generally was very much better than it had been for a long time. I have much pleasure in adding my testimony to the hosts of others who are praising this medicine."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 5 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 16

Water Purity

Pure, hard water is the most important ingredient in ale.

Water used in Carling's Ale is taken from a series of springs with solid rock bottoms at depths of more than 1000 feet, and is conducted to a stone-paved reservoir.

Is entirely free from acid or alkaline and any kind of impurity.

Ask for Carling's Ale—accept no other, because no other is quite so good.

Thousands of young and middle-aged men are annually swept to a premature grave through early abuse or later excesses. Clara Anderson was one of the victims, but was rescued in time. He says: "I learned an evil habit. A change soon came over me. I could feel it; my friends noticed it. I became nervous, despondent, grumpy; had no ambition, easily tired, evil forebodings, poor circulation, pimples on face, back weak, dreams and drains at night, tired and weak mornings, heroing sensation. To make matters worse, I began to use cocaine and contracted a blood disease. I tried many doctors and medical firms—all failed till Drs. Kennedy & Kergan took my case. In one week I felt better, and in a few weeks was entirely cured. They are the only reliable and honest Specialists in the country."

Strollers

By FREDERIC S. ISHAM

Author of "Under the Rose."

CHAPTER XXXIII.

THE reception to General Zachary Taylor on his return from Mexico and the inauguration of the carnival combined to the observance of a dual festival day in the Crescent City. Up the river, past the rice fields, disturbing the ducks and peccaries, plowed the noisy craft bearing Old Rough and Ready to the open port of the merrymaking town. When near the barracks the welcoming cannon boomed and the affrighted darkies on the remote plantations shook with dire forebodings of a Mexican invasion.

The boat rounded at the Place d'Armes, where, beneath a triumphal arch, General Taylor received the crown and chaplet of the people, popular applause and a salve of eloquence from the mayor. With flying colors and flourish of trumpets a procession of civic and military bodies was then formed, the parade finally halting at the St. Charles, where the fatted calf had been killed and the sweetest ox roasted. Sounding a retreat, the veteran commander fell back upon a private parlor to recuperate his forces in anticipation of the forthcoming banquet.

From this struggle, where, however, not all of the enemy—his friends—could be excluded, there escaped an officer, with, "I'll look around town a little, general."

"Look around!" said the commander at the door. "I should think we had looked around. Well, don't fall foul of too many juleps."

With a laughing response the young man pushed his way through the jostling crowd near the door, traversed the animated corridor and soon found himself out on the busy street. Amid the variegated colors and motley throng he walked not, however, in King Carnival's gay domains, but in a city of recollections. The tavern he had just left was associated with an unforgotten presence. The stores, the windows, the thoroughfares themselves were fraught with retrospective suggestion of the strollers.

Even now—and he came to an abrupt standstill—he was staring at the billboard of the theater where she had played, the familiar entrance bedecked with bunting and festival inscriptions. Before its classic portals appeared the black letter announcement of an act by "Impecunious Jordan, Ethiopian artist, followed by a tableau of General Scott's capture of the City of Mexico." Unconsciously he stopped within and approached the box office. From the little cupboard a strange face looked forth. Even the ticket vendor of old had been swallowed up by the irony of fate, and instead of the well remembered blond mustache of the erstwhile seller of seats a dark bearded man with sallow complexion inquired:

"How many?"

"One," said Saint-Prosper, depositing a Mexican piece on the counter before the cubbyhole.

"We've taken in plenty of this kind of money today," remarked the man, holding up the coin. "I reckon you come to town with old Zach?"

"Yes." The soldier was about to turn away when he changed his mind and observed, "You used to give legitimate drama here."

"That was some time ago," said the man in the box reflectively. "The soldiers like vaudeville. Ever hear Impecunious Jordan?"

"I never did."

"Then you've got a treat," continued the vender. "He's the best in his line. Hope you'll enjoy it, sir," he concluded, with the courtesy displayed toward one and all of Old Rough and Ready's men that day. "It's the best seat left in the house. You come a little late, you know." And as the other moved away:

"How different they look before and after! They went to Mexico fresh as daisies and come back—these that dead beat, done up!"

Passing through the door, Saint-Prosper was ushered to his seat in a renovated auditorium; new curtain, redecorated stalls, mirrors and gilt in profusion: the old restfulness gone, replaced by glitter and show. Amid changed conditions, the disappearance of fixed external form and outline, the sight of a brand new in the orchestra and the aspect of a columned foyer riveted his attention. This person was neither shorter nor thinner than before; he perspired neither more nor less; he was neither older nor younger, seemingly; he played on his instrument neither better nor worse. Youth might fade, hennes take wing, the face of nature change, but Hans, Gargantuan Hans, appeared but a figure in an eternal present. Gazing at that substantial landmark, the soldier was carried back in thought over the long period of separation to a forest idyl, a face in the firelight, the song of the satyrid, the drumming of the woodpecker. Dreams, ghin dreams! They had assailed him before, but seldom so sharply as now in a place consecrated to the past.

"Look out for the candles!
Gloria, beware!
Look out for their blandishments!
Dears, take care!
For they're always ready—remember this!—
To gather from maids an unwilling kiss.
Oh, no! Oh, no! There! There!"
(Imaginary clasp.)

sang and gesticulated a lady in abbreviated skirts and low cut dress, winking and blinking in ironical shyness and concluding with a flaunting of her gown, a too painted ceilingward and a lively "breakdown." Then she vanished with a hop, skip and a bow, reappeared with a ravishing smile and threw a generous assortment of kisses among the audience and disappeared with another hop, skip and a bow, as Impecunious Jordan burst upon the spectators from the opposite side of the stage.

Even the sight of Hans, a finger post pointing to ways long since traversed, could not reconcile the soldier to his surroundings. The humor of the burned cork artist seemed inappropriate to the place, his grotesque dancing inadmissible in that atmosphere once consecrated to the comedy of manners and the stately march of the classic drama. Where Hamlet had moralized a lentish clown now beguiled the time with coarse tomfoolery, his wit so bread his quips were cannon balls, and his audience, for the most part soldiers from Mexico, open mouthed swallowed the entire bombardment. But Saint-Prosper, finding the performance dull, finally rose and went out.

Fun and frolic were now in full swing on the thoroughfares. Democritus, the rollicker, had commanded his subjects to drive dull care away, and they obeyed the jovial lord of laughter. Animal spirits ran high. Mischief beguiled the time. Mummery romped and rioted. Marshaled by disorder, armed with drollery and divers hued bannons, they marched to the Castle of Chaos, where the wise are fools, the old are young and topsy turvy is the order of the day. As Saint-Prosper stood watching the vermicolored concourse swarm by, a sudden rush of bystanders to view Faith on a golden pedestal, looking more like Cegnetry, propelled a dainty figure against the soldier. Involuntarily he put out his arm, which girded a slender waist. Faith danced simpering by, the crowd swirled like a resealing wave, and the lady extricated herself, breathless as one of the maids in Lorenzo de Medici's songs of the carnival.

"How awkward!" she murmured. "How"—

The sentence remained unfinished, and an exclamation, "Mr. Saint-Prosper!" punctuated a gleam of recognition.

"Miss Duran!" he exclaimed, equally surprised, for he had thought the strollers scattered to the four winds.

"Mrs. Service, if you please!" demurely, at the same time extending her hand with a faint flush. "Yes, I am really and truly married. But it is so long since we met I believe I literally flew to your arms!"

"Mrs. Service, if you please!"

"That was before you recognized me," he returned in the same tone.

Susan laughed. "But how do you happen to be here? I thought you were dead. No; only wounded? How fortunate! Of course you came with the others. I should hardly know you. I declare you're as thin as a lath and gaunt as a ghost. You look older, too; remorse, I suppose, for killing so many poor Mexicans!"

"And you"—surveying her foes, which had the freshness of morn—"look younger!"

"Of course!" Adjusting some fancied disorder of hair or bonnet. "Marriage is a fountain of youth for"—with a sigh—"old maids. Susan Duran, spinster! Horrible! Do you blame me?"

"For getting married? Not at all. Who is the fortunate man?" asked Saint-Prosper.

"A minister; an orthodox minister; a most orthodox minister!"

"No?" His countenance expressed his sense of the incongruity of the union. Susan one of the elect, the meek and lowly yokemate of— "How did it happen?" he said.

"In a perverse moment I—went to church," answered Susan. "There I met him! I mean I saw him: no, I mean I heard him! It was enough. All the women were in love with him. How could I help it?"

"He must have been very persuasive."

"Persuasive! He scolded us every minute. Dress and the devil! I"—casting down her eyes—"interested him from the first. He—he married me to reform me."

"Ah," commented the soldier, gazing doubtfully upon Susan's smart gown, which, with elaborate art, followed the contours of her figure.

"But, of course, one must keep up appearances, you know," she continued. "What's the use of being a minister's wife if you aren't popular with the congregation? At least," she added, "with part of them!" And Susan tapped the pavement with a well shod foot and showed her white teeth. "If you weren't popular you couldn't fill the seats—I mean pews," she added evasively. "But you must come and see me—us, I should say."

"Unfortunately I am leaving tomorrow."

"Tomorrow!" repeated Susan reflectively. The pupils of her eyes contracted, something they did whenever she was thinking deeply, and her gaze passed quickly over his face, striving to read his impassive features. "So soon? When the carnival is on! That is too bad, to stay only one day and not call on any of your old friends! Constance, I am sure, would be delighted to see you."

Many women would have looked away under the circumstances, but Susan's eyes were innocently fixed upon his. Half the pleasure of the assurance was in the accompanying glance and the friendly smile that went with it.

But a quiet question, "Miss Carew is living here?" was all the satisfaction she received.

"Yes. Have you not heard? She has a lovely home and an embarrassment of riches. Sweet embarrassment! Health and wealth! What more could one ask? Although I forgot, she was taken ill shortly after you left."

"Ill?" he said, starting.

"Quite. But soon recovered." And Susan launched into a narration of the events that had taken place while he was in Mexico, to which he listened with the composure of a man who, having had his share of the vagaries of fate, is not to be taken aback by new surprises, however singular or tragic. Susan expected an expression of regret, by look or word, over the loss of the marquis' fortune, but either he simulated indifference or passed the matter by with philosophical fortitude.

"Poor Barnes!" was his sole comment.

"Yes, it was very lonely for Constance at first," rattled on Susan. "But I fancy she will find a woman's solace for that ailment," she added meaningly.

"Marriage?" he asked soberly.

"Well, the engagement is not yet announced," said Susan hesitatingly. "But you know how things get around? And the count has been so attentive! You remember him surely—the Count de Pompiñi? But I shall be off. I have an appointment with my husband and am already half an hour late."

"Don't let me detain you longer, then, I beg."

"Oh, I don't mind! He's so delightfully jealous when I fail to appear on the stroke of the clock! Always unpleasant I am in some minds—but I mustn't tell tales out of school! So glad to have met you! Come and see me—do!"

And Susan, with friendly hand clasp and lingering look, turn herself away, the carnival lightness in her feet and the carnival laughter in her eyes.

"He is in love with her still," she thought, "or he wouldn't have acted so indifferent!" Her mind reverted to a cold little message she had received from Constance. "And to think he was innocent after all!" she continued, mentally reviewing the contents of the letter in which Constance had related the conversation with the lawyer. "I don't believe he'll call on her now, though, after— Well, why shouldn't I have told him what every one is talking about? Why not, indeed?"

A turn of the head dismissed the matter and any doubts pertaining thereto, while her thoughts flew from past to present, as a fortress on a car, its occupants armed with pellets of festival conflict, drove by amid peals of laughter. Absorbed in this scene of merriment, Susan forgot her haste and kept her apostolic half waiting at the rendezvous with the patience of a Jacob tarrying for a Rachel. But when she did finally appear, with hat set perfectly poised, her hair in a pretty disarray, she looked so waywardly charming he forgave her on the spot, and the lamb led the stern shepherd with a crook from Eve's apple tree.

"As thin as a lath and gaunt as a ghost!" repeated Saint-Prosper, as the fair penitent vanished in a whirl of mayety. "Human always was frank."

OSTRICH LOGIC.

"When I can't see danger there is no danger." That's the logic of the ostrich which hides its head and exposes its body to the hunter. There are not a few people who seem to have gone to the ostrich to learn logic. The most dangerous enemies of humanity are the enemies which can't be seen, the diseases breeding microbes which infect the blood. It is harder to get the microbe out of the blood than to keep it out, but Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery does both, by purifying the blood and then keeping it pure.

If there are eruptions on the skin, boils, pimples, sores or other signs of impure blood, use Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which will purify the blood and cure the eruptions which come from it.

"My blood was all out of order, and I had to go to the doctor," writes Mrs. James R. Moss, Mary Landon, Shelby Co., N.C. "He gave me medicine which helped me for a short time. In the winter of 1894 I got worse than I had ever been. My breasts were enlarged and my neck swollen all out of shape; my throat was sore and I could not cure it. My husband went for the doctor, but he gave me no encouragement. He helped me a little, but it did not last long. He attended me for twelve months, when I heard of a lady whose condition was like mine, who was taking your medicine and was getting well. So I secured some of the medicine and began taking it. In one week I was able to do my cooking. When I began taking the medicine I could set up only a few minutes at a time, and I could rest or sleep only a little while at a time. My throat was so sore at times I could not even swallow sweet milk, and my breasts were full of little eating sores. My left side was swollen out of shape and I could hardly get my breath. The doctor said I would not get well, but three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, three bottles of his 'Pellets,' three bottles of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and the use of salt water did the work and saved me."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation and its consequences.

LATEST NEWS OF SPORT.

Peterborough Wins in First Senior Hockey Game of the Season—Other Sporting News.

PETERBOROUGH WON FIRST SENIOR GAME.

Defeated the Fast Queen's Team by 6-3.

Opening Game was Fast and Clean—Home team Displayed Good Combination and Stick Handling.

The opening game in senior hockey in Peterborough for the season of 1903-4 was not in any way disappointing to the local team, and if an equally good showing is made in the succeeding games Peterborough should stand well up to the front when the championships are being handed out.

The reconstructed team which will this season represent Peterborough in Intermediate O.H.A. made its first public bow last night in a game with the Queen's University senior team, and the thousand or more spectators who saw the game were perfectly satisfied with the prospects for hockey in Peterborough during this season.

The visitors brought their strongest seven, and the line-up, with one exception, was the same as that which played Belleville's O.H.A. team a tie game a week ago, and, that the home team was able to defeat them easily by a score of 6—3, is by no means an insignificant feat.

The game ,particularly in view of the fact that it was the first of the season, and an exhibition game at that, was of the fastest kind, and remained so from start to finish.

While the belief was pretty general that Peterborough's team this year would show an improvement over that of former years, it is pretty safe to say that such speed and stick-handling as were in evidence last night by the local boys was hardly looked for, especially at such an early stage of the season's programme. This was a most pleasing surprise to the enthusiasts, who saw in last year's men a decided improvement, and the new players, in addition make a team which it is believed will do itself credit in almost any company.

The team has started the season with a win which, while it was by no means an easy one, amply demonstrated the superiority of the local seven over the visitors, which in home team started out like winners, scoring two goals in quick succession, although the visitors only scored one more goal, the game was by no means easily won, every tally having to be worked for. Half time ended with the score 3—2 in Peterborough's favour, and from the beginning of the second half the lead was increased, and there was little doubt as to the result, the only speculation being on the size of the score.

For the length of time during which the locals have practised the combination work displayed was most creditable, and with the experience gained last night, this feature should improve still more. The men are playing their positions well, and their passing was quick, and, for the most part, accurate.

The forward line, composed of Whitcroft, Harold and Roy Armstrong, and Harry Morgan, is about as good as there is in the business, and got in some rushes last night which puzzled the visitors' defence. Mills, however, spoiled many a sure shot, after the home men had gone through the defence, and but for his excellent work, the score would have been considerably larger.

Whitcroft is playing the boards this season, and, judging by his work last night, particularly during the second half, he is in his proper position. Time and again he got away with the puck from three or four Queen's men, and in his new position he is proving even more valuable to the team than he did in centre.

Morgan, at centre, is the right man in the right place, and was always before the goal to take a pass, and invariably sent it in when there was the faintest chance to do so. Roy Armstrong, at right wing, is playing a better game than ever, and his shooting last night was one of the features of the game. He also worked in some good rushes, and had a hand in scoring nearly all of the half dozen which Mills let go through. Harold Armstrong, as rover, was always on the puck, and participated in some most effective combination plays.

The defence is on an equality with the forward line, and with Cavanah and Howell guarding the nets and Mercer in goal, the team is well balanced, and well able to take care of anything that comes its way. Cavanah checked hard but always legitimately, and broke up some rather dangerous combinations. Last night was Howell's first game since he donned a Peterborough sweater, and he certainly made good. In his position at point he is a stone wall, and when he started a combination run down the ice, as he did on different occasions last night, it is pretty safe betting that a goal will result. He figured prominently in a majority of the goals scored last night, and while there had never been any doubt as to his ability, his work in the first game gave abundant reason for the previously expressed belief that his playing was of the highest order.

Mercer, in the nets, is also a new man, and all who saw his work last night were more than surprised at the ease with which he stopped what looked like sure shots on the goal.

The visitors weight fully aggregated that of the Peterborough team, and their players put up a stiff argument. Walsh, as rover, played the star game for the visitors, and was perhaps almost equal to any man on either team. Richardson also was a fast player, and made some good rushes. Sutherland at cover point, played a good steady game, while Mills in goal is a wonder. He stopped shot after shot, which looked like sure scores.

The teams lined up as follows:

Peterborough.	Queen's.
Goal.
Mercer	Mills
Point.
Howell	McDonald
Cover point.
Cavanah	Sutherland
Forwards.
H. Armstrong	Walsh
Morgan	Knight
Whitcroft	Richardson
Roy Armstrong	Sergent

THE GAME.

The first goal was scored by Roy Armstrong in five minutes, on a nice combination play, in which the puck travelled the length of the ice, Howell starting the rush, and he with Harold and Roy Armstrong gave one of the nicest exhibitions of combination play ever seen. The second also went to the home team, eleven minutes being required in which to score. Morgan did the trick this time, after Howell and Roy Armstrong had made a rush through the visitors' defence.

The next two went to Queen's, the first in 9 minutes, and is credited to Walsh; Richardson tieing the score in 3 minutes. The tie was soon broken, however, as Morgan scored in one-half minute, making the score 3—2, at which figure it stood at half time.

The second half opened strong for Peterborough, and during this period much better hockey was played than in the first half. The players worked with more ginger and much faster hockey was played. In 21-2 minutes after play started Morgan located the nets on a pass from H. Armstrong, who took a similar pass from Roy. The next was seven minutes in coming, and was scored by Roy Armstrong, after a nice piece of combination play, by Harold Armstrong and Whitcroft. The latter was now playing a lightning game, sometimes dodging three or four of Queen's men with the puck. He made a number of shots on goal, which had Mills been less capable, would have resulted in scores.

The next went to the visitors in 9 minutes, and Walsh was responsible for it. This made the score 5—3. In 8 minutes, however, Peterborough increased its lead, Morgan scoring the last on a side pass from Whitcroft. This ended the scoring, which stood finally at 6—3.

The steady consistent work of Captain Morgan in centre was a conspicuous feature of the game. He was always on the spot when needed and ready to take a pass, and send it in when an opportunity presented itself.

The playing of the team was on the whole most creditable, and with the improvement which will come with practice, the team should be able to hold its own with any Intermediate seven.

PUCKERINGS.

The team starts the season with a win.

The Queen's team is a husky bunch and should make the best of them go some.

Dr. Lionel King, of Detroit, refereed the game to the complete satisfaction of both teams. He was strict on offside plays, but equally so with both teams.

The Examiner's kindly advice to smokers evidently had effect, as there was no room for complaint last night. Many remarked on the great improvement in the comfort of both spectators and players.

Howell delighted the hearts of the enthusiasts by his excellent work.

The second team was not entirely without its laurels last night, as it defeated Peterborough Juniors by 6 goals to 1. Just one man on last night's team figured in that game.

HOCKEY.

The next junior game will be with the Wavecleys on Saturday night. The team is playing good hockey, and the game on Saturday should be an interesting one.

* * * *

On Wednesday, January 6th, the junior series of O.H.A. games opens here with a game between Peterborough and Cobourg, and on the same night the senior team goes to Picton to open the series there.

* * * *

On Friday, Jan. 8th, the juniors go to Lindsay to play the return game with the Lindsay Collegiate Institute team.

The sporting editor of the Review has taken up an attitude similar to that of Russia in the far East. The sympathies of the public generally will be against the side which first shows fight. This accounts pure and simple for the following article which appeared in last night's Review:—

"It is understood that the Examiner will to-night challenge to a game of hockey the Review seven, last year's champions. Now for two months' gas."

There is actually a method in the Review's madness. They naturally feel rather squeamish after their ignominious defeat on the ice last year by the Examiner's seven. In its own columns the Review admits its inferiority and the verdant scribe states that there will be "two months' gas"—in other words that for two months he will attempt to "arbitrate." Ye Gods! The pen may be mightier than the sword, but the Examiner means to fight with a puck and seven stalwart men.

* * * *

The following junior players are requested to be at the rink to-morrow morning at 9.45 sharp: — Van Every, Moore, Parker, MacFarlane, Kennedy, Hall, Ferguson.

* * * *

The intermediate and senior teams will practice to-night from 8 to 9 and the juniors at 8-o'clock. To-morrow night a special practice of the senior and intermediates will be held. The players will be notified by their respective captains.

At Ottawa last night the Winnipeg Rowing Club team was defeated by the Ottawas in the first game in the Stanley Cup series.

CURLING.

For the Sheppard-Neill Cup contests the following will be the Peterborough skips: At Orillia—G. E. Whiten, W. G. Morrow, R. Neill, J. S. Knapman; at Peterborough—S. Ray, W. G. Ferguson, T. Rutherford and J. H. Consal.

The following skips were elected at a recent meeting of the Curling Club: Tankard skips, Granites—G. H. Giroux, J. S. Consal. Thistles—R. Neill, J. S. Knapman.

TURF.

Mr. A. Brown of St. Catharines, telegraphed Mr. Rountree, secretary of the Peterborough Turf Club, to make arrangements for the accommodation for three of his horses, will arrive to-night. They are Robt. Henry, Flora Hunter and a green one.

* * * *

Geo. Powell will arrive from Lindsay some time to-day or this evening bringing with him Sphinx B., Sailor Boy and Dr. Archer's mare.

* * * *

"The prospects for the meet on the 6th and 7th of next month are exceedingly fine," said a local turf man to the Examiner this morning. Every day a number of horses can be seen training on the Driving Park. The track is in excellent condition for the coming races, the entries for which close on the 5th of January.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Leo Clancy was in Lindsay yesterday and secured Jack Morrison's signature to box Hockey Jones of Hamilton 12 rounds at the next Cordage Hockey Club Concert for the 130 lb. championship of Ontario and a purse of $50.

A number of the sports think that Farmer Burns was laying for both in his last match with Gauthier. Well if form is training counts for anything George will make him bump the mat harder than ever when they meet again.

TO THE ELECTORS

Having received nomination as Alderman for the town of Peterborough, I respectfully solicit your votes and influence.

If it will be impossible for me to make a personal canvass, and therefore I wish to state that I am opposed to giving the contract for lighting to the Peterborough Light and Power Co., at $50.00 per lamp as long as the town can get as good lighting for $36.00 per lamp, from the Chemong Power Co., which has done so much to bring down the price of lighting, and whose tender shows a saving of over $14,000.00 in ten years. I am also opposed to the present street railway by-law, but will support and vote for a good and up-to-date street railway, operated by good business men, but without a bonus, and will do my best, if elected, to advance the general interests of our prosperous town.

Wishing you all a Happy New Year, I am,

Your obedient servant,

JOHN SAWERS.

TO THE ELECTORS

Of the Joint Municipality of Peterborough.

Having been nominated as Alderman for the Council of 1904, your vote and influence is respectfully solicited.

TO THE ELECTORS

Of Peterborough and Ashbur...

Ladies and Gentlemen,—As I have been honoured with the nomination for Alderman for 1904, I have accepted the same, and respectfully solicit your votes and influence.

Should you elect me to assist in the management of your municipal affairs, I will use my best judgment in the united interests of Peterborough and Ashburnham.

I have been a working man all my life and have had a good schooling in economy, which I think can be used to a greater extent in the management of our municipal affairs.

If the question of street lighting is re-opened as the result of the appeal now before the courts, I shall, if elected, give the matter that serious attention which its importance deserves.

Wishing you, ladies and gentlemen, a very Happy New Year, I remain,

Your obedient servant,

JOHN KYLIE.

ELECTION OF ALDERMEN

To the Municipal Electors of Peterborough and Ashburnham:

Having been favoured with the nomination for Alderman for our new city, I have consented to become a candidate. I think I can, with confidence, look to you for a continuance of your kind support. My record in the Council for the past four years is before you. Should you do me the honour of electing me for another term, I will continue to aim at the general welfare and progress of the municipality as a whole.

With thanks for your confidence in the past, and wishing all the Compliments of the Season, I remain,

Yours truly,

THE MAYOR'S WORD TO THE ELECTORS.

Town's Opportunity to Secure the Street Railway.

Two Alderman Should be Elected from the Fifth Ward—Hilliard Farm Purchase.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—The Street Railway and Street Lighting questions are now out of the hands of the Council and in the hands of the people, who on Monday next will be asked by ballot to express themselves for or against the by-laws as passed by the Council. Mr. Robert Stuart's direct statement that he is behind these propositions and is prepared to carry them out, removes all misapprehensions heretofore existing upon this point, and will enable the people to vote upon these questions solely on their merits.

The Street Railway bylaw provides for the construction and operation of five miles of Street Railway within the limits of the town in the most modern and efficient manner by 1st July, next, including extensions to Jackson Park and to the river. If the people want this, they have now the opportunity to secure it; if on the other hand, they allow themselves to be further hoodwinked, they have only themselves to blame if opportunity to obtain a street railway under the most favourable of auspices is permanently lost to them.

In addition to his pledged word, the Town holds as security, Mr. Stuart's marked cheque for $5,000, in the hands of the Town Treasurer, and the Street Lighting contract which he can only obtain as a condition of his making good his statements as to the building of the street railway.

The light bylaw provides for a minimum of twenty-five more lights than we have at the present time, of equal efficiency, at a cost of $50 per lamp, being the lowest price paid for street lights in Canada to-day, or in the world, so far as we know.

I would ask the people to remember also what is due to our newly annexed Ward of Ashburnham and to generously vote for a fair proportion of the candidates for Council from that Ward, so that they may be assured of fair representation in the first Council of the united municipality. The candidates are, Mr. Frank Adams, the Reeve, and Messrs. Wm. Scott and Gibbs, all good men, and members of the present Ashburnham Council, two at least of whom should be elected.

The people are also asked, and should be, prepared to vote on the bylaw for the purchase of the Hilliard farm of 66 at $10,000. This was one of the few matters which the Council unanimously favoured. It is estimated that there is enough stone and gravel on this property to last the Town for many years, and more than enough to pay for the property, and that after it has been removed the property will still be worth the original purchase price. The property rents for about enough to carry itself, and is an admirable site for a contagious disease hospital, it should therefore be an economical purchase for the town.

Yours truly,

G. M. ROGER,

Mayor.

Peterborough, Jan. 2nd, 1904.

HILLIARD PROPERTY BYLAW.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir, —I have no desire to trespass on your space unnecessarily at the eleventh hour, but I have thought the electors would expect a few last words from me before voting on the bylaw for the purchase of the Hilliard property.

No one will accuse me of doing anything but fairly representing my views and opinions on this scheme. I have expressed myself in as conscientious and straightforward a manner, and in as few practical words as I could. I now reiterate my opinion, that I consider the purchase of the 66 acres of the Hilliard estate in the north end of the town, as one of the best investments the town can make in its own interests, looking at it from every point of view as one who has had some knowledge of the needs of the town for some years past.

This property is not being pushed on the town, by any means, as since I secured the option on it, other parties, apparently anxious to secure it for some special purpose, have doubtless influenced Mr. Hilliard to say to me in a recent letter that he "hopes the town will not accept this offer." Personally, I have no interest in the transaction, other than securing for the town a source of supply for stone, gravel, sand, etc., at a nominal price, as in the future a large quantity will be required for sidewalks, roadbeds, etc.

It is now in the hands of the electors, and if they think well of the scheme, by voting in favour of it, well and good; if not, turn it down. If the scheme goes through, and is properly handled, it will, I am sure, become a very valuable asset of the town.

Yours truly,

M. Rush.

A Glad New Year for all

To all our friends we send our congratulations for a Happy New Year.

We desire also to tender our grateful acknowledgment of many kind expressions from friends and well-wishers, as well as for the generously liberal patronage of the public during the past year, but especially during this holiday season.

WM. LEECH & SONS.

ASSISTANT PASTOR PLEASANTLY SURPRISED.

Rev. J. A. Wilson Made the Recipient of a Handsome Fur Coat.

Over 100 members of St. Paul's Senior Bible Class assembled in the lecture room of the church on New Year's Eve, for the purpose of showing their appreciation of the work done during the past year by their teacher, Rev. Mr. Wilson, in presenting him with a handsome fur-lined overcoat, accompanied by an artistically penned address, the work of Mr. Pringle, principal of Shaughnessy college. The address which is as follows, was read by the secretary, Mr. R. G. Williamson, and the presentation made by Mrs. R. Mein:

Rev. J. A. Wilson, B. A.,

Assistant Pastor St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Mr. Wilson,—We, as members of the Senior Bible Class, in connection with St. Paul's Church, desire to extend to you the heartiest compliments of the season. Another year has rolled around with its changes, and the season of general good wishes and grateful remembrance is with us.

As a class, we cannot allow the opportunity to pass, without extending to you our appreciation, in some measure, of your work among us as teacher.

You have by your bright manner and instructive teaching from Sabbath to Sabbath, brought together a large number of Bible students,—a class of which we are all justly proud,—who are endeavouring to profit and live better lives by your teaching; and the lessons taught from God's word cannot fail but leave impressions when illuminated by the Spirit of God, which will never fade away, but shall shine throughout eternity.

You have been most faithful, encouraging and sympathetic in all your work, not only among us as a Bible class, but in all the different organizations of the church, and we all join in hoping that you may feel it your duty to remain among us and continue the good work, which shall redound to the glory of God and the salvation of immortal souls. May we pray that we shall all receive an abundant blessing during the year just opening before us.

In conclusion, we respectfully ask you to accept this overcoat, and our earnest prayer is that you may be spared in health and strength to wear it, and that your work may be abundantly blessed by our Father in Heaven.

Signed on behalf of the class,

Committee:

Annie W. Cameron, Adeline Lee, J. Robertson, Ella O. Simpson, Etta Thompson, A. J. Grant, Mrs. Mein, D. Baptie, Alice Dawson, R. G. Williamson, Secretary.

Peterborough, Ont., Dec. 31st, 1903.

Mr. Wilson, who was completely taken by surprise, made a feeling reply, thanking the class for their kind and thoughtful remembrance of him at the close of a happy and prosperous year.

Short addresses were given by the chairman, Mr. Johnston and others, expressive of the good spirit existing between Rev. Mr. Wilson and his splendid Bible class, which is the largest in the city.

WERE MARRIED ON NEW YEARS DAY.

Nuptials of Dr. Milburn of McLeod Miss Mabel Metheral of Town.

At noon yesterday Miss Mabel Alberta Metheral, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Metheral, was married to Dr. Weston Milburn, of McLeod, Alta., at the residence of the bride's parents, 146 Murray street. The bride and groom were unattended save by a flower girl, Miss Marion Mascrip, of Erie, Pa., a niece of the bride.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. P. Wilson in the presence of only the immediate relatives and friends of the contracting persons. The bride was married in a charming gown of crepe de chine over tafetta.

Mr. and Mrs. Milburn left on the 5.10 C.P.R. train for McLeod, where they will reside. The groom is a son of the late Robert Milburn, of Smith township.

Mr. Barry Long, the George street confectioner, prepared a dainty wedding dejeuner.

TEST OF THE NEW INSTRUMENTS.

Salvation Army Band Serenaded its Friends Yesterday.

The new instruments for the Salvation Army Band have arrived, and yesterday afternoon the band made a tour of the town serenading those who assisted by contributions in the raising of funds with which to purchase the instruments, which are a very fine set, and with them no doubt the musicians will be able to give even greater pleasure to those who hear them than has been given in the past.

The band is to be commended for the liberality with which music is supplied to the public, and now that the new instruments have been received we may reasonably expect still more and sweeter music.

Y. M. C. A Building Opened to Young men, and Enjoyable Time was Spent.

The Y.M.C.A. Building was thronged yesterday afternoon with young men and other friends of the Association, who attended the annual New Year's reception.

The reception rooms were tastefully decorated with bunting, and a strong delegation from the Social Committee, of which Mr. G. L. Galley is chairman, carried out the details of the arrangement with marked success.

Messrs. Hilborn and Templeman directed the games, which were in constant use, and the source of much enjoyment. Mr. P. G. Might and the General Secretary received in the parlours, and Messrs. Richardson and Dobbin looked after the refreshment room, each caller being served with coffee and cake.

Messrs. Barrie, Shook and McCorry prepared the coffee, which was pronounced first class.

The young men are to be congratulated on the systematic way in which everything was done, making the day so pleasant a one for those present.

MR. W. J. JOHNSTON AN OLD RESIDENT.

Mr. William J. Johnston, who is running for alderman for the town, is "Billy" Johnston the carpenter and builder, son of James Johnston, Dublin street. There is some doubt as to who this Johnston is, and some of his supporters are anxious that he should be as well known to the electors as possible. He was born and raised in this town, and is familiar with it from all its boundaries to the north, south, east and west. He lived for 14 years in the village of Ashburnham, and was for five years a member of that council, when he sold his property and moved over to Ashburnham. His record across the river was all right, and he is just as anxious for the welfare of the fifth ward as any councillor who is living in it, and is running for the office of alderman. His policy for the town is Progression, and he will see that as far as lies in his power, that everything is carried forward to a straightforward issue. His friends are anxious to see that "Billy" is a member of the council board for at least 1904.—Com.

A RATEPAYER'S OPINION.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Editor, — With the exception of three or four councillors, I have scarcely seen a worse council than the one just closed. It was lucky for the town that the deceiving by-law was quashed and I hope few of the old council will be elected. Because if elected they are bound to carry this disgraceful contract through, and spend our money in law suits. I hope our new council will ignore the old by-law and keep the street railway and the street lighting contracts separate. No council should franchise a street railway for a term of thirty years in these days of inventions. I hope to see an even representation from our five wards of honest men in our next council, which will not allow the town to be at the mercy of any monopoly. Opposition is the life of trade. And it is fortunate that we are not at the mercy of one company for our street and h[illegible] lighting. And if $1,400 yearly can be saved in street lighting, by all means it be saved, and by so doing encourage competition.

I am yours sincerely,

A LAM[illegible]

P. S.—I must have faith in [illegible] year. The world likes to [illegible] railway a success, but [illegible] a business if the old by-law [illegible] in existence.

WEDDING BELLS.

Nuptials of Mr. W. Peacock and Miss Maggie McCurdy, Both of Town.

The wedding of Miss Maggie McCurdy to Mr. Chas. W. Peacock, both of Peterborough, took place at the residence of the bride's parents on Wednesday afternoon last. The marriage was solemnized by Rev. W. J. Jolliffe, and was a very quiet affair, only the immediate relatives and friends being present.

The bride was attended by Miss Maud Doidge, while the best man was Mr. H. Jolliffe. The young couple will reside in Peterborough.

OBITUARY.

The Late John Dunn of Water Street.

The death is recorded with regret of Mr. John Dunn, who passed away at his brother's residence, 527 Water street, on December 31st. The deceased, who was a native of Peterborough, was 35 years of age at the time of his death and was unmarried. He leaves behind him, Charles Dunn, Austin Dunn and Mrs. M. Hickey, town; Frank Dunn, Fernie, B.C., and Harry Dunn, California. The funeral which took place yesterday was largely attended.

VENTRILOQUISM AND PUNCH AND JUDY SHOW

Items on Programme of St. John's Sunday School Concert on Tuesday Night Next.

The annual entertainment of the St. John's Sunday school will be held on Tuesday evening next. It is learned that a good programme has been arranged, the chief feature of which will be the numbers of Mr. Clarke of Toronto. Mr. Clarke is a ventriloquist and Punch and Judy showman of considerable repute, and will no doubt delight the audience. The Sunday school asks for a large attendance of the congregation generally.

SMELTING WITH ELECTRICITY.

The Ottawa Government has made a timely move in taking practical steps to investigate the feasibility of electric iron smelting in Ontario and Quebec, says the Toronto Globe. There are many extensive iron deposits in both Provinces, now without commercial value owing to the lack of adjacent or available coal supplies. If the energy now wasted in the many waterfalls throughout the interior can be used economically in smelting ore it will open up a splendid field for profitable enterprise. The new smelting process, known as the "thermo-electric," has already been successfully operated in Europe, where waterpower has been found available adjacent to iron ore deposits. There are three plants established already in France, one in Italy, and one in Sweden, but all the mechanical and financial questions involved cannot be settled without a practical investigation at first hand. This will be conducted by Dr. Eugene Haanel, Superintendent of Mines, assisted by Dr. Thomas Cobb and Mr. C. S. Brown, C.E., assistant works engineer of the General Electric Company, Peterborough.

Dr. Haanel will also [illegible] of an expert metallurgist and [illegible] additional assistance as may be required to make a thorough investigation of this process and to determine the possibility of its being carried on profitably in Canada. SAPPHIRE CORRUNDUM MINES.

Another Move in the Courts of Local Interest.

The following is from the report of proceedings at Osgoode Hall:

Haycock v. Sapphire Corundum Co.—Judgment (R) on petition by the Hamilton Powder Co., to have their name struck out of the judgement and to vacate the judgment so far as it affects them. The action was brought to enforce a mechanic's lien against the lands of the defendant company, and was tried before the local Master at Peterborough, under sec. 35 of the mechanics and wage-earners' lien act, R.S.O., ch. 153. The petitioners were at the time of the trial judgment creditors of defendant company, having a fi fa. goods and lands in the hands of the Sheriff of Peterborough. The judgment recited that the petitioners had a lien on the lands, and declared that plaintiffs and others were entitled to mechanic's liens, but did not otherwise affect to settle priorities. The petitioners were not served with any notice of trial, and they did not appear at the trial or prove any claim. The trial was on the 20th June, 1903, and their fi fa was placed in the Sheriff's hands only on the 18th June, 1903. Held, that it is the persons who are incumbrancers at the time fixed for serving notice of trial, that is, eight days before the trial, and those only who are required to be served service of notice of trial on them being the mode by which incumbrancers not already parties to the proceeding are brought in. Order made that the name of the petitioners and all reference to their claim be stricken out of the judgment. Plaintiffs to pay to petitioners a portion of their costs, fixed at $20. F. E. Hodgins, K. C., for the petitioners. W. H. Blake, K. C., for plaintiffs.

GALWAY.

(From our own Correspondent.)

We are having very cold stormy weather just now.

A number of our young men are home from camp to spend Christmas but intend returning in a few days.

Mr. Jos. McGuire had the misfortune to have his house destroyed by fire on the morning of the 21st of December.

Mr. Albert Collins, who has been absent for a number of years, has returned home from South Africa.

Mr. Robert Allen left here last week for Orillia to spend his Christmas.

We are sorry to hear of the death of Miss Nellie Doherty after a few weeks' illness.

A PRETTY HOUSE WEDDING.

Mr. John R. Bothwell Wedded to Miss Nellie Victoria Western of Cobourg

A very pretty house wedding took place on Wednesday, December 23rd, at 12.30, at the residence of Mr. Thos. Western, Spring street, Cobourg, when his second daughter, Miss Nellie Victoria, was united in matrimony to Mr. John R. Bothwell, of Peterborough, in the presence of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. On account of the illness of Rev. Canon Spragg, Rector of St. Peter's church, Cobourg, the ceremony was performed by Rev. M. W. Wood, of Toronto, in the drawing room, which was tastefully decorated for the occasion.

The bridal party entered the room to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, played by Miss Mary Cuddy, and took their position in front of a bank of flowers. The bride was given away by her father. She looked most charming in a gown of white silk crepe de chene. The bodice was trimmed with Brussels lace studded with pearls a panel, and yoke of the same lace trimmed the skirt. The bride carried a sheaf bouquet of white carnations, and was assisted by her sister, Miss Lizzie Western, who also looked most attractive in a gown of white net over white taffeta silk with trimmings of satin ribon. The bridesmaid carried pink carnations.

The groom was supported by his brother Mr. Geo. F. Bothwell.

After the ceremony and felicitous congratulations, and signing of the register, a recherche wedding breakfast was served in the dining room, which was most tastefully decorated with evergreens.

At the conclusion of the breakfast the health of the bride and groom was proposed by the bride's father and Rev. Mr. Wood and was responded to by the groom. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful gold watch, to the bridesmaid a sunburst of pearls, and to the groomsman a stick pin of the four leaved clover design.

The bride's travelling suit was of grey flake cloth over a pale blue silk blouse and black picture hat.

The happy couple left on the 2.40 train for their new home in Peterborough, amid showers of rice, and best wishes for their future happiness.

Among the many handsome gifts received was a prayer book from the Rev. Canon Spragg, and a silver tray from the choir of St. Peter's church accompanied by the following ad-

Dear Miss Western,—

The members of St. Peter's choir desire to express their regret at your loss, and ask you to accept the accompanying gift as a token of their sincere regard and their best wishes for your happiness in your new home.

Hoping you will not forget old friends, and wishing you a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

St. Peter's Choir.

OMEMEE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

There was a large number of visitors in our village during the holidays from all parts of the Dominion and the United States.

No such cold snap has ever been experienced here so early in the season, according to the oldest inhabitants. Manitoba visitors declare it to be more severe than in the Prairie Province.

A great effort is being put forth to please every person at the New Year's entertainment by our Presbyterian friends.

The Xmas concert as usual proved a great success. The programme was supplied by the Toronto Concert Co., including Messrs. Thornton Bros., and Bigott, vocalists; Mr. Harding, solo pianist and accompanist. Each and every member of the company proved himself to be unequalled in their respective lines. Mr. Pigott proved himself a genuine funny man, while W. H. Thornton as tenor soloist, possesses such a powerful tenor voice that he has been engaged for our Choral Society concert.

The nominations on Monday were interesting and instructive to many of the ratepayers. There will be opposition for both reeve and councillors in both the village and township.

The House of Refuge to be established at Lindsay, is now being more favourably commented upon by many formerly opposed to it.

W. C. Tully, an employee in the electric works, Peterborough, was a visitor here on Christmas.

We regret to hear that George Morrison, an inmate of the Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, is not very much better from the results of a fall. At his advanced age of 83 a good recovery can hardly be looked for.

SPRINGVILLE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The ladies will have a tea and entertainment on January 4th. Tea will be served in the Orange Hall from 5 to 7.30. A first class programme has been arranged for to commence at 7.30 in the church. Addresses will be given by Revs. Whitelaw, of Omemee; McIntosh, of Centreville; and Wilson of St. Paul's, Peterborough. There will also be musical literary numbers. Miss White of Peterborough, and Miss Kerr, of Otonabee, will take part. The musical part of the programme will be exceptionally meritorious. Miss Helen Davies of Peterborough, will sing. Mr. Laurason and a quartette from St. Paul's under the leadership of Mr. Crane, will take part. Mr. Herb Williamson, of Toronto, is expected to render a recitation. All are invited to be present and enjoy the treat of the season.

There will be special services on Sunday, January 3rd. Rev. Mr. Whitelaw of Omemee will preach at 10.30 a.m., and 7.30 p.m.

Mr. Melville Miller of Calgary, Jack of Midland, Emeline and William of Toronto and Florence of Peterborough, spent Xmas with their mother, Mrs. W. W. Miller.

Mr. Jas. Campbell is home for a few days from the Toronto Medical College.

Mr. Robert English spent Friday in Port Hope.

Dr. and Mrs. V. McWilliams were in Toronto for Christmas.

Miss Emma Porter, and her brother, Mr. Ed. Porter, who is attending Yale, are the guests of Mrs. Dr. Harrison.

Mr. Jas. Long of Peterborough, spent Friday with Mrs. A. Campbell.

Miss Woods of Fenelon Falls, is visiting her sister, Miss Maggie Wood, at the manse.

Rev. D. D. and Mrs. McDonald attended the wedding of their sister, this week at Kingston.

The most successful concert of the season was held on Tuesday evening. Miss Florence Miller of Peterborough, and Mr. H. Ruthven McDonald of Toronto, delighted a very large and appreciative audience. Long before the time to commence the programme every available seat was occupied, and the committee were compelled to turn away over 100, for which they were extremely sorry, but they could not find a way out of the dilemma. It was really a shame that persons after driving a long distance were compelled to turn around and go home, and the township council should at once carry out the proposed improvement in the hall. We hope that those who were disappointed will accept our apology for a misfortune over which the committee had no control.

THERE IS A WAY OUT OF IT.

Catarrh, the Offensive and Dangerous Disease, can be Cured.

Catarrh is a disease that afflicts a majority of the people of the United States. It comes without warning, and from its offensive nature causes intense suffering and humiliation. Its complications are often dangerous and fatal, dyspepsia, bronchitis and consumption frequently resulting, if catarrh is allowed to run its course unchecked.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets have done more good and effected more cures among catarrh sufferers than any known remedy. They never fail to cure even the most aggravated cases where their use is adhered to. They thoroughly renovate the system and cleanse it of all impurities. Under their influence all catarrhal poisons are thrown off and the cure is complete and permanent.

A prominent lawyer and public speaker of Pittsburg, says: "I have been troubled with catarrh of the head and throat for 12 years. In this climate it seems impossible to get rid of it. The continual dropping of mucus from the nose into the throat causes irritation and hoarseness, seriously interfering with my public speaking. It took me an hour or more of coughing, gagging, expectorating and sneezing every morning before I could settle down to work, and this condition gradually brought on catarrh of the stomach, causing loss of appetite, poor digestion and a foul breath, which annoyed me exceedingly. My physician advised me to try Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and I took them for two months and was astonished to find how quickly they cured my head, throat and stomach, and I have no hesitation in recommending them. They are not only pleasant to take, but they seem to get at the very root of the trouble, because since using them I have had no trace of catarrh."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box. They have done so much good and the demand for them is so great that no druggist ever fails to keep them in stock, although there are other remedies which yield him a greater profit. Druggists know, however, that they would be making a great mistake and endangering their business to be without Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

RATS DIED OF PLAGUE.

Therefore German Steamer is Held in Quarantine For Developments.

Hamburg, Germany, Dec. 31.—The inquiry into the mortality among the rats on the German steamer Cordoba, from Santos, Brazil, confirms the report that they died of bubonic plague. The vessel has been towed to Strandhufen, and quarantined. There is no sickness among the crew.

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding and Protruding Piles. No cure, no pay. All druggists are authorized by the manufacturers of Pazo Ointment to refund the money where it fails to cure any case of piles, no matter of how long standing, ordinary cases in six days; the worst in fourteen days. One application gives ease and rest. Relieves itching instantly. This is a new discovery and is the only pile remedy sold on a positive guarantee, no cure no pay. Price 50c.

If your druggist hasn't it in stock send 50 cents (stamps or silver accepted) to the Pazo Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo., manufacturers of Laxative Bromo Quinine, the celebrated cold cure.

Note Your Weight.

By noting your increase in weight while using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food you can prove for a certainty the new flesh it puts on and thus add materially to the duty. This is the surest test you can apply to any tonic and proves the superiority of this great restorative preparation of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous Receipt Book author.

Commenting James Smart's letter and Phillips Thompson's statement re deportation of immigrants in Canada, also Thompson's contradiction, The Times says: "We cannot accept the apparently official news. Thompson is a species of Anarchist, but we think the latter has exaggerated the trouble."

To Divert Public Attention.

Frederic Harrison, in his annual address before the Positivist Society of London yesterday, denounced Chamberlain's policy as a scheme to divert public attention. The panacea was land taxation. English acres would still grow food and game-keepers could be sent to Canada in order to discover who is doing the dumping. The customs department shall be ordered in future to see that all entries imported or exported must show the actual prices whence consigned.

The Economic Kipling.

Max Nordau says the masses in Europe see in Chamberlain the political and economic Kipling. If England all over the world acts strong as iron the colonies will grow into one solid British Empire.

CHAMBERLAIN TOO BUSY.

To Go to Australia—Long Absence From England Impossible at Present.

Melbourne, Victoria, Jan. 2.—Joseph Chamberlain has replied to an invitation of the Federal Ministry, asking him to visit Australia, saying he hoped at no distant date to accept it, adding that: "Until a mandate is given his 'lengthened absence from England was impossible.'"

PILES

Cured Quickly and Without Pain

There are pile remedies without number, but there is only one cure, and that is the Pyramid Pile Cure which is in the form of a suppository, and is applied directly to the seat of the trouble.

Any physician will tell you that for the proper treatment of Piles nothing can compare with a suppository, whereas the greater number of preparations that are offered to you for the treatment of this disease are lotions, salves and ointments. Why? Because they are not so expensive as a suppository, which is bound to contain more costly ingredients, and which require special machinery to make it; moreover, a suppository inserted up the rectum, comes in direct contact with the cause of the complaint and no other form of treatment does so.

Wallace Cookman, Hallerton, P.Q., Canada, writes, "I have had two surgical operations for piles and they were not a success; after using only three boxes of Pyramid Pile Cure I feel as though I never had piles, and they have afflicted me for twenty-five years.

R. H. Palmer, Windsor, Calif., "After suffering from piles for 15 years and trying different salves and ointments in vain I was completely cured by the use of two fifty cent packages of Pyramid Pile Cure."

These and thousands of similar letters go to show that piles can be cured, are cured; cured to stay cured; cured so they won't come back; cured without cutting; cured without danger; cured without pain; cured without detention from work; cured without indelicate examinations; cured in privacy of home; cured by a self applied treatment; cured with very little expense; cured without the dread and publicity of waiting your turn at the surgeon's office; cured without a dangerous surgical operation, its period of enforced invalidism, tedious convalescence and heavy expense. You simply buy and apply a cheap and convenient remedy—it does the rest.

All druggist sell Pyramid Pile cure at fifty cents a package, and we want all sufferers to write the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., for their little book on "The Causes and Cure of Piles," which is sent free for the asking.

Two Brothers Drowned.

Troy, N. Y., Jan. 2.—Thomas and John Mansfield, brothers, aged 13 and 10 years respectively, who resided with their grandmother, Mrs. Anna Graham of Greer Island, were drowned yesterday while skating on the State Basin, near their home. The older lad broke through the ice and the younger tried to save him, breaking through himself.

C.P.R. Extension Opened.

Montreal, Jan. 2.—The C.P.R. extension from Labelle to Nominingue, a distance of 25 miles, is open for traffic. The Government engineer and C.P.R. officials inspected the line Thursday.

Munyon's Witness

GEO. BARBEAU TELLS HOW HE WAS CURED.

"I had the first twinges of Rheumatism last fall. I first noticed it in my knee, and finally it went all through my body, and my knees were swollen up like bladders, and red, as if filled with blood. I secured two vials of Munyon's Rheumatism Cure, and the swelling soon went down in my feet, so much so that my wife could put on my shoes for me. I take a dose of pills once in a while simply as a preventive. The pains have all gone and have not returned since I first started taking them." Mr. George Barbeau, 13 Nicholas street, Ottawa.

If you are sick, if you have indigestion, if you are nervous, if your liver or blood is out of order, if you have any kidney disease, if you have piles, or any ailment, ask your druggist for "Munyon's Guide to Health"; it is free and will tell you how to cure yourself for 25c. Thousands of testimonials. nB

SIR WILFRID HONORED.

Presented With Fenian Raid Medal at the Governor Generals Reception—Other Honors.

Ottawa, Jan. 2.—The New Year's levee of His Excellency the Governor-General was largely attended yesterday, large crowds calling between 12 and 1 o'clock. His Excellency was attended by members of his staff, Lord Dundonald, Major Maude, Capt. Bell, Lord Aylmer and many of the officers of the local corps, all in uniform. Before the ceremony His Excellency invested Colonel Pinault, Deputy Minister of Militia and Defence, and L. P. Hebert, the sculptor, with the insignia of the Order of Companion of St. Michael and St. George, both having received C. M. G. on the King's birthday honors.

Another interesting incident was the pinning of a Fenian raid veterans' medal on the Premier, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who as a young man shouldered his musket to repel the invaders.

Mgr. Sbarretti, Papal Delegate to Canada, held a reception in the hall of the Knights of Columbus and many of the faithful called to greet His Excellency.

ANCIENT CAPITAL'S BIG FIRE.

Quebec's Business Section Becomes a Prey to the Devouring Element.

Quebec, Que., Jan. 2.—A big fire Thursday night caused damages to the extent of $200,000, partially covered by insurance. About 9 o'clock fire was discovered in the large block on St. Peter street, occupied by Dr. Ed. Morin, wholesale druggists, and McCall and Shehyn, wholesale dry goods. It started in the upper storey occupied as a drug factory by Dr. Morin, and in three hours the whole building with its contents was destroyed. Dr. Morin had a stock valued at $40,000, and insurance to the amount of $25,000. McCall & Shehyn's stock was valued at $160,000, with insurance to the amount of $130,000, divided in different companies. The building was valued at $30,000, and belonged to the nuns of La Congregation Notre Dame. The loss on the building is covered by insurance.

SHOT AND ROBBED.

An Armenian Moulder Thrown Down, Robbed and Shot By His Friend.

Brantford, Jan. 2.—On Thursday Abraham George, an Armenian moulder in the employ of the Pratt-Letchworth Company, was assaulted on Market street shortly after 11 o'clock. He was walking in company with another Armenian, when an unknown party accosted him. George refused to comply with the stranger's demand that he hand over his watch and money, whereupon his "friend" and the assailant threw him down and robbed him of his watch. In the struggle which followed the stranger shot George in the knee, and the two escaped. The bullet was extracted. The two men are still at large.

KILLED IN THE YUKON.

E. B. Gorrell Accidently Shoots Himself With a Winchester.

Vancouver, Jan. 2.—A Winchester bullet on Thursday ended the life of E. B. Gorrell, operator on the Yukon telegraph line at Pike River, twenty miles south of Atlin, under strange circumstances. While taking a walk, Gorrell noticed a small snow-laden tree overhanging the wire. He tapped the tree trunk with his rifle to dislodge the snow. The concussion discharged the cartridge, the bullet entering Gorrell's abdomen. He expired shortly after reaching the Atlin Hospital.

Last Day For Private Bills.

Toronto, Jan. 2.—Clerk of the Legislative Assembly Clark issued to-day notice that Monday, January 25th, would be the last day for receiving private bills.

Sydney Now a City.

Halifax, N.S., Jan. 2.—By a special act of the Legislature of Nova Scotia, passed last year, the Town of Sydney, C.B., became a city yesterday.

THEATRES CLOSED.

Chicago's Mayor Takes Action and Nineteen Are Dark.

A DAY OF GREAT MOURNING

Thirty School Teachers Said to Have Perished in the Flames—Scenes of the Most Harrowending Nature Enacted Throughout the City—Three Belleville People Among the Dead.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—As a result of an investigation made at Mayor Harrison's orders, nineteen theatres and museums closed yesterday, some of them being among the leading and most popular play houses of the city.

The act of the Mayor was based on the ground that every one of these places had omitted to supply an asbestos curtain.

The Mayor declares that no theatre should be allowed to open its doors in Chicago hereafter unless it was provided with an asbestos curtain of standard quality that would work at all times and under all conditions.

"It may not be possible," said Mayor Harrison, "to prevent loss of life when audiences rush for the doorways, but I am determined to see that every precaution is taken to prevent such occurrences as will alarm the people and start them on a rush for the exits. It is all very well to say that the great loss of life in the Iroquois Theatre was due to the fact that the people lost their heads and crowded into the doorways and aisles like maniacs, but the fact remains, and it cannot be denied, that there would have been no panic if the apparatus in this theatre had been in proper working condition. From all the evidence now in hand it is clear that if the asbestos curtain in this theatre had been in condition, as it should have been, there would have been no loss of life, comparatively speaking."

A Day of Mourning.

Such a day of mourning was never witnessed as that which ushered in the New Year. Every portion of the city, almost seemed as if there were funerals going or undertaker wagons arriving with dead, who were being brought to their homes for the last time. While the funeral processions were moving through the snow-covered streets to various cemeteries the throng about the various morgues and undertaking establishments seemed almost as large as ever.

All the bodies which admit of careful identification have been carried away, and of those which remain the majority are in such a condition that only the most minute and careful inspection will be able to reveal their identity to those who know them best.

Scenes of the greatest agony were witnessed everywhere, while this was varied in several cases by sorry turned to joy by the return of those given up for lost.

Thirty Teachers Gone.

Superintendent of Schools Cooley announced last night that the Iroquois Theatre fire had killed twenty-four teachers in the Chicago Public Schools and six teachers are still reported missing, making a total of thirty.

Belleville People Burned.

Belleville, Jan. 2.—It transpires that the wife and child of a former Bellevillian, E. Davey, were lost in the great Chicago holocaust, also Ellis Benjamin, their cousin, a former resident of this city, who accompanied them to the theatre.

More Fire in Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—The Hotel Louvre, in Lake avenue, between 56th and 57th streets, was practically destroyed by fire last night. Two bodies have been taken from the building, and a boy who was badly burned has since died.

Jute Over a Mine.

San Francisco, Jan. 2.—Robert J. Anderson, representing eastern men, among them E. V. Douglas of the Lake Superior Consolidated Company, is suing John Davis of Amador, Cal.; Edward A. Davis, his brother, and Frank Hall of this city, to recover $250,000 paid defendants for the Sweepstakes Mine, which he and his associates brought for $6,000,000.

In Bad Luck All Round

Toronto, Jan. 2.—James Cousins, the old blind man who sells papers at Queen street and Spadina avenue, is in hard luck. A few days ago his news stand was damaged by fire, and Thursday morning he was struck by a street car. His head was cut and his hip injured.

Lieut.-Governor's Reception.

Toronto, Jan. 2.—The customary New Year's reception was held at Government House from 4 to 6.30 p. m. yesterday. His Honor Lieut.-Gov. Clark, Mrs. Clark, Miss Clark, and Premier Ross received the guests. About the usual number called.

Germany Denies Rumor.

Berlin, Jan. 2.—The report that Germany contemplates the accusation of a coaling station at St. Thomas, Danish West India, is semi-officially declared to be unfounded.

More Trouble Possible.

New York, Jan. 2.—Another revolution on the Isthmus, this time against the Government of the new Republic of Panama, is a possibility that has been discussed at Washington for two days. On the surface everything is quiet, but the Government is closely watching conditions in Panama for signs of possible intrigue. If a revolution within a revolution develops it is likely to come about the time the constitutional convention is called to meet, on Jan. 20.

I	Book No. 3 on the Kidneys.
Send?	Book No. 4 for Women.
	Book No. 5 for Men (sealed).
	Book No. 6 on Rheumatism.

Send me no money.

Only tell me the book you need.

The book will show you what I learned after 30 years as a specialist.

I will tell you how at last I found a way to reach deep-seated and difficult diseases.

It will give you my experience of 30 years in hospitals and at bedsides. It is this experience that made it possible for me to write these books for the sick.

The books tell how I perfected my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. How by scientific experiment I traced out the causes that bring on chronic diseases.

I found invariably that there was a weakness, the inside nerves were weak.

Where there was a lack of vitality, the vital nerves lacked power.

Where weak organs were found, I always found weak nerves.

Not the nerves commonly thought of, but the vital organs' nerves. The inside—the invisible nerves.

This was a revelation.

Then my real success began.

Then I combined ingredients that would strengthen—that would vitalize these nerves.

That prescription I called a restorative. It is known the world over as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. After that I did not fail to cure one case in each hundred. In the extremely difficult cases my failures were one in each forty treated. I found cancer incurable. Cancer is for surgery, not medicine.

Then how to get this prescription to the sick ones everywhere was my thought.

I must announce it in the public press. But, thought I, will they realize the real truth of my discovery—the real power of Dr. Shoop's Restorative? Then a way came to me like an inspiration.

"I will offer it to the sick on trial," said I. "Then they will know I am sincere—that my prescription is unusual."

I wrote a reliable druggist in each city and village in America. They agreed to co-operate with me.

Now by any Sick One

Dr. Shoop's Restorative

Can be Taken at my Risk.

For a full month I will let you use it entirely at my risk.

Send no money. Just write me for the book you need. When I send it I will tell you of a druggist near you who will permit the month's trial. Use the Restorative a month. Then decide. If you say to the druggist, "It did not help me," that will relieve you of any expense whatever. He will bill the cost to me. This is my way of clearing your mind of all doubt as to what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do.

No matter how prejudiced, you cannot dispute this absolute security I offer. You cannot resist an offer like this if you are at all sick. If you have a weakness write me. If you can't do things like you used to do them, tell me about it. Write in confidence. As a physician I will tell you a way to help.

Get my book now—to-day.

Address Dr. Shoop, Box 47, Racine, Wis.

Mild cases, not chronic, are often cured by one or two bottles. At druggists.

THE PRESIDENT'S RECEPTION.

A Brilliant Scene, But Rich and Poor Both Welcome.

Washington, Jan. 2.—President and Mrs. Roosevelt inaugurated yesterday the official social season in the nation's capital with a brilliant reception to the public and diplomats at the White House.

For more than a hundred years it has been an unbroken custom. The reception was throughly democratic. No distinctions of rank or class were made, except such as were reddered necessary by a due respect for order. All persons, rich or poor, with or without rank, were given a gracious greeting by the President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

Kootenay Country Booms.

Ottawa, Jan. 2.—Mr. James McEvoy, geologist to the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company, of Fernie, B. C., who is in Ottawa, reports the growth of Fernie and other neighboring towns to be very substantial, and business brisk.

The great increase in the output of the coal mines is the principal cause of the prosperity, the monthly payroll now amounting to over $100,000, and the daily output for the last week was 3,400 tons. Besides the coal mining there are other industries, such as saw mills, manufactories, etc., which add materially to the growth of the town. Generally speaking the Kootenay country has picked up in a remarkable way during the last few months.

A Stock Swindler's Scheme.

New York, Jan. 2.—"By means of a carefully pre-arranged scheme, a man calling himself S. W. Spencer, and representing himself to be the British Vice-Consul at Washington, an office that does not exist, has been traveling through Europe since last October, swindling banking houses with spurious drafts and forged cheques drawn on prominent bankers and business men in New York. Spencer has been operating on a scale which, when the details are known, will probably involve sums reaching to thousands of dollars.

PETERBOROUGH IN 1904.

A correspondent in another column, "Enterprise," strikes the right keynote in regard to the position and aspirations of Peterborough for the coming year of 1904. Aside from the paragraphs of special pleading, which must be accepted or rejected on their merits, the general tenor of his letter must commend itself to the approval of every progressive citizen. We are now Greater Peterborough. Yesterday the act of union went into effect, and now in name there is no more Ashburnham, only the fifth ward of Peterborough, as essentially a part of the town as any other part of it, with the same interests, the same ambitions.

So quietly was the amalgamation effected, that few perhaps realize the importance of the act of union. Peterborough has added to her population a large number of excellent citizens who have in the past managed their affairs with commendable prudence and success, and whom we may expect to contribute to the good government of the town. We must all remember that now our interests are one, that there is no more dividing line—that we must all pull together to advance the common weal. Then we have in our sister village a most important territorial addition, which affords excellent opportunities for both residential and industrial expansion. The fifth ward presents a great many splendid sites for industrial establishments, with excellent railway connections, and equally excellent water connections. Not the least of the advantages of the addition of the Fifth Ward is the important extension of our water front, to include the Trent Canal with all the advantages its completion and operation will represent.

It is plain to be seen that Greater Peterborough brings correspondingly increased responsibilities to our citizens, and, especially, to their representatives in the council. The people have a greater responsibility than ever before in the selection of representatives, and whoever are elected as aldermen must feel that their responsibility is greatly enlarged, that more public spirit is demanded, that greater enterprise, conjoined with greater prudence, is required. Their ideas must be enlarged beyond the parochial point of view. If we would enjoy the measure of progress and prosperity which the coming year and coming years should bring us, we must eliminate all local jealousies and work harmoniously together. By thus uniting we will serve the common good, and thus individual interests will be advanced, without individual detriment. The only justifiable jealousy is that for the good name and progress of the town, the only justifiable rivalry is the friendly strife as to whom shall do the most to help Peterborough onward and upward. If people and representatives thus act and thus co-operate, the year 1904 will be a prosperous one for Greater Peterborough.

MR. BATTEN CONFIDENT.

He is in the Field as an Aldermanic Candidate.

Mr. Jos. Batten is again a candidate for Alderman, and he states that this is his fourth year, that his record is before the people and he still believes he has their confidence. He claims that he has done his best to advance the town's interests, and that he deserves some degree of credit for the marked improvements he has made in the town buildings. His experience at the Council Board, his practical knowledge of the town's needs, combined with his interest in the progress of the town and with his earnest desire for its progress justify, he thinks, a renewal of public confidence.

"The Acceptable Year".

THE CHURCHES.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

The annual Sunday school entertainment of St. John's church will be held on Tuesday evening, January 5th in the school house. The services of Mr. Robert Clarke, a professional entertainer from Toronto, have been secured, and he will give exhibitions of ventriloquism, including the ever popular Punch and Judy show.

MURRAY STREET BAPTIST.

The pastor will preach in the morning. The Lord's Supper will be administered after the sermon. Rev. A. H. Brace will preach in the evening. The public is cordially invited.

GEORGE STREET METHODIST.

The monthly Fellowship Meeting in the George street Methodist church to-morrow morning at ten o'clock, will be led by the pastor. As this will be the first Sunday of the New Year, the meeting should be one of especial interest. All are welcome.

The services to-morrow will be in keeping with the beginning of the New Year.

The pastor will occupy his pulpit. Music appropriate to the occasion.

The watch night service in the George street church was well attended.

CHARLOTTE STREET CHURCH.

The pastor, Rev. W. J. Jolliffe, will conduct both services to-morrow. Morning subject, "Self examination." Evening subject, "Were the former days better than these?" Renewal of the covenant at the close of the morning service.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt will preach at both services to-morrow. The subject in the morning will be "Our weakness our strength," and in the evening, "Comfort for mourners." The Holy Communion will be administered at the morning service.

ALL SAINT'S CHURCH.

The second anniversary of the formation of All Saints church will be celebrated to-morrow when special services will be held, the preacher for the day being Ven. Archdeacon Allen, D.C.L., of Millbrook. Special music has been prepared for the occasion. Holy Communion will be celebrated at 8.30, which will be Rev. W. L. Armitage's last communion, and a large attendance is expected.

The annual Sunday school entertainment of All Saints' church, will be held on Thursday, January 7th.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

Rev. J. A. Wilson will preach at the morning service and Rev. Dr. Torrance in the evening. Regular monthly collection for missions will be taken. Sabbath school and Bible classes at three p.m. Lesson, "The Boyhood of Jesus," Luke ii. 40—52. As this is the beginning of a new series a good attendance is looked for.

Miss Helen Davies and Miss Lily Moore will, by request, sing "He shall Feed His Flock," and "Come unto Him," from the Messiah, at the morning service at St. Paul's to-morrow.

ST. PAUL'S MISSION.

Rev. Dr. Torrance will preach at 11 a.m., and Rev. J. A. Wilson at 7 p.m Monthly collection for missions.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

Morning prayer at 10.30 in church parlour. Divine worship at 11 a.m. The Rev. J. G. Potter will preach. Subject, "Our Hope for 1904," Hag. ii, 9. At 7 p.m., Ernest G. Guthrie, M. A., of Dunedin, New Zealand, will assist the pastor and will preach a seasonable and appropriate sermon from Isa. xxi, 11, "Watchman, what of the Night?"

Pastor's Bible class at 3 p.m. Subject, "The Boyhood of Jesus." Luke ii, 40-52.

VOTE FOR GIBBS.

To the Municipal Electors of Peterborough and Ashburnham:

Ladies and gentlemen, — At the request of many ratepayers I have decided to offer myself a candidate for Alderman for 1904. I have been a member of the Ashburnham Council and am familiar with the live questions before the electors of the village as well as the important questions engaging the attention of the town of Peterborough. If elected I will give these and all other matters that may come before the council my careful consideration. As a workingman I will be particularly anxious to keep down taxation and curtail all useless expenditure of the people's money.

Hoping to receive your cordial support at the polls,

I remain, yours truly,
WILLIAM GIBBS.

PETERBOROUGH'S MODERN STORE.

January, 1904

We take this opportunity of thanking our many friends and customers for favours extended to us in the past, and the continued confidence and support which you have given us since moving into our new quarters, 353 and 355 George St., has encouraged us to be more grateful than ever.

GREAT JANUARY DISCOUNT SALE

for January, 1904, we have decided to inaugurate a Genuine Discount Sale, a Sale without a parallel in this town—not few items picked out here and there and laid out as baits, as done by some stores, but a genuine discount sale in which everything, positively everything, in our immense store full of goods will be reduced.

We intend to make this a semi-annual event and a sale that Peterborough citizens will look forward to with pleasant recollections of past purchases.

Your appreciation of our efforts to give you better qualities at the same prices and the same qualities at lower prices than elsewhere enables us to make very liberal reduction for the month of January, and anyone requiring anything in the Dry Goods line should take advantage of these wonderful reductions. Don't hesitate because you have not been a regular customer here. We extend this offer to everything. Come and share in these genuine reductions. When you see the qualities we give at these very low prices, you will be a regular customer here.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 2ND

This sale will open Saturday, January 2nd and continue for the month of January. Space will not permit us to give an itemized list. Come and see genuine liberal reductions all over the store.

"ENTERPRISE" WRITES ON LIVE QUESTION.

Advice to New Council of Greater Peterborough.

Greater Peterborough, and the Best Railway,—

"Resolved, — That Peterborough shall be the most enterprising and progressive town in Ontario," would be a good New Year's resolution for every voter to put in effect next Monday.

The issue is Stagnation or Progress. Opportunity is knocking at our door, and we must vote it in by electing a progressive council, and substantially supporting the Light and Railway by-laws supported for our approval.

The individual or community that als Opportunity to pass will wait long f its return, and lose much in the antime. A growing city must have ans for expansion and intercommunication, or it will not be a desirable ce for residence, and growth of popation and wealth come to a standill.

It is a larger question than the cost street lamps that is before us, and though I am a customer of the Otonbee Power Company, I have no sympaby with their dog-in-the-manger policy blocking the larger interests of the own. If they dealt legs in false inimations, we might take more stock their claim of public benefactors, and heir one-string solo of $1,400 a year. Their conduct stamps them as the very people who will be as eager to advance price as reduce it, when its suits their interests to do so.

In regard to the lighting bylaw, if no other consideration were attached, it would not be wise for the town to accept their offer and be tied up for ten years to a "one machine concern," when we have the chance of securing an unfailing supply from a fully equipped company at the lowest rate of any town in Ontario, and that without the duplication of unsightly poles. This pole question is one that the new council should endeavour to simplify by underground wiring on main streets and systematic branches elsewhere. The town might own such lines and have one set of poles used by different companies, where wires are not numerous. Yesterday I counted 10 poles at several street corners and there may be corners that have more. No unnecessary duplication of poles should be a firm demand of the people and it is our duty in the best interests of good service to heartily support the lighting bylaw authorising a contract with the Peterborough Light and Power Company. Cheap concerns are seldom reliable and their goods are liable to be dearer in the end.

As to the street railway we have the splendid opportunity of having it undertaken by a reliable company that has more than fulfilled its past promises to the town, and we can rely on its assurance to give us a first-class service of which any city might be proud. It is our opportunity. Let us secure it and not be turned aside by 11th hour bluffs from any other source.

Let us have a live, progressive council. We may congratulate ourselves on having Mayor Roger again returned to carry out the enterprises already inaugurated. We have had a good efficient enterprising Council. We should re-elect those in the field except the few members who have opposed progress at every turn and have allowed themselves to become the tools of the Otonabee Power Company.

Ald. Morrison especially deserves our gratitude for his pains-taking, efficient service, his progressive spirit and his ability to breast interested opposition to the town's welfare. And in the selection of new material let us avoid shallow men anxious for office and secure men of thought, and broad outlook, who can see the needs of the future and prepare for them, thus making the "Electric City" thrill with stable progressive life and growing prosperity.

Yours truly,
"ENTERPRISE."

MR. SNOWDEN GIVES EXPRESSION TO HIS VIEWS

Says the Street Railway Franchise is a Valuable one.

To the ratepayers of the town of Peterborough,—

Gentlemen, — I hope the ratepayers by this time have had their eyes opened to the fact that the franchise which the town proposes to present to Mr. Stuart is a most valuable one. His anxiety, as shown by the efforts of his solicitor to secure it, is ample evidence of this fact. The giving of the street lighting contract to the Peterborough Light and Power Company for ten years will cost the ratepayers twenty-five thousand dollars over and above the Otonabee Company's price, taking into consideration the extra lights that will be required as the town grows.

We don't want the street railway at the price — the handing over of all the streets in town to Mr. Stuart and his friends for thirty years, and keeping them clean of snow, which will cost many thousands of dollars. I am satisfied the franchise would bring ten or twenty thousand dollars in the near future. Indeed, I happen to know of capitalists who are anxious to get it, and who are willing to give the town a percentage of the profits, same as Toronto. The ratepayers need not worry about this. I hope the ratepayers will record their votes against the proposed deal, which I regard as opposed to the best interests of the people.

Yours truly,
WM. SNOWDEN.

"ANOTHER OLD CITIZEN" ADDRESSES ELECTORS.

A few Plain Facts for the Electors to Consider Before Promising Their Votes.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—If the Radial Railway Co. applied to the Council for an extension of their franchise for thirty years, it would be refused. They knew that, hence the trickery of trying to secure it under the cloak of Mr. Stuart and his cheque for $5,000. Deceit! Deceit! Electors vote against the by-law and every man who supported it, and is now asking a renewal of your confidence.

Street lighting fraud. An expert was brought to advise the council as to the propriety of the town supplying its own light, but he decided it would be a great mistake to undertake to do so, and a very active Alderman assured the ratepayers that it could not be done. The assertion is false, providing a few more honest men can be found in town to manage it honestly and intelligently, as the water commissioners are doing. Giving good service and saving money for the town.

This same and honest Alderman, with a few others now seeking re-election, were, and are still, quite willing to sanction the taking of $1,400 a year for 10 years, out of your pockets and making a present of it to their friends, the Peterborough Light and Power Co., rather than accept the same service from the Otonabee Power Co. and therefor reduce your taxes instead of increasing them. Vote against the by-law and all who supported it, and you will teach those Aldermen a lesson they will not forget.

The writer has a deep interest in the welfare of the town, but would advise accepting the offer of the Otonabee Power Co. under proper restrictions, and would also advise making any reasonable terms with Messrs. Stuart and Senator Cox or the Cereal Co re Radial Railway. The people need not be alarmed as there are millions of money looking for profitable investment.

Yours truly,
ANOTHER OLD CITIZEN.

TO THE MUNICIPAL ELECTORS

Of Peterborough and Ashburnham

Ladies and Gentlemen,—In deference to the numerous representations made to me since my nomination, I have decided to place myself at your disposal as a candidate for Alderman for 1904.

While I cannot lay claim to all the qualifications which an Alderman should have, such business capacity for the office as I do possess is cheerfully placed at your service. I, therefore, ask your support in the effort to assist in maintaining the position and standing as well as to advance, the welfare of our already progressive city.

As regards the Street Railway Bylaw, that, I understand, is definitely disposed of—the contract having been signed—and the people are only asked to express an opinion on the subject, and the result can only affect the action of the old council.

In regard to the Street Lighting Bylaw, if the appeal against the judgement quashing it should not be sustained, and the question is reopened, I shall favour the making of a contract for street lighting, which will be in the best interests of the town, both as regards the quality of light and cost of service.

The union of the municipalities of Peterborough and Ashburnham adds to the responsibility of an Alderman; and the new ward of the town — No. 5 — deserves at the initial stage of our municipal partnership, special attention to its interests, which, if elected, I am prepared to give; believing as I do, that to make the union successful, and in the interests of both parties, justice and fair play, irrespective of locality, should be the watchword of every Alderman, irrespective of residence.

As I do not approve of canvassing for votes, I ask the electors to accord me their voluntary support at the polls.

Respectfully yours,

R. HICKS.

Peterborough, December 30th, 1903.

TO THE ELECTORS

Of Peterborough and Ashburnham

Ladies and Gentlemen,—As I have been honoured with the nomination for Alderman for 1904, I have accepted the same, and respectfully solicit your votes and influence.

Should you elect me to assist in the management of your municipal affairs, I will use my best judgment in the united interests of Peterborough and Ashburnham.

I have been a working man all my life and have had a good schooling in economy, which I think can be used to a greater extent in the management of our municipal affairs.

If the question of street lighting is re-opened as the result of the appeal now before the courts, I shall, if elected, give the matter that serious attention which its importance deserves.

Wishing you, ladies and gentlemen, a very Happy New Year, I remain,

Your obedient servant,

JOHN KYLIE.

Peterborough, Dec. 30th, 1903.

TO THE ELECTORS

of the Town of Peterborough, including Ashburnham, now part of Peterborough t

Ladies and Gentlemen,—Having received nomination as Alderman for our prosperous town, I respectfully solicit your votes and influence.

It will be impossible for me to make a personal canvass, and therefore I wish to state that I am opposed to giving the contract for lighting to the Peterborough Light and Power Co., at $30.00 per lamp as long as the town can get as good lighting for $26.00 per lamp, from the Otonabee Power Co., which has done so much to bring down the price of lighting, and whose tender shows a saving of over $14,000.00 in ten years. I am also opposed to the present street railway by-law, but will support and vote for a good and up-to-date street railway, operated by good business men, but without a bonus, and I will do my best, if elected, to advance the general interests of our prosperous town.

Wishing you all a Happy New Year, I am,

Your obedient servant,

JOHN SAWERS.

29th December, 1903.

ELECTION OF ALDERMEN

To the Municipal Electors of Peterborough and Ashburnham:

Having been favoured with the nomination for Alderman for our new city, I have consented to become a candidate. I think I can, with confidence, look to you for a continuance of your kind support. My record in the Council for the past four years is before you. Should you do me the honour of electing me for another term, I will continue to aim at the general welfare and progress of the municipality as a whole.

With thanks for your confidence in the past, and wishing all the Compliments of the Season, I remain,

Yours truly,

R. CLINKSCALE.

Peterborough, Dec. 30th, 1903.

Your Vote and Influence

Respectfully Solicited for

M. H. QUINLAN

As Alderman for 1904.

TO THE ELECTORS

Having received nomination as alderman for the Town of Peterborough, I respectfully solicit your votes and influence, and if elected will use my best endeavours to advance the interests of my town. It will be impossible for me to make a personal canvass, but as I have had an experience of five years in the Ashburnham council, I am willing that I should be judged thereby.

Yours truly,

W. J. JOHNSTON,

THE CITY'S FREEDOM.

An Honorary Mark of Honor—What It Means and How It Is Conferred—Edinburgh's Method.

When a municipality of the United Kingdom desires to honor in a special manner any man of mark, (as Edinburgh did Lord Strathcona on the 4th Dec., 1903), it confers upon him the freedom of the burgh, in other words, it gives him the rank of a free burgess. Nowadays, the distinction is a purely honorary one, but for that very reason is more sparingly granted and more highly prized than when, in times not yet very remote, it was accompanied with many important rights and privileges. Not much more than half a century ago, only the freemen burgesses could participate in the Government of a Scottish city or burgh. They were the absolute masters not only of the Government and administration but possessed exclusive trading rights. Only in 1846 were their rights and privileges abolished by Act of Parliament, and it will probably be difficult for Canadians to believe that less than 60 years ago not a shop could be opened for the sale of any article or commodity unless the tradesman belonged to one or other of the Trade Guilds. It is just one of the many instances of the great revolution through which Britain has passed during the nineteenth century—a revolution which, simply because it ran its course in a constitutional manner, did not find the recognition freely accorded to less radical but more noisy changes.

Burgesses still enjoy a few privileges of minor importance, such as the right to pasture cattle on the burgh lands, where there are any, and to the services of the burgh herd, where one is required. They also elect certain of the officials, and are alone eligible for certain offices. As any resident, however, can become a free burgess by payment of a small sum, there is no great practical grievance, and these relics of a bygone age serve as links with and reminders of the long and troubled history of the Scottish burghs. There are iconoclasts who would willingly sweep away all these antique and more or less useless survivals, but they meet with little countenance. The citizens laugh at the Town Councils' weakness for robes and cocked hats, but there are few who would not don them if fate so favored.

A proposal to confer the freedom of the city is almost invariably made by the Lord Provost, and, as a rule commands the ready assent of the corporation. Apart from the desire to honor distinguished ability and service, there is always the pleasurable excitement which attends the conduct of public functions, and the opportunity of posing in the public eye, to their own glory and that of their friends and acquaintances, and the envy told and untold of their rivals. Once passed, the resolution is duly minuted, and an official extract prepared and signed by the Lord Provost and Town Clerk, and it is then enclosed in a casket of silver. On the day appointed, the Council convent in their robes of office in a hall crowded by citizens and citizenesses. Formerly Edinburgh was badly situated in this respect, but when William McEwan, one of the members for the city, built the magnificent convocation hall of the university, now known by his name, he made it a condition that it was to be made available for all public occasions, and specially for presentations of the freedom of the city. And now, through the munificence of another citizen, Edinburgh will have a City Hall entirely of its own, the Council having purchased as a site the Synod Hall of the United Presbyterian Church.

At the request of the Lord Provost, the Town Clerk reads the resolution of the Council, and His Lordship then delivers the presentation address and formally hands over the casket and official extract. A reply is made by the recipient of the honor, and the Council and invited guests then adjourn to the banquet hall, with the usual results. Such is the routine of the ceremonial, and there are few men of real eminence who do not at some time or other receive this tribute of respect. The roll of the honorary freemen of Edinburgh is a long and illustrious one. In the list is found the name of Benjamin Franklin, who, in 1769, spent six months in Scotland, and who then received his doctorship from the University of St. Andrew's. Writing with reference to his Scottish experiences, the great American said: "On the whole, I must say, the time I spent there was six weeks of the dearest happiness I have met with in any part of my life." Among the other names are Lord Lynedoch, "the gallant Graham," a hero of the Peninsular war, and Lord Napier of Magdala, the conqueror of Abyssinia. John Bright, Benjamin Disraeli and William Ewart Gladstone were all also freemen of the modern Athens. It is therefore in no mean company Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal finds himself. Nor will it be forgotten here that in honoring him, Scottia's darling seat is not only paying tribute to a true Scot, but no less to the notable and loyal grand old man of Canada.

Mark Twain and Whistler.

Commenting on his first meeting with James McNeill Whistler, Mark Twain is reported as saying: "I was introduced to Mr. Whistler in his studio in London. I had heard that the painter was an incorrigible joker, and I was determined to get the better of him, if possible. So at once I put on my most hopelessly stupid air, and I drew near the canvas that Mr. Whistler was completing. 'That ain't bad,' I said; 'it ain't bad, only here in this corner'—and I made as if to rub out a cloud effect with my finger. 'I'd do away with that cloud if I were you.' Whistler cried nervously: 'God, sir, be careful there. Don't you see the paint is not dry?' 'Oh, that don't matter,' said I; 'I've got my gloves on.' We got on well together after that."

New New Year's Gift.

Lucile Gladys Rosamond
Ophelia Phyllis May
Sweetly received to make folks glad
Upon the New Year's day.
A basket filled with dainties rare
With her own hands she bore
And left it without word or sign
Before a poor friend's door.
'It did not even bear my name.
For that, in full, you see,
Would quite eclipse the gift itself,'
She scrupulous modestly.

STILL HEARTS OF OAK.

Staff Our Sailors Are Made of Rings True in Times of Stress.

The Earl of Selborne, replying recently to a toast at a banquet, gave splendid assurance that the spirit of the men of the Baltic and Trafalgar still animates the navy. He said—This, after all, must always be the point which matters—Are your officers and are your men as good as they used to be? Now, the other day there was a test—such a test as I trust will not speedily recur—but a test which, as a test, occupies a very high place.

The Channel Fleet at midnight and without lights, as would have to be the case in war, were cruising and in the course of their work the Hannibal collided with the Prince George, and the result was a hole—a very large hole—was made in the side of the Prince George. Now, remember! No lights, a pitch-dark night, somewhere after midnight. Remember that the Channel Fleet is mainly composed of very young seamen. It is a little more than a training squadron. Remember, also, that the first thought of every officer and man in that ship must have been of the Victoria. And yet there was not the very slightest approach to panic. (Cheers.)

The discipline was as perfect as human discipline ever has been or ever can be—(cheers)—and the way the temporary repairs to the ship were executed, the way in which she was navigated, without a rudder, only by her screw, through a most tortuous and difficult channel to a safe anchorage, and the way she was there so repaired by the divers of the fleet within a week that she could come home under her own steam at 13 knots, and not make one drop of water, and be fit to fight the whole way, is an immense testimony to the resources and efficiency, as well as the discipline, of the navy. (Cheers.)

An Ingenious Sundial.

An Irishman named Canty, living in County Cork, has made a wonderful sun-dial. The dial, which has been engraved on a slab of polished slate, 2 feet 6 inches in diameter, by a novel and ingenious arrangement of five concentric circles, record simultaneously the apparent solar time of Mitchelstown, Dublin, Greenwich, New York, and Jerusalem. By means of the equation of time table engraved next to the Jerusalem circle, the apparent local time can readily be converted into mean local time. This is necessary in consequence of the fact that the time shown by a sun-dial will differ some minutes at different dates from the mean time shown by a watch.

Russian Army Pay.

A general in the Russian army is paid from $1,500 to $2,000 a year, according to time of service. Officers of lower grade get much less. a colonel commanding a three-battalion regiment receives only $600 a year.

SMALL DECREASE IN INCOME.

Less Than For the Same Period Last Year But Up to Estimate.

London, Jan. 2.—The Treasury Department issued an account of revenue in the United Kingdom for the first nine months of the fiscal year of 1903-04, ending with Dec. 31. Of an estimated total of $721,330,000, the return shows $455,267,490 paid into Exchequer. As compared with last year the following showing is made:

Customs decrease... ... ...$	2,175,000
Excise decrease...	4,050,000
Estate, etc., duties, decrease...	3,500,000
Property and income tax decrease.....	8,350,000
Postoffice increase...	1,600,000
Total net decrease...	15,497,010

In making this comparison, however, it should be remembered estimates for the current year are nearly $40,000,000 below the estimated receipts of the fiscal year 1902-03, and consequently the various heads must be expected to show decreases.

Saved By Abandoning Boat.

North Sydney, C.B., Jan. 2.—The captain and crew of 16 men of the French fishing schooner Sapho reached here yesterday from Newfoundland, after having abandoned their craft, which had been nearly wrecked by the winter gales. The men rowed 14 miles to the land, and when near the shore of Red Island all the dories were capsized in the surf. No one was lost.

Tammany Assumes Power.

New York, Jan. 2.—George B. McClellan became Mayor of New York City at noon yesterday. He arrived at the City Hall at 11.45, accompanied by his secretary, and walked through lines of Democrats under an arch of plants and flowers to the Mayor's public reception room, where he was greeted by the retiring mayor.

Watery Blood, Declining Health.

Strength and Vigor Can Only be Maintained by Means of Pure, Rich Blood.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

For many generations doctors have realized the importance of the blood as the source of life and health but it is only in more modern times that science has discovered the best means of forming new blood and so rebuilding the wasted tissues.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the result of careful study of this problem and has proved by far the most successful method of restoring weak, watery blood to a healthful condition.

Anaemia, chlorosis, nervous exhaustion and prostration, and each and every disorder which arises from insufficiency in the quality or quantity of the blood are readily cured by the regular and persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

By noting your increase in weight while using this great food cure you can prove beyond dispute that new firm flesh and tissue are being added.

Mrs. Smeaton, 191 Rubidge street, Peterborough, Ont., and whose husband is employed with the Canadian General Electric Co., states:

"My little son was very much run down in health, had no colour in his face and was quite nervous. As his appetite was poor and he seemed tired and listless, we became anxious about him, and began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It was not long before I noticed a marked change in his appearance. His appetite improved, his appetite became better, and his health generally was very much better than it had been for a long time. I have much pleasure in adding my testimony to the hosts of others who are praising this medicine."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 10

Strollers

By FREDERIC S. ISHAM

Author of "Under the Rose."

Smiling somewhat bitterly, he paused long enough to light a cigar, but it went out in his fingers as he strolled mechanically toward the wharfs, through the gardens of a familiar square, where the wheezing of the distant steamers and the echoes of the cathedral clock marked the hours of pleasure or pain today as it had tolled them off yesterday. Beyond the pale of the orange trees with their golden wealth the drays were rumbling in the streets, and there were the same signs of busy traffic—for the carnival had not yet become a legal holiday—that he had observed when the strollers had reached the city and made their way to the St. Charles. He saw her anew, pale and thoughtful, leaning on the rail of the steamer looking toward the city, where events undreamed of were to follow thick and fast. He saw her, a slender figure, earnest, self possessed, enter the city gates unheralded, unknown. He saw her as he had known her in the wilderness—not as fancy might now depict her, the daughter of a marquis—a strolling player, and as such he loved best to think of her.

Arising out of his physical weakness and the period of inaction following the treaty of peace, he experienced a sudden homesickness of his native land, a desire to revisit familiar scenes, to breathe the sweet air of the country where his boyhood had been passed, to listen to the thunder of the boulevards, to watch the endless, sad-joyful processions.

Not far distant from the blossoming, redolent square was the office of the Transatlantic Steamship company, where a clerk, with a spray of jasmine in his coat, bent cordially toward Saint-Prosper as the latter entered and, approaching the desk, inquired:

"The Dolphin is advertised to sail tomorrow for France."

"Yes, sir; at 12 o'clock noon."

"Book me for a berth. Ernest Saint-Prosper," he added in answer to the other's questioning look.

"Very good, sir. Would you like some labels for your baggage? Where shall we send for it? The St. Charles? Very well, sir. Are you going to the tableaux tonight?" he continued, with hospitable interest in one whom he rightly conceived a stranger in the city. "They say it will be the fashionable event. Gala day," as the prospective passenger paid for and received his ticket. "A pleasant voyage. The Dauphin is a new ship and should cross in three weeks, barring bad weather. Don't forget the tableaux. Everybody will be there."

The soldier did not reply. His heart had given a sudden throb at the clerk's last words. Automatically he placed his ticket in his pocket and randomly answered the employee's further inquiries for instructions. He was not thinking of the Dauphin or her new engines, the former of the modern quadruple expansion arrangement, but through his brain rang the assurance, "Everybody will be there." And all the way up the street it repeated itself again and again.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

THAT exclusive, nocturnal company "The Mistick Krewe of Comus," had appeared—"Comus deep skilled in all his mother's wiles"—and the dwellers in Phantasmagoria were joyfully numerous. More plentiful than at a modern spectacular performance reveled gods, demons and fairies, while the children nimbled a flight of masqueraders and buffles. The ball at the theater, the Roman Vegioni, succeeded elaborate tableaux, the "Tartarus" of the ancients and "Paradise Lost" of Milton, which the "Krewe" impersonated into and Proserpine, the fates, furies and other characters of the representation. In gallery, dress circle and parquet the theater was crowded to see the spectacle, one of dazzling toilets, many of them from the ateliers of the Parisian modistes, a wonderful evolution of Proserpine's toga and the mortal robes of the immortal Fates. Picture followed picture—the expulsion from paradise, the conference of the Gods and the court of pandemonium, where gluttony, drunkenness, avarice and vanity were skillfully set forth in uncompromising colors.

Availing themselves of the open house the unknown "Krewe," a composition that vanished on the stroke of twelve, many of Old Rough and Ready retinue mingled with the gathering, their uniforms, well worn, even shabby, unlike the spick and span regiments from the costumier. With bold faces and the indubitable air of campaigns endured they were the cynosure of lively interest to the fair sisters, nor were themselves indifferent to the complaisance of their entertainers. Hands, burned by the sun, showed blacker that night against the white gowns of waists they clasped; bold faces more grim visaged in contrast with delicate complexions; embroidery and brocade whirled around the faded uniforms, and dancing attendance waved above frayed epaulets and shoulder straps.

"Long at 'im!" murmured a fille à la cassette, regarding one of these officers who, however, held aloof from the festivities; a well built young man, but thin and worn, as though he, like his uniform, had seen service. "If he could only carry my trunk!" she laughed, relapsing into French and alluding to the small chest she bore under her arm.

"Or my little white hand!" gayly added her companion, a shepherdess.

And they tripped by with sidelong looks and obvious challenge which the quarry of these sprightly huntresses of men either chose to disregard or was unconscious of, as he deliberately surveyed his surroundings with more curiosity than pleasure and absently listened to a mountebank from "The Belle's Stratagem."

"Who'll buy my nostrums?" cried the buffoon.

"What are they?" asked Folly, cantering near on a hobbyhorse.

"Different kinds for different people. Here's a powder for ladies—to dispel the rage for intrigue. Here's a pill for politicians—to settle bad consciences. Here's an eye water for jealous husbands; it thickens the visual membrane. Here's something for the clergy; it eliminates windy discourses. Here's an infusion for creditors; it creates resignation and teaches patience."

"And what have you for lovers?"

"Nothing," answered the clown. "Love, like fever and ague, must run its course. Nostrums! Who'll buy my nostrums?"

"Oh, I'm so glad I came!" enthusiastically exclaimed a tall, supple girl, laden with a mass of flowers.

"Isn't it too bad, though, you can't polka with some of the military gentlemen?" returned her companion, who wore a toga and carried a lantern. "Mlle. Castiglione wouldn't let you come until I promised not to allow you out of my sight."

"It was lovely of you to take me," she said, "and I don't mind about the military gentlemen."

"My dear, if all women were like you we poor civilians would not be relegated to the background! I wish, though, I had worn some other costume. This—ahem, dress—has a tendency to get between my legs and disconcert my philosophical dignity. I can understand why Diogenes didn't care about walking abroad. My only wonder is that everybody didn't stay in his tub in those days. Don't talk to me about the 'noble Roman!' Why, he wore skirts!"

"And M. Intaglio lectured to us for an hour today about the wonderful drapery of the ancients!" laughed the girl. "The poetry of dress, he called it!"

"Then I prefer prose. Hello!"—pausing and raising his lantern as they drew near the officer who had fallen under the observation of the fille à la cassette. "Colonel Saint-Prosper, or set me down for an ass—or Plato, which is the same thing!"

"Straws!" said the soldier as the bard frankly lifted his mask and tilted it back over his forehead.

"Glad to see you!" continued the poet, extending his hand. "I haven't run across you before since the night of the banquet; the debut of Barnes' company, you remember? You must have left town shortly afterward. Returned this morning, of course! By the way, there's one of your old friends here tonight."

She looked with blanched face toward the spot.

Saint-Prosper felt the color mount to his face, and even Straws noted the change. "Who is that?" asked the soldier awkwardly.

"Mrs. Service—Miss Duras that was—now one of our most dashing, I should say charitable, ladies. Plenty of men at Service's church now. She'd dressed in Watteau fashion tonight, so if you see any one skipping around, looking as though she had just stepped from the Embarkation For the Island of Venus, set her down for the minister's pretty wife!"

"And the minister?" asked Saint-Prosper mechanically.

"He brought her. He compromised on a Roundhead costume himself. But we must be off. Au revoir. Don't be backward. The ladies are all military mad. It may be a field of arms"—casting his glance over the assemblage of fashionably dressed ladies with a quizzical smile—"but not hostile arms. Come, Celestina—Nydia, I mean!"

And Straws' arm stole about the waist of his companion as Saint-Prosper watched them disappearing in the throng of dancers. It was Celestina's first ball, and after her long training at the Castiglione institute she danced divinely. Something like a pang shot through the soldier's breast as he followed the pair with his gaze. He seemed looking backward into a world of youth and pleasure, passed beyond recall.

"It is useless to deny it! I knew you when I first saw you!" exclaimed a familiar voice near by, and, turning around sharply, the officer observed approaching a masked lady, graceful of figure and lacking nothing in the numerical strength of her escort. It was to her that these words were addressed by an agile man of medium stature who had apparently penetrated her disguise. The lady, who would have attracted attention anywhere by her bearing, wore a pardessus of white gauze, fitting close and bordered with a silver band, the sleeves short, the skirt of white gauze and very ample, as the fashion of the day required; the feet shod in small white silk bottines, the hair in braids, ornamented with wild roses. Altogether this costume was described by Phasma as "ravishing, the gown adorning the lady and the lady the gown, her graces set forth against the sheen of voluminous satin folds, like those of some portrait by Sir Joshua or Gainsborough."

"How could you expect any one not to know you?" continued the speaker as this little coterie drew near, their masks a pretext for mystery. "You may impersonate, but you cannot deceive."

"That is a poor compliment, since you take me for an actress," laughed the lady. A hilarious outburst from an ill assorted cluster of maskers behind them drowned his reply, and the lady and her attendants passed on.

Saint-Prosper drew his breath sharply. "She is here, after all," he said to himself.

"A nostrum for jilted beaus!" called out a mountebank, seeing him standing there preoccupied, alone, at the same time tendering a pill as large as a plum. A punchinello jarred against him with, "Pardonnez moi, pardie!" On the perfumed air the music swelled rapturously. A waltz, warm with the national life of Vienna—the swan song of Lanner! Softly, sweetly breathed "Die Schonbrunner;" faster whirled the moving forms. Eyes flashed more brightly, little feet seemed born for dancing; cheeks, pale at midday, were flushed with excitement. Why doesn't he dance? wondered the lady with the white lamb. Carnival comes but once a year—a mad, merry time, when gayety should sweep all cares out of doors!

"Said Strephon to Chloe, 'For a kiss
I'll give thee the choice of my flock.'
Said Chloe to Strephon, 'What bliss,
If you'll add to the gift a new smock,'" hummed the lively nymph as she tripped by.

"Said Chloe to Strephon, 'For a kiss
I'll return thee the choice of your flock.'
Said Strephon to Chloe, 'What bliss;
With it I'll buy Phyllis a new frock,'"

she concluded, throwing a glance over her shoulder.

A sudden distaste for the fastal ferment, the laughter and merriment, a desire to escape from the very exuberance of high spirits and cheer led the soldier to make his way slowly from the ballroom to the balcony, where, although not removed from the echoes of liveliness within, he looked out upon the quietude of the night. Overhead stretched the sky, a measureless ocean, with here and there a silvery star like the light on a distant ship; an unfathomable sea of ether that beat down upon him. Radiant and serene in the boundless calm of the heavens the splendant lanterns seemed suspended on stationary craft peacefully moored at anchor. Laughter, suppressed through mantle of silence, once more found full play. Satan's words were recalled by the presence of the count.

Suddenly the song of "Die Schonbrunner" ceased within, and as its pulsations became hushed many of the dancers, as alate, buoyant throng, sought the balcony. Standing in the shadow near the entrance, aroused from a train of reflections by this abrupt exodus, the soldier saw among the other merrymakers Constance and the count, who passed through the door, so near he could almost have touched her.

"Here she is," said the count as they approached an elderly lady seated near the edge of the balcony. "Ah, madam," he continued to the latter, "if you would only use your good offices in my behalf! Miss Carew is cruelty itself."

"Why, what has she done?" asked the good gentlewoman.

"Insisted upon deserting the ballroom!"

"In my day," said the elderly ally of the nobleman, "you could not drag the young ladies from cotillon or minuet, and the men would stay till the dawn to toast them!"

"And I've no doubt, madam, your name was often on their lips," returned the count gallantly, who evidently believed in the Spanish proverb:

Woo the duenna, not the maid;
Then in love the game's well played.

To be continued.

An Ideal Preparation.

Everybody knows that Cod Liver Oil and Iron are the greatest system builders known to medical science.

Nearly everybody knows, too, that most people, especially those who most need building up, find it very difficult, sometimes impossible, to take and digest Cod Liver Oil and Iron. This difficulty has been entirely removed by the introduction of which combines the Oil and Iron, together with just sufficient Phosphorus, in an emulsion pleasant to take and so easy to assimilate that infants like it and digest it without difficulty.

FERROL

(The Iron-Oil Food)

At all Druggists.

Dr. Alfred Russell Wallace.

Dr. Alfred Russel Wallace, whose extraordinary physical and mental activity in his eighty-first year is another instance of the absurdity of modern atheticism-worship, made his great name just short of half a century ago, when, as a young surgeon in the Malay Archipelago, there occurred to him that theory of natural selection which also occurred independently to Darwin some years earlier, and to Herbert Spencer earlier still. It is a noteworthy fact that both Darwin and Wallace have told us that they reached the idea as a direct result of the reading of Malthus' essay on population. Besides being a vigorous defender of spiritualism, Dr. Wallace has committed himself to entire faith in phrenology, and is an ardent anti-vaccinator. Until the present year he has never published any work upon astronomy. There can be little question that his last book, with its 330 pages, constitutes one of the most remarkable instances of rapid and exhausting work ever achieved by an octogenarian—not even excepting Hobbes.—London Chronicle.

Quick Response.

"Why are you singing in that phonograph?" asked the comedian boarder.

"Because I have a sweet voice," responded the sweet singer, "and anything sweet should be preserved."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

DANGER IN THE AIR.

When Your Heart Gives Warning of Distress, Don't Neglect It.

Dr. Agnew's Cure

for the Heart is guaranteed to give relief in thirty minutes, and in a short period so strengthen and restore the heart to perfect action that the entire body feels rejuvenated. An ideal remedy for Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Neuralgia, Hot Flashes, Sick Headache, Mental Despondency and all other ailments resulting from impoverished nerves through lack of blood. The Rev. Father Lord Sr., of Montreal, Canada, says: "I had been a sufferer for 20 years with organic heart disease, and used a number of remedies, both in France and America, but could not even obtain temporary relief. I tried Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart, and was indeed surprised at the immediate relief I obtained. I am firmly convinced that there is no case of heart disease that it will not cure."

Humiliating, Disfiguring Eruptions?

If so, use Dr. Agnew's Ointment. No better remedy to restore the skin to a healthful condition. Not a grease, but a pure medicinal salve that cures like magic. Once you use it, you will use no other. 35 cents. No. 35

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

The Vice-President Independent Order of Good Templars.

An experience which many women have undergone by Miss Agnes Stebbings, of 231 East 26th Street, New York City, as follows: "I had very poor health for a year until life looked dark and dreary to me. Had headaches, backache, the pain, my sleep was broken and fitful. I longed for health. Tried several medicines but none were of any better benefit until I took Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I soon realized that I had found the right remedy. It helped nature to throw off the poisons that saturated the system, renewed all pains and strengthened the digestive organs, and brought the roses of health back to my cheeks. This medicine if taken occasionally keeps the system in perfect condition, helping it to throw off the disease and consequences of exposure to dampness. I am pleased to give it my endorsement."

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps for the paper-covered book, 50 stamps for the cloth-bound. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"Avoid undue exposure to cold. Cold and damp weather are very prolific causes of all catarrhal troubles.

"As Pneumonia is often preceded by Grip, patients with the latter malady should treat its first symptoms with the least possible delay, and should not expose themselves to cold of any kind until all signs of danger are past.

Persons in attendance upon pneumonia patients should bear in mind that the disease is sometimes communicable through the agency of expectoration."—N. Y. Herald.

HOCKEY.

The game to-night between the Waverley's, of Toronto, and Peterborough Juniors promises to give plenty of excitement. The visitors are a strong aggregation, having won the city championship of Toronto for two consecutive years, and the team is counted among the best junior teams in Ontario. The locals already have one win to their credit, having taken the Lindsay team into camp, and they expect to add a second victory to-night. The youngsters are playing good hockey and the game to-night is sure to be fast. It will start at 8.30 sharp.

The team which will represent the Waverleys will be as follows: Goal, Workman; point, Whale; cover point,

Burial of Victims.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—As a result of Wednesday's theatre tragedy, Sunday was a day of funerals in Chicago. The unprecedented demand for hearses and carriages would have been enough in itself to tax the resources of the undertakers, but the heavy snow that has fallen during the last two days increased thier difficulties enormously. All of the cemeteries are miles from the business centre and resident section, and great trouble was encountered in reaching them.

The cemeteries were compelled to keep men at work all through the night digging graves, and in some of the larger cemeteries they barely managed to make them with sufficient speed. At one time yesterday afternoon 14 burials were in progress in Rose Hill Cemetery, and all of them were the interments of victims of the fire. In the rooms of one undertaker on the south side of Chicago a fraternal organization held services over five members of their order at the same time, and all of them were buried side by side in Waldheim Cemetery.

Eight in One Family.

Among the hundreds of funerals yesterday, perhaps none had so many distressing features as those wherein were buried three out of four generations of the family of Benjamin Moore, a grocer. There had been a family reunion in the Moore household and Benjamin Moore was surrounded by his grandchildren and his great-grandchildren. Nine members of the family went to the Iroquois to see "Mr. Bluebeard." Seats were purchased in the last row of the second balcony near the aisle further away from the main entrance. When the fire and smoke came all but one of the party sat still and were killed. The eight dead bodies were among those interred yesterday.

The funeral service over the remains of Ella and Edith Freckelton, sisters, were held in Boulevard Hall, at 55th and Halstead streets, fully 2,000 persons being in attendance, and 500 more stood outside in the biting wind until the funeral had departed for Oakwood Cemetery. In the home of Millionaire Ludwig Wolff on Washington Boulevard, was held the quadruple funeral of his daughter, Mrs. W. H. Garn, and her three children. A crowd of more than 1,000 people surrounded the house, and the police were compelled to open a passageway for the pallbearers.

Every Theatre Closed.

Every theatre in Chicago was dark Saturday night, and not one of them will be open to the public until their managers have complied in the fullest manner with every section of the ordinances regulating playhouses.

The order compelling the theatres to close was issued Saturday afternoon by Mayor Harrison, after a conference with Corporation Counsel Tolman, who assured the Mayor that ample legal ground existed for his action.

Seventeen theatres and museums were closed Friday night, and the sweeping order of the Mayor Saturday shut the doors of several more.

The seventeen places of amusement shut Friday night were closed because they were not provided with an asbestos curtain. The action of Saturday was in consequence of violations of the other sections of the ordinance regulating theatres.

To throw open instantly and simultaneously all the doors of a theatre, like the method of throwing a multiple lever in a railroad switch tower, is the purpose of an ordinance which will be presented to the City Council Monday.

Total Number of Corpses.

The total number of corpses recovered from the Iroquois Theatre fire stood yesterday at 536. Of these twenty-four remain unidentified.

Of the hundred members of the company who fled from the theatre before the flames, few had other than their stage clothing. Since the police have had charge of the theatre none has been admitted to remove anything from the dressing rooms. Yesterday a dozen actors and actresses, some without hats, and all in borrowed clothing, appealed to Chief O'Neil for orders restoring to them their clothes. Some of the women wore men's overcoats and shoes. The chief issued the desired order.

Canadians Who Lost Their Lives.

Whitby, Jan. 4.—The Chicago theatre disaster has brought gloom to many in this town, as the Mrs. E. A. Davey reported as having lost her life, together with her daughter, is an old Whitbyite, who subsequently moved to Belleville, and from there went to Chicago. She was formerly a Miss Lizzie Adams, born and brought up in Whitby, and visited her friends here nearly every summer. The bodies have not been recovered.

Wife, Father, Mother, Sister.

Toronto, Jan. 4.—In order to avoid misapprehension of the names mentioned in the list of the late fire in Chicago, let me say I have received a letter stating that W. H. Spring, jr., is fast recovering from a severe attack of typhoid fever, but has sustained a severe loss, not only of his wife Florence, my only daughter, but also his father, mother and only sister, by the same calamity. G. Scovell in a letter.

Whole Party Perished.

Kingston, Jan. 4.—News from Chicago intimates that Miss Catharine Middleton, a granddaughter of Mrs. Middleton, this city, killed in the Chicago theatre horror, had gone to the matinee as the guest of Mrs. Folts, of whose home she was visiting. Mrs. Folts has three others with her and the entire party perished. They had occupied seats in the balcony, where so many met death.

Reply to Canada.

Washington, Jan. 4.—By direction of the President, replies to messages of condolences from foreign countries because of the Chicago disaster, have been despatched by the American State Department. The reply to Canada's message of sympathy, reads:

"The Right Hon., the Earl of Minto, Governor-General, Ottawa, Ont.

"I greatly appreciate your message of regret and sympathy by reason of the disaster at Chicago. It has been communicated to the Mayor of the city.

(Signed.) "Theodore Roosevelt."
